OH! EXCUSE me. That's an unfair question in that you no longer care if Charlevoix is beautiful. You now favor the beauty of Industry. Maybe someday, (following your train of thought), we'll be so fortunate as to have a lake front comparable in beauty to that of Boyne City. Oh, if we could be so fortunate.

All that is necessary is to shout "Fire" and all you people are on the run. But before you run off and get burned by that beautiful fire, let's toss a few things around.

First of all, you don't allow summer residents and tourists any word at all in this because they're only here a few months. Where would our economic standing be if not for them? They've been a major influence in making this town what it is. They not only spend money in the summer, but also put out a very tidy sum in taxes, therefore lowering your taxes, thus keeping more money in your pocket. Let's not take them for granted.

You speak of increased revenue? If you recall a survey was made which found our tourist trade virtually untapped and the possibilities there are going to go no way but up. There's a possibility of hotel employing 250 people, a new motel is almost finished, an increased number of quality summer shops are now under construction, and more will undoubtedly come in the future if industrialization doesn't occur first. You would throw away what could be a very lucrative future.

DEAR EDITOR: No thinking person expects, nor wants, to deny Medusa Cement the right to develop their lands and to quarry their stone, or to construct a cement plant under regulation of smoke and dust nuisance.

But, in so doing, for Medusa to want to encroach upon the natural beauty of our harbor, to increase the probability of pollution of our beaches, and to possibly endanger our water supply by their requested location for a huge dock, is another matter.

ALL OF THE people of Michigan have vested right in these waters and in their protection from pollution and despoilment by commercial interests. Medusa Cement does not own the land between ordinary high water mark and the water's edge; the State of Michigan, each one of us, owns a part of this strip

DEAR EDITOR: The Democratic Party is responsible to, and responsive of the needs of agriculture in Michigan. A dynamic new era is ahead for Michigan's agriculture. With the Legislature now in the hands of the Democrats, the log-jam of agricultural legislation may be broken at last. Now the doors are open to make fruitful efforts to expand Michigan's agricultural marketing, both domestic and foreign.

Farming has experienced a great revolution in mechanization and production in the past two decades -- now we must initiate a marketing revolution. With continual over-production, we must put our utmost efforts toward marketing. Using added sales to reduce the farm surplus is the surest way to increased farm income.

Compare Michigan's 76.2 million dollar share of the national export earnings with Illinois' $64.2 million dollar share. The importance of exports becomes apparent when you realize Michigan's total agriculture income is 755 million dollars. Fourteen states have foreign trade offices in other countries; Michigan is not one of them.

For years the Republican legislators have put stumbling blocks in front of all enabling legislation for state marketing orders. The Democratic Committee on Agriculture supports enabling legislation, a Bean Commission, and all commodity groups who desire to improve the marketing programs of their products. The members of the Democratic Committee on Agriculture have taken positive action in favor of the following agricultural legislation:

1. Fiscal Reform, including an income tax, with the complete elimination of the personal property tax, and a reduction in real property taxes. (Today about 15% of a farmer's income is paid out in property taxes.)

2. Establishment of a unified Dairy Inspection System. (Present inspection duplication is costly for the taxpayer; irritating to the producer. Better inspection is needed for intrastate trade.)

3. Milk marketing legislation. (To eliminate unfair trade practices and stop below cost pricing.)

4. Develop pesticide legislation for the protection of the consumer, with the understanding of the economic requirements of agriculture.

5. Support slaughterhouse and meat inspection legislation.

6. Provide legislation that recognizes the social problems of the migratory worker.

7. Initiate the establishment of a Mid-Michigan Agriculture Exposition to further promote Michigan Agriculture.

By FRANK MARTIN

It's getting on toward that time of year... when so many of the snowbirds are returning from the South... showing off their beautiful furs and looking like a million along side those of us who stayed home for the duration (of the winter, that is)....

But we're happy to see them and hear about their experiences....

And soon everything will be booming... the old paint brush will come out and before you know it we'll be preparing for summer....

And summer means, among other things, Venetian weekend... and that's what I need some help on... (wasn't that kind of sneaky the way I got to that?)... Anyway, I've a request from Bob Humphries for the names of all Venetian Queens for the past 20 years... Now at first thought that sounds real simple but you just try fitting any queen you remember in a given year....

And I'll bet some fold-in stuff you can't.... So won't you give me a hand and if you recall the names and/or the year, give me a buzz.... I'd sure appreciate it.... and so will Bob, I know, for he apparently has something brewin' for the reigning royalty of past years....

WASN'T IT good to see the news that the Beach Hotel is going to reopen? It just didn't seem like Charlevoix last year without that hotel open.... Gee, I can remember when I was a kid (more than a few years ago) when that was one of the truly swank hotels of the north.... In fact, it wasn't too many years ago that I got through the front door of the place.... because people like you and I just couldn't afford the freight, as the saying goes....

In fact, that used to be one of our regular sources of entertainment when we were youngsters.... I know it will sound pretty square to some people but we used to park near the hotel and watch everyone coming and going... dressed in the height of fashion and jewels sparkling all over the place....

The same used to hold true at the old Colonial Club... which few people will believe was second to none when it came to casinos.... but it's a changing world... and Michigan no longer permits gambling in this manner (though I'm sure it's done but under cover) and so everyone grasps a plane for Las Vegas or some far destination....

SPEAKING OF gambling... heard a report on how much part-mutual betting (legalized) had done for the coffers of the state.... Now I can't see why it's any more legal to bet at a window at a race track than it is to play bingo at a church benefit....

And what are your sentiments on sweepstakes? I think it's New Hampshire that has a legal sweepstakes in the state.... Now me, I'm all for a sweepstakes.... They're fun... and you can't lose that much on one ticket... and you can sure get your money's worth... in just kiddin' about all the things you're going to do when your horse comes in....

Now that I have everyone in a tizzy about gambling, how are you betting on the outcome of the basketball tournament? As this is being written, it's St. Patty's Day and our Rayders will be going against Wakefield tonight... I'm hoping and if the chips fall just right... who knows?

NOTICED IN today's paper that Big Bergmann says the Courier made a mistake... that Charlevoix went into the state finals against St. Augustine of Kalamazoo back in '57.... Then who's the runner-up trophy? I know he was there, but I'd almost bet my bottom dollar that they went against St. Augustine in the semi-finals rather than the finals.... We must set this record straight.... For if credit is due it must be given....

One thing you can say about me... if I'm going to say something I'm going to stand up and be recognized as the person who says or writes it.... Right or wrong, I will take credit or criticism for what I say....

AND NOW WOULD you like to brought up to date on our modern-day Marco Polos... Dave Rader and Howard Majors.... The last time I mentioned them, they'd given up the jobs (dishwashing) they'd taken at a Swiss resort in order to enjoy the skiing facilities there.... After the season, they headed west where they met up with Cork Curtis for a tour of Paris before heading South to Spain....

They found traveling by motorcycle was pretty expensive (especially the cost of petrol on the continent) so they stored their cycles and started hitchhiking.... and had much better luck.... They'd been in Madrid and did the town and we're enroute to the coast, via the mountains, when they hit snow and ended up in an accident that could have been most costly had it been a few feet farther along the road.... But their guardian angels were working overtime (Are they ever going to deserve a rest when this trek is over?) and they ended up with headaches and bruises instead of something more serious....

Then on to Valencia where they took in the sights including a bullfight.... Howard wrote that it was pretty gory.... Seven bulls were killed... it was colorful and noisy but none of the matadors were hurt.... but some kid jumped from the stands into the ring, waving a red cape and got himself pinned to the wall near them.... They got him out alive and Howard's comment on it: "It was a pretty bloody sight but the crowd went wild!"

Here they met up with a couple students from the University of British Columbia.... Met the manager of one of real swank hotels on the Med who offered them a special rate with use of the subdeck and beach... all for $2.38 a day meals included (and for these two that's quite an item).... They finally got thawed out after soaking up some sun and were beginning to like this life of luxury when it became time to push on....

They've decided to skip Italy and Greece.... too expensive, cold and touristized.... and head, instead, for Gibraltar and then to North Africa... before doubling back, picking up their cycles, returning to their headquarters in Brussels and then seeing the Scandinavian countries before returning home in a couple months....

As I keep saying, O, to be young again!...

Withdraw Rezoning Request

Republican state chairman, Mrs. Ely M. Peterson, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Arthur Rouse, 52 Park St., Boyne City, representing the 11th Congressional District to the Executive Committee of the Republican State Central Committee.

Petoskey Ave. is eventually going to be commercial...it's got to go that way." Professional planners, councilmen said, would use their training and experience

In dozens of other small towns to determine how many service stations and other businesses Charlevoix will need as it grows and then, with local consent, set up locations for them where they would be the most compatible with residential areas and the town's beauty.

This, Michaels said, would eliminate the constant controversy. Businessmen and homeowners would know what to expect and there would be no need to rehearse the question.

IF A SERVICE station wanted to come to town it would have to take one of the spots zoned for such a business.

SAYS LAKE IS A CESS POLL

Among other matters councilmen Monday evening heard a charge that Round Lake is "nothing but a cess pool." Pollution of the lake was cited by Councilman Robert Neff. He said during the peak boating season yachtsmen who use toilet facilities aboard their boats, empty them into the lake.

Neff was joined by Mayor E.D. Hawley and Councilmen Bill Fochman in proposing the State be asked to contribute toward construction of toilet and shower facilities for boaters to relieve the pollution problem. If the toilets are built they proposed that boaters be required to seal their heads while in port.

FOCHMAN proposed that the State Health Dept. should be called in to study the problem and encourage the Michigan Waterways Commission to pay for construction of the sanitary facilities.

Hawley told councilmen he is trying to arrange a meeting with Sen. Thomas Schweigert to see if he can help.

BUY PROPERTY TO EXPAND GOLF LINKS

Councilmen voted to purchase 11.5 acres adjoining the golf course for $3,250. The property is now owned by Victor McSaubey (two acres) and Vane Smith (9.5 acres).

RAISE SALARY OF CITY TREASURER

On a motion by Robert Neff, seconded by Bob Gill, council voted unanimously to raise City Treasurer Annabette Cunningham's annual salary from $4,600 to $4,800.

Councilmen refused to grant the Lodge permission to build a small restaurant without going through routine rezoning procedures.

Medusa Will Reveal Plan To Citizens

Charlevoix will get a first-hand look at Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s plans for South Point at a public meeting next Wednesday, April 7.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach reports Medusa Vice President Worth Loomis and his aides will outline the company's plans and answer questions at the meeting.

IT WILL BE held at 8 p.m. in the high school gym. All interested Charlevoix area citizens are invited to attend. Loomis is expected to have a scale model of the cement plant the company proposes to begin constructing on South Point in 1966, Rabach said.

The Medusa executive will also have answers to questions, including those about factors which will determine whether the company actually does build its cement plant as tentatively planned, sanitary facilities for ships using the dock into Lake Michigan and others.

Rabach said Loomis asked him to set up the public meeting. He added that it was Loomis' idea, not his.

THE COURIER could not reach Loomis at his Cleveland office this or last week. Secretaries said he was out of town.

Before Medusa can begin construction of a dock or cement plant it still must get permission from the State Administrative Board and Army Corps of Engineers.

Corps of Engineers information officer Michael Perrini told the Courier this week the cement company's application for a dock permit has been sent to Washington, where no decision has yet been reached.

The Corps is concerned with navigation in the Great Lakes. Unless it decides the dock would interfere with shipping channels, the Corps is expected to give Medusa the go-ahead.

BOTH THE Corps and State

Ad. Bd. have received petitions and letters from rival Charlevoix groups who either oppose or favor the dock. State Sen. Thomas Schweigert this week told the Courier he does not know when the Ad. Bd. will take up the Medusa permit question.

When the permit was approved by the Conservation Dept. several weeks ago, department officials said normally the Ad. Bd.'s action on the question would be routine and probably come in two weeks. This was on Mar. 12, 10 days ago.

At the time Henry Hagan, a former leading Republican legislator who is developing several tourist businesses in Charlevoix, said he would attempt to influence the Ad. Bd. to delay making its decision.

MEDUSA HAS requested permission of the State and Corps to build a conveyor bridge and dock into Lake Michigan from the east side of South Point.

The conveyor bridge would deliver limestone from quarries on the property to ships at the dock. The bridge would be 1,620 feet long with a 1,000 dock at the end.

The dock would be anchored in the lake bottom by two sunken freighters. Part of the bridge would be anchored by sinking two large barges.

The company plans to use the sunken ships for anchors because rock conditions in the lake bottom reportedly are not firm enough.

THERE WOULD be clearance above the anchors for fish and other marine life. The dock area will be dredged to a maximum of 27 feet.

Medusa Portland Cement Co. has made a slight compromise on its directorates, but doesn't expect it to soothe all the feathers ruffled by last year's directory.

The 1965 directory will continue to feature Petoskey on white paper and all other communities -- including Charlevoix -- on blue paper.

THE ONLY change for 1965 is that directories mailed this week to Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, Walloon Lake, Harbor Springs and Pellston, will have the blue pages first and Petoskey's white pages last.

Charlevoix users will find Boyne City numbers first in the book, followed by Charlevoix, East Jordan, etc., in alphabetical order.

Les Johnson, area manager for Michigan Bell, admits last year's directory was met with a storm of protest from blue pages communities that were in one news release, referred to as suburbs of Petoskey.

And, Johnson says, about the only community that's going to be completely satisfied with the change in the 1965 directory is Boyne City, because it comes first.

ACCORDING to Johnson the telephone company recognizes that each town covets its individual identity and begrudges losing it in the directory.

Producing a special directory for each community is Telephone Co.

Records Growth

If Michigan Bell Telephone Co. records are an indication, Charlevoix County continues to be the fastest growing in the area.

Les Johnson, Bell's manager, reports there has been a larger percentage of increase in telephone customers in Charlevoix County than in Emmet County.

CHARLEVOIX gained 68 telephone customers, from 1,791 to 1,859, between Feb. 1, 1964 and Feb. 1, 1965. During the same period Boyne City customers increased from 1,468 to 1,547 and East Jordan's from 932 to 967.

The company expanded its Boyne City facilities last year, Johnson said all three major Charlevoix County communities now have adequate equipment to handle anticipated growth in the immediate future.

Girl Scouts Decide Fate of Local Camp

Parents of Charlevoix Girl Scouts are to decide tonight (Wednesday) if they will sell their camp property next to the Belvedere Golf Club.

A public meeting on the question has been called for 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Congregational Church.

GIRL SCOUT executives are reported considering sale of the property because it has had little use and adequate camping facilities have not been constructed.

When the property was purchased in 1959 by the Charlevoix Girl Scouts, plans called for volunteers to construct box toilets and a modest camp lodge type building. These projects have not been completed.

Since the purchase, the Charlevoix Girl Scouts have consolidated with the Traverse City Council, which means the property is under the council's administration.

Girl Scouts paid approximately $3,500 for the property in 1959. The Charlevoix County State Bank holds a $200 mortgage on the camp.

THE CAMP includes 32 acres of cedar swamp, barren field and wooded high ground on the west side of Marion-Center Rd. directly south of the golf course.

A two-bedroom white frame house is located on the high ground near the road. Original plans called for using this building for winter Girl Scout overnights. However, Mrs. Lloyd Arnold reports it has primarily been used for storage.

Because the high ground drops abruptly to a nearly tree-less field, there is not room for camp development on the hill. Consequently the girls must set their tents up at the bottom of the hill, where there is no well. This has caused complications in hauling water.

There are 90 Girl Scouts and 60 Brownies in the Charlevoix area who could use the property, she said.

At least one Girl Scout troop has used the camp every summer since it was purchased, Mrs. Arnold added.

Council Calls For Voter OK Of Retirement

Charlevoix City Councilmen and Mayor E. D. Hawley have unanimously endorsed a retirement program for city employees.

City residents vote Monday, April 5, on the retirement plan. They will also elect city officials.

THE POLLS FOR the three wards will be open in the Community Room of City Hall from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

There is no competition on the ballot for city offices. All candidates are unopposed. All are incumbents, except Delbert Terrill, who defeated Don Parsel in the February primary election for Republican nomination as candidate for third ward councilman.

Parsel may make a bid for re-election with write-in or sticker votes.

The Courier asked councilmen (except Parsel and Jerry Whitley, who were out of town) whether they recommend voters approve or defeat the retirement plan. All said they endorse the plan. Parsel and Whitley earlier stated their support for the plan.

MAYOR E. D. Hawley also said the Courier can put him on record as in favor of the city joining the Michigan State Employees Retirement System.

Councilmen, in addition to Parsel and Whitley, who told the Courier they favor the plan are Bill Fochtman, Bob Gill, Bob Neff and Dr. Walter Hoffman.

"I believe citizens of Charlevoix should back their city workers right to the hilt," Neff said. "I believe it is their (the voters') duty."

A yes vote on the special proposition ballot on retirement will mean a voter is authorizing the council to give pension benefits to employees.

THE RETIREMENT program will cost each employee 3% of his annual wages up to $4,200 and 5% on everything over that.

The City will also pay a share of the cost. The first year this will be approximately $10,000. It is expected to decrease in future years.

The city's share will vary annually depending on the number of employees, their wages and how near they are to retirement age.

Pension benefits would range from approximately $50 to a maximum of $125, depending on years of service, salary when working and the age the employee retires at.

IF AN EMPLOYEE leaves the city payroll before retiring he will be able to withdraw everything he has paid into the system.

Twenty-nine city employees will be qualified to join the retirement plan. These 29 make an average annual wage Teenagers who pay adults to buy them alcoholic drinks are going to have to settle for soda pop in the future, if Sheriff Glenn Rose has his way.

Rose announced his department has arrested an 18-year-old boy and a 14-year-old man for furnishing minors with alcohol.

According to Rose, LaFreniere paid John to buy beer for himself and several other minors. John, the Sheriff said, received some extra money in the deal to spend on his own drinks.

ARRESTED WERE Leon R. LaFreniere, 18, 208 1/2 W. Upright, Charlevoix, and Amos John, 14, Charlevoix.

LaFreniere was found guilty of furnishing beer to minors and transporting beer. He paid $140 fine and costs and spent five days in the County Jail.

John was bound over to Circuit Court, charged with his second offense for furnishing to minors for a profit.

According to Rose, LaFreniere paid John to buy beer for himself and several other minors. John, the Sheriff said, received some extra money in the deal to spend on his own drinks.

Senator Finds Muddy Condition in Lansing

Things are mighty muddy in Lansing. And it isn't due to a spring thaw.

Sen. Thomas Schweigert (R-Petoskey) was in Charlevoix Monday, but wasn't making any predictions on what the Legislature will do in the next few months.

HIS REASON for being unable to make a constructive progress report to the voters at home? "Things are too muddy in the capitol."

Schweigert wasn't throwing any barbs at his Democrat colleagues, who control the House and Senate for the first time in something like three decades. He did not refer to the Impasse daily newspapers report between Gov. Romney and Democrat solons.

Instead, perhaps, in the interest of diplomacy, he pointed out that due to creation of new legislative districts by reapportionment, there are many freshmen senators and representatives in Lansing. It will take these men time to get their bearings, he politely added.

Schweigert did have some answers to charges made by Democrats during their successful campaign to re-appportion the Legislature so that northern Michigan had fewer representatives.

THERE ARE seven billion trees in his much-expanded 14-county senatorial district, Schweigert said, obviously in response to earlier statements that northern legislators represent trees instead of people.

Schweigert's new district is the largest in the Michigan Senate. It is more than twice as large as his former district.

The new 37th district has a population of 206,000, compared to 97,000 in the old district.

The new district takes 14 counties--seven in the Lower and seven in the Upper. The old district had only seven Lower Peninsula Counties.

OTHER statistics Schweigert presented on his new THINGS LOOKING BETTER--Though workmen are no where near completion, the front of the Geiken Building is already looking better this week as it gets its "contemporary renaissance" dress, designed by Jack Begrow and ordered by Henry Hogan and associates. The two buildings to the north of the Geiken Building will get the same facelifting by summer. It is not yet known what summer shops will lease space in the building.

Zing into spring! Corvair by Chevrolet

The steering's crisper, the ride's flatter, the style's racier—even the grass looks a shade greener from behind the wheel of this new Corvair

For all its finely calibrated instrumentation—tachometer, manifold pressure gauge, even an electric clock with a sweep second hand for rally buffs—the most important thing that happens when you get a Corvair Corva out on the road doesn't register on the dash. It registers on you. You feel it in the steering—erisp and precise—as you double back on a curve. In the flat riveted-to-the-road stability of the new fully independent suspension. In the response of the rear engine (up to 180 hp available now in Corva's Turbo-Charged version).

Drop down to your dealer's now—while the trading's extra good—and see for yourself.

"I Shall Keep This Lent"

"LENT" means springtime. It is an old Latin word which means a forty day fasting period next before Easter. It begins with Ash Wednesday and continues till Easter; exclusive of Sundays. It is a time for the conditioning of our soil . . . a time for our Souls to become penitent. It simply means that it is spading up time, the season for planting seeds and for setting blooming trees.

In the realm of the spirit it is a call to get ready for the season of beauty and goodness.

Who amongst us is satisfied with what he is or what he has been? Then let us qualify for the Lenten Season. Let us clear away the rubbish of last year's crop, cut under the old stalks. May we learn from our Lord to give ourselves to good conditioning during Lent. The miracle of Lent is genuine repentance which leads to Newness of Life. A Sainly Keeper of Lent said it well when he spoke the words, "I shall keep this Lent, and hope to refresh my Soul." Amen

The Church in You form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

PERSONS WHO are so harshly critical and uncompromising in their attacks on Medusa are beginning to call this corner just a little. If someone were doing to these critics what they are doing to Medusa you can bet your bottom dollar they'd be busy demanding their rights. Persons who insist that Medusa stay out of Charlevoix, or build a dock that would jeopardize the financial success of the company, had better wake up and ask themselves if they aren't advocating complete overthrow of our free enterprise system.

Let's get a few things straight. It's time for a little plain talk. Medusa has been a good, and very unselfish neighbor. The company has paid nearly $90,000 in taxes to the township, county and schools...without ever getting one thing in return. Before we go any further, and just for the record, this column personally would rather see South Point remain undeveloped and Medusa stay in Wisconsin and Pennsylvania with its heavy industry. I'm a worshiper of nature. Far more so than most of the anti-Medusa people I talk to.

But, I have written thousands upon thousands of words editorially supporting Medusa's plans for South Point. And I'll stick by them to the end.

Why? Because I recognize that my personal feelings are nothing but selfish and against the basic principles of my country.

Even those persons who support Medusa for the purely economic benefits it will bring to them, and their children are not weighing the fundamental question.

If we are going to face up to the Medusa issue unselfishly we find it is sort of like the old business about, "I don't agree with what you say, but I'll defend to your death the right to say it."

Medusa has a right to use its South Point property in any manner it selects to, as long as it does not endanger the health of the public. Air and water pollution ordinances are now in the works to guard against this.

This right is as much Medusa's as it is yours to work at the job you chose, or the Courier's to print a newspaper.

True, in printing a newspaper we are restricted by laws which make it illegal to maliciously print untruths. But there's no one who's going to tell us we have to only use 20 inches of advertising for every 80 inches of stories. If they did this would make it impossible for Charlevoix to have a newspaper. However, this is about what Medusa's enemies are saying the cement company must do.

Ponder for a moment how Henry Hogan would react if the city told him he could not rebuild the Geiken, Oddfellow's and Birkkradt Buildings, but had to tear them down and start all over with new buildings made of glass and aluminum.

Mr. Hogan, for whom this column has great respect, would tell us to go to hell and get out of his business. And rightly so.

But why then, should Medusa be subjected to this kind of treatment?

Here are a few more facts to consider. Since 1922 Medusa has paid $87,392 in property taxes to Charlevoix Township, the county and school. The bulk of this money went to the school district...and not a single Medusa employee's child has ever attended classes here.

Add to this the $4,950 the company has given Charlevoix Township over the last 33 years for upkeep of the scenic South Point drive. Since 1919, when the company first acquired the land, it has allowed hundreds--maybe even thousands--of persons to use it for hunting, Petoskey stone gathering, nature walks and meditation. This is hardly the picture of an unwanted neighbor.

During all of this time, when we were enjoying Medusa's property and grabbing its taxes did anyone object? If they did I haven't talked to anyone who heard them.

If those persons who are so indignant about Medusa using the property it has shared with us for so long, are unselfish in their desire to preserve South Point's beauty there is one fair approach left to them. They can offer to buy Medusa's property--at a just price--and donate it to the State for a recreation area. This, however, should also include a contribution of enough money to the State to pay for developing the area into campsites, etc.

Emotionally Troubled Students Getting Help

Programs for the emotionally handicapped pupil constitute the most rapidly growing area in special education, according to William C. Morse, professor of educational psychology at The University of Michigan.

Three factors are responsible, says Morse: 1) recognition at last by mental health workers that the school is the major potential service now available for both prevention and early treatment; 2) pressure felt by school personnel to develop ways of taking care of increasing numbers of maladjusted pupils; 3) government support.

"THE TREND is toward special classes for these children," Morse says. "But there is still considerable flexibility and experimentation."

"Some children will recover rapidly in the anticipated year, some after several years, and some will never be able to return to regular classes," Morse says. "At the present time over 80 per cent of the pupils are boys; the vast majority of the classes are at the elementary level. Return to normal is a wishful thinking for certain children. They will need a total life span of protected environment."

"These vulnerable members of the child population will need sustained care, and schools are finding themselves under the same obligation here as they have already been for the retarded."

"WHEN A CHILD can be helped in this manner, or even hygienically sustained in his home and community rather than institutionalized, we have

Ore Carriers

Cutting off foreign iron ore sources by political or enemy action would find the American Great Lakes iron ore fleet unable to meet total emergency demands, Vice Admiral James A. Hirschfield, president of the Lake Carriers' Association, asserts. He said, it is doubtful if the combined U. S. and Canadian fleets could move the needed tonnages.

The statements were made in a letter to Sen. E. L. Bartlett, supporting his stand to allow non-subsidized vessel owners to set aside certain sums before taxes for later ship construction.

NEARLY HALF the 226 vessels enrolled in the association are 50 years or more old, according to Hirschfield. "No new vessels have been added to our fleet since 1960, no conversions since 1961," he said. "Neither are any ships being built, reconstructed, or planned."

Outdoor Rambling

A scheme that only men of vision and great faith in the northland would dare advocate seems to have a chance of becoming a reality over Petoskey way.

It's still a long way from actually happening. But it does begin to appear possible that someday a new lake will be created between Walloon Lake and Petoskey that will give Petoskey the recreational boating facility it has long dreamed of.

THE CONSERVATION Dept. has officially indicated it's thinks the plan is a jim dandy idea. But it hasn't yet offered to put up the $3 million estimates say will be required to do the job.

What these men propose is to throw up a dam about a mile below Petoskey on the Petoskey River and create an impoundment that would reach nearly to Boyne Falls.

The newly created lake would be from 2,200 to 3,500 acres, depending on the level the dam held the water at. Walloon Lake is 4,300 acres. Walt Masters, Walloon Lake marina owner, who, if he didn't conceive the idea at least gave it birth, points out such an impoundment would enrich the economy not only of Petoskey and Walloon Lake due to its attraction to boaters and fishermen, but that some of this new-found wealth would seep into Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan. In other words, we would all share the spoils.

MASTERS, AND others who back the proposal, have left the all-important question unanswered: What are they going to do with their dream when it becomes a turbid, stagnant nightmare in 50 years, or less?

Dr. John Tanton, a 31 year-old Petoskey eye doctor with high regard for nature's wisdom, is asking this question. So far no one appears to be listening. None of the newspapers that support the project have hinted that there is even a remote possibility of a flaw in the plan.

But Dr. Tanton knows, as does the Conservation Dept., that large Michigan impoundments are destined to go through a cycle that ends with a shameful, silt-clogged disgrace.

Evidently promoters of the dream are blind to this, which is not to their discredit. Few people are.

A FEW YEARS back this column had occasion to take a serious look at the disreputable condition of Michigan's older impoundments. Why were they turning dirty, I asked the experts. I wanted to know whose fault it was and why something wasn't being done to clean the water up.

The answer I got was this: it is man's fault for tampering with nature. This is what happens. Silt from erosion settles on the impoundment's bottom and floats suspended in the water. Organic matter buried under tons of water dies off leaving a layer on the bottom. Slowly these conditions become worse and worse until the water is so turbid you can see your hand in it at arm's length. Plant life no longer grows. Algae flourishes on the surface. The odor becomes putrid.

Or, to put it in terms fishermen understand, at first the lake produces fabulous catches of pike. Then only hammer heads, bass and panfish are taken. Next the panfish become stunted and sickly-colored, the bass virtually disappear. Rough fish take over. Even though biologically the water is safe, swimmer wouldn't think of bathing in it.

THIS ISN'T a theory. It has been the fate of all large Michigan impoundments. A good example is Fletcher's near Atlanta, which is now entering the final, distasteful, phase of this cycle. Others are the impoundments on the Tittabawassee River and Huron River.

None of this comes as news to Conservation Dept. They're the ones who proved it to me several years ago.

Unfortunately, it may be a bit hard for Masters and his colleagues to accept. And this column certainly sympathizes with them. Their plan would be a marvelous idea if it weren't for these unavoidable facts.

So until the Conservation Dept. can prove there is something about the Bear River valley that makes it immune from the diseases that eventually pollute all other Michigan impoundments, this column will have to join Dr. Tanton in the

THE SUNDAY REPORT

By L. ALLEN McLAUGHLIN

At 7 a.m., Monday, March 15, the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Sundew, left her mooring at Charlevoix City Dock to perform the first of her spring duties, the transportation of men and supplies to stations in northern Lake Michigan.

LANSING SHOAL Light Station: Jay L. Schunleffel, EN2; Patrick C. Kane, SN; Gary R. Fortner, EN2; and Leon F. DeRosier, BMC.

At approximately 1:20 p.m. on the afternoon of the 15th, after encountering heavy ice conditions, the Sundew arrived at Grey's Reef, northeast of Beaver Island, where she completed her mission for that station.

Lt. David Smith, acting commanding officer of the Sundew, turned the ship about and proceeded to the Lansing Shoal Station from the south side of Beaver Island, where little ice was encountered.

However, the cutter had some difficulty in making the first approach to the light structure a successful one. Heavy ice, that had accumulated during the winter, had to be broken from the base of the structure for the cutter to get close enough to deliver her cargo of men and supplies.

The crewmen of the Sundew, bade farewell to the personnel of the Lansing Shoal Station at 7:45 p.m., took in the mooring lines, and headed for the cutters home port of Charlevoix.

IN THE EARLY morning hours of March 16, after a two day stay in Charlevoix, the Sundew was underway to complete the second phase of the spring light opening operation. Spectacle Reef, Poe Reef and Martin's Reef light stations, all in northern Lake Huron, and White Shoal Station in northern Lake Michigan were the stations involved.

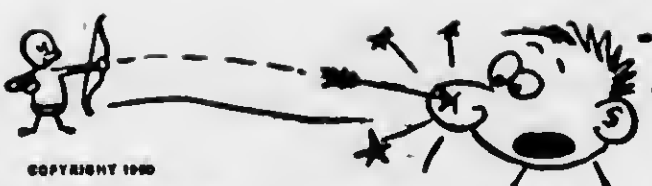

The crewmen and there respective station are as follows: Spectacle Reef Light Station: Walter J. Beluhko, EN3; Richard D. Calvi, SA; Earl O. Lyons, BM1; and Lundy L. Cason, EN1.

Poe Reef Light Station: Robert J. Young, BMCP; James S. Bazulka, SA; William J. Geiger, EN1; and Robert J. Porter, EN3.

Martin's Reef Light Station: Ralph W. Conant, BM2-AN; Barry M. Lee, EN1; John G. Schuman, BM1; and Robert Hinkley, EN3.

White Shoal Light Station: Michael N. Reynard, BM1; John F. Collora, ENEN; Leonard O. Steele, EN1; and Edward L. Messier, BM2.

On the afternoon of the 20th, after completing the light opening operation, the Sundew, with her mission accomplished, proceeded back to Charlevoix.

Thursday is April Fools Day. April came from a Latin word meaning "to open" or the real beginning of spring. It is observed around the globe. In France, they call it April Fish Day and in Scotland it is April Gook. But no one really knows its true beginning-but it was hundreds of years ago and it might also derive from an old "Hindu" custom. So have some fun Thursday with your family and friends, but--watch out for yourself.

Ellsworth's Championship Junior High Squad

Jr. High Team Champs, Again

This is the second consecutive year the Ellsworth Junior High School won the Snowland D Junior High Championship.

Seven boys on this team have been playing together since they were in fifth grade. At that time they would play on Saturdays, the fifth and sixth graders of Central Lake, East Jordan with two teams and Ellsworth. For those two years Ellsworth had a winning season each year. The last two seasons they were undefeated.

The tall man on the team for four years has been Randy Ruis, the two fast boys are Ronnie Boss and Roy Staudenmeyer; Fred Taylor has been getting sharper on his field goals. Dan Wieland completes the quintet. Roger Peebles and Doug Shooks are substitutes.

Steve Chellis a seventh grader has started most of the game this season and worked in well with the other four starts. The other seventh graders are: Eldon McPherson, Joel Donaldson, Jim Clark, Charles Mathews, Ray Alward, Jerry Crose and Joe Crose. The team is coached by Mr. Oland Kaufman.

Schedule Singers

The Crystalaires Quartette, a religious singing group, will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 3, at the Ellsworth High School gym and April 4 at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. at the Pilgrim Holiness Church. The public is invited.

Lancers Put 5 On All-Stars

Ellsworth's championship 1964-65 basketball team has captured five places on Snowland Class D all-conference teams and the coveted league sportsmanship trophy.

Two Central Lake players were named to the all-conference teams.

ELLSWORTH varsity cagers making the first team are Chet Boss and Ken Richardson. Placed on the all-conference second team were Mary Ruis and Gary Torgna. Walt Kooyer was named to the all-conference honorable mention squad.

League coaches presented the sportsmanship trophy to Ellsworth.

"This trophy is not to be taken lightly," the coaches' statement read. "It is a coveted award symbolizing excellence in the true meaning of interscholastic athletics. Congratulations to the Lancers and may you continue to play the game right."

Powers Payton of Central Lake made the all-conference first team. Central Lake's Jim McDowell was named to the honorable mention team.

The birds are looking for food, snow is still two feet deep and snow birds can be seen everywhere, but spring weather must be around the corner.

The reason I say this is, the folks that went to the warmer climates for the winter are beginning to return back home. Harry and Ginger Denny arrived in Ellsworth and had to shovel a path to their door.

At John's Health Center Friday morning the customers got noisy with hollers and smart remarks when John Dreth and Art Dreth walked in. John had just returned from California, where he has lived for the past several months. Art managed to find Ellsworth again, after a trip to California he and his cory plus one, and John arrived back home Thursday.

The plus one is a fellow by the name of Correll Aloss. His name is quite important to Sharon Dreth.

MAY I SAY pardon me? A couple of weeks ago Willard VanderArk was admitted to Little Traverse Hospital and underwent an operation on his leg. This I did not know in time for publishing, then, yesterday I heard Willard is home. I realize it is a poor excuse not to know about things like this, all that I would take is a phone call to Mina June, his wife.

WHEN YOU drive past a farm and you hear a loud groan. It is not a sick horse but a farmer, who is anxious to start field work. Some farmers in other years have oats in the ground at this date. The rule of thumb is to have all of the oats planted by April 15th.

When a farmer that is on the hill has oats in the bin and the date is April first he considers himself far behind. As soon as the weather breaks these farmers will be pushing their tractors night and day. I know these farmers are eager to put their plows into the ground and turn over the furrows and get the scent of the fresh earth.

You probably looked across a freshly plowed field and made a comment on how even the field appeared. This work is not accomplished by the book but by experience and pride.

The plow-jockey might be getting itchy to plant but the oats in the bin at the present time are worth more than those in the ground.

The Antrim County Agriculture Agent said, "I tell those anxious farmers it is better to have this type of weather now than a frost May 31."

THE ELLSWORTH Village Council greeted the newly elected members and said goodbye to the former members at a dinner at Rowe Inn. After the food was devoured, introductions made, a short business meeting was held.

Ellsworth Chamber Balked on Road Bid

By ROY STAUDENMEYER Have you ever been in a crowd where you were in the minority? Then have the person of authority completely ignore you?

This is the situation the Ellsworth Chamber of Commerce finds itself in after last week. A small town like Ellsworth is trying to climb out of a hole and people with authority won't listen.

THE CHAMBER is working hard to locate an industry to settle here. The neighbors to the north are driving Medusa out. All that we can say is send them down to Banks Township, we will greet them with open arms.

Standard Oil Bulk Station in Ellsworth has an order for gas through Waggoner Transport Co. The amount of fuel on order has to be delivered by three trucks, just because of six miles of road from M-31 to Ellsworth. The dispatcher told the Standard Oil Agent, that those six miles are costing Waggoners $200 a trip.

He said, "Man, the truckers could have built you people a Class A road with the money it costs in the last 20 years."

Waggoner is trucking fuel from Muskegon, on Class A all weather roads, where they are able to haul 16,500 gallons of gasoline in each truck.

These same trucks, when they travel from Muskegon to Ellsworth, can only haul 8,500 gallons...just because of six miles of Class B road.

GERRIT G. Dreth a director for the Traverse City Local Mich. Milk Producers Assn. (MMPA), said that since the road restrictions went on this spring, the Local has lost $2,000.

Chuck Dawson's truck No. 6, which picks up milk in the Ellsworth area can haul 18,000 pounds of milk, which costs the farmer $46.80. Now the pounds of milk hauled have to be decreased to stay within the law to travel on Class B roads. The cost is the same when the truck is only allowed to haul 9,000 pounds per load of milk.

The Ellsworth Farmers Exchange had a tanker come from Alma with 5,000 gallons of fuel oil. Ordinarily the truck could haul 9,400 gallons. That load was cut 4,400 gallons just because of the short distance from M-66 to Ellsworth.

The amount of gasoline hauled is a slight difference because it is a lighter fuel. The amount hauled now is 6,000 gallons compared to 10,460 gallons if the road was not restricted.

I wonder what a loud noise a motorist would make if these laws would effect him. Say a motorist was capable of carrying six passengers from Alma to Ellsworth, but when restrictions were on Road 626 he could only carry three. In order to transport all of his passengers to Ellsworth he had to make two trips. That is what truckers are compelled to do.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Editorial Page

By FRANK MARTIN

The Job's Not Over

THOUGH THE COURIER has often opposed the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Committee's stand against Medusa Portland Cement Co., it is anything but our desire to see it drift into obscurity.

We have devoted literally yards of column space and hours of time to writing stories and editorials aimed at encouraging citizens to work toward a more beautiful Charlevoix. So, from the committee's name, we assume its goals are the same as ours.

NOW THAT THE Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Committee is in fighting trim and has aroused enough support to finance its campaign against Medusa, is the time for it to direct its energy toward other things.

That is if we are correct in feeling that its objective is really a beautiful Charlevoix.

There are many matters that need tending to if Charlevoix's beauty is to be preserved and improved. Among these are anti-litter campaigns, planting of more trees in some spots and trimming them in others, landscaping and re-dressing business property.

The committee has members who are talented in many of these fields. It has others who know how to get people interested in public issues. It would be a great loss to Charlevoix if these public spirited citizens now backed away from the cause.

THEY SHOULD keep in mind that at least half of their battle has been won. Air and water pollution controls on Medusa have been assured. The Courier put all of its energy into getting these restrictions. The committee's help contributed substantially toward convincing public officials of their importance.

Planting trees that won't be appreciated for two or three decades isn't the kind of work that draws public applause—or condemnation. But it is the type of public service that will make the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Committee's contribution to our town a truly lasting one.

We hope the committee will join us in our tedious, thankless, day-to-day efforts for a more beautiful Charlevoix.

It's Our Fault

FOR YEARS PEOPLE have been puttering with the idea of a museum for Charlevoix. But nothing has been done. The spark that would get things moving and people working together has been missing. Just maybe we discovered something in the April issue of Ford Times magazine that will provide the long-sought impetus.

THE DELIGHTFUL Little Ford Times for April is completely devoted to the Great Lakes traveler. It does a charming, provocative job of telling readers what to look for if they head for the land of the Inland Seas this summer.

We read the entire magazine with interest. Then as we came to the last page and started to browse through it again just to review the pictures and paintings, the hackles on the back of our neck started to curl ever so gingerly. The magazine virtually ignored Charlevoix, we suddenly realized, how could anyone put out a magazine on Great Lakes vacationing without devoting a goodly section of it to Charlevoix?

So before marching across the street to see what the Erbers were doing letting Ford Motor Co. publish such a magazine we decided to try to figure out why Charlevoix was overlooked. We found the answer. Charlevoix doesn't have tangible tourist attraction.

Politics and Our Water

WATER IS CHARLEVOIX'S most important natural resource. This comes as no revelation to anyone. But you might be surprised to know a bill is now pending in Lansing that, if approved by the legislature, will keep our water as a political, rather than natural, resource.

The bill calls for putting the Water Resources Commission and Waterways Commission under the department of economic expansion. This is a switch from our Sen. Thomas Schweigert's proposal that these department's be made a part of the department of natural resources (The Conservation Dept.).

THE TWO WATER-administering departments are now separate agencies. The new constitution makes it necessary to consolidate them with others.

For years the Waterways Commission and Water Resources have been ineffective due to political control.

For instance, the Waterways Commission has spent its money for new docks and harbors in places that are virtually unknown to boaters.

The Water Resources Commission has been impotent in its mission to stem and eliminate pollution. The proof of this is in Lake Erie, the Huron River, Grand River and hundreds of southern Michigan Lakes and streams. All of this in spite of the fact it has what it heralded as one of the finest pollution abatement laws in the nation.

WHY HAVE THEY both been miserable flops? Obviously, because they were politically influenced.

What's to say the Conservation Dept. wouldn't have the same shabby record? We had the answer to that recently when the Conservation Commission authorized a permit for Medusa Portland Cement Co. to build its dock here over the objections of several major political leaders.

Water is a natural—not a political or economic—resource. Let's put it under the control of persons dedicated to preserving nature.

We Disagree...Gentlemen

THERE'S NO DENYING it sometimes it takes a bold move and foresight if progress is going to be served. However, even considering this, it is difficult for us to endorse the City Council's move last week in purchasing 11.5 acres of property adjacent to the golf course.

We can see that the property may someday be useful if the golf course is expanded. In fact it could be essential.

PERHAPS DR. Hoffmann and the three councilmen who supported his proposal, are correct in assuming that the price would be higher a few years hence. But we are inclined to feel that $3,250 is no bargain for 11.5 undeveloped acres. (Councilmen Fochtman and Parsei voted against buying the property.)

However, our major objection is that the city has no place buying property as an investment. And this is all they did. It is not even known if the property will be needed, or if the golf course will be expanded.

If golfers want better facilities we're on their side. But we don't want to see the city investing money on speculation. Let's have a complete plan for the golf courses' future, including the means to pay for it, before we start spending city money.

Nobody, but nobody, was more surprised with the 'new winter' that we have than ski operators in the area. Seems no one was expecting as much as one visitor last weekend when the sky opened up...and the Lodge, which hadn't a reservation for skiers on Monday ended up with three chartered buses...and so did every other facility in northern Michigan as skiers came from far and wide for that last fling on the hills....

And with this near-zero weather that we've experienced could be another good skiing weekend in the making....Checked with the Lodge and was told that if the weather held they'd have three bus loads....But people south of us are finding it hard to believe that we still have snow so some have cancelled out....But they just don't know what beautiful snow they're missing....

SPEAKING of snow, you've heard me mention before that the weather on the day of the equinox is indicative of what we'll have for the next three months....If you'll remember the first day of spring brought snow, snow, snow....Now I'm not saying that this white stuff's going to be around till June but I'll wager we'll have a lot of moisture during the next three months....Just for kicks, let's keep track of it and see how right (or wrong) that old weather forecast is....As I've said before, my postman, Walker Miles, first told me about it and I've found it to be all too true....

Weather's not the same all over, thank heaven....A note the other day from Guy Eccleston down Indianapolis-way brings the news that the weather is warm, the snow is gone, the crocuses are in bloom and that 14 cardinals have been patronizing their bird feeder....This last was the real reason for the note because I had mentioned never having seen a cardinal....So be brave, keep faith and, who knows, maybe one day soon we'll have April showers that will bring May flowers....and you'll forget the long, cold winter....

Tho' I'd say we can't complain too much about the kind of winter we've had....FROM MY traveling friend, Clark Coulter, a greeting from Istanbul....As you know, he and Mrs. C. are on a wed cruise (lucky people)....They've been gone a little more than a month, have hit the points of interest in the Mediterranean and, when this card was mailed, were scheduled to stop at Jerusalem....They're due home about May 1 if everything goes well....What a trip....Wouldn't you love a shipboard cruise like this?...I turn a little green just thinking about it....

'Did you have a chance to watch the tour of the Gemini rocket last week? I always get butterflies until those things are over....I swear I'm not going to watch them and then, out of curiosity, I do....because I might miss something! This certainly was a beautiful flight and much was learned....But that bit is still for the astronauts as far as I'm concerned....There are those who will tell you that I'm usually orbit about something....but actually I'm not as far off as I might seem because the truth of the matter is I've no yen for this type of thing....As for the moon, I'm willing to go on believing its made of cheese....especially if I were to be assigned the job of finding out of a-bout it....

I THINK ALL of Charlevoix was popping its buttons Wednesday morning when the announcement that our own Clarence 'Oldie' Odmak has been named the 'Band Director of the Year'....It's an honor long overdue to my way of thinking for he has brought the music program in our school over a long way since he took over in 1946....and he's done a great deal in promoting a better program throughout the state....He's a dedicated man who gives generously of himself at all times....I think you'll all agree that it couldn't have happened to a nicer guy....I'm glad that Charlevoix claims him as its own and that I, along with a host of others, claim him for a friend....

I'd like to wish a belated birthday to another friend of ours, yours and mine.... This fellow had the idea he could get by this year without anyone noticing....But he forgot to say 'Shhh!' to the little chickadees that come to his bird feeder or in the words along the north shore of Lake Charlevoix....Of course we mean Rev. Harold E. Kohn....Our greeting is a little late but sent with all good wishes for many more....(P.S. You know I'm always late!)

THE BOSS-MAN and I don't always agree but he's hit on something with which I agree wholeheartedly....The park that runs along Lake Michigan between Lake Michigan and the lake....It's such a beautiful spot, it's the only place I know that boasts a stand of pines such as are found there....It seems to me that so much could be done with the park so that more people could enjoy it if, as the boss suggests, you have someone look it over and come up with a plan for utilizing it....I'm sure there's such a service available....If a master plan were adopted, the park could be improved over a period of time and its natural beauty improved and preserved....So how about it, City Fathers?

May I add my 'well done' to the countless others that have been directed toward the Charlevoix Rayders and their coach, Don Carey....It's a shame that, after the record they'd run up during the season, they had to be laid low by illness....But they gave us a lot of good basketball during the past few months and came through with three titles so I'm sure everyone is proud of them and their accomplishments....Congratulations, too, to those players who were named to the All-Conference....To my way of thinking, every last member of the team is a champion in his own right for it was definitely an all-around team effort by everyone who brought them their success....

With no juniors on the team, there'll be slim pickins next year but after that things should shape up....So just be patient....And I'm sure that even next year, despite the outlook at this time, things won't be too bad....'Cause that guy named Carey has a way of coming up rosy when things look the darkest....

Cement Dock Row Inspires Writers

DEAR EDITOR:

Your recent editorial advocating the construction of the Medusa Cement boat dock on South Point was rather disappointing. In the last few years many people in the State of Michigan have recognized Charlevoix, with its beautiful natural harbor, as one of the last few beautiful spots left on Lake Michigan. This realization has led many people to invest in a dream of re-doing Charlevoix into one of the most attractive places in the world.

I, for one, have been part of this dream, and have undertaken to improve the main street of town by purchasing some buildings that have not been a credit to the community, trying to make them show-places of northern Michigan. I have also been involved in the acquisition of the old Holiday Beach Hotel and it was our plan, in the next few years, to build a year-round hotel overlooking Lake Michigan.

THERE IS NO question in my mind that, if an unattractive industrial-type dock is constructed in full view of Charlevoix, the natural glamor Charlevoix possesses will be lost. It is also quite obvious that, if Charlevoix is to be converted from a beautiful little town to an industrial site, there would be no reason to invest money in improving its tourist attractions.

I have discussed the dock with my associates, and it is their feeling that, if the residents want this dock constructed, they apparently are not interested in the projects we have undertaken. Therefore, if the dock is constructed, we will not undertake the construction of the hotel. This may seem rash, but, if 100 jobs to the people in Charlevoix at the expense of their priceless heritage is more important than a hotel employing twice that number of people with the resultant increase in business for the entire community—we cannot continue our support.

They're for it...

DEAR EDITOR:

It seems to be a rumor circulating in the county that The Charlevoix County Democratic Party is against the Medusa Cement plant being built in Charlevoix Township. Building this plant is not a political issue. In spite of this a roll call vote at the last meeting of the Charlevoix County Democratic Committee favored asking the decision to be made allowing the plant to be constructed.

The Democratic Party is not a party that tells its members how to think on all issues; in fact many of its members are those who object to blindly following the politics of their ancestors. It is natural, therefore, that not all think alike on all issues; especially those of a non-political nature, it would be most un-

American and undemocratic to try to take away the privilege of free speech of any party member or any other person. It is this freedom of opinion that makes the meetings of the Democratic Party so exciting and so refreshing.

The Democrats at the meeting also expressed their ideas about the building of any facilities that will improve the resort and tourist industry and believe there is room for both in this area.

Again may I point out that though some members do not think the Medusa plant should be built, The Democratic Party favors it. This should stop the false rumors about the Democratic Party.

Former Girl Scouts Don't Want Camp Sold

DEAR EDITOR:

As former Girl Scouts of the City of Charlevoix we were disturbed by the article in the March 10 issue of the Courier stating the possibility of the sale of the Charlevoix Girl Scout camp on the Ellsworth Road.

At the time we were Girl Scouts we were often at a loss to find places where camping skills could be practiced and learned. Our camping and outdoor experiences were done on property belonging to parents or friends. The things that we did during these excursions were of a temporary nature because we did not have Scout property of our own where we could leave our lashings, our fireplaces, our nature projects, etc. from week to week.

THE ARTICLE states "Lack of interest in the camp could result in its loss." We ask ourselves, "Lack of interest by whom?" In making inquiries we find that the camp is not being used primarily because certain work projects have not been completed which are absolutely necessary before the camp can be used. These projects are not the responsibilities of the leaders of the individual Scout troops. It is the responsibility of the parents of the individual girls to see that their children are not deprived of the privileges of becoming proficient Girl Scouts.

Our summer camp program (at the time we were Scouts) was not in the true tradition of Girl Scout camping. We lived in cabins, had hot and cold running water, inside "latrines", meals prepared for us by skilled cooks, paths with no opportunity to blaze trails, no tents to pitch. In other words no chance to practice and use the skills required of a Girl Scout.

Because we felt this need to have property of our own we set aside the profits from the sale of Girl Scout cookies for several years to establish a fund to purchase property. We wanted future Scouts in Charlevoix to have the privilege of owning and using a camp of their own, which privilege we did not have.

WE UNDERSTAND that when the Girl Scout program was revised by the National Girl Scout organization within the last two years it was done to give the girls from 7 through 17 more outdoor activity, which girls all over the nation requested. Have Charlevoix girls lost this interest in outdoor skills and activities? Or are there no leaders and/or parents qualified, or interested enough, to give the girls the training they need in this field so that they may become proficient in outdoor skills?

What is happening, and what will happen, to Girl Scouting in Charlevoix?

Sincerely,

Susan McCann (DeCastro), Betty Reynolds, Connie Plischner (Oleks), Virginia Hamlin, Jill Cross Ross, Sussie Helms, Carol Cross Stephan, Patricia Whitley, Mary J. (Superman) O'Brien, Frances Arnold, N. Faye (Meggison) Alger, Lorraine (Halse) Warner, Eileen L. (Arnold) Smith, Ruth Ann Miller, Ruth Schofield.

More Pension Support

DEAR EDITOR:

I have thoroughly investigated the proposed pension plan for the city employees and have found it to be a sound financial plan. The purpose of this letter is to stress to every interested citizen its importance to both the employees and the City of Charlevoix in general.

I am sure you realize that our city employees are not paid a wage comparable to that of men in industry. These men have many long working years invested in our community. They are irreplaceable in their jobs now and for many years to come. Their lives are devoted to keeping our city a fine place to live, and we need a high caliber of men to do this job.

In order to attract and keep these men here in the City of Charlevoix, we must offer a sound retirement program, comparable to those offered in the business field.

I FEEL THE proposed pension plan is a sound financial program. We need this kind of benefit to insure the growth of our community in the future. I hope you will vote in favor of this proposed plan, to make a reality of a secure and happy retirement possible for all of our deserving city employees.

SINCERELY,
RALPH HAMILTON

Here's A Writer With A Different Interest

DEAR EDITOR:

We hear about our City Fathers handing out over $5,000 to the Chamber of Commerce and our Mayor raising the activities director for the summer an increase of $20 a week making his wages come up to $100 a week and no mention of taxes having to be raised to cover anything that will benefit the tourists or summer people, but when the question is brought up of retirement pay for our city employees who have worked hard nearly all their lives for starvation wages why do the raising of taxes have to be mentioned to cover their wages or retirement pay.

It is just to discourage people from voting for these people. How many of our city employees get $100 a week or $80 a week? And they all really earn the starvation wages they get.

There are high school seniors that would be glad to get that job (recreation director), to help further their education and they would be just as capable.

As far as the South entrance to our beautiful city is concerned we feel the service stations and motels keep their places of business up very well. They suggest hedges & flowers. We have often admired the flowers there. We don't see any hedges or flowers around Freedman Artisan.

City Service Oil Company is to be commended for keeping their buildings and tanks painted. Sorry we can't say the same for some of the other places down in that section. We hope that Dr. Hoffman will wake up to the fact that the second ward taxpayers put him in office and that he works in the interests of second ward people.

We think American Mold should have honorable mention, the grounds around the factory are kept up so well and there is never any junk around. We hope the other industries profit by their good example. Our former Mayor John Knight was responsible for ending American Mold to settle here. Hoskins is to be commended for sharing their profits with their employees.

Why do people say there are not enough men here to satisfy more industries when so many are on the unemployment list.

of $4,150. Of the total 10.5 work for the electric utility, two for the sewer system, 3.5 for water and 13 in general activities.

If voters approve the pension plan it will supplement Social Security benefits now received by employees. Councilmen have not yet outlined how they will pay the city's $10,000 - first year share of the retirement program if it is approved.

ESTIMATES ARE that at least $8,000 of this will have to come from the general fund. This could be raised by cutting present services, or raising property taxes, councilmen have said.

Unopposed candidates for election to city offices are Mayor Hawley, City Clerk Hugh Mayne, Treasurer Annabelle Cunningham and Ira H. Olney, who is running for Justice of the Peace.

Other candidates who will appear on the first ward ballot are Robert Neff, councilman, and Kilt Carson, supervisor.

In the second ward Robert Gill is the candidate for council and Harold Totten for the Board of Supervisors.

THIRD WARD council candidate is Del Terrell and Harry Gebeau is candidate for supervisor.

Bell Wages Near $1 Million Here

Michigan Bell Telephone Company in 1964 it paid wages of $948,147 to 162 employees who work in this district, according to Les Johnson, manager here for the firm.

He said the company's entire wage bill of $153,498,448, which went to 22,000 employees throughout the state, set an all-time record.

THE MEN AND women of Michigan Bell, the state's fourth largest non-governmental employer, and of the other two Bell System units who live in more than 400 Michigan communities received total wages of nearly $168 million.

In Outboards

Michigan maintained its No. two position in the nation during 1964 for the number of outboard motors sold and in use, according to a joint report of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers and the Outboard Boating Club of America.

This state, in finishing behind leader New York, had 464,000 outboard motors zipping boats over its waters last year. Its estimated sales of these units increased to 27,200, a figure also topped only by New York.

DETROIT marketed 11,100 of this total to rank third highest among the country's 50 top cities for outboard motor sales. Flint placed 31st with a sale of 2,000 units while Grand Rapids tied for the 48th spot with 1,300.

Nationwide, boating hit a new peak in popularity during 1964 as a record 7,700,000 pleasure craft piled waterways of the 50 states. Expenditures on boating also reached a high-water mark last year, totaling $2.6 billion.

district: In size it has 10,727 square miles, which is 6,855,600 acres, or 18.6 of the state's total land area. There are 20 to 40 inhabited islands and 1,072 miles of shoreline.

The district has seven intermediate school districts, 94 regular school districts, 14 home rule cities, two fourth class cities (Charlevoix and St. Ignace), one special charter city, 16 general law villages, two home rule villages, and 156 townships.

There are 12,072 miles of road and highway in the district. If he drove eight hours a day, five days a week, averaging 50 mph, it would take Schweigert six weeks to travel by road throughout the district.

THE senator points out, compared to the smallest district in the state--in Detroit--that is only three or four blocks square and can be driven in about two hours--even in heavy traffic.

To help him fulfill his duties to these 206,000 people and seven billion trees along 12,072 miles of road, Schweigert points out he has a part time secretary in Lansing who types letters.

Last weekend was the first time he's been to his home in Petoskey since Jan. 1. Every other chance to get away from Lansing has been spent somewhere else in the district. Schweigert feels there is still a chance the Democratic party's victory in having the Senate apportioned on a one-man-one-vote basis will be overturned. He reports there is growing concern in other states about the same thing.

Voters ok Retirement For City Employees

Charlevoix city employees Monday received an overwhelming endorsement from voters of their request for a pension plan.

The retirement plan was approved by a 5-1 majority, 513 votes for it and 99 against.

THIRD WARD voters elected Del Terrill to replace Don Parsel on the council. Parsel, running on stickers, nearly upset Terrill. The vote was 116 for Terrill and 91 for incumbent Parsel.

A new Justice of the Peace, Ira H. Olney, was elected. He will take office July 3 for four years.

Justice John Connolly will continue in office. The city is authorized two justices.

Approval of the retirement plan means that 29 city employees will begin paying into the program immediately. Their share will be from 3-5% of their annual wage.

THE CITY WILL contribute another $10,000, the first year, into the program.

Pension benefits will range from approximately $50 to $125 a month.

City employees have been working for more than three years to get a pension plan approved.

Parsel's near victory over Terrill was the only serious write-in campaign that developed.

All other incumbents were elected.

CITY TREASURER Anna-belle Cunningham, again, received the most votes, 546. She was followed by Clerk Hugh Mayne, 542, Mayor E.D. Hawley received 532 votes.

More than 50 persons who voted on the retirement issue did not vote for candidates. Others re-elected were first ward Councilman Bob Neff, 152, votes; first ward Supervisor Kit Carson, 149, second ward Councilman Bob Gill, 185, second ward Supervisor Harold Tolten, 179, third ward Supervisor Harry Gebeau, 192.

City Reveals Plan For New Industry

Plans for two new industrial plants and a 16-24 apartment house building were unveiled at Monday's City Council meeting.

Council approved rezoning from amusement park to light industry of the property on the northeast corner of Norwood and Carpenter roads.

JESS PENN requested the rezoning. He said he will build an 80 by 100 foot all-steel industrial plant on the property. His Great Lakes Fabrication operation will move from its present location at 204 Lincoln to the new plant. He now has five employees.

Another firm, Lexalite, from Detroit, has been working with councilmen and Mayor E. D. Hawley trying to locate a site for a plant here, it was revealed.

The company reportedly wants at least $30,000 raised locally. It will employ approximately 20 persons with a maximum of 100 in the future, Hawley said.

Hawley said the firm has refused to build on any of the sites suggested by councilmen. It wants something with

Murray to Vote Again

Residents of Murray School District in Hayes Township will be asked to vote again this spring on consolidating with the Charlevoix school system.

Voters turned down the proposal on Mar. 22.

CHARLES Robinson, Intermediate School District superintendent, and Rex Milligan, Charlevoix superintendent, will be guests at a public meeting 8 p.m. tomorrow, (Thursday, Apr. 8) in the Murray School.

They will answer questions asked by residents on the consolidation. Mrs. Richard Zipp, board secretary, urged all voters to attend.

Mrs. Ray Wood

Court Aide Quits

Mrs. Ray (Nancy) Wood has submitted her resignation as Charlevoix County juvenile officer to Probate Judge John Makel.

Mrs. Wood has been county juvenile officer for 17 months. Her resignation becomes effective May 1.

SHE SAID SHE is resigning to establish a state licensed child care center in Charlevoix. The center, she explained, will serve the entire area.

Judge Makel said the center is something that is needed in the area. He wished Mrs. Wood success in her new venture.

Mrs. Wood's letter of resignation lauded Judge Makel and his administration of the probate court and juvenile affairs.

Her experience with local juvenile during the last 17 months has convinced her there is a need in the area for a well staffed child care center, where youngsters can stay during the day when parents are working.

THE CENTER, she said, will have a registered nurse on duty at all times. The program will include educational activities as well as play periods, meals and rest.

Mrs. Wood is a graduate of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex. She has lived here 14 years. Her husband is a contractor. They live at 302 Michigan-ave.

A site for the child care center has not been located.

JUDGE MAKEL said he will begin immediately looking for someone to replace Mrs. Wood. The state pays the county juvenile officer $2,500 an hour, plus expenses.

Buying Grocery

Louis Edwards has sold his interest in Edwards IGA Store so that he can purchase the Goode grocery store in Ironton, it was announced this week.

Louis sold his interest in Edwards IGA Store to his brother Dick, with whom he has been a partner since 1947.

To Honor Former CHS Athletes

Seek Funds for Trophy Case

A group of Charlevoix High School athletes, teachers and former athletes have launched a fund raising drive to preserve the school's trophies.

According to the group, approximately $800 is still needed to build a suitable case for the trophies.

THEY REPORT more than $600 has already been collected for the case. This was given the cause by the Coleman Fund and the Board of Education.

At Monday's election the group raised nearly $50 by setting up a display in the City Hall lobby and soliciting donations from voters tonight (Wednesday) they expect to have a display outside the high school gym prior to the public meeting on Tuesday.

Tomorrow evening (Thursday) they will make a door-to-door canvass of town asking for donations.

Designed by Uno Suomela, the proposed trophy case will cost an estimated $1,000. It will be built along the wall in the high school, probably in the lobby outside the gym.

ACCORDING TO student Bob Bergmann more than 100 trophies have been recovered. They were found by students in a heap in a storage room behind the permanent bleachers in the high school.

Many of the trophies, Bergmann said, were broken. Most of them were so tarnished they could not be read.

Students took the trophies home and started piecing them back together. Others went to work with polishing cream and scrubbed the tarnish off.

The oldest they found was a 1906 basketball trophy. A partial listing of the more than 100 others: 1928 regional basketball champs; 1938 Lower Peninsula Class C final tournament runner-ups; 1931 district cage champs; 1936 MIEAA regional champs; 1937 and 1938 league basketball champs; 1938 district basketball crown; 1931 plaque for excellence in debate; 1924 third place Class C basketball tourney; 1939 state football championship; 1932 regional basketball championship.

THERE ARE literally dozens of league, district, regional and other trophies dating back through the last three decades for outstanding basketball and track teams.

Bergmann and his group contend the Charlevoixians who brought these honors to their town and school deserve better than to be forgotten and neglected.

The trophies, they point out, a part of Charlevoix's heritage.

Donations can be sent to the school in care of the trophy case fund.

Bergmann said former athletes who would like to help the group raise funds are urged to contact him. They can use all the help possible.

Girl Scout Parents Protest Council Plans to Sell Camp

Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council leaders met with 50 protesting Charlevoix parents Wednesday evening.

The council, at least temporarily, indicated it will not act on its earlier declaration that it intends to sell the 32-acre Girl Scout camp near the Belvedere Golf Club.

A COMMITTEE, headed by Don Brown, a Hess Furniture Store employee, was organized to make the camp more useable.

Parents interested in helping Brown's committee with actual labor, or who want to donate money to purchase building materials, can contact Brown.

The more than two-hour meeting in the basement of the Congregational Church saw several brief eruptions of anger.

Mrs. C. L. Lindstrom, Crooked Tree Council president, told the parents they have no say in whether the camp is sold. She said this decision is made by the council members and added they will consider the feelings of Charlevoix people.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Lindstrom the council is considering selling the property due to lack of care and interest. She said the council cannot afford to have camp property that is not used.

Since the Charlevoix Girl Scouts bought the property in 1959 it has fallen into general neglect and has had little use, she said.

There has not been enough local effort put into developing the camp property to get the storage building constructed or keep the well working, she explained.

Mrs. Lindstrom told the group the council has a limited amount of money for camp property and cannot afford to spend it where it is not used.

THE PROPERTY was turned over to the council two years ago. Since then the council has not used it.

Medusa Impact on Area Economy Raises Question

Do Charlevoixians who favor Medusa's plans for a cement plant on South Point realize the plant will be "very low-cost" and designed so that it results in "cutting down on the labor factor through automation?"

This question was asked last week by D. A. Winnie, an associate of Henry Hogan's in Charlevoix Properties, which has purchased the Holiday Terrace Hotel and three downtown Bridge St. buildings.

WINNIE SENT the Courier a clipping from the Mar. 24 Wall Street Journal, in which Medusa's President Ellery Sedgwick Jr. described the company's plans for a new plant on Lake Michigan.

Sedgwick, according to the Journal, outlined Medusa's plans for the plant at the company's annual meeting, but failed to say where the plant will be located.

No explanation was given for Sedgwick's failure to cite Charlevoix as the location for the proposed plant.

However, Medusa Vice President Worth Loomis has on several occasions said the plant will be here...if it is built.

THE COMPANY'S president, if the Journal article is accurate, appears to have settled the question of whether the plant will be built. He says it will be.

Hogan has told the Courier he believes his hotel and Bridge St. stores will employ more people than Medusa's plant, but that he will not go ahead with his complete plans if the cement company builds its dock and plant on South Point.

Neither Winnie or Hogan have been specific in the amount of payroll their operations would mean to Charlevoix. Hogan has said the hotel (Continued on the back page)

Medusa Tells Us Tonight

All area residents are invited to a public meeting tonight (Wednesday) to hear Medusa Portland Cement Co. officials outline their plans for South Point.

Medusa Vice President Worth Loomis will tell citizens what his company proposes to build on South Point, Clarence Robeck, Charlevoix Township supervisor, reports.

According to Robeck, Loomis is expected to have scale models of the dock and cement plant the firm has stated it hopes to start building in 1966.

Robeck said Loomis will answer questions. The meeting starts at 8 p.m. in the high school gym.

State Delays Dock Permit

The State Administrative Board Tuesday morning decided to delay a decision on issuing Medusa Portland Cement Co. a permit to construct its South Point dock.

State Controller Glenn Allen said the Ad. Bd. called for a complete restudy of the facts and opinions in the controversy. Interested parties, Allen said, will be invited to present their arguments at a hearing in Lansing. The date has not been set.

ALLEN classified the board's action as unusual.

"Occasionally when a vital subject comes up" the board will make a complete study of the facts, Allen said.

Since the Conservation Commission earlier approved the permit, the board would usually pass on it with only routine study.

The Ad. Bd., Allen said, is concerned about charges that the dock's impact on the tourist industry would do more harm to the economy than good.

Adds Insurance

The LaBlance Insurance Agency has added the Michigan Mutual Auto Insurance line, George LaBlance reports.

The company has its home offices in Traverse City and specializes in auto insurance and other types for northern Michigan. LaBlance said, the company has been in business since 1915.

Children playing with matches started 57 forest fires in Michigan during 1964.

For Easter beauty, this pretty flip bob is crowned with curls...one with perky spring hats of flowers, fabric and straw. Gay little shapes perch a-top the head, larger profile straws frame the outline lengths; either-or, all is pretty for the Easter Parade! Simplicity keynotes our Coiffeur with curls and whorls and bouncy flips, all so lovely because of a cold-designed permanent wave. The look is fashionably close-to-the-head! Very new!

that is the cry of the multitude. Today we join the happy throngs around the earth as we shout together, "Hosanna!" Whatever the morrow may hold of suffering, today we declare to the world, "Christ has come." Because we are in His company, we know that God ultimately will be sovereign over all the world. We are confident that goodness is stronger than evil. We are sure love will triumph over hate. Whatever a Friday of crucifixion may bring of temporary defeat, we know life will triumph over death, and the Christian way will receive itself supremely in the final destiny. Then Palm Sunday is a day to celebrate and set up our banner of hope. "For right is right as God is and right the day must win." This hope will convert, for us, spiritual defeat into eternal victory.

BOADWAY WAS released on $500 bond. He is to appear at the May term of Circuit Court.

Girl Scouts At T-6 Fair

SEVENTEEN Ellsworth Girl Scouts and nine adults, including Girl Scout Leaders and mothers traveled to Traverse City to attend the Girl Scout International Fair.

The fair was held at the Park Place Motor Inn.

Each Troop from the Traverse City area had a booth and they represented a foreign country. Some of the girls wore costumes of that particular country and displayed interesting articles native of that country. Each Troop put on a skit, sang songs in the native tongue and danced their old custom steps.

Though the Ellsworth girls only visited the fair, much enjoyment was received. One exciting moment took place when the group rode the elevator all the way to the tenth floor.

RAINBOW ANDY IN THE BULL PEN

Jacob Klooster, R-1, Charlevoix, has purchased a bull calf, Rainbow Andy, from Floyd Scott, East Jordan. The new animal is a registered Milking Shorthorn and the record of the transfer of ownership has been made by the American Milking Shorthorn Society at Springfield, Missouri.

A forest fire is a burning shame.

Among persons fined in Justice John Connolly's court were four who were operating vehicles without the proper drivers license or license plates. Other violations include assault and battery and drunk and disorderly.

LOUIS MCSAWBY, 38, Charlevoix, paid $10 costs when he pleaded guilty to assault and battery on a complaint signed by his wife, Irene.

Thomas H. Dixon, 24, Charlevoix, pleaded guilty to his second offense of being drunk and disorderly on a public highway. He was ordered to pay $30 or spend 30 days in the County Jail.

Ralph Mitchell, 40, Charlevoix, waived examination on a charge of being drunk and disorderly for the third time and was bound over to Circuit Court. Bond was set at $100.

Claude G. Douglas, 37, Concord, Mich., paid $40 on charges of not having a valid license plate on his truck, having a defective turn signal and failure to have a mileage book. The complaint was filed by the Michigan Public Service Commission.

STEWART Manzer, 22, Boyne Falls, paid $25 and spent five days in jail for operating a car when his license was denied. He also pleaded guilty to driving under the influence and was fined $110 or 90 days.

William R. Stude, 24, East Jordan was sentenced $15 and three days in jail for driving when his license was denied.

Thomas B. Newton, 30, Charlevoix, paid $60 fine and costs and spent two days in jail for driving with a suspended license and not having working headlights on his car.

Boy Scouts

By David MacDougall
The Charlevoix Sea Scouts are in urgent need of a permanent building to establish their land ship. The building must have all the facilities needed. If anyone is willing to donate a building toward our cause please call Lt. David Smith (LI-7-2856) or George Loomis (LI-7-2992).

The weekend activities included a trip to Gaylord for the scenic Trails Explorer Round Table, Sunday, April 4. Two scouts attended as representatives, Joe Thorp and David MacDougall.

After returning from Gaylord, the scouts attended a swimming party at the Lodge.

Coast Guardsmen Re-up

Two Charlevoix Coast Guard Station men re-enlisted last week for nine more years service.

Robert Baker, boatswain mate first class, re-upped for another three year hitch.

ENGINEMAN Second Class Thomas E. Dembinsky took the oath for another six year tour.

Terrance Peltier

Navy Man Injured In Rescue

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Peltier, R-1, Barnard Rd. are mighty proud of their Navy son, Terrance.

The following clipping from the Great Lakes Navy Base newspaper explains it all.

Never let it be said that Great Lakes doesn't have a modern day "Sir Galahad." At least, not while Terrance Peltier, SA, is aboard.

It seems that Peltier volunteered to care for four puppies that were found by the Public Works Department in a ravine. Every day he would make periodic trips to Security to feed the puppies.

One evening in January, during the severe ice storm, he was on his way to Security, just in front of the Navy Exchange, when he heard a loud crackling sound. He looked up and saw a large tree branch breaking. He then saw a WAVE walking towards the tree, he yelled to her but she didn't hear him. He ran and grabbed her arm, throwing her out of the danger area, but before he could get away, the branch broke and fell on him.

He suffered a serious back injury and was hospitalized for 50 days, four weeks of which were spent on his back in a support.

He was released from the hospital March 18 and is temporarily assigned to bks. 28 for light duty.

Baker, a veteran of ten years in the Coast Guard and two years in the Army paratroopers, lives at 108 W. Up-right, Charlevoix with his wife Bernice and children Mary, 3, and James, 2. He has been awarded the Coast Guard medal. Baker was born in Detroit.

Dembinsky was awarded the Coast Guard Commendation medal in 1963 for diving into the water from a dock at Cal-cite, Mich., at the risk of his own life to save that of another Coast Guardsman. He is single and has spent four years in the Coast Guard. Dembinsky previously served aboard the cutter Sundew. His parents live in Windber, Penn. He is not married.

Pistol Team Beats Harbor

Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club pistol team members posted a 33-point victory, 1-339 to 1-306 Friday over the Harbor Springs pistol team.

Top shooters for the Charlevoix team were Lt. Cdr. Charles Millratt, 285; Bernice Ward Jr., 281; Ken Boss, 268; Harold Lang, 253; and Dr. Robert Martin, 252.

Charlevoix shooters who didn't make the team were Jack Erber, 177; Herb Boss, 242; Bud Lee, 220; Al Townsley, 209, and Vernon Mathews, 249.

A return match is planned at Harbor Springs.

Cancer Drive Now Underway

April is American Cancer Month. Mrs. E. D. Mason, 106 Oak St., reminds Charlevoix area residents.

Mrs. Mason and Mrs. Jack Rader are co-chairman of the 1965 fund raising drive here for the American Cancer Society.

MRS. MASON said two films on cancer education are available through her for showing at local group meetings.

Persons who would like to make direct contributions to the Cancer Society can do so by sending them to Mrs. Mason or Mrs. Rader.

During the last week of April volunteer workers will make a house-to-house canvass to raise contributions, Mrs. Mason said.

Michigan's annual snowfall varies from year-to-year, but usually averages about six feet or more. Annual snow depths usually range from about 17 feet in the Upper Peninsula to about two feet in the southern part of the state.

LT. CDR. CHARLES Millratt, left, takes the re-enlistment oath from Robert Baker, center, and Thomas E. Dembinsky.

Dear Dick Affair

RICHARD DONALDSON

DEAR DICK: I dated this girl a few times and she seemed crazy about me, but last night I called her and wanted to go for a ride and window shop. I was broke. She acted bored and wouldn't go. Before, we'd been going dancing, to dinner and to expensive clubs.--PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED: You shouldn't be. The old fashioned description of her is "Gold Digger". Set your sights on someone with more modest ideas....and interests like your own. The only thing that's old fashioned at Putt's Appliance Center is our LOW prices on fine furniture. We pride ourselves in offering you the best furniture buys in town.--DICK.

Band Leader Describes Concert as 'Rare' Treat

by C. A. Odmak
CHS Band Director

A rare musical opportunity will be afforded the residents of the Charlevoix area next Wednesday evening, April 14, when the Cleveland Heights (Ohio) High School Symphony Orchestra will present a concert in the Charlevoix High School gymnasium at 8:15 p.m. The 82 piece organization is on its annual spring tour, and has been scheduled to appear in four Michigan Communities - Fraser (near Detroit), Grand Rapids, Muskegon and Charlevoix.

CONDUCTED by Kaaris Mackey, the orchestra has won national acclaim since its founding in 1921. It has appeared at several national educational conventions, and is generally considered to be one of the finest high school symphonies in the nation. Being sponsored by the music department of Charlevoix High School, tickets $1 for adults and 50¢ for students, with grade school children accompanying by their parents admitted without charge. Tickets are available from any reserve on senior band member.

Mrs. Robert Tollas is acting as housing chairman for the group, and is in the process of finding hosts to house 42 pairs of students, including dinner on Wednesday evening and breakfast Thursday morning. Anyone wishing to invite these students into their home are urged to contact Mrs. Tollas.

I hope that the citizens of Charlevoix will avail themselves of the chance to hear an outstanding string group. The only reason that the orchestra is in Charlevoix is that both Mr. Mackey and I are members of the American School Band Directors Association, and stops on this tour are being made at the schools of members of that association. The complete program will appear next week.

School Report Card

By Wes Fleet

The "area" concept in Vocational Education is based upon the philosophy that all qualified persons should have an equal opportunity to participate in Vocational education Programs of their choice regardless of the geographical location in which they reside. This concept is far reaching in its scope and significance. It encourages the principle of free or low cost education for all trainees residing in the geographical area served by the school program. In the interest of local, state, and the national welfare, all students should have an opportunity to profit from training programs regardless of their economic status or that of the area where they reside.

"The term Area Vocational Education Program, means a program consisting of one or more courses conducted under public supervision and control on an organized, systematic class basis, which is designed to fit individuals for useful employment in recognized occupations, and which is available to residents of the state or an area thereof. Who either have completed Junior High School or, regardless of their school credits, can reasonably be expected to profit by such training."

AREA PROGRAMS permit the offering of a wide range of courses, thereby affording students with many different training opportunities. Such programs can provide for the occupational training needs of both in-school and out-of-school youth and adults. Most high schools in Michigan are too small to provide a diversified program of specialized training to meet the needs of employment-bound youth. Assuming a high school would need at least one thousand students to provide a variety of offerings to meet specialized needs and interests of employment-bound youth, less than twenty percent of the high schools in Michigan could qualify. The plan used in several states, of vocational centers to which students go on a part-time basis for their specialized education, seems to have merit. Under this plan boys and girls retain their membership in the local community high schools; take their general education with other students, including the college-bound youth; engage in social and athletic activities with other youth; and graduate from the local high school.

The area vocational center offers many advantages. It provides for a broad tax base distributed over large segments of population; it offers training opportunities to greater numbers of persons than is possible in smaller schools serving individual communities; it makes possible a broader administrative base and more comprehensive auxiliary services; it makes available a greater range of curriculum offerings and therefore a greater range of occupational training choices for residents in the area; it avoids duplication of equipment, services, and costs such as might prevail if a number of neighboring communities chose to offer similar training programs, and it provides policyholders, it has entered the property insurance field.

Advantages of these facilities are many. They enable Michigan Mutual Auto policyholders to place all their insurance with the company which has served their automobile insurance needs so well for nearly half a century.

County Must Act

WHEN THE CHARLEVOIX County Board of Supervisors meets next week the attention of Charlevoix area citizens and businessmen should be focused on how it deals with the need to provide facilities to keep the drivers licensing bureau here.

The Courier has learned that after its exposure last January of the possibility the licensing station will be moved to Boyne City or East Jordan, board chairman Lee Sneathen Jr. promptly fired off a letter to the Secretary of State promising to supply the needed office space.

INDICATIONS ARE other supervisors will follow Sneathen's lead and agree to vote for an appropriation to add the required space to Sheriff Glenn Rose's jail building.

We certainly hope this will be the case. Charlevoix has been designated the county seat. Since there will only be one license examining station in the county, due to changes in the state program, it naturally belongs here, and under the Sheriff's supervision.

The Secretary of State is placing cameras in all licensing stations to photograph applicants. These pictures will be placed on the driver's license.

State officials have decided--and quite logically so--that rather than go to the expense of setting up one of these cameras in the many small licensing stations now in existence, the stations should be consolidated into fewer, but larger, ones.

APPROXIMATELY 4,000 licenses are issued in the county annually. There are now three stations in the county--two in Charlevoix and one in Boyne City.

A driver must have his license renewed every three years. The drive from Boyne Falls to Charlevoix once every three years will seem inconvenient to some people, but certainly not crippling. And very likely this same person can make the trip when he has other business in the county seat.

However, unless the Board of Supervisors agrees to provide enlarged office space in the jail, or County Building, state officials have said they will not authorize assigning the camera to the Sheriff.

Boyne City and East Jordan have both offered to provide this space if they can get the license bureau. We cannot blame them for making this move. After all, it admittedly is to the convenience of their citizens and businessmen. And it could premeditate efforts to re-locate other county offices out of the county seat.

The Fuse is Set

BY CALLING FOR a public meeting tonight (Apr. 7) to air his firm's plans for its South Point development, Medusa Portland Cement Co. Vice President Worth Loomis has set the fuse to an explosion we will all be ashamed of if it is ignited. Feeling about Medusa runs mighty hot with those who favor and oppose the company's building a dock and plant on South Point. If tempers are not left home tonight Loomis' fuse could easily receive the spark that will result in disgrace for us all.

THIS IS NOT intended as criticism of Loomis because he asked to have an open meeting. Perhaps in all good conscience he feels he must do this. And we are always in favor of the public getting all the information it wants.

But we have all seen the ugliness that

Opportunity Knocking

CHARLEVOIXIANS have been offered an almost unique opportunity to express their confidence in our town's future.

It is not often that residents of a small community find outside capital making it possible for them to prosper in their own town. But this is exactly what Henry Hogan is offering by inviting local people to lease business space in his re-built downtown buildings.

OBVIOUSLY HOGAN'S three Bridge St. buildings are going to be some of the most attractive in northern Michigan when he gets the new front on them and the interiors redone.

It is just as evident that Hogan, an outsider, has great faith in the financial future of this development. We know that he spent $35,000 for one building. What he paid for the other two we do not know. But add it to the cost of redecorating and he has a huge investment in Charlevoix.

Certainly, there are Charlevoixians with just as much faith in their town's future.

So, rather than have all outside interests move in to take advantage of the groundwork Hogan has done for us, why not have some Charlevoix people set up shop in his buildings? We have people in our town with the ability, imagination and financial capability to succeed in this venture. Let's hope they do not miss the chance.

Proud of CHS Trophies

A GROUP OF Charlevoix High School athletes -- past and present -- have kicked off a campaign to raise funds to pay for construction of a trophy case in which to display the spoils of more than 50 years of competition.

At least one of these trophies dates back to 1906. Many of them remind us that over the years Charlevoix has produced young men of unusual determination and competitive spirit.

Where's Your Number?

WE RECEIVED our 1965 Michigan Bell Telephone directory last week and in spite of our attempt to be understanding and reasonable -- found ourselves once again a bit chagrined because we had to thumb through it in search of the section devoted to Charlevoix numbers.

Last year, when the company initiated its directory lumping several communities together on the same color paper in alphabetical order, we withheld comment. We felt it was only fair to give Michigan Bell a year to find out for itself this system does not satisfy customers.

FURTHERMORE, we realize the company tries to economize where it can in order to offer patrons the best possible service for the lowest price.

We believe the company can find a better system of putting out a directory so individual towns stand out. For instance, we would not object to being listed in alphabetical order if only the pages for each town were a different color.

We have great admiration for Michigan Bell's dedication to constantly improving its service to the public. We hope the company will interpret this as a constructive suggestion, rather than petty criticism.

I said I'd do it and here it is: an apology to the Charlevoix Rayder basketball squad of 1937 who were runners-up for the state title...Bob (Elroy) Bergmann, whose dad, Big, was a member of that team, brought by the clippings to prove that I was wrong...I'm sorry...And since I have the clippings I'll bring you up to date on it...In those days both the Lower Peninsula and the Upper Peninsula had their own state tournaments...On the runners-up trophy this was mentioned...Anyway, Charlevoix's team at that time, according to the box score, was composed of Keith Carey, 24-ers cage coach at Midland, the late Charlie Richardson who lost his life in the early days of World War II, Louis Brown who now lives in Petoskey and who, like the others, remains an ardent fan, our own Chick Gallagher, and Big Bergmann...The Rayders, coached by Ray Kipke, made it to the state finals with a 28-12 win over Sterling in the quarter-finals which were played at Big Rapids, a 26-24 win over Lake Shore in a game that saw Bergmann, who was not a regular, go into the game and save the day for the Rayders on a long shot that tied the score 24-24 and a second mid-court shot that won the game with five seconds left in the clock...In the finals at Grand Rapids, the Rayders lost to St. Augustine by a score of 27-23 in a game played at the Civic Auditorium...If you remember, this Kalamazoo outfit dominated Class C for years and years, much as River Rouge rules Class B today...there you have my apologies to some pretty wonderful guys and the story that lead to the play-offs...

I MIGHT ADD that when a search was made for the trophy, it and countless others were found under the permanent bleachers in the new gym...tossed in the dirt like a bunch of trash...with many of them broken...As a result the students at the high school are attempting to do what another group tried 30 months ago...to raise funds for a trophy case in which to house these previous mementos of yesterday for which so many fine athletes gave so much...I was sick when I heard about the way these trophies were being thrown around...I am hopeful that these youngsters can accomplish what we tried to do as a memorial to the late Irish Coleman...A few people came through and several classes that had money left in their treasuries following graduation kicked in with this so that today there's about $600 in a 'kitty' to be used for this purpose...

At the time this was planned, Uno Suomela drew up working plans for a case to be placed on the north wall in the lobby off the gym...This will cost an estimated $1400...so if you'd like to see proper housing for all the wonderful trophies that Charlevoix athletes have brought home through the years, how's about sending your contribution to the Trophy Case fund at the Charlevoix high school...If every former student who reads this would send $1.00 this dream would become a reality...So how about it? Aren't those trophies that you or your youngsters won worth that to you?

A FEW WEEKS ago I mentioned the lone swan that turned up near the Max Gennett home at the Belvedere golf course...The Gennetts fed the beautiful white bird and it seemed to be coming along OK after taking up residence in Stover Creek...However, after about 10 days they found it dead...They called the Conservation Department but have had no word yet as to the cause of its death...Maybe these birds are like elephants...who seem to sense when their day has come and wander off to die alone...I don't know much about swans or if they do this but it would be interesting to know...

Here's another of those 'It's a small world' things...The Arthur Weststaffs were enroute home from a month's camping trip in the desert near the Arizona-Mexico border recently when they stopped at one of those big glass restaurants on the Indiana turnpike...And got the surprise of their life when an man into two other Charlevoixians who were just preparing to leave the place...None other than Mrs. Frank Novotny and Del Terrill who were returning from an N.E.A. Conference in Chicago...Guess everyone in the place thought they were all just a little bit 'way out' when they discovered each other...according to Mrs. W. who told us about it...

THIS CRAZY weather we've been having...real good maple syrup weather, I might add, with warm days and cold nights...is also good ice-cream weather...I've noticed some beautiful ones but probably the biggest was found on the Julius Gilbert residence on Michigan ave. where it reached from the roof to the ground...Mrs. Gilbert's mother, Mrs. Ethel Wiesinger of Los Angeles who's visiting here, just can't believe what's outside her window...and if you were to see it you'd wonder about it too...

I might add that Max Novak had some lovelies, too, tho' not as big or long...but they made a pretty picture in the sunlight...

RIGHT NOW everyone's beginning to wonder about the ice in Lake Michigan...That's all you can see but it's not too thick. The Sunday's been coming and going regularly...manning the light stations and now fueling them...if we get a good wind it should break it up and once that happens, it just drifts around till it melts...One thing about our traveling friends, sooner or later they think of us and send a card...This week there's one from the George Driggetts of Charlevoix and Milwaukee...who send greetings from the country's southernmost city...Key West...with a note that they'd promised to write from their farthestmost point of travel...It won't be long before George will be making his daily trek to the golf course...for he and his cronies are the 'golfin'est guys I've ever known...

I can't help but wonder what early April's going to bring us, weather-wise... March, you remember, came in like a lamb but after the first couple weeks the lion took over...I'm hoping he's either through with his roaring or has been captured and caged...for just between you and me, I've had it as far as winter's concerned...and I'm sure I'm not alone...So let's see if it will be warm April shower that will wash away our remaining snow and bring the crocuses and daffodils...Isn't that a happy thought?

OUR READERS WRITE

Dear Editor:

This Space Reserved For Your Opinion

Charge Neglect of Trophies a Shame

DEAR EDITOR:

We need a trophy case in the High School immediately! This is needed very much. The athletes of CHS have earned well over 150 trophies since the school was formed. These trophies have been discarded behind the permanent bleachers in the new gym. There they lay until we found them yesterday while looking for the state runners-up trophy of 1938. This is a disgrace to the community as well as the school. Something has to be done. There are few schools in the state that have won as many trophies as CHS has. Yet, if you look around the state, how many schools would you find that are lacking trophy cases to put their trophies in? We doubt very much if you would find very many, if any at all. Are we ashamed of our school? If that's the case, we might as well forget this whole idea. But we don't think it is the case, at all.

Therefore, we are making an appeal to the citizens of Charlevoix and past residents alike to help to furnish a place to put these fine trophies that our fine athletic teams have acquired over the years. Contributions will be accepted by Max Novak, supervisor of the student committee for the purchase of a trophy case for CHS or any of the members of the committee.

The members of the committee are as follows: Del Terrill Jr., Eaton St.; Warren Belding, Antrim St.; Tom Maxwell, Rt. 3; Randy Carey, Michigan Ave.; Paul Martin, Dixon Ave.; Dave Norton, Prospect St.; or Bob Bergmann, Meech St.

These contributions will be greatly appreciated.

THANK YOU,

MR. MAX NOVAK, DEL TERRILL JR., WARREN BELDING, PAUL MARTIN, DAVE NORTON, RANDY CAREY, AND BOB BERGMANN

Why Cut Trees?

DEAR EDITOR:

In regard to the article in the Courier Mar. 24, "May Cut Trees on Road Curve", I would like to ask where is there any justice or reason in the fact that, because drunken fools and careless drivers who disregard the traffic laws and speed signs of 25 miles an hour, which are posted all along Petoskey Ave., the State Highway Commission should come in and deface the beauty of the city's most beautiful street by removing the shade trees and placing the guard rail in front of the homes on Michigan Ave.

A stop light at the intersection of Michigan Ave. and Petoskey Ave. would reduce those accidents more effectively and economically than a guard rail.

Such drivers would only, by running the rail into the sidewalk, wreck the rail and perhaps kill some pedestrian, where as a stop light would halt their speed to a more reasonable speed whereby they could manipulate the curve without accident. A blinker light would prove very ineffective with such drivers on the highways. Let us all state our objections to such action and do all in our power to maintain the privilege of calling our city, "Charlevoix The Beautiful".

DEAR EDITOR:

I would consider it a great favor if you would run my comments and the letter in the People's column.

D. D. WALKER
WALKER MARINE AGENCY
CHARLEVOIX

Dear Mr. Walker:

I have today read of the apparent plans to allow a cement plant operation at South Point in Charlevoix.

We here in Saginaw have had bitter experience with such an operation, since there is one adjacent to our yacht club in Bay City. A desire to escape this nasty, dirty situation is the principal reason I have been keeping my boat in the north. Under the circumstances, I wish to advise you that I wish to cancel my plans to moor my boat with you.

EVEN THOUGH South Point is outside

He Leaving Us

DEAR EDITOR:

Your editorial section of your March 17th issue was most interesting. Charlevoix has no right to question right of MEDUSA to make whatever use they elect of their property -- Years ago they had the foresight to buy SOUTH POINT, for a few dollars per acre... while "Charlevoix slept at the switch".

Doubtless the Conservation Department, only behold to Lansing and The Army Engineers, only behold to the Politicians in Washington and the Pentagon, who have never seen or enjoyed "The Sweet Water Ocean" (As Bill Ratigan describes it) and never heard of Charlevoix. They will doubtless endorse the MEDUSA Enterprise.

Ninety per cent of prevailing winds, at Charlevoix, come from the southwest. This means that from SOUTH POINT -- the silt, smoke, etc. will first attack our beautiful Charlevoix Hospital, and then go on to the homes, harbors, parks and benches.

Mrs. Henry Nagel's contribution to your March 17 Editorial section was very much

In line with the facts that exist. HOWEVER -- After my some seventy (70) years at Belvedere I have learned, that even though they pay some $20,000.00 in taxes each year to Charlevoix (80% of which are school taxes -- with no children in school) They will just "SLEEP" (Just as Charlevoix did in the matter of South Point.)

The result will be, and it is already a-coming -- more than Charlevoix realizes...

Those who have over the generations "laid the Golden Eggs" will just quietly drift northward to other parts of our great Country... where they may again enjoy sweet air and Sweet Water. DON'T BLAME MEDUSA. They have the right to use their property as they wish... Just blame The Charlevoix Sleepers.

My property at Belvedere is for sale -- I hope to get OUT.

WHEN RAPE IS INEVITABLE -- RELAX AND ENJOY IT.

NAME WITHHELD

This One's For it...

DEAR EDITOR:

In regard to the Medusa Cement plant "feud", may I add my opinion? I sincerely hope that this plant is built in Charlevoix and soon.

THE PEOPLE who are against it are mainly well-situated persons who have no worry about where their next pay check is coming from. They don't seem to care about the many unemployed men who would be given work. Charlevoix is eating more and more to the summer people and tourist attraction aspect and less to the common man who lives in Charlevoix year-round and is therefore the real backbone of the town.

As much as my family and myself would love to live in Charlevoix, we were forced to move out of state due to lack of jobs. True, Charlevoix is rich in natural beauty but it needs more than that and a few months tourist trade to survive. One cement plant will not ruin the town; on the contrary, it will surely help.

NAME WITHHELD

...So Is He

DEAR EDITOR:

There was a article in last week's paper from a very uninformed person (who was trying to act as representative of others of the summer people) saying that the water and air would be contaminated and eternal noise from the planned Medusa plant. This sort of person should be set straight once and for all.

People that know, know that the water will not be contaminated, nor the air we breathe, or the beaches at which we bathe. Because of the purification systems which will be incorporated into the plant, as far as the noise is concerned there won't be any more noise than the few people yelling against the Medusa plant, Some people do not realize the economical importance of the plant. Such as the unemployed men it will put to work or the taxes which will be collected from the plant to benefit our fair city, which will be even more prosperous and beautiful because of it. And as far as some people threatening to sell their property if Medusa comes in, I say we neither need or want people of this caliber, who have no respect for the people who live and work here year around.

I say the Medusa plant will benefit and not harm everyone whether they like it or not.

GORDON DENNY

Seek Local People for Shops

Charlevoix Properties, Henry Hogan's organization which owns the Geiken, Odell, and Birklandt buildings on Bridge St., has announced it is seeking local people for the shops it is preparing.

Mrs. Irma Scheid, the company's real estate representative, said Charlevoix Properties is especially interested in leasing the shops to local people because they know conditions better.

IF LOCAL people have the shops, Mrs. Scheid said, the overall benefit to Charlevoix will be greater because the money will remain in town.

Local people, she said, know the market here better. Charlevoix Properties is putting a new front on the buildings now and will redecorate each shop according to the needs of the renter. The buildings are to be partitioned off into shops of various sizes.

Like to develop the shops into year-round businesses. Thus, they feel, can best be realized by renting them to local people who are more apt to stay in town and work toward promoting off-season business.

MRS. SCHEID said out-of-town businessmen will not be turned away. The first shops available will be in the Gelken Building. Second floor office space will also be rented. Architect Jack Begrow said the average size shop will probably be 20-25 feet wide and 80-80 feet deep. However, he said these can be partitioned off smaller or combined to make them larger. The lease price for shops will be around $2 per sq. foot, Mrs. Scheid said. She added this figure is open to negotiation. Office space will be considerably less.

WHEN THE center building (the Oddfellow Building) is opened as an arcade in the summer of 1968 many small shop spaces will be available, Begrow said.

Mrs. Scheid and Begrow listed several ideas for shops they said Charlevoix Properties feel would prosper in the buildings. They included a wine shop, toy shop, hobby-camera-art supplies shop, travel bureau, hi-fi center, luggage shop, quality sporting goods, party store, beauty shop and book store.

Before the property became the council's, Charlevoix Girl Scouts spent approximately $2,100 on it.

If the camp is sold, Mrs. Lindstrom said, none of the money invested by the local parents would be returned. It will all go to the council.

Mrs. Lindstrom said Charlevoix has been one of the council's most dependable money raising communities and has paid its way since the council was organized.

ACCORDING TO the council president someone has offered to buy the property. She would not say who.

Kiwanis Club president Harold Totten asked Mrs. Lindstrom if the council would sell the property back to Charlevoix for what it has in it ($1,258). He did not get a positive answer.

Jack Erber and Roy Bennett both asked Mrs. Lindstrom if she would assure local people the camp would not be sold if it was brought up to standards and received extensive use. She did not give them this guarantee.

Brown charged that the council is giving Charlevoixians — who have the most invested in the property — no say in what happens to the camp.

MRS. LLOYD Arnold, local Girl Scout leader, said the problem has been a lack of interest in the camp.

New Industry Eyes City

Several councilmen questioned the wisdom of the city doing all the groundwork and promotion to locate another plant in a township, where the city gets no taxes from it.

The firm, Hawley said, is a good reputation. It reportedly wants to have a 12,000 square-foot plant up by July 15. Lexallie produces plastic extrusions.

COUNCILMAN BILL Fochtman presented a proposal from contractor Irl Forbrig to purchase the Colonial Club property on Meech St. for $8,500.

Forbrig's plans call for construction of a 16-24 apartment building on the site, Fochtman said.

Councilmen moved to entertain Forbrig's proposal for a 90-day option at $500, contingent on rezoning from R-1 to R-2. Before rezoning is approved, councilmen decided, Forbrig will have to present detailed working plans of the apartment building and agree to have it in operation within one year after he picks up the option.

Fochtman said he was told the apartments would rent for $80-$110 a month.

NO ACTION, AGAIN, ON LODGE REQUEST

Councilmen, for the third time refused to approve a request by the Lodge to give their ok to opening a restaurant at the motel without first going through routine rezoning procedure.

The Lodge asked for the council's sanction to open a chuck wagon sandwich shop primarily for its own customers.

City Attorney John Michael said his interpretation of the zoning ordinance is that a restaurant is not legal in a R-2 district. He said the Lodge should file a formal request to be rezoned to C-1.

TRY AGAIN TO GET STATE DOCK MONEY

Mayor Hawley said he has been in contact with State Sen. Thomas Schweigert concerning the city's impasse with the Waterways Commission on enlarging the Round Lake yacht facilities.

The city contends the Waterways Commission should pay 75% of the cost of putting in additional docks and restroom facilities. The Waterways Commission has refused to budge on its position that it will only contribute 50%.

Councilman Bob Gill suggested that if the Waterways Commission will not go 75% on improvements that the city drop its plans to spend more money on the docks.

SET MEETINGS ON BUDGET, WATER BIDS

Council announced it will open bids on an estimated $100,000 water line extension program next Monday, Apr. 12, at 8 p.m.

Monday, May 3, was set for a public hearing on the proposed $245,488 1965-66 city budget. Persons interested in the budget can obtain copies at the City Superintendent's office.

Raise Questions

Medusa has stated its plant, quarry and dock would employ approximately 100 persons when at full operation. Wages would be equal to those paid elsewhere to unionized cement plant workers.

WINNIE submitted the Journal story feeling it supports Hogan's feeling that Medusa will not bring the economic advantages to Charlevoix that his group will if it goes ahead with its entire plan.

Dated in Cleveland, where Medusa's headquarters is located, the Journal story read: Medusa Portland Cement Co. is determined to build a large low-cost plant within the next few years, Ellery Sedgwick, Jr., president, told the annual meeting.

The site for the plant, which will have a capacity of three million to four million barrels annually, hasn't been determined, he said, "but it will be located some place on Lake Michigan."

SEDGWICK SAID that despite present over-capacity in the industry, plans will go ahead for the new plant because "the best defensive and offensive weapon is to have a very low-cost plant capable of distributing to its markets by water transportation."

Sedgwick said the cost of the new facility will range from $20 million to $25 million. Medusa will need about $8 million more than it can generate internally, he said. Most of the funds will be spent in 1966 and 1967, and Medusa plans to borrow the additional money needed for the project.

Present indications are for sales about the same as in 1964, Sedgwick told the meeting.

He said the labor costs are up and a new industry contract is coming up in May but that Medusa has been improving efficiency and cutting down on the labor factor through automation.

"OUR PROJECTIONS indicate that earnings in 1965 will be almost an exact approximation of 1964 earnings of $2.43 a share," he said, but with a little good fortune "there might be some improvement over 1964."

The company has been attempting to broaden its lines through the development of specialized cement products, he told the meeting. "We have a good head start with white cement and within the past year have been working on a crack-resistant cement and a custom color cement for masonry walls."

He added "Our objective is to get more into the specialty lines in order to broaden our base and make us less dependent on bulk cement."

Resist Arrest

Earl C. Gee, 24, East Jordan, has been bound over to Circuit Court by Justice John Connolly on a charge of resisting Sheriff's deputies.

According to Connolly, Gee put up a scrap when Deputies Joe Etienne and Dick Fochtman took custody of him at the East Jordan Police Dept.

Gee was reported to have suffered minor bruises. Neither of the deputies were injured.

Easter Story Radiates With Gladness, Joy

By Rev. E. FRANCIS DENAY
St. Mary's Catholic Church

The Gospel narratives of the Resurrection radiate brightness and joy, catching as it were the very gladness of mysterious dawn and the beauty of sunrise on running waters. The very work of the Evangelists seem to tremble with the wonderful tidings for the world and we catch again the amazement, the excitement, the sudden mood, the fear, the despair, the doubt, the hope, the breathlessness of the dawn that broke upon the world when Jesus Christ arose from the dead on Easter morning and men knew that He was in truth the Lord of Glory.

We can see all the actors stand out clearly during those tremendous days. The Apostles cowed like beaten men, Mary Magdalen and the other women with hearts awake going through the dim city streets to perform a loving service to the Body of their Lord.

"VERY EARLY ON the first day of the week, they came to the tomb, when the sun had just risen." The story tells how they went to the tomb, their minds and hearts full of Him. "And an angel of the Lord whose countenance was like lightning and his raiment like snow," stood on guard by the empty tomb and said to them: "Do not be terrified. You are looking for Jesus of Nazareth, who was crucified. He has risen. He is not here."

The women hurried to the dazed apostles with the news that Christ had risen from the dead. And these words seemed to them as idle tales, and they did not believe them. Mary Magdalen lingered behind; she remained at the sepulcher, weeping because they had taken away her Lord. And Jesus said to her: "Woman, why are you weeping? Whom do you seek? And she thinking it was the gardener, said to him: 'Tell me where you have laid him and I will take him away.' And Jesus said to her: 'Mary.' And we can hear the low tones of tenderness as He uttered that word that roused her soul and recalled all that had passed between them. There was only one in the world for her. She flung herself at His feet, clinging to Him. But He bade her go to His brethren; and the disciples did not believe."

WE SEE HIM plainly with the two disciples who were walking heavy-hearted on the road to Emmaus. How gently He stole into their company, into their very souls, so that they said afterwards to one another: "Was not your heart burning within us while He was speaking on the road?"

Again we can picture that scene by the lake of Galilee, as the grey dawn broke over the waters and the wearied, dispirited Apostles rowed to land, for they had caught nothing. And when the morning was come, Jesus stood by the shore, and John said: "It is the Lord." Never did our Savior show Himself so full of understanding, bending down the weakness and sadness of heart of His Apostles.

Strange things have happened. We have watched the Son of God upon a cross; we have seen His most holy, most innocent flesh, plowed by pain, and the Resurrection morning, the confirmation of all our hopes, the ground of all our joys.

Plan Second Ball

The second Winter Sports Ball will be held May 1 at the Hawthorne Inn from 9:30-11:30.

Music will be provided by the Wynn Quartet of Cheboygan and Petoskey, Bob Humphries, Chamber of Commerce Winter Sports Committee chairman announced. Tickets will be $3 a couple.

BALL CHAIRMAN are Mrs. Stella Holtzman, Mrs. Melvin Plum and Mrs. Roberta Whitely.

The first Winter Sports Ball, Feb. 27, netted $100 for the 1966 winter sports carnival, for which most of the arrangements have been made.

Humphries also announced progress is being made on firming up the program for Venetian Festival this summer.

Sail boat and row boat races will be held again this year at the Venetian Festival, Humphries said. The events were dropped several years ago.

HE ASKED that boatowners begin planning now to decorate their boats for the festival's night parade on Round Lake.

The committee, Humphries said, is trying to put more emphasis on water activities for the Venetian Festival. He urged persons with ideas on how this can be done to contact him or Jack Mol, general chairman.

Though planning for the Venetian Festival started late, Humphries said there is the possibility of several outstanding attractions being offered.

Venetian Festival activities chairman are: Mrs. Thomas McDaniels, queen contest; Ron Peterson, street parade; Phil Lawrence, boat parade; Mrs. Humphries, publicity; Robert Hamilton, boat races; Mrs. Robert Biggs, doll and pet parade; Mrs. Ed Linse and Mrs. Kenneth Phillips, Michigan guest queens, and Mrs. Joseph King, thank you buffet supper.

Medusa on Block in Lansing

The alleged conflict between tourism and Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s plans for a dock on the east side of South Point may be officially resolved this week in Lansing.

The State Administrative Board's Transportation and Conservation Committee is holding a public hearing early this morning (Wednesday) on the cement company's request for a permit to build a dock.

COMMITTEE Chairman

Sanford Brown, Democratic state treasurer, had been asked to hold the hearing in Charlevoix, where it would supposedly be possible to view all the facts and hear the opinions of voters who cannot travel to Lansing on a working day.

The committee, however, is meeting in Lansing this morning. It is expected to make its recommendation, for or against the dock, to the entire Ad. Bd. for action later this week.

Ad. Bd. members, including Gov. George Romney, are reported to be receiving a great deal of mail opposing the company's plans. Medusa Vice President Worth Loomis at a public meeting in the Charlevoix High School gym last week said 85% of this mail is coming from people who make their winter homes in other states.

Gov. Romney is rumored to be against the dock plan.

WHEN THE Courier went to press last week it could not obtain information on when and where the Ad. Bd. committee meeting would be held. As a result Charlevoix people could not be alerted that the meeting was being held until too late. Whether this was deliberate is unknown.

At least three Charlevoix people are expected to attend the meeting on Medusa's behalf. They are Mayor Pro Tem Bill Fochtman, Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach and attorney Norman Ance, who represents Medusa locally.

Local persons representing the resort and marina business may attend as opponents of the dock plan.

Henry Hogan, owner of the firm Charlevoix Properties, which includes five newly-acquired Bayside St. Johns and the Holiday Terrace Hotel, will reportedly lead the opposition faction.

RESORT AND marina interests oppose the dock being located on the east side of South Point. They contend it will mar Charlevoix's beauty and consequently result in a dropping off of tourist and boating business.

Hogan's contractor last week took out city building permits to put new fronts on the Birkkrand and Oddfellow buildings. Estimated cost of the work was $12,500. The new front is nearly completed on the Birkkrand Building, the adjoining Geiken Building.

However, the work on the fronts was halted later in the week due to reported difficulties in finding persons to lease the buildings, and a disagreement with the Polly Kay Shop.

At last week's public hearing in the high school, Loomis outlined Medusa's plans for a cement plant, dock and quarry and presented a scale model of the plant and dock as it will appear on South Point.

Showdown Looms on Teachers Salaries

A showdown between Charlevoix teachers and the Board of Education is shaping up behind a veil of secrecy.

The board has given teachers 30 days to sign new contracts for salary increases that are only about half what the faculty requested.

TEACHERS reportedly are urging each other to stand firm in their demands and not return the contracts.

The board's deadline for signing the contracts is May 1.

The Courier learned of the behind-the-scenes showdown drama from teachers who refused to be identified because they allegedly fear reprisals from the board.

The salary increases were approved by the Board Mar. 29, at a meeting from which the public was barred. A Courier representative who tried to attend the meeting was told it was a closed meeting and the board would make no decision that night.

SINCE THEN the Courier has asked Supt. Rex Milligan several times if anything had happened and been told no.

The salary increases, if accepted by teachers, and though less than teachers requested, will cost the school district approximately $23,000 next year.

Milligan told the Courier Monday this will be paid for by an increase in property valuation, reduced payment on the operating deficit and, possibly, increased state aid.

The salary schedule approved by the board calls for raising the beginning pay for a bachelor's degree to $4,900 (up from $4,500) and the maximum to $6,767 (up from $6,200).

THE PTA's treasury balance was reported at $1,142.24. Dictionaries and flags given to the school were on display for parents to see.

Joan Bigelow, a text book publishing company representative, presented the evening's Program of Elementary Reading. She divided parents and teachers into groups and tested them on their reading skills.

Other officers elected at last week's meeting are Mrs. Dale Boss, first vice president; Mrs. Ralph McEneaney, second vice president; Mrs. Claire Martin, secretary, and Mrs. Maurice Dixon, treasurer.

THE CITY of East Jordan is located in South Arm Township.

GRAHAM WAS elected chairman after a preliminary vote between himself, Taylor and John Kujawski of Boyne City. Graham received 12 votes, Taylor 11 and Kujawski 1.

The board will meet for the rest of this week. All meetings are open to the public.

Major items of business include adopting a tentative 1966 budget, a decision on providing space for a drivers license office in the County Jail and a public presentation Thursday at 2 p.m. on the proposal to build an artificial lake between Walloon Lake and Petoskey.

All county departments will submit their annual reports for 1964 to the supervisors.

Conservation Officer Julius O'Brien reports a scattering of walleyes were seen at the mouth of the Jordan River early this week. Catches have been light.

IF THERE is warm weather the rest of this week, O'Brien predicted the runs will be in full this weekend.

Fishermen congregate around the bridge in downtown East Jordan, on the pier and in waters at the river's mouth. Best fishing is usually in the evening. Walleyes up to ten pounds are taken.

O'Brien said fishermen will be "watched very closely" to make sure they obey new rules old this winter by the Conservation Commission to halt illegal snagging of the sometimes closely packed fish.

Fishermen will be allowed to use only single-point, unweighted hooks from the bridge to a point 300 yards north. Each angler can have two lines with one hook on each. Fishing south of the bridge is illegal until trout season opens Apr. 24.

O'BRIEN SAID artificial plugs will be considered weighted, and hence illegal. Fishermen can use live bait on the single-pointed hook.

The special regulations apply only through April.

O'BRIEN made no predictions as to how good the walleye run will be.

He asked that persons catching small walleyes turn scale samples over to the department so information can be gathered on reproduction.

TED MILLER proposes channel be dug through South Point so a dock won't be needed.

O'BRIEN SAID artificial plugs will be considered weighted, and hence illegal. Fishermen can use live bait on the single-pointed hook.

The special regulations apply only through April.

O'BRIEN made no predictions as to how good the walleye run will be.

He asked that persons catching small walleyes turn scale samples over to the department so information can be gathered on reproduction.

Conservation Officer Julius O'Brien reports a scattering of walleyes were seen at the mouth of the Jordan River early this week. Catches have been light.

IF THERE is warm weather the rest of this week, O'Brien predicted the runs will be in full this weekend.

Chest to Elect New Directors

The Charlevoix Community Chest holds a public meeting 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Apr. 20, to elect new directors and consider amendments to the by-laws.

Don Anders, Chest president, asked that all interested area residents attend the meeting in the County Building court room.

CHEST directors, Anders said, must be "chosen by and supported by the people of the community. It is very important that the contributors, the campaign workers and the agencies all be well represented at this meeting, so that directors will be chosen who will see that the funds are raised efficiently and budgeted wisely."

Three directors are to be replaced. They are Mrs. Frank Bourgoin, Curtis Burin and Mrs. Tom Wieland. Mrs. Wieland is eligible for re-election because she has only filled a partial three-year term.

Any person who has contributed to the Chest is entitled to vote.

A nominating committee will present names to be voted on to fill the vacancies. Nominations will also be accepted from the floor.

TWO BY - LAW amendments have been proposed. They will be voted on at the meeting.

One calls for distributing Chest funds in partial payments. The other change would make the fiscal year from April 1 to March 31.

Chevrolet. It's a bigger, more beautiful car this year. Which is why that handsome silhouette could be mistaken for cars costing a thousand—even two thousand—dollars more.

Chevelle. This one's got lively looks, spirited power, a softer ride—and remarkable room atop a highly maneuverable wheelbase. No wonder it's today's favorite mid-size car.

Chevy II. No car so trim has a right to be so thrifty. But thrifty it is, with money-savers like brakes that adjust themselves and a long-lived exhaust system.

Corvair. Ask any '65 Corvair owner how it feels to drive a car with such easy steering, tenacious traction and responsive rear-engine power. And be ready to do lots of listening.

Easter Morning

Christ the Lord is risen today. Hallelujah! The Rugged Cross and the dark tomb have both been snatched from their association with death. Christmas is sanctified in Easter. Christ is risen! Heavenly love turned Dark Friday into Good Friday... an event packed with all the drama of human emotion and Divine sacrifice. He lives and we, too, shall live, in the measure in which we learn to kiss the Cross... our cross as well as His. His promise, "Three days and I shall build this temple again," has been fulfilled. It is the time for beginning again... time to start anew. Golgotha and Crucifixion take on radiant beauty when they are seen through the fragrant glory of the Easter lily. That is where the spirit was triumphant over death. So, Raise your joys and triumphs high. Hallelujah! It is Easter!

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that the family and the individual are sheltered with benevolent, stronger democracy. In the church the individual is made a religious character. Stronger today, because the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then on Sunday "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

For All Area Adults Eye Screening Urged

"Glaucoma is a silent thief," Dr. A. F. Litzenger, district Health Dept. director, declared in urging all area residents over 40 years of age to attend the free eye screening clinic next week. The clinic will be held in the high school cafeteria 6:30-9:30 p.m. Apr. 22, and 7-10 p.m. Apr. 23.

GLAUCOMA, DR. Litzenger said, "snacks up and strikes without advance warning. It literally can steal your blind before you know you have the disease."

About 2% of the population over 40 years of age suffers from the disease. However, research studies indicate heredity is a contributing factor, Dr. Litzenger added. Glaucoma, he said, can be treated with good results if found early. The longer it is allowed to exist, the more sight it destroys.

The glaucoma testing will be done by local doctors using a measuring device called the tonometer.

NO ADVANCE clinic appointment is necessary. People will be tested in the order they report.

The clinic is sponsored by the district Health Dept., Charlevoix County Medical Society and Lions Club.

Remote Control

JUST HOW REMOTE big government can become from the little people it represents is demonstrated by the State Administrative Board's decision to hold a hearing in Lansing on Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s request to build a dock in Charlevoix.

Obviously, many vitally concerned Charlevoixians cannot travel to Lansing to present their information and views on the matter. It is just as evident that those who oppose the dock plan have the financial resources that make it possible for them to be in Lansing.

QUITE POSSIBLY Ad. Bd. members will call only a limited number--if any--local people who favor the dock. Just as surely those who oppose it will be summoned.

We are not here quarrelling with the board's decision to call for a review of the facts in the case. Last week a top State official told us there is some question about the ability of the Water Resources Commission and Health Dept. to make certain there is no water pollution from ships using the dock. Certainly, if this is so, it is new information that should be carefully considered.

The Ad. Bd. has made it clear it feels it has the legal and moral right to question Medusa's privilege in a free society to compete for a profit without government meddling.

However, we are not going to take that question up here.

But we do consider the board's decision to settle the fate of this crucial issue by remote control from Lansing a grave miscarriage of justice. It brings to our mind serious doubts that the board is genuinely interested in hearing all sides of the matter.

BOARD MEMBERS have airplanes at their disposal. Gov. Romney has flown into Charlevoix's new airport when it served his political ends.

Now, rather than summon us to Lansing, we summon the board to Charlevoix. We are not its servants. It is ours.

If these busy men do not have time to adequately represent us by hearing all the facts--which can only be viewed here--then we should find someone to do the job who has time.

New Industrial Site

CITY COUNCILMEN last week were wrestling with an awkward problem: Where to locate another new industry that wants to come to town.

The Lexalite company has turned thumbs down on several suggestions made by city leaders. The firm is unusually selective in its choice of a site, but the fact remains that there is no properly developed industrial property left in the city limits.

COUNCILMEN appear to agree that the most logical area to develop for new industry is that directly north of the airport. We certainly concur.

Lexalite executives turned thumbs down on the area. They told councilmen it didn't fill their aesthetic needs. It isn't hard to understand their point of view. The area is little more than a barren, wind-blown, plain. The scenery out the back window is one of slums and shame.

Lexalite may, or may not, decide to build in Charlevoix. It appears more likely they will acquire a site outside the city, resulting in the city's loss of additional tax base. The city, of course, will be expected to supply them with water if it is requested. The city is also expected to do all the groundwork in attracting them to the area.

There will be other firms looking toward Charlevoix in the near future. Isn't it almost a case of negligence not to be prepared to offer them a suitable location within the city limits?

EVERYTHING SEEMS to favor the property directly north of the airport except the lack of landscaping and its neighboring low-class residential district. So why not cure this?

Much of the property in the area is now for sale. Wouldn't it be wise for the Industrial Development Corp. or the city to acquire the property and set about landscaping it? There would be a cost involved, but might it not be a better investment than other things money will be spent on in the next year?

We think so. Consider these two points.
1--Taxes on new industry would eventually pay for the investment. More important will be the benefits from additional family incomes, new homes, etc.

2--Development of the industrial park would eliminate some of the property now in a slum area, raise area property values so that landowners would no longer tolerate slum conditions and, most likely, mean water and sewer would be piped into the area.

Perhaps the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Committee would like to lend its prestige to this effort. Certainly, the committee is as aware as the rest of us that it has done nothing to remove Charlevoix's ugliest scar.

$100,000 Being Wasted?

HAVE YOU EVER caught yourself wondering as you drive by the Municipal Airport, "Now, what's that there for?" A silly question? Maybe. But one worth answering.

We do not pose the question because we are against Charlevoix having a modern airport. On the contrary, we think it can be developed into a good investment.

AS THINGS stand now though, all we can see is $100,000 worth of runways, lights and soon an administrative building being used by one commercial pilot and a handful of local flying enthusiasts. Which, once again, we certainly are not against.

We realize that a few people come to town for vacation and business purposes via airplane. But considering the money spent for the facility the use it is getting certainly makes it expensive.

The airport benefits a wide surrounding area, extending far beyond the city limits. However, and our point is this, the airport can, and should, be of much greater value to the community.

WHY, WE MUST ask, hasn't it been promoted so that it is attracting more use?

Where are the advertisements in flying magazines telling people of Charlevoix's wonderful airport, beautiful scenery and weather and low tax base? How many flying clubs have been invited to use the airport for a rally this summer?

The city has done the community a major service by having the foresight to supply us with this magnificent--and costly--facility.

Now why aren't those agencies responsible for promoting the area doing their job?

WE HAVE waited many months to ask this question in hopes we wouldn't have to. Our conscience will let us wait no longer. We cannot stand by without writing a word and watch $100,000 being ignored.

It's that season of the year...the season when Mother Nature sheds her dull colors of winter and begins to don the brighter yellows of forsythia, daffodils and crocuses and, before you know it, a rainbow of colors found in the other spring flowers....

But before all that we have the solemn days of Holy Week in preparation for the glorious celebration of Easter...the time of hope....

It's a great, big, beautiful world...this piece we live in. And always feel that if you ever had doubts that there's somebody running this show we call life, the wonderful things that happen in spring when all sleeping things awake should dispel those doubts....

This "lified" from one of my favorite magazines because I thought it so apt: "April prepares her green traffic light, and the world thinks Go".

HAD A NOTE from Mrs. George (Leona) Dean who's been spending the winter at Pompano Beach, Fla. She sent her greetings, spoke briefly of her wild rabbits and said which came regularly to her patio and sent a clipping she found in a Miami newspaper...Found in a column entitled "What a Season This Is" it tells of things of interest in that fabulous city. One item mentioned was Gatti's, listed as one of the oldest and most popular of Italian restaurants, and their chef, Gino Dellavalle, who's been in the employ of one or another of the Gatti brothers for 36 years....The story goes on to tell the chef's been and mentioned that he chafed over Gatti's beginning in 1934...and joined Joe Gatti on the Beach in '56...I'm sure that some of you old timers remember him....and of course, many of you remember Joe and his sister, Madeline, Mrs. Pete Sharrow, both of whom grew up here and were practically natives....Many of you have visited their place in Miami, I know....But isn't it something that, after all these years, a distant newspaper should mention our own Colonial Club...Maybe you'll be convinced that it was as great as you've been told....

IT WON'T BE long...till you hear the cry of the ump "Play ball" and you hear the crack of the bat as it connects with the horsehide....and the 1965 baseball season is in full swing....Now baseball's one sport I'm not too interested in....I listen politely and usually know who's in first place....But that's about the extent of my interest....But since it's the so-called "great American pastime" I do recognize it as a sport....So you making any wagers? How are the Tigers going to do this season?...Now if this were football...but we'll have to wait till September for that....and right now September seems a century away....

REMEMBER THE swan I mentioned a couple times in recent weeks?...I checked back with the Max Gennetts to see what the Conservation Department had to say about the cause of death, assuming, of course, that area men had picked up the "body" after they were notified that the bird had died....I'm sorry to report that the Conservation Department didn't think it was important enough to send the bird to their lab for an autopsy....Since we have such a large flock of swans in this area I was sure they'd want to know what had happened in order to protect the entire flock....But I guess those of us who admire the birds are the only ones who were interested....I don't feel that one can afford to be so disinterested when so much is at stake....It took years for the flock of swans to reach its present size....For my money the Conservation Department should have seen that the swan was picked up and taken for an autopsy....Suppose its death was caused by some sort of disease? Suppose the bird was shot to death after it went to the creek? Suppose it had gotten some poisoned food? I don't think much of this lack of interest on the part of the Conservation Department....

EVERY NOW and then someone goes on a jaunt that makes me happy for them....The Carl Kohlers are scheduled to leave next week on just such a jaunt....visit the fjords and travel to the land of the midnight sun....So many people plan to do things like this but never quite make it....These two are just going to take off and enjoy two months of going and going...including trips by ship to and from Europe....

Just as our friends the Coulters, Clerke, this is...They're still heading East where, no doubt, they'll visit the Taj Mahal and other such romantic places....Of all the things in the world I'd like to see, it's this beautiful monument to a true love....and, being a romantic sort of person, I'd like to travel the road to Mandalay....Of course, it wouldn't be as it was when Kipling wrote about it....but wouldn't it be fun?

AND DON'T FORGET the new telephone directories....I'd like to register my dislike of them....However, I will say this....It was a lot easier to take apart and reassemble (so that Charlevoix is now in the front of the book) than last year's book when I ended up with East Jordan, Boyne City and Petoskey sections all mixed up....But I still don't like it....

One thing you can say about people, they're interested in former Venetian Queens....that was meant to be a snide remark....and do you know why? Because I asked for help in compiling a list of former queens and not one, I repeat, not one person...not even the parents...of a former queen called me with a name....I now have 15 down and five to go....and I suppose I'll continue to dig and find those remaining five names....But if a former queen doesn't get an invitation to the festivities, don't grumble....'cause you didn't take the time to let anyone know she'd once reigned as a queen....

And if you're having company over the Easter Holiday give me a ring....the number, the same as always...LI 7-5633....I'd appreciate it....And a happy Easter to you....

As for the beauty problem, is there a problem? It has been said that, "The beautiful sunset view will be obstructed". This is true, depending where you view the sunset. Are you, the taxpayer, aware of a thousand dollar project at

DEAR EDITOR:

I have read your editorials about a museum for Charlevoix with great interest. Your idea is not only a good one but is important to Charlevoix's future as a tourist city. I hope you have better luck than I did. A few years ago I tried to interest the city fathers and Chamber of Commerce in a museum for Charlevoix. I even offered my own private collection as a starter. Bob Miles was the only person to show interest. I've talked to Bob many times since and he's very interested and would be a great help on such a project.

Two years ago I opened my own museum in the back of my store. Hundreds of our local people have visited the museum. School classes have come in groups. During the summer seasons there have been thousands of tourists. Last summer there were 37 states represented in the register book by Labor Day.

The mayor has never paid our museum a visit and as I recall only one councilman, Mr. Whitley.

OUR MUSEUM now boasts about 2200 items, lumbering tools, early farming tools, blacksmith tools, Indian relics, early lamps, clocks, Civil War items. Ninety percent of the articles on display were found locally.

If there is any doubt in the minds of the City Fathers or the Chamber of Commerce that a museum is not a tourist attraction then I personally invite them to pay our museum a visit any day or evening this summer and mingle with some of our summer visitors who help make Charlevoix a tourist city.

SINCERELY,

Ask Tourists

DEAR EDITOR:

So much publicity has been devoted lately to the tourist trade and the benefits it can bring to Charlevoix--the Beautiful in dollars and cents, that most of the year-round residents are, by now, well aware of this fact.

You Medusa protagonists, however, are overlooking the most important factor in evaluation of the South Point east dock issue: namely, the tourists' OPINION.

IF THE BEAUTY of Charlevoix's skyline is spoiled; if, looking westward at sunset to the infinite expanse of sky and water in its gorgeous colors, they see instead a structure jutting inward, encroaching on its limitless narrowness--their horizon, literally, taking away that feeling of peace and relaxation they formerly had -- our famous postcard view -- all but the most callous of them will feel a bitter taste of disillusion. This disillusion is going to be reflected, slowly but surely, in the withdrawal of these people from our resort scene. They do not have to worry about dollars and cents. No one can tell them how to spend their money. "I don't like that ugly cement pier," they said about Petoskey for years; one of the things that made them prefer Charlevoix. I know, for I was once one of these "summer people".

When a hard-headed financier like Mr. Hogan says we are rejecting "a priceless heritage" if we let this deal go through--you can believe it's because he knows, from experience; from facts and figures--as well as his own appreciation of beautiful surroundings.

As for Medusa's "unselfishness" in paying "$90,000 in taxes" -- did they have a choice? Hardly.

BUT DOES MR. Hogan have a choice when it comes to beautifying our own main street and providing, not just any new store fronts and hotels, but beautiful ones, modern yet in keeping with our own history and ancestral origins? He does. And the money he was about to put into these projects far exceeds the tax dollars Medusa has paid -- because they had to.

For my own part, had I dreamed that "Charlevoix-the-Beautiful" would allow an industrial dock to ruin its priceless shoreline, I would never have built a home here. I might as well have stayed in Chicago.

SINCERELY,
FLORENCE G. ZABEL

Need Medusa to Grow

DEAR EDITOR:

We have read with interest Mr. Hogan's ultimatum to the citizens of Charlevoix. This man has great plans for us, when and if he is able to obtain financing. In the meantime we are asked to obstruct the growth of this community. The city needs industry to grow. Any industry interested in building here is welcome. Providing that industry does not create hazards to the health and welfare of the city.

MEDUSA CEMENT Co. has been told loud and clear that water and air pollution must not occur. This is a responsible corporation, whose plans for this city are designed around equipment that will insure the satisfaction of these conditions. The county and state require legislation which will give strength to these conditions and personnel to enforce them.

The detraction from the view is a secondary consideration. Our channel piers are called picturesque, especially on clear night. Medusa's pier with a freighter loading, both lighted, could well be an addition to the view. Most certainly the percentage of people who it will offend are a small minority.

Personnel required for industry add population to our city. New homes are added to our tax rolls. More utilities are required and used adding to our income. More dollars are available year round. Our schools, churches, civic organization, recreational facilities receive more support. The city grows.

The answer to this controversy is whether one group or individual is more entitled to a return on their investment than the whole city. The hotel will be built if it is a profit making venture, with or without a room with a view.

I for one do not wish to become a resident of Hogansville on the highway. I have enclosed my views which are for publication if they are suitable. My interests in Charlevoix stems from a mother and father both of whom were born and raised in Charlevoix. I own a residence in the city which we use whenever possible.

We are as much concerned with the city's welfare as any permanent resident. Our future plans say we will become permanent residents as soon as possible.

We don't always agree with your editorial comments, but we know that our town is as important to you as it is to us. Please continue to express your views. They will jar our citizens into action on the course they say is best.

THIS TOWN proved two years ago that it could think for itself when a minority group that stood to profit advised that our electric system should be given away. This year after some pretty wild spending it was found that $60,000 was needed for the general fund. The money came from the electric fund, enough said.

Give the citizen a clear picture of the situation and encourage all sides to speak out.

YOURS VERY TRULY,
CHARLES C. PAPINEAU

Year-Round Payroll

DEAR EDITOR:

Medusa, Medusa, Medusa; This appears to be the main topic for discussion nowadays. But what is the real issue confronting the citizens of Charlevoix? It is the loss of our natural beauty? Or is it the increase of 100 jobs in our community? Or is it both?

The March 31, edition of the Courier had an interesting "Letter to the Editor" from Mr. Henry M. Hogan, Jr. Mr. Hogan mentioned a hotel that would employ twice as many people as Medusa would employ. Is this possible? As we all know, the hotel business is based on the tourist trade. Can we really depend on the number of tourists who will visit Charlevoix the year around? It's evident that the tourist trade is at a peak for about two months of the year. By and large, depending on variable factors, the hotel business may or may not succeed because of weather, prices, etc.

NOW LET'S LOOK at Medusa Cement dock project. This is a project that would operate twelve months out of the year (not two months). And would employ approximately 100 employees who would be around the town the year around to spend money. Medusa's project, not like the tourist industry, is as solid as the material that it produces.

As for the beauty problem, is there a problem? It has been said that, "The beautiful sunset view will be obstructed". This is true, depending where you view the sunset. Are you, the taxpayer, aware of a thousand dollar project at

"Belis Bay" which is an excellent point for watching the sunset? Let's be honest with ourselves; how many times a year do we make a special trip to the Michigan "swings and slides" beach to watch the sunset? And if we do make a special trip for this event, couldn't we, just as easily drive the scenic wooded route to "Belis Bay"?

Another problem is, "Medusa hurting tourist trade". I really doubt it. Why do people come to Charlevoix? 1. Natural harbor and docking facilities. 2. Beautiful golf courses. 3. Being in and water fun. The Medusa dock can't harm our natural harbor and docking facilities. Certainly, the project won't harm the golf courses (it may help the municipal golf course by adding members from new employees on dock who are zealous of this sport). Boating and water fun as everyone knows is mostly in Lake Charlevoix. We have two public beaches on Lake Charlevoix and one on Lake Michigan. Right? Lake Charlevoix is warmer for swimming, water skiing, etc. Therefore, can our tourist trade be harmed?

ONE LAST thought. Did you ever count the number of hotels and motels in Charlevoix? Try it sometime and decide for yourself if we need another 50 to 100 beds in this town to deprive our motel and hotel owners of business during the short summer season.

answered that he would vacate near a cement plant. Loomis said after the meeting that he was "very pleased with the reception which we seemed to get at the meeting."

He was assisted by Medusa Vice President W. B. Hanlon, who is in charge of engineering.

Loomis, in reply to a request from Ted Miller, promised the company will make an engineering study of the feasibility of digging a canal through South Point. This would make a virtual island of the point. Ships would use the canal for dockage, making the proposed conveyor and dock unnecessary.

MILLER SAID such a canal-type dock would yield stone for the company's operations and a protected harbor.

Loomis said the company several years ago made a preliminary study of such a canal and found it too expensive.

Medusa's annual payroll here would be approximately $600,000 when it is in full operation, Loomis said. Another $200,000 to $300,000 will be spent locally. The plant will have a total annual budget of around $1,600,000.

Loomis said the plant will only operate seven or eight months a year.

It will have a production capability of four million tons a year and have one of the Band Earns Two Rating

The Charlevoix High School Band was awarded a II final rating in the annual State Band and Orchestra Festival held at Grand Rapids last Saturday.

Of the four judges hearing the band, two awarded the group a I, while the other two awarded II ratings--in the final average, the II final rating was awarded.

While disappointed at not being able to continue the string of I ratings in the Festival, the band members and C. A. Odmark, director, are reported well satisfied with the performance, and feel that the rating is a good one, in view of the fact the band was moving into Class B competition for the first time.

Odmark remarked, "We played as well as I expected us to, we almost made it, but we'll have to work just a bit harder next year to meet the high standards being set in the state."

The trip was made with three school buses and Louis Edwards. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Rex Milligan, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Odmark, and Edwards. Hotel accommodations were paid for by the Band Parents Association at the Pandorf Hotel.

City Plans $245,488 Budget, Down $3,300

The 1965-66 fiscal year will be the second in a row that Charlevoix has spent less for city government than in the preceding year.

At least that's the way the City Council has tentatively figured.

TAXPAYERS will have a chance to study and discuss the proposed budget at a public hearing in the council chambers 8 p.m. May 3.

The budget, as prepared by councilmen, calls for spending $245,488 for general fund activities between Mar. 1 of this year and Feb. 28 of 1966.

By drawing $40,000 from the electric utility in lieu of taxes, and if revenue estimates are accurate, the budget is balanced. If revenues are below predictions, or expenses higher, there will be a deficit, which will, probably, be covered by a larger contribution from the electric fund.

The $245,488 budget is $3,300 below last year's $248,800 budget. However, last year's budget was exceeded by $11,000, which was made up by more money from the electric fund.

THREE YEARS ago the city's budget was $277,047. The city's assessed valuation this year is up approximately $400,000, from $8,157,500 in 1964 to $8,543,500 for 1965.

The tax rate will remain at eight mills, bringing in an estimated $64,930. Other major sources of income include returns from state license plate fees, gas tax, sales tax and liquor tax, equipment rentals, and fees from the golf course, cemetery, docks and airport.

Expenditures tentatively budgeted for departments are:

STREET DEPT. --$74,450. This is a decrease from $96,067 last year when money slated for harbor improvements was spent to resurface streets.

POLICE DEPT. --$24,880. This is an increase of $2,000, largely due to retirement benefits granted city employees by voters earlier this month.

Parks and Recreation --$17,610. This is down $500.

Fire Dept. --$15,000, up $600.

Golf Course --$13,060, an increase of $10,000 due to the purchase of a new jeep and 11 acres of adjoining property.

Golfers are expected to pay $15,500 in fees during the year, which makes the course self-supporting.

AIRPORT --$13,565, an increase of $3,000. Original estimates that it would cost $30,000 to build a new airport administrative building, of which the city's share would be half, were 10-15% low.

Docks and Harbors --$23,060, an increase of $12,000. Of this $12,000 is for capital improvements. Boaters are expected to pay $7,000 for using the docks. This is less than a third of the amount budgeted for them.

Councilmen point out the overall budget is tentatively lower than last year because the city's major capital improvement programs are nearing completion. However, the cost of normal city services is increasing.

Meaning that the cost of government on the local level is actually increasing, along with everything else.

ELECTRIC utility revenues for the year are estimated at $355,335. The utility is expected to spend $298,000 during the fiscal year.

Operation of the water department is expected to cost $36,335. Total income is expected to be $52,200. Another $100,000 will be spent for new water lines. This money will come from the reserve water fund.

Anticipated sewer department revenue is $20,000. Of this $16,000 will be used to operate the department.

State Gives Dock Final OK

Medusa Portland Cement Co. received approval from the State Administrative Board Tuesday morning to construct its dock on the east side of South Point.

After more than a year of trying, the cement company received the State's top executive board's go-ahead. No one on the Ad. Bd. voted against the dock when it came to a final decision Tuesday.

STATE Treasurer Sanford

Brown, chairman of the committee that recommended approval of the dock, said he had stacks of telegrams from out-of-state opposing the plan. "Here's one from Charlevoix, believe it or not," Brown said as he sorted through the telegrams on his desk.

"We couldn't find anyone from the local area who had a spokesman here (in Lansing) against it," Brown added.

At last week's preliminary public hearing in Lansing Brown said Charlevoix County, Charlevoix Township, the City of Charlevoix, Conservation Dept., Corps of Engineers and Dept. of Economic Expansion all appeared in support of the dock.

"The only one who appeared against it was (Henry) Hogan," he said. "It got to be a little one-sided affair. To me some of the objections appeared ridiculous."

"He (Hogan) raised hypothetical barriers that conceivably are never going to exist."

As far as can now be determined the Ad. Bd.'s approval is the last problem Medusa had to hurdle to get permission to build its dock.

The dock will extend east from South Point toward the Pine River channel mouth. Estimated cost is $2 million.

Medusa has said it will start construction of the dock and a $20 million cement plant on the point in the spring of 1966. The plant will employ approximately 100 persons and have an annual payroll of $600,000.

THE COMPANY overcame objections of local residents last fall when Charlevoix Township agreed to draft stringent air and water pollution ordinances.

Brown told the Courier that at yesterday's (Tuesday's) meeting the official resolution approving the dock carried with it orders directing the

Charlevoix County general fund expenses were $7,000 less than budgeted in 1964, supervisors were told at their annual meeting last week.

According to the report from County Treasurer Lillis Flanders the county spent approximately $304,000 of the $311,000 budgeted for the general fund.

SEVENTEEN DEPARTMENTS spent less than their budget allowed and six spent more.

The biggest deficit was $3,822 in the Sheriff's Dept. Sheriff Glenn Rose explained this was due to an increase in the number of meals served prisoners at the jail.

The county saved $3,200 on burials, which was its biggest savings.

This week the Board of Supervisors will adopt a tentative 1965 budget. The final budget will be approved at the October 1965 meeting.

ALL DEPARTMENTS are now submitting their budget requests for 1966. These are referred to Board of Supervisors' committees, which prepare recommendations for the board as a whole.

School Budget Expected to Increase $6,000 Next Year

The Charlevoix Board of Education expects school operation to cost at least

Islands Get Lake Trout

BEAVER ISLAND--Tens of thousands of lake trout will become residents of the reefs around the Beaver Island group by summer.

Floyd Chamberlain, manager of the Charlevoix Federal Fish Hatchery, reports 100,000 six-inch long lake trout will be planted along the island reefs this spring.

THE PLANTING is part of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's program to rehabilitate the Lake Michigan lake trout fishery.

Since the take-over of the sea lamprey, the once abundant lake trout have been virtually extinct near the islands.

Chamberlain said the 100,000 young trout will be moved to the Charlevoix hatchery this spring from the Jordan River Hatchery. They will then be transported to the islands and planted by the Michigan Conservation Dept.

It is hoped the small lake trout will reproduce.

Last week one million fingerling lake trout were moved from the Charlevoix Hatchery to an Upper Peninsula hatchery where they will be raised to planting size.

Meet Tonight
On GirlsCamp

What is needed to get Charlevoix's Girl Scout camp officially in operation will be explained 7:30 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) at the VFW Hall on Petoskey Ave.

Don Brown, committee chairman, has asked that all interested parents attend the meeting.

VOLUNTEERS--will be sought to help with the work at the camp on the Marion-Center Rd. next to the Belvedere Golf Club.

Brown said plans for work that is needed and cost estimates have been prepared. The Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council has told local parents it will sell the property unless it is put in useable condition.

$6,000 more in 1965-66 than during the current fiscal year. The 1965-66 budget was presented to the board last week. It will be submitted to the County Allocation Bd. if it calls for spending at least $437,390.

THIS YEAR'S budget is $431,014.

Supt. Rex Milligan told board members he is sure "we will come within our budget" this year. The fiscal year ends in June.

Next year's budget includes an approximate $23,000 increase for teachers salaries. Teachers, as yet, have not signed their 1965-66 contracts.

The $23,000 salary hike is made up for in next year's tentative budget by eliminating the $20,000 budgeted this year for payment on the operating deficit.

IF A DEFICIT payment is added to the 1965-66 budget it may cause the board to go further in debt.

Milligan said the tentative budget is based on there being no increase in enrollment or revenue from state aid.

If a new state aid formula is adopted by the Legislature, which appears likely, the school district will receive more money than the budget figures on.

The school district's major sources of revenue are $231,000 from local taxes and $197,975 from state aid.

THE TENTATIVE budget calls for spending $354,911 for salaries. Of this $291,131 is for instruction, $18,250 for administration, $14,650 for transportation and $27,880 for operation of the schools.

Another $80,010 is budgeted for non-salary expenses.

During discussion on the proposed budget board member Dale Boss asked for $3,000 to be set aside for enclosing the open breezeways that connect the two wings of the high school. His request was tentatively agreed to.

"We could use $15,000 each year for three years for buildings and grounds improvements," Boss said. Only $3,000 was budgeted.

City Eyes Future Of Fish Hatchery

City Councilmen Monday voiced concern about the possibility the Charlevoix Federal Fish Hatchery will be closed.

Councilman Robert Neff asked if there is anything the city can do to either keep the hatchery operating or obtain the buildings for a new public use--possibly a museum.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of Monday's meeting included awarding of $91,000 in water system construction contracts and a plea that something be done about a potential hazard from construction at the Birkkrand Building on Bridge St.

Mayor E. D. Hawley said the city owns the property, but not the buildings, where the hatchery is located.

Due to the proportions of the current lake trout rehabilitation program in Lake Michigan, it is feared the Charlevoix hatchery will be closed because it is not large enough to economically handle the large number of fish required.

The hatchery's staff was recently cut from two men to one, with Floyd Chamberlain remaining on the job.

COUNCILMEN agreed that if the government abandons the hatchery the city will try to buy it.

On the recommendation of McNamee Porter and Seeley, consulting engineers of Ann Arbor, council awarded an $82,570 contract for water mains to Fry Construction Co. of Lansing. W. A. Porter of East Jordan received the contract for improvements to the water pumping station on his bid of $3,030. Both were the low bidders.

John Holland, engineer, said construction will start in early May. The contractors are required to complete work in the downtown area by July 1.

Councilmen informally decided they will give Charlevoix Properties no more than 30 days to eliminate what they consider hazards at the Birkkrand Building on the southwest corner of Bridge St. and Park Ave.

COUNCILMAN Dr. Walter Hoffmann said the building presents a danger to shoppers and children because it has been left open by contractors and anyone entering it could fall in a hole. It was also stated bricks on the north wall are loose and could fall.

Councilmen also heard requests for rezoning from George LaBlance and Julius Gilbert.

Gilbert wants The Lodge rezoned from R-2 to C-1 so he can operate a restaurant. The public hearing will be May 18.

LaBlance asked that the property on the west side of Bridge St. between Wood and Green streets be rezoned from R-2 to C-1. No hearing date was set. LaBlance revealed plans to construct an apartment-office building on the site.

CITY CLEAN-UP Week was set for May 10-15.

A joint meeting with the Charlevoix Township Bd. and City Council was set for next Monday at 8 p.m. in City Hall to discuss hiring a professional planning consultant.

THE CHARLEVOIX City Council Monday evening agreed to give the county temporary quarters in City Hall to operate the bureau.

CHARLEVOIX Councilmen, however, said they will not take on the bureau as a city responsibility. They contend it is a county service and should remain under the county's control.

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce previously cited the advantages to retail merchants of keeping county services intact in Charlevoix.

Mayor E. D. Hawley is expected to attend the Board of Supervisors meeting early this week when a decision is due on the matter.

Sheriff Glenn Rose has stated it will cost between $3,500 - $4,000 to build an adequate addition for the bureau on the County Jail.

THE CHARLEVOIX Kiwanis Club was hosts Monday evening to Michigan's leading Kiwanians.

The spring division meeting for northern Michigan Kiwanis Clubs was held at Charlevoix High School. All clubs in the division were represented.

HARRY YOUNG, the only living charter member of Kiwanis, was here. Others were Steve Czarnicki, Michigan district Kiwanis governor; and Michigan Kiwanis Secretary Frank Straiger.

than usual and stayed open longer, he pointed out. The slopes were first used on Dec. 27 and shut down Apr. 4. Lack of snow forced Mt. McSaubia to close temporarily for two weeks in March. In past years the ski hill has been in use from Dec. 15 to Mar. 15.

FREE SKI instruction was given to a "great number" of beginners during the season. More than 100 children took part in the annual ski meet. This program, plus a free lunch, was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

THIS FALL A special fund raising campaign was conducted, making it possible to install a new $500 rope tow and pay state license and inspection fees.

The state inspector, on Feb. 10, visited the ski hill and ordered the attendants be hired before the slopes are opened for the 1965-66 winter season.

A total attendance of approximately 1,500 skiers was reported by Meier during the past season. This includes 673 daily tickets, 50 children's season tickets, 61 student season tickets, 4 couples season tickets, 5 single adult season tickets and 26 family tickets. Meier estimated that each season ticket holder used the slopes five times.

Mt. McSaubia opened later

CLIVENGER HERE

Congressman Raymond Clivenger will be in Charlevoix Friday for a 6:30 p.m. dinner at the Gray Gables.

Tickets are $2.50 a person. Everyone is welcome and will get a chance to meet and talk with Clivenger.

CONSERVATION officer Harley Burris made the announcement after the close of the annual trapping season. Bad weather, plus the hard work and meager profit from trapping are the reasons.

There still are beaver, and a few otter, left in the county.

History Books Should Take Note of This

It should be part of the historic record of Charlevoix County and all of northwestern lower Michigan. Just what significance it holds only time will tell.

But put it in the back of your mind that 1965 was the first time in known history that no beaver or otter were legally trapped in Charlevoix County.

THE MYSTERIOUS lady of Beaver Island's shady sand beaches is still a mystery. And she will almost certainly remain one.

State Police laboratory technicians have determined that a skull found on the island last November belonged to a woman between 35-45 years old.

THAT'S ALL. Nothing more. How the upper half of the woman's skull turned up on the beach is unknown. How she died, when she died and where she died is also unknown.

The crime lab said it could not answer these questions because not enough of the skull was intact.

Speculation last fall that the skull might be from one of the victims of the Bradley has been dismissed because there were no women on the freighter when she went down six years ago.

There is some conjecture that it might have been dug up by animals from an old graveyard on the island.

THE SKULL was found by Robert Sommerville and Glenn Ingalls while they were deer hunting.

As far as State Police and Sheriff Glenn Rose are concerned there is nothing to warrant further investigation.

Deliver the Goods

Want to get rid of a rabbit hutch? There's one sure way to do it. Use a Courier People - Reacher Want Ad. Last week Mrs. John Rowe, 708 Park Ave., who just moved to Charlevoix from Livonia, was introduced to People - Reacher Want Ads when she used one to sell some rabbit hutches that were on the property. The ad came out Wednesday morning. Wednesday afternoon she called and said she had already sold the hutches.

Whose Head Is It?

Consumers requested that the franchise be put to a vote of the people.

Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach expects the franchise to be approved by voters.

"I DON'T know of any reason why it won't be," Rabach said.

Rabach said he does not expect more than 20% (40) of the township's approximately 200 voters to turn out.

If voters authorize Consumers to bring the new line into town the company will be limited to using it to serve only Medusa and its present customers.

The new line will come from the south and have a maximum capacity of 138,000 volts, which is three times as powerful as the present line that serves the area.

THIS CONSUMERS has pointed out, will give the company a loop into the city so that if there is a power failure on the present line the city can be supplied by the new line.

Realtors See Plan for Lake

The Antrim - Charlevoix - Emmet Board of Realtors held their monthly dinner meeting at Snowberry Farm Lodge in Harbor Springs. There were 30 realtors, salesmen and guests present.

President Mrs. Irma L. Scheid of Charlevoix called the meeting to order after dinner.

Vice President Gerald Fineoul, Walloon Lake, spoke about the advantages of being a Realtor, but commented that the general public seem unaware there is a difference between a realtor and a real estate broker. He said, "Prospective buyers coming into this area from elsewhere will invariably look for a realtor to guide them, because they know he belongs to a local board, the Michigan Real Estate Association and the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and is governed by a very strict code of ethics. All realtors are brokers, but all brokers are not realtors.

The proposed flooding of a large area creating an artificial lake between Petoskey and the Village of Walloon Lake was discussed. It would follow the general course of Bear River, Edward T. Colwell, realtor from Petoskey, introduced realtor Cy Jordan of Oden, who explained some of the engineering problems involved in this project. Ray Conley, vice president of the First National Bank of Petoskey, spoke on the economic impact it would have in the area. It was stated that millions of dollars would exchange hands over a period of years as a result of creating this new lake. Attorney Paul Brown, of the law office of Clark, Stroup and Brown, pointed out some of the legal aspects of the project. The program was closed after a question and answer period, conducted by Jordan.

KISS of DEATH

Under the semblance of a kiss, Judas did it! He had a chance for greatness and an opportunity to serve but chose a disgraceful grave in the field of the nameless and shameless dead. This traitor employed a tender kiss to betray the Christ. He sold his membership in the Kingdom for thirty pieces of silver. What a paltry sum for so dastardly a crime! But only money counted with Judas. The Master's work and the cause of the Church held no interest for him. What about the silver in your life? Don't let it coat too heavily the window panes of your soul. It will turn them into mirrors of yourself, revealing your own dried-up life. Go to church. Be of service. Don't be guilty of the "Kiss of Death."

Will Train People for Area's Forest Industry

By ED REIDMAN
Extension Agent

BOYNE CITY--Loggers and pulpwood cutters in Charlevoix will be able to attend a new kind of school that is first in the U.S.

Woods workers will get ideas and help aimed straight at their problems. We have had many advances in now and better equipment. Marketing has changed and will continue to change even faster. So will the tools the woodcutter uses. This course is set up to teach loggers and pulpwood cutters the newest methods using the latest equipment.

IT ALSO GETS at some other problems of wood harvesting. There will be time spent on cruising and scaling, woodland management, using aerial photos, timber purchases and sales, safety, insurance and laws. Much of the course will take place in the shop and in the field but a few of these subjects are in the classroom.

Predict Record Summer Season

A record summer tourist season is predicted for northern Michigan by the Michigan Tourist Council.

William T. McGraw, council director, said more than 40,000 inquiries about vacation travel in Michigan were received in March. This is nearly 65% more than March 1965.

McGraw said the increase resulted from the council's expanded advertising program, the largest in its history.

Dear Dick

Affair

RICHARD DONALDSON

DEAR DICK: A "wise guy" who rents an apartment over ours, has an old-time refrigerator that got damaged in moving and now it won't sit level. Instead of fixing the leg, he moved the refrigerator and leveled it by letting the short leg sit on the heat register. Everytime the refrigerator comes on, a loud pattering noise comes down the heat pipes into our apartment. What can I do about this inconsiderate bum?--SLEEPY.

DEAR SLEEPY: Invite him to go downtown with you and your husband. Hint that you're interested in some new appliances and stop in at PUFF'S APPLIANCE CENTER. Steer him to their big display of famous (Name brand) refrigerators. Once he get a good look at the new models, he'll throw out that short legged '40 model in a hurry.--DICK.

Local Streams To Get Lamprey Treatments

Five Charlevoix County streams are scheduled for chemical treatment to kill sea lamprey this spring.

The U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries has received permission to treat the Jordan River, McGeach Creek, Loeb Creek, Monroe Creek and Horton Creek.

MCGEACH CREEK feeds into Lake Michigan south of Ellis Bay. Loeb Creek empties into Lake Charlevoix near the Loeb Farm and Horton Creek dumps into Lake Charlevoix at Horton Bay. Monroe Creek and the Jordan River feed into the South Arm near East Jordan.

A total of 32 Lake Michigan streams and 20 tributaries of Lake Superior will be treated. The selective chemicals kill only lamprey.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hammond and three children and are expected to arrive Tuesday from Buffalo, N. Y., to spend a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Angus L. Fochtman.

David Parsons son of Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons has arrived at his new assignment and has the following new address: A3/c David W. Parsons, AL 1680 7441, CMR-2973, George AFB, California.

Gary Smith, son of Mrs. Mary Smith, who will receive his Master's Degree in Health and Safety at the University of Indiana Graduate School this summer, has accepted a position at the Punahou School in Honolulu, Hawaii. He will be head athletic trainer and physical education instructor.

Tornado Hits

Two former Charlevoixians suffered property damage, but no personal injury, in the Grand Rapids area tornado.

The Rockwood motel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faber was damaged and their garage completely demolished. A trailer on their property was rolled over and the occupant injured. The Fabers could not sleep in the motel Sunday night. Mrs. Faber is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heilig of Charlevoix.

MR. AND MRS. Ray Kolker's Rockwood home was struck, but only damaged slightly. A house across the street was completely ruined.

Let's Get Rolling!

Yes, why not substitute purposeful planning for wishful thinking, and really "get rolling" toward the things you want most to have or to do? Since most of them will probably cost money, your first move is to open a savings account here, then keep adding to it regularly!

Will Train People for Area's Forest Industry

By ED REDMAN
Extension Agent
BOYNE CITY--Loggers and pulpwood cutters in Charlevoix will be able to attend a new kind of school that is first in the U. S.

Woods workers will get ideas and help, directed straight at their problems. We have had many advances in new and better equipment. Marketing has changed and will continue to change even faster. So will the tools the woodcutters use. This course is set up to teach loggers and pulpwood cutters the newest methods using the latest equipment.

IT ALSO GETS at some other problems of wood harvesting. There will be time spent on cruising and scaling, woodland management, using aerial photos, timber purchases and sales, safety, insurance and laws. Much of the course will take place in the shop and in the field but a few of these subjects are in

A record summer tourist season is predicted for northern Michigan by the Michigan Tourist Council.

William T. McGraw, council director, said more than 40,000 inquiries about vacation travel in Michigan were received in March. This is nearly 65% more than March 1965.

McGraw said the increase resulted from the council's expanded advertising program, the largest in its history.

the classroom.

There will be eight courses of four weeks each with the first course starting April 26. A local woods worker can sign up for any one of these courses. He will receive $38 per week while in training to defray expenses. Course fees are paid from funds under the Area Redevelopment Act.

The training program will be held at the Gaylord Community School. Anyone who is interested in woods work or any woods worker who would like to improve his skills to increase his employability is eligible to apply. He should report to his local office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission to sign up for the course.

Tornado Hits

Two former Charlevoixians suffered property damage, but no personal injury, in the Grand Rapids area tornado.

The Rockwood motel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faber was damaged and their garage completely demolished. A trailer on their property was rolled over and the occupant injured. The Fabers could not sleep in the motel Sunday night. Mrs. Faber is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heilig of Charlevoix.

MR. AND MRS. Ray Kolker's Rockwood home was struck, but only damaged slightly. A house across the street was completely ruined.

Local Streams To Get Lamprey Treatments

Five Charlevoix County streams are scheduled for chemical treatment to kill sea lamprey this spring.

The U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries has received permission to treat the Jordan River, McGeach Creek, Loeb Creek, Monroe Creek and Horton Creek.

McGEACH CREEK feeds into Lake Michigan south of Bell's Bay. Loeb Creek empties into Lake Charlevoix near the Loeb Farm and Horton Creek dumps into Lake Charlevoix at Horton Bay. Monroe Creek and the Jordan River feed into the South Arm near East Jordan.

A total of 32 Lake Michigan streams and 20 tributaries of Lake Superior will be treated. The selective chemicals kill only lamprey.

Talk of the Town

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hammond and three children are expected to arrive Tuesday from Buffalo, N. Y., to spend a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Angus L. Fochman.

David Parsons son of Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons has arrived at his new assignment and has the following new address: A3/c David W. Parsons, AL 1680 7441, CMR-2973, George AFB, California.

Gary Smith, son of Mrs. Mary Smith, who will receive his Master's Degree in Health and Safety at the University of Indiana Graduate School this summer, has accepted a position at the Punahou School in Honolulu, Hawaii. He will be head athletic trainer and physical education instructor.

Dear Dick Affair

RICHARD DONALDSON

DEAR DICK: A "wise guy" who rents an apartment over ours, has an old-time refrigerator that got damaged in moving and now it won't sit level. Instead of fixing the leg, he moved the refrigerator and leveled it by letting the short leg sit on the heat register. Every time the refrigerator comes on, a loud pattering noise comes down the heat pipes into our apartment. What can I do about this inconsiderate bum?--SLEEPY.

DEAR SLEEPY: Invite him to go downtown with you and your husband. Hint that you're interested in some new appliances and stop in at PUFF'S APPLIANCE CENTER. Steer him to their big display of famous (Name brand) refrigerators. Once he gets a good look at the new models, he'll throw out that short legged 40 model in a hurry.--DICK.

State Says No On Road Plan

Ellsworth's Chamber of Commerce received a reply from the Antrim County Road Commission. The Road Commission made an appointment to meet with the Chamber, the Chamber Road and Highway Committee will attend this meeting plus others that are interested in having Road 626 a Class A all weather highway.

The Ellsworth Chamber also received a letter from the Michigan State Highway Commission. It stated that County Road 626 does not warrant State Highway status from M6 to Atwood.

THE CHAMBER Road Committee informed the State that the short distance from M6 to Atwood handles more material than M32 from US 131 to M6 ever has or ever will.

Plans are developing as the Chamber of Commerce is looking forward to Ellsworth Day, July 3. Chicken Bar-B-

School's Tax Valuation Up 26%

Antrim County's state equalized taxable property valuation has been increased more than 50%.

The Antrim County Board of Supervisors heard the announcement last week at its annual meeting in Bellaire.

STATE TAX Commission representatives told the board it has increased the equalized valuation from $33 million to $50 million.

In Banks Township, which includes the village of Ellsworth and most of the Ellsworth Community School District, the valuation went up 25%, or $800,000 from $2,700,000 to $3,500,000.

In effect this means approximately a nine-mill increase in school taxes for the district, which already pays 30 mills. This tax increase is not expected to be levied until 1966.

Central Lake Township's equalized valuation went up from $3,250,000 to $4,500,000.

THE ELLSWORTH school district takes in all of Banks Township, and small parts of Central Lake Township, South Arm Township and Marlon Township.

Ellsworth School Supt. Jerry Albright said the valuation increase means the district will collect $22,000 more in taxes than originally anticipated when voters approved the millage increase this winter.

Based on the old valuation the school would have collected $83,000 in local taxes. The total 1965-66 school budget is $133,250.

The increased valuation will raise the budget to approximately $150,000 for 1966-67.

The State Tax Commission upped the county's valuation after a survey convinced it local supervisors were assessing property below the state equalized figure of 50% of true cash value.

Zing into spring! Chevrolet Impala

Chevrolet Impala Super Sport Coupe—one of two bucket-seated beauties for '65.

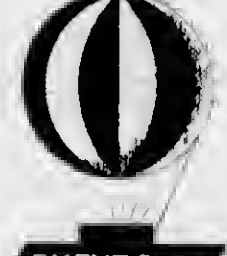

People who buy other big expensive-looking cars get one thing you won't (big expensive-looking payments)

It looks like a big car. And is—by almost any standard you want to apply.

Width? Nobody builds a car as much as one inch wider. Length? It grew three inches this year. Roominess? Every chassis model's got three inches more shoulder room, front and rear, and more leg and foot room up front too. Luxury? Nice little touches like the look of mellow walnut across the Impala's instrument panel. And big touches. Like the fineness of the same Body by Fisher workmanship that makes some of America's most expensive cars look so expensive. How about the ride? Chevrolet engineers took the Jet-smooth one and smoothed it out even more this year. Also made it more stable by widening the wheel stance. Price? That's where Chevrolets fall way short of the other big expensive-looking cars. But we wouldn't have it any other way. Would you?

One last question: How soon can you make a good spring buy on a Chevrolet? One last answer: Just as soon as you can get down to your Chevrolet dealer's.

Outdoor Rambling

With Shop

This could be the season that re-establishes Lake Charlevoix as a trout lake. Up and down the lake this column find experienced fishermen and bait shop operators predicting there are nice trout in the big lake. The problem is finding them.

AT IRONTON Mearle Scott says he's going after the trout this spring. Ted Kotowich, East Jordan guide and outfitter, says he also believes there are trout in Lake Charlevoix.

Maybe we'll find out next Saturday when the season opens. Prospects for opening day in general are rather forlorn (they always are).

Probably your best bet next Saturday is at Fox Lake on Beaver Island. James Gallagher reports he already has several reservations for the opening day boat trip to the island.

Lloyd McDonough, who was in Charlevoix last week for the Board of Supervisors meeting, says he figures Fox Lake should be just about at its peak this year. Last fall, Lloyd explained, hunters found the shallow water of the lake "just lousy" with spawning brook trout.

THE BOYS WHO seem to know says a nymph, wet fly or worm are your best bet.

Fishermen Leave Filth

Iron-ton ice fishermen left several piles of debris, such as the one above, on the ice as they retreated during the last couple of weeks. This is the remains of a burned shanty. It was easier for the shanty's owner to burn it on the spot than spud it out of the ice.

At least one other shanty was burned on the ice. The bottoms of several others were left in the ice. This, plus scattered litter—including whiskey bottles, stoves and clothing—will float or sink to the bottom.

That which sinks, Mearle Scott, the ice fishing village's unofficial mayor, says will Lake baits. The deal is to wade out and cast backward shoro. A fly rod or spinning rig will work.

We've heard at least a dozen local anglers planning an opening day attack on Fox Lake and the Shamrock for the last two months. Fortunately, for the trout, Archie's nourishment will probably prove more attractive than wading in ice cold water. Lloyd, incidentally, said Fox Lake was still frozen over last week.

Conservation Officer Julius O'Brien reports he doesn't predict much opening day luck on the Jordan River. Small area creeks might produce some catches of legal size trout.

Though this column hates to admit it, worms are probably your best opening day bait on all streams, River and creek fishing generally stinks on opening weekend.

IT WILL BE late May, or even early June, before fly trout fishing comes into its own.

Let's get back to our suspected trout bonanza in Lake Charlevoix.

All the experts (if there's such a thing in fishing) say there could be trout in the big lake. Confirming this is pretty difficult because no one seems to fish for them. Scott says he is going to use every spare hour he can set aside this spring to troll for trout. Anyone who is interested in joining him in his exploration is welcome.

A FEW LIGHT-colored brown trout were caught through the ice at Iron-ton this winter.

Scott's suspicion that this means there are more is confirmed by district fisheries chief Stan Lievens. Lievens is considered by some to be one of the Midwest's foremost authorities on trout lakes.

The trick is to troll for the trout until you unlock their secret location and find the right lure.

Kotowich recommends trolling with an Andy Reeker spoon. These worked good in the old days before lamprey wiped out the trout, he recalls. His advice is to troll from Holy Island to East Jordan.

Whatever kind of opening day luck you have remember how much better it is than looking out the window at tons of snow.

So whatever your sport—boating or baseball—swimming or tennis—relax afterwards with the zestful taste of beer.

Out of Hand

MYSTERY AND SUSPICION seem to be playing a dominant role in the efforts of Charlevoix teachers to get pay raises and the effort of the Board of Education to live within its budget.

We cannot understand why the situation has gotten so out of hand. But the answer obviously is that somewhere along the line leadership was missing.

JUST WHO SHOULD have provided this leadership and didn't we're not sure. It wouldn't be fair at this time to point the finger at one person, or the board or faculty.

Because the board's action has been cloaked in secrecy the public is forced to draw its own conclusions.

Certainly, we cannot criticize teachers for fighting to get pay raises. Anyone who doesn't must lack backbone. And we don't want spineless hirelings for teachers. Nor can we condemn the teachers for their open and above-board approach to seeking raises. They put their facts before the public, for whom they work.

Nor can we blame the school board for refusing to grant the entire salary increase. The board has its first responsibility to living within its budget, which is determined by how much taxpayers are willing to fork over for education.

BUT AT JUST about his juncture things started slipping. The board went behind closed doors (which has become almost a habit for it in recent months). The public's business was no longer being thrashed out in public.

The night the board approved spending $23,000 more of taxpayers money for teachers' salaries the Courier's editor was at the school. He took a picture of board members and teachers. After taking the picture he was informed he was not welcome to stay for the meeting--that it was a closed informal discussion--and that no action would be taken that night. This was duly reported in the Courier. Later the Courier, when it asked Supt. Rex Milligan, was told nothing had happened.

However, word started leaking in

Graham Is

THE CHARLEVOIX County Board of Supervisors chose wisely last week when it elected Hugh Graham as its 1965 chairman.

As supervisor of the county's largest township (South Arm, population 726) since 1957, Graham has won acclaim as a level-headed, but forceful leader when the time came to act. In his role as chairman of the county's equalization committee he has filled one of the most important and difficult post's in county government.

WE HAVE SEEN him stand firm in his convictions and do a convincing job of lining others up with him.

In short, we like Hugh Graham. If we Don't Let Opportunity Escape

OPPORTUNITY SELDOM knocks like it is now due to Henry Hogan's invitation to local people to set up shop in his Anchorage.

Hogan's firm, Charlevoix Properties, seems destined to develop one of the most attractive retail business buildings in the north. The organization put its money in Charlevoix only after considerable study. It decided Charlevoix is the place to make more money. It would be foolhardy to think they don't know what they are doing.

SO NOW HOGAN has welcomed Charlevoix people to make some of this money.

No huge investment is required to take advantage of Hogan's confidence in Charlevoix's future. Any of us with good business sense and financial backing can join in.

Of course, it is to Hogan's advantage to have local people in the shops. But it is even more to Charlevoix's advantage.

Give School to Citizens

HAYES TOWNSHIP citizens get our support in request that the Board of Education make it possible for them to retain the Murray School building for a community center, if the country school district votes to join Charlevoix.

The disappearance of rural school districts disturbs all of us who recall days when small country communities were closely knit. This kind of unity gives strength to our basic fundamentals of independence from big government.

through frightened teachers that the board had approved a $23,000 salary increase. The story, as we got it, was that teachers had been told to take the board's offer within 30 days or else. Further, that they had been told to keep their mouth shut about it.

BECAUSE WE did not feel we had all the facts, the Courier held off on unveiling these developments to taxpayers. Then, 14 days after they were approved, we were able to confirm the board's action in upping salaries.

We also discovered the board has actually given teachers 30 days to accept its offer.

The business about teachers feeling they're inviting board retaliation by publicly discussing salary matters would appear to be justified, due to the board's hush-hush approach.

THERE IS no need for this kind of suspicion and secrecy in Charlevoix. Our people are intelligent and understanding enough to appraise the facts and reach reasonable conclusion...if they can only obtain the facts.

WE CAN ONLY repeat that the situation obviously got out of control because it was too big for someone. Time will probably tell us who. Or, better yet, it won't happen again because the public's business will be conducted in public.

The board, we note, is considering creation of a lay committee to improve its community relations. Many school districts find such groups beneficial. Others use them as a front to cover up weak public information policies.

We should also add that the Courier recognizes the drawbacks and regimentation in public school teacher hiring and salary policies. We also view teacher unions (MEA and AFT) and tenure with distrust.

However, the solution to these isn't in holding down teacher wages or executive sessions of the Board of Education. The problem must be pushed out in the open where the people can weigh the case.

had been selecting the county's chief executive we're sure we couldn't have done better.

It should also be noted that Graham replaces a man who has served the county well. As chairman of the board for three years, Hayes Township's Lee Sneath set high standards of fairness and understanding.

We have not always agreed with Sneath or the board in general. And we won't always agree with Graham. Nor he with us.

However, before anything develops that we are forced to disagree on, we would like Mr. Graham to know he has our respect...and we trust he will keep it, no matter how far apart we are.

Year-round Charlevoix residents will put their talent and energy into developing 12-month businesses out of the shops. They won't leave in September for shops in the south.

TO DO THIS THE shop operators will have to go to work promoting more off-season business. They will, in a very short while, realize our potential for fall and spring trade is literally ignored.

Pressure will then be applied on the Chamber to do something to inform people that Charlevoix is still on the map when the summer season and skiing weather is over. These people will realize new ideas are required to promote off-season attractions equal in scope to the Venetian Festival.

Hogan has produced the opportunity. Certainly there are people in Charlevoix with the vision and backbone to take advantage of it.

HOWEVER, THERE is no denying the practicality of consolidating schools for greater resources through unity.

Perhaps by maintaining the Murray school as a township hall and community center Hayes can reach a commendable compromise. We hope so and think the citizens should be given this chance to try.

We realize the Charlevoix Board of Education cannot give the building to the township. But it can reject other bids--though they be higher--and accept the township's.

odds 'n ends

By FRAN MARTIN

Every now and then one hears of those people who volunteer to be human guinea pigs. Probably the group that receives the most publicity are prisoners and occasionally a team of college students.

However, there are those who do this all the time, it seems, without ever a bit of publicity. I heard about it through a local resident who is now a part of this program...It seems that Kalamazoo College has a program whereby the students, during their last term as sophomores, participate in what is known as a career service quarter someone in merchandising, for instance, would work in this field, some one in occupational therapy would be associated with an O.P. department in a VA hospital, for example.

The student who is Elaine Martin, whose major is German...since she and other students cannot participate in this field they are offered the opportunity to go to the National Health Institute at Bethesda, Md., where they join the Normal Volunteer Patient program...She is one of 15 students from Kalamazoo College who have joined with other students from throughout the country in becoming, as I mentioned before, human guinea pigs...They are housed at the hospital where they 'work' 24 hours a day five days a week...In some experiments they are under observation for hours and some-times days so their reactions to various medications or treatments may be observed by trained personnel...Perhaps you are, at this moment, taking some medication or receiving some treatment that was first tried under this program...I think it's not only a pretty terrific program but I think these students who participate in it are pretty terrific, too...for, knowing the reactions one can get from medications, I don't imagine it's all fun...I'd say they were a mighty unselfish group of kids who deserve a big 'thank you' from all of us....

Weren't we lucky?...Why? That we missed the tornadoes that hit southern Michigan recently...Many people here had friends and relatives who were in the paths of the various storms...Probably those who came the closest to suffering more than property damage was the son-in-law and daughter of the Jim Taylors, the Howard-May family who live on the side of Hillsdale...They huddled in the basement of their rural home while the tornado roared past, taking their barn and other outbuilding and peeling the screening from a screened porch they'd added to the house last year and wrapping it, ever so neatly, around the pillars at the corners of the porch...During all this time their son was away from home fishing at a nearby lake...and they were frantic until he showed up, unhurt...Other than taking the screen from the porch and a few shingles from the roof, the house was undamaged, but all the other buildings were in shambles....

Even looking at pictures it's hard to imagine such devastation...but it's all too true...And to think that we all thought we were out of the tornado area until a few years ago...You'll remember last spring there were several small ones right in this area...and that's too close for my peace of mind....

AND SPEAKING of tornadoes, I sure hope some plans are made for keeping youngsters at school if one creeps up on us, un-noticed...or for getting them home in a hurry in the event they're caught in a warning...Personally, I think a plan should be set up and all parents made aware of it so everyone will know what's expected of them....

Had a chat the other day with Mrs. Lester Smith, the former Gen Superintendant...Somewhere the conversation turned to the late George Glados and the 'Ice Cream parlor' he once operated at the Sugar Bowl...In those days it was just that...with the wire-back chairs and round tables, home-made candies and any kind of an ice-cream concoction you could ever dream up...Glados used to be the envy of everyone in town when she worked behind that big marble top counter, dipping into this spigot and that one to create such tasty treats as a Dolly Varden, a Velvet, a Lover's Delight, a Buffalo, a Happy Thought and even a commonplace banana split...She explained who went into all those luscious dishes but I got lost somewhere between the strawberry, chocolate and vanilla ice cream and the marshmallow and pineapple syrups...because everyone of the treats mentioned featured at least six different sweets, I swear...Someone ought to open just such a place and have all sorts of 'named' goodies served up in their own special dishes and eaten with their own special spoons...just like they used to be...with Gen again behind the counter creating all her specialties.... Doesn't it sound like fun?....

WITH LAKE Michigan almost free of ice (depending on the winds), it's hard to believe that the Straits of Mackinac is jam-packed with windrows heaven knows how high...That's where the Sundeck's been since departing here in such a hurry earlier in the week...I'm told that at one time, the P.M. ole Sundeck, all 180 feet of her, was making like a mother duck as she led some 16 ships, mostly freighters of various sizes, through the ice of the Straits...That must have been something to see, wouldn't you say?.... And with things opening up on the lakes, we'll be hearing the familiar blast of the Beaver Islander as it comes and goes....

The Ironton ferry was due to have its annual inspection by the Coast Guard on Monday and after that it will depend on the weather...they say the ice is breaking away from the shore but out in the middle of the South Arm it's still pretty solid so we'll need some warm weather and a lot of wind before the residents of that area will be awakened daily by the chugging of the ferry as it travels miles every day over the 500 foot span...If it wouldn't cost so much, would it be nice if they'd build a bridge at Ironton?..

OUR READERS WRITE

Dear Editor

This Space Reserved For Your Opinion

Yachtsman's Opinion

DEAR EDITOR:

Since the Modusa controversy we have heard many comments to the effect that the boats which come into our harbor during the summer do nothing for Charlevoix, contribute nothing to our economy. People have seemed to grudge any expenditure on mooring slips or toilet or shower facilities. When we say that boatmen tell us that they come up here because of the beauty of Charlevoix' harbor and 'akes, the clear air, the clean water, and that they like to keep their boats up here to escape the soot, the dust, and the oily water in their industrial waterfronts, we are told that there is no reason to consider them, we must consider the economy of Charlevoix.

Do not the people of Charlevoix consider the six marinas which line the south shore of Round Lake Charlevoix businesses? They are almost entirely supported by boats coming in from outside. When we hear these comments we begin to feel like sheep children, and unwelcome ones at that. Most of us live here, employ Charlevoix people, pay taxes, participate in town activities, own homes, vote at elections, have children in school, go to church, and in general behave, we feel, like fairly good citizens. Estimating very conservatively, these boats bring into Charlevoix more than half a million dollars a year through the marinas alone, and the boatmen patronize the grocery and other shops as well as the restaurants besides. We, of the marinas, pay our taxes with that money, bank here, contribute to the churches and the Community Fund, belong to the Chamber of Commerce, buy homes, and spend that money in the shops on Bridge Street.

SOME OF US have been here for quite a number of years. We ourselves have been here for nine years and we came because Charlevoix was the most beautiful boating harbor on the Great Lakes. We love Charlevoix and we have done our best to promote it in every way, but we feel that its beauty, its harbor and its lakes, are its greatest asset and that resorting is its biggest business. We would like to invite some of these doubters to come down during the summer and see what the marinas do and what the boatmen pay for. These six marinas sell boats, large and small, sell electronic equipment for boats, sell gas and oil and ice and marine supplies, rent boats, and offer every kind of boating service you can think of, storing innumerable boats all year round (and we could store many more if we had the facilities), and hoisting up for repair and painting anything from 16 feet to 60 feet. This isn't play, it's hard work and long hours during the summer.

We like to see industry come into Charlevoix but we feel that we do not want to see the kind of industry that will injure our present thriving tourist business. Very few towns can offer the kind of lovely scenic beauty that we have here and the tourist and boatmen who come up here are coming to get away from the blight and cement plants and their like have brought to their waterfronts. It is not only the cement plant itself but the freighters, the pile of coal dust which goes with it. Maybe the plant can control its smoke and dust but the freighters do not. Ask people from Saginaw, from Frankfort, Rogers City, Tawas. The time to find out is now, not after the dock is built.

We feel that Charlevoix is forgetting the welfare of its old friends, the Marinas, and the summer people of the Belvedere Club, Boulder Park, the Chicago Club, property owners who are not here to voice their protests, for the dubious and unproved advantage of a new acquaintance.

We feel that they are considering only one side of the question.

We want to keep writing "the beautiful" after Charlevoix.

FAIRPORT OF CHARLEVOIX
MURIEL W. PATRIE

Scanning the

The following article on Beaver Island is condensed from the April issue of Ford Times. It was written by Burgess H. Scott.

Practically everybody has a good feeling about islands, whether or not they have spent time on one. Perhaps this comes from generations of reading "Robinson Crusoe," "The Swiss Family Robinson," and "Treasure Island."

For many in the United States the nearest route to a Crusoe-type island minus the palm trees, of course - lies on the high-water mark of Lake Michigan. These islands are situated with literally hundreds of islands ranging in size from Canada's huge eight-mile-long Manitoulin Island in upper Lake Huron to tiny wave-washed islets frequented only by gull and tern.

Some of the islands are purely resort islands, such as Mackinac; some are principally wilderness as is Isle Royale. And some, like Beaver Island in upper Lake Michigan, offer a blend of both. A fine combination of the wilderness and the resort atmosphere is to be found on Beaver Island, lying out in northern Lake Michigan about thirty miles from Charlevoix. With a length of a little over thirteen miles and a width ranging from three to seven miles, it is the largest island in Lake Michigan.

Beaver Island, sometimes called Big Beaver, is part of an archipelago of eight major islands and as many more islets and bars of a size too small for anything but an occasional gull. A party of Frenchmen made the first white settlement in 1603, and the next significant occupation of the island came in 1847 when James Jesse Strang led his Mormon followers to the island and set up his famous "kingdom" that lasted until 1856.

In 1853 "King" Strang compiled the first natural history report on Beaver Island, listing some surprising fauna to be found there - elk along the eastern shore, black bear on both shores, and an occasional reindeer (or caribou), in addition to the wildlife found there today.

Now Beaver has a well managed deer herd which attracts many hunters each season. Last year 427 hunters came to the island and took 172 deer, or one per two and one-half hunters, compared with a State of Michigan average of about one per four hunters. It has a number of lakes offering good trout, pike, and small-mouth bass fishing.

The center of Beaver Island's activity is its sole village, St. James, a row of dwellings and stores strung out picturesquely along the shore of Snug Beaver Harbor. In and about St. James are lodges, hotels, motels and cottages.

Clustered closely about Beaver Island are companion islands that can be visited by arrangement with charter boatmen in St. James - High Island to the west, the scene of the second "kingdom" attempted in the area (this time in the early 1920s), by King Ben, ruler of the house of David; Garden Island to the north, containing an old Indian cemetery still in use, and offering along its shores smallmouth bass fishing, and Hog Island with more good smallmouth fishing.

Beaver is served by a regularly scheduled boat, "Beaver Island Ferry," carrying cars and foot passengers. More information may be obtained from the Beaver Island Civic Association in St. James.

Brown appeared to be relieved to have the issue settled. "I've been recommending it (issuing the permit) for three meetings," he said.

BEFORE THE Ad. Bd. meeting yesterday Brown said he met with Lt. Gov. William Milliken and Auditor Allison Green for 90 minutes in his office.

Green and Milliken, he said, claimed they were concerned about pollution of Lake Michigan from the dock.

Brown said he argues that adequate provisions for protection against pollution had been taken.

"They were reluctant, but finally did agree," he said.

ASKED IF Gov. George Romney voted for issuing the permit, Brown said, "He didn't vote against it."

Attorney Norman Ance, who represents Medusa in Charlevoix, presented the company's case at last week's hearing.

He pointed out that Earl A. Young, Charlevoix realtor, investor and builder, has lots in Boulder Park, is currently building a luxury motel and developing resort frontage on Round Lake and yet he favors Medusa's plans and contends it will not harm the tourist business.

School Needs $20,000 for New Library

The Charlevoix Board of Education must have $20,000 stashed away by Dec. 1, if it hopes to get $40,000 more from the Federal Gov't. to build a new public library.

A three-member committee has been appointed by the Board of Education to figure out where the school district is going to get its $20,000. Committee members are Mrs. Blanche Smith, Mrs. Ed Shanahan and William Peck of Ironton.

THE BOARD is seeking a two-thirds grant of tax money from the Federal Gov't. to construct a new library. Total cost of a new building has been pre-determined at $60,000.

Construction of a new library was agreed on by board members when it was learned that the present Carnegie Library would cost between $23,000 and $25,000. Or more than the district's one-third share of a $60,000 new library.

The Federal Gov't. has not officially said it will return $40,000 in tax money to the local community for a new library. However, school officials have been informally told the chances of getting the grant are excellent.

At least two bids must be done before the $40,000 will be handed over.

1-- THE DISTRICT must come up with plans for a new library that satisfy federal officials. Architect Jack Begrow has been employed to design such a building.

2-- The district must certify by Dec. 1 that it has its share ($20,000) of the $60,000 library.

If the district is forced for any reason to call off construction of a new library Begrow will be paid $600 for planning the building. If the building is built Begrow will get the usual 10% fee.

Another committee has been appointed to decide if a new library should be on the site of the Carnegie Library, or if a different location would be more suitable. Members of this committee are Dale Boss, Louise Gill and James Taylor.

THE BOARD estimates it will cost $2,200 to tear down the old library. This would be part of the $60,000 total cost of a new building.

Another $10,000 would be required to equip a new library. Bringing the total cost to $70,000.

The school board estimates it can scrape up $6,000 of the district's required $20,000 share.

This would come from money that is not spent from the approximately $11,000 raised annually by a half-mill special tax levy for library support. The half-mill levy expires in two more years, pires in two more years.

OK Summer School For Slow Readers

Approximately 30 Charlevoix Elementary School students who need additional help in reading and arithmetic can look forward to getting it.

The Board of Education Monday approved a summer school program for remedial reading and math.

PARENTS WHO enroll their children in the program will pay $20 tuition for the four week summer school. Students from neighboring school districts can be enrolled for $30 tuition.

Supt. Rex Milligan recommended the program to the board.

"If it could run two or three summers it would be a tremendous help to some youngsters," Milligan said. The board agreed and adopted the plan.

Two teachers will be employed. They will each have 15 students. Classes will run for a half day for four weeks during July.

SENIORS WANT TO TAKE TRIP

The board also authorized Milligan and high school principal Harry Bingham to consider a request from the 1965 graduating class that a one-day senior trip to an area park be authorized.

If seniors present detailed plans, which call for bus transportation and adequate supervision, the trip will likely be approved.

Milligan told board members, "I wouldn't want to see it (senior trips) go beyond this."

Board member Dale Boss said, "I was always sorry we

County Fears Big City Rule

Charlevoix County Supervisors last week got behind a nation-wide effort to reverse recent legislative apportionment shifts giving urban areas vast superiority over rural residents.

The supervisors passed a resolution calling for an amendment to the constitution nullifying the one-man one-vote philosophy.

In proposing the resolution St. James Township (Beaver Island) Supervisor Lloyd McDonough cited the "sharp drop in rural power."

THOUGH THE FUTURE of the Charlevoix National Fish Hatchery may be in question her future is not. The hatchery has "done her duty well" and served as the birthplace for the current hatchery program to rebuild the Lake Michigan lake trout fishery.

County Seeks Bigger Cut Of Taxes; Boosts Budget

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors is asking for a half-mill tax increase to balance a record operating budget of $404,680.

The tentative 1966 budget, and request for additional millage, was approved last week by the board. It is an increase of $62,000 over the 1965 budget.

THE BOARD will seek 5.95 mills property tax from the County Allocation Bd. This is an increase of .50 mill over last year's 5.45-mill county operating tax levy.

The Allocation Bd. is responsible for deciding how much of the state-authorized 15-mill property tax levy goes to schools and how much to the county. If the county request for an increase is approved it probably means schools will get less.

The $404,680 budget approved last week is only tentative. The final 1966 budget will be adopted at the board's October session.

The biggest increase over last year's budget is $27,000 in matching funds for improvement of township roads. There was no money budgeted for this item last year.

THE COUNTY Planning Commission's budget is increased from $800 to $2,800.

An $8,000 increase, from $31,000 to $39,000, for operation of the Sheriff's Dept. and jail was approved.

An additional $9,500 is budgeted to pay for a 10% salary increase for county employees and officials that was approved last year.

Child Care in the county is expected to cost $20,000, an increase of $7,000 over this year.

Most other budget items also show increases.

IF THE COUNTY gets its tax increase from the Allocation Bd. it expects property taxes to raise $331,818 of the $404,680 budget. This is based on the equalized property valuation of $56,763,300, which is up approximately $2,500,000 over last year.

Other anticipated income includes $13,424 from miscellaneous sources and $59,438 left from last year.

Loyalty Day

Charlevoix VFW Commander Edwin Mann has asked that people remember to display their flag on Saturday, May 1, Loyalty Day.

Chest Topped Goal In '65 By $1,116

The Charlevoix Community Chest, it was announced at last week's annual meeting, raised $1,116 more than expected in its 1964 campaign.

The Chest raised $13,116. Mrs. Charles Duerr, Executive secretary revealed, The 1964 goal was $12,000.

CHEST contributors at the meeting elected Don Anders, president; Ralph Doan, vice president; Frank Oleksy, secretary and Ann Cunningham, treasurer.

Elected to three year terms on the board of directors were Mrs. Thomas Wieland, Mrs. Phil Martin and William Peck. Mrs. Wieland succeeds herself, Peck and Mrs. Martin succeeded Frank Bourgoin and Curtis Burlin.

Amendments to the by-laws were adopted. They provide for semi-annual payments to benefiting agencies and a fiscal year.

June 15 was set for the budget and admissions meeting, where agencies wishing to receive Chest funds submit their requests for money.

MRS. DUERR, Don Anders and John Lachman will represent Charlevoix at the annual Michigan United Fund budget conference in E. Lansing Apr. 27-28.

Each of the six Community Chest campaign divisions raised more than their goal during the last fund drive. Mrs. Duerr revealed. The six divisions are special gifts, commercial, industrial, professional, residential and outlying areas.

Campaign expenses were listed at $656. This included $425 for Mrs. Duerr's salary, $146 for stationary and postage, $80 for conferences and meetings and $5 to the Michigan Corp. and Securities Commission.

The benefiting agencies and how much they will receive were listed at the annual meeting:

Charlevoix Community Nurse, $1,700; Charlevoix Community Nurse General Fund, 200; Charlevoix Association for Retarded Children, 1,500; Girl Scouts, 1,576; Boy Scouts, 1,492; American Red Cross, 750; Charlevoix Hospital, 1,000; Charlevoix City Recreation Program, 800; Mt. McSaba Recreation Program, 500; Salvation Army, 440; Charlevoix Service Organization, 250; Michigan Children's Aid Society, 307; Michigan United Fund, 1,800.

Hatchery Here Stood Alone in Lamprey Battle

The old Charlevoix National Fish Hatchery will never die. But there's a possibility it may sort of fade away.

When the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur immortalized those lines he couldn't have known how appropriate they would someday be in answering rumors about a humble little lake trout hatchery on northern Lake Michigan.

AS LONG AS there are trout in Lake Michigan a bit of life will belong to the Charlevoix hatchery.

Way back before World War I, when the Charlevoix hatchery was built, it was considered one of the biggest and finest.

Today its prestige has slipped a little due to construction of facilities such as the Jordan River National Fish Hatchery, near Alba, which make a dwarf of the Charlevoix hatchery.

The Charlevoix hatchery is antiquated by these new hatcheries which are feeding millions upon millions of 4-6 inch lake trout into Lake Michigan every year.

THE MASSIVE Great Lakes lake trout restocking program demands hatcheries that can raise several million of these fish a year to planting size.

Charlevoix just can't compete. The little hatchery's narrow raceways won't hold enough trout to make using it economically practical. It can only raise 85,000 fish to the 4-6 inch stage. The Jordan River hatchery can raise 3 million-plus.

But that doesn't mean the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service is going to close its Charlevoix plant.

Eugene Mason, a Charlevoix resident (106 Oak St.), says he knows of no plans to abandon the hatchery here. Mason ought to know. In his capacity of Great Lakes coordinator for the lake trout rehabilitation program he's top man.

MASON ADMITS the hatchery has seen its day. That it isn't geared--and can't be--to the proportions of the present program. But he still doesn't think Washington plans to take it out of service.

However, if the hatchery ever is declared surplus the City of Charlevoix, which owns the land but not the buildings, will certainly get first crack at them, Mason said.

Why is the government holding onto the hatchery when it admits it is small and antiquated? Several reasons.

One is that the hatchery gives the Fish and Wildlife Service a direct outlet onto Lake Michigan. Another is that it is always available for emergencies and experimental programs. There's also the possibility the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries may want to use the hatchery for its Lake Michigan headquarters.

AND AS unlikely as it seems, there is the possibility oldtimers in the Service hesitate to retire the old Charlevoix hatchery out of a twinge of sentimentality and respect for one who has done her duty well.

Mason flatly states the Charlevoix hatchery stood alone for several years in the battle to save trout from becoming totally extinct in Lake Michigan.

fisheries people woke up to the fact sea lamprey had taken over the Great Lakes, there was only one arsenal available for counterattack. The Charlevoix hatchery.

It couldn't do much. The few thousand trout it put back into Lake Michigan didn't even make a dent in the lamprey's vicious assault. But it was the only fortress standing in the battle line.

TODAY MIGHTY forces have been marshalled against the lamprey. The tide has turned. Researchers have come up with chemicals that kill the young predators. Huge hatcheries, such as the Jordan River installation, are turning out tens-of-millions of trout a year.

And still these huge, ultra-modern, hatcheries must, in a sense, be considered offspring of the Charlevoix hatchery.

Techniques learned at Charlevoix are making it possible for Jordan and other hatcheries to do their job, Mason reports.

Experiments conducted at Charlevoix have produced information vital to the lake trout rehabilitation program. The Charlevoix hatchery was selected for these experiments first because it was available, but also because it is small and conditions can be

Humphries is winter sports carnival chairman. Mrs. Holtzman is dance chairman.

WINTER CARNIVAL Work Continues

Balmy air, patches of green grass and thawing of the last snow in the swamps hasn't dampened the enthusiasm of Bob Humphries and his Chamber of Commerce Winter Sports Committee.

Last week Humphries announced arrangements have been completed for three more of next year's winter sports carnival action events.

THE COMMITTEE, of which Humphries is chairman, has met regularly for the last few months. It has promised to have the most exciting winter carnival in Michigan next January and February.

Also, probably, the chilliest for participants.

Humphries said plans have been concluded for a winter canoe race in Round Lake. Local canoeists will race around the lake's shore. If necessary the ice will be broken up for them.

Though the racers may get cold, Humphries figures spectators will find the event quite warm.

HE ALSO announced that 50 motorcycles will race on the ice of Lake Charlevoix. Ed Novotny and Cass Russell are chairman of the motorcycle races.

Motorcycles from Canada and the U.S. will compete in lightweight and heavyweight races.

At least a half-dozen old cars will clash in a demolition derby on the ice of Lake Charlevoix. Persons signed up to drive the old cars are Norman Empey, Ken Balch, Larry Chocraft, Clifford Pierce and Glen Sheppard.

ISLANDERS Get Their Beavers

BEAVER ISLAND-- Historians can't completely discount Charlevoix County's 1965 beaver trapping season.

Though no beaver were trapped on the mainland--for the first time in memory--outdoorsmen took 20 on the Beaver Island group.

Seven trapping licenses were issued on the island.

LOUIS EDWARDS is now holding down the cash register at the former Goode's Grocery in Ironton. Louis started operating the market last week. Before, buying it he was a partner with his brother Dick at Edwards IGA in Charlevoix.

Local Supervisors Get Posts on County Board

City of Charlevoix supervisors have been appointed chairmen of the following County Board of Supervisors committees:

COMMITTEE appointments were made by the board's new chairman, Hugh Graham of South Arm Township.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach was reappointed chairman of the finance committee. This is one of 11 not the most powerful committees of the board.

Marion Township Supervisor Clyde Cunningham is chairman of the township and city clerk reports committee.

Lee Sneathen Jr., supervisor of the county's wealthiest township, Hayes, and immediate past-chairman of the board, was named chairman of the equalization committee.

NORWOOD Township Supervisor John Wieland, who joined the board this month, is chairman of the agriculture committee.

Wayne Saunders of Eveline Township, another new board member, became chairman of the Ironton Ferry committee.

Beaver Island supervisor John Connaghan of Peaine Township is chairman of the conservation committee. St. James Township Supervisor Lloyd McDonough is chairman of the resolutions committee.

Other committee chairmen are Larry Matthew, county roads; William Vrondran Jr., claims; Barney Milstein, insurance; Arthur Speltz, sheriff; Kohn Kujawski, appropriations; John Howard, child guidance; William Taylor, officers salaries; Leonard Nelson, health; Joe Topolinski, apportionment; Forbes Tompkins, rejected and charged back taxes; S. Road Work Costs $484,747

Charlevoix County's Road Commission last week issued its annual report for 1964. As in past years, the 23 page report is more detailed and understandable than any other prepared for public consumption.

Information on how every cent of the commission's $484,747 1964 budget was spent is outlined in the report.

The Road Commission spent $218,969 during the year on construction and improvement of roads. Another $200,261 was spent on maintenance of roads. Total administrative expenses were $24,618.

Charlevoix area townships amounts for work on their roads: Charlevoix Township, $3,944; Eveline, $4,706; Hayes, $30,698; Marion, $3,602; Norwood, $1,872.

Of the $116,658 spent on improvement of primary roads the following received work ranging in cost from $1,000 to $57,000: Airport Rd. in St. James Township, Bay Shore Rd., Ferry Rd., Horton Bay Rd., Barnard Rd., Korhase Rd., Peninsula Rd.,

Balling Rd. and Springvale Rd.

PLACING ROAD signs on all primary roads cost $2,947. Charlevoix Township spent $759 for signs on its local roads; Eveline Township spent $220 for local road signs; Hayes, $240; Marion, $328; Norwood, $284.

Local roads getting improvement work in Charlevoix Township were Martin, North Point, Bell's Bay and Pine Point.

Eveline Township local roads improved were Mountain, Townline and Wauldington.

In Hayes Township Pincherry Rd., Bay Shore Rd., Quarterline Rd. and Maple Grove Rd. were improved.

BLACK RD. IN Marion Township was improved.

Norwood Township spent $3,177 for installation of a storm sewer in the Township Park on Lake Michigan.

Construction on local roads cost a total of $102,311.

Of the 552 miles of local roads in the county the report states 471 miles are in "adequate" condition and 80 in adequate condition.

Without its Champion

When it got around to time for the annual debate on the Ironton Ferry at last week's County Board of Supervisors meeting members suddenly felt a twinge of nostalgia for Sandy Sanderson.

Eighty-two year old William (Sandy) Sanderson wasn't on hand to insist that the annual deficit from operating the ferry is the best buy the county gets.

IT WAS THE first time in 36 years that Sandy wasn't there to defend Ironton's cherished institution—made famous by Ripley, of course.

After nearly four decades as Eveline Township's supervisor, Sanderson stepped aside early this month for his youthful, 34 year old, replacement, Wayne Saunders.

Even without Sandy there was bound to be debate on whether the county should continue to operate the ferry at a loss. But without the old champion it wasn't nearly as prolonged or exciting.

And, as always, the county decided to keep going just as it has.

There will be some changes in fares this year. Supervisors voted 16-9 to raise the one-trip fare from 25¢ to 35¢ and the cost of a book of 20 tickets from $2.50 to $4.

Saunders, who is chairman of the Ferry committee, recommended no change in fares. However, he was overruled by the board. Whether Sandy could have kept the fares down had he remained on the board is interesting speculation.

The Road Commission, which shares the annual deficit with the Board of Supervisors, recommended the board consider raising the coupon book price.

Last year's ferry deficit was $8,741. Total income was $7,881. Operating the ferry cost $16,623.

The Road Commission annual report shows 38,435 cars crossed the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix on the ferry in 1964.

ANCHORED

Do you have an anchor? Ships without anchors will drift. People without anchors will drift too. Do you know where to drop your anchor? Can you say, "My heart is fixed trusting in the Lord?" Psalms 112:7. Are you an anchor holding family and friends together? Is your anchor imbedded deeply in truth and righteousness? Phil. 1:28.

EVERY MAN must answer to God and to his own conscience. The sins we do by two and two; we must answer for one by one. If God holds your soul, your feet will never be moved, Psalms 66:9. Do right though the Heavens fall. Be true even if all others are false. The Church, the Bible and daily prayer are sure anchors for every man.

Area Bands Will Play

The annual Massed Band Festivals, sponsored by District II of the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association, will be held next week, according to Russ Little of Frankfort, chairman of the district.

Four festivals will be held, two Wednesday, May 5, at Grayling and Rogers City, and two Thursday, May 6, at Boyne City and Benzonia.

All will follow the program of individual band performances, followed by a parade through the business section, followed by a massed band rehearsal.

A Massed Band Concert will be presented in each community, with the various directors of the area conducting the massed group.

A total of 27 Northern Michigan Bands are participating in this year's festival, with over 1,300 student musicians taking part.

The two Charlevoix Bands—the Reserve Band in Grayling on Wednesday and the Senior Band in Boyne City on Thursday.

Members of the association will serve as guest critics in the various sites, and will be the guest conductor of the massed band in the evening program.

The festival is open to the public. A nominal fee is charged. Proceeds of the concert go to the district treasury, to help sponsor various musical activities in northern Michigan.

Village To Fix Streets

Ellsworth village President, Marvin Wysma reports plans are being made to repair streets in Ellsworth.

Bids have been sent out and the cost will determine how far the plans can be carried. Two streets are under consideration for repair, several need asphalt covering and others are in need of patch work.

The Council will announce the amount of work that can be taken care of soon after the bids are returned.

The Village Council would appreciate any volunteers to help in cleaning up the park across the lake. (A community cleaning bee could do the job.)

WITH ROY

Representatives from East Jordan and Ellsworth attended a meeting with Antrim County Road Commission. The Chamber members informed the commission of the importance of a Class A all weather road from M66 to US 31.

Nell Kruse read a letter from the State Highway Commission, turning down the proposal of extension of M32. Nell also stated that Charlevoix County Road Commission accepted the two Chambers of Commerce proposal to make their portion of 626 a Class A all weather road and construction will start the spring of 1966.

The Chamber was asking that Antrim Road Commission make their portion from Charlevoix County line to Ellsworth (nine tenths of a mile) and road 626 west of Ellsworth to US 31 a Class A all weather road.

There was a considerable amount of discussion and Mr. Harold Smith, road commissioner, asked if the people realize the cost of such a project, the terrific amount of construction needed and if Township is able to pay towards this project? It was asked who paid for the construction of the Flat Rd? Mr. Walter Johnson from MMPA of East Jordan said that he had to divert three semi-trucks from traveling on Road 626 and Mr. Sherman Thomas from the East Jordan Co-op stated, a tanker of fuel a day has to by-pass twelve miles to US31 and take another route which covers 30 miles. Roy Skudenmeyer told the group, twice the tonnage of material is moved on Road 626 than the roads through Bellefleur and Central Lake put together.

The Chairman of the Road Commission, Mr. Shippey said that Mr. Smith should make a survey of construction and cost of the proposal and the amount of Federal funds that would be available. He also said that the Commission would notify the Chambers of their progress.

The Chamber members left the meeting with wonderment as to what the Antrim County Road Commission will do, and as to what steps must be taken to prove that Ellsworth needs a Class A all weather road between Ellsworth and Atwood.

A SURPRISE gathering took place in Arcadia, California, when Gorrill and Cora Drenth were visiting Don Drenth and family recently. Don heard that Dick and Dorothy Lather were chaperons of students who were on tour with the Kings Court High School Choir, so he planned an evening with them and took his folks along and surprised the Lathers.

Michigan's new freeways are more than three times safer than the highways they replace. The accident rate drops about 70 percent on freeways compared to the old highways.

Donaldson Honored By State

Levi Donaldson has last week's Safety Program well organized.

The large crowd attending numbered 425. All were silent as they watched a film, what affect alcohol has on driving, titled "Verdict at 1:32 p.m."

The speakers held the interest of the people with their safety speeches.

Sgt. Downer from the Traverse City State Police Post presented Levi Donaldson with an award for his outstanding work toward safety.

A duet was sung by Darlene Klooster and Diane Vander-Ark, and they had the appearance of two hobos that had been riding the rails. Darlene large red farmers hank, had the audience snickering when she wiped away those make-believe tears. Sharon Drenth accompanied the duet and also played the national Anthem at the opening of the program.

Mr. Cook, Assistant Secretary of State, crowned the Safety Queen, Joyce Canpuu. Mr. Webb, from AAA awarded Andrew Kooyser with the Safe Citizen Award.

School Will Hold Line On Taxes, Albright Vows

Ellsworth Community School Supt. Jerry Albright this week released a special statement on the increase in state equalized property valuations.

Albright said the statement is necessary is due to rumors inspired by the valuation increase.

"FIRST OF all," Albright said, "it is true that the property valuations have increased in Antrim County. In the Ellsworth School District they have increased from $2,771,000 to approximately $3,600,000.

"As you can see this is a very sizable increase. Now, what does this mean as far as the school district is concerned?

"Last February the district passed a 17-mill proposal based upon our property valuation at that time of $2,771,000. This would bring in $47,000 based on those figures. Based on the new valuation of $3,600,000, it would require a little over 13 mills to bring in the same amount of money.

"Or to look at it another way one mill on the old valuation would yield $2,771 and on the new valuation it would yield $3,600. If all taxes were paid on time, in other words it will take less mills to raise the same amount of money.

"THE TENTATIVE budget for the 1965-66 school year is set at $133,250.

"You have the Board of Education's assurance that they will not spread or levy any more millage than is absolutely necessary to maintain the budget.

"However the final decision will have to wait until after the County Allocation Board meets and allocates the 15 mills within the county."

Prizes worth $5,000 are being awarded each week for a ten-week period in support of a contest that is both building traffic for its originator and contributing to a greater public awareness of the need for driving safety.

The "Spot-A-Crazy-Driver" contest is being offered to residents of Michigan by Naph. Sol Refining Co., Muskegon, with awards of TV sets, bicycles and cameras based on entries describing the actions of "crazy" drivers.

The Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course opens Sunday, May 2, for the season.

City Supt. James Taylor announced the opening date. Taylor said he believes the course is opening later than usual this year due to unseasonal cold weather.

New rates are being studied at the request of golfers and may be acted on by City Council in the near future.

Feeder Calf Program Eyed for State Award

Charlevoix County's feeder calf program has been nominated for a Michigan Week agricultural product award.

Ed Reberman, county extension director, reports the feeder calf program brings $40-$65,000 a year into the county.

"THIS PROGRAM uses one of our greatest natural resources--namely grass," Reberman says.

Brood cows are kept, Reberman explained, and calves then raised and sold to be finished in the feed lots.

Charlevoix County Michigan Week chairman Wally Loder said other phases of local Michigan Week participation appear to be lagging.

He asked that persons interested in helping Charlevoix have a busy and successful Michigan Week program should contact James Hillier or himself.

"We need much effort to get the program off the ground," Loder said.

Church Says Debt Invalid On Hayes Camp

The Michigan State Spiritualist Assn. of Churches is asking Circuit Court to nullify a $10,000 mortgage on its camp property in Hayes Township.

The mortgage is held by Malcolm M. Heber, a Royal Oak attorney.

The Spiritualist Assn., through its attorney John Michael, claims Heber's mortgage is not legal because it was signed by Jewell Buckner, who allegedly had no authority to put the association in debt.

Buckner, according to the association's complaint, gave Heber the mortgage as payment for legal duties. Heber reportedly represented Buckner in a court fight to determine who was the legal head of the association.

Buckner lost the case in a downstate court and Arthur Beesley was declared the association's legal president.

The camp property is along old US-31 in northern Hayes Township.

Islanders May Add Rooms to School

BEAVER ISLAND -- The addition of at least two rooms is being considered for the Beaver Island Community School.

Intermediate District Supt. Charles Robinson, who is the chief administrator of the island school district, says the new rooms are needed to expand the education program.

ADDITIONAL rooms, Robinson said, would make it possible to include more math and science in the curriculum. Cost of the expanded program would partially be paid by Federal funds under the National Defense Education Act.

Robinson will meet with the Beaver Island Board of Education this week to work out more definite plans for the new rooms.

If residents decide to build the addition they will have to vote to approve a bond issue. The school district is now debt-free.

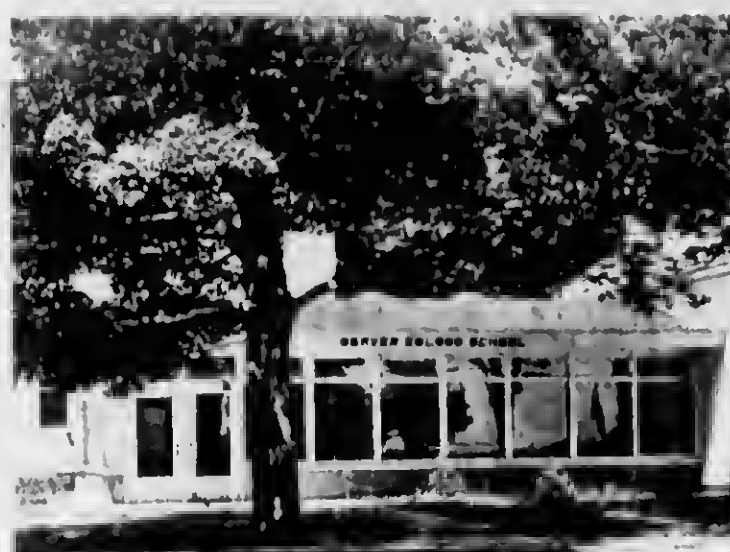

The present school was enlarged by two rooms, to a four room facility, in 1955. It has no gymnasium.

THE SCHOOL has 63 students, 20 of them in grades ten through twelve. There are four seniors in the class of 1965.

The enrollment, Robinson said, is down from a few years ago, but in recent years has leveled off at about 60. Last year's law requiring consolidation of small school districts with large ones will not affect Beaver Island. The school is approved by the Michigan Dept. of Public Instruction. All teachers are Catholic sisters and fully qualified.

THE SCHOOL district has the lowest tax rate in the county, levying only the 8.375 mills allocated by the county. It has an equalized valuation of $1,189,760.

THE BEAVER ISLAND School. It may soon be expanded.

A Filthy Animal

AT A DISTANCE this view of Bell's Bay with the sun shimmering on melted ice and water is indeed beautiful. But get up close and you find man's vulgarity has desecrated it.

SPRING'S PROMISE OF life and beauty has once again been aborted by man's ugliness and filth.

Making our annual spring reconnaissance along beaches and scenic roads we find Nature fouled by human discards. Not just a small piece of litter here and there, but piles and piles of bottles, cans, boxes, clothes, etc., etc., etc.

Ugly! Ugly! Ugly!

HOW CAN MAN be such a filthy animal and still call himself civilized and a creature of the Golden Rule?

We recently viewed a high-powered movement to evict Medusa Portland Cement Co. from our beautiful South Point. Why, we would ask, should anyone be concerned about South Point when they do nothing to stop human flotsam from violating it with litter?

This is not really directed as criticism against those who oppose construction of a dock and heavy industrial buildings on South Point. It is directed more pointedly against all who claim they love Charlevoix and the beauty of the big lakes.

How many of you, we must ask, contribute to this filth? Stop and think. Have you never thrown a candy bar wrapper, bottle, can or cigarette package out your car window?

IF YOU CANNOT answer that you have never done this hang your head in shame. You are one of them.

All who love beauty, or hold one iota of respect for our fellow humans, must despise those who litter.

Another example of man's ugliness was with litter (insert, lower right). The vast majority of litter is throw-away beverage containers.

witnessed when the new Bell's Bay road opened up recently. At the end of the road, at the scenic overlook to Lake Michigan, we found the rustic sign erected by the Conservation Dept. torn and shattered by a shotgun blast.

For the first time in local history we can applaud our law enforcement people and court for boldly stepping forward to do something. The Sheriff has arrested two parties and Justice John Connolly fined them this spring for littering.

Marion Township has also taken a move in the right direction by offering a $25 reward to anyone supplying evidence leading to conviction of a litterbug. It should not be necessary for the township to take such extreme action. But since it is, we must applaud Marion Township Board members for their courage and determination.

The answer to eliminating litter is twofold: 1--You must quit, 2--You must report anyone you see littering to law enforcement offices and then testify against them in court.

UNLESS YOU ARE willing to do the latter you are making yourself a virtual accomplice.

There is at least one other effort that should be made. The Rod and Gun Club, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful Committee, Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts, or all of them, should organize a community litter pick-up drives along our beaches for two or three Sundays in a row. This not only will remove much of the filth and ugliness, but will make more people aware of their crime.

Grass Roots Decision

LET'S HOPE WE can let it lay. That was the reaction of one person when they heard the word last week that Medusa Portland Cement Co.--after months of sometimes bitter and absurd local controversy--had received final approval for its dock from the State Ad. Bd.

In this we join him. The Courier has written so many words about Medusa we were sort of getting to the point where we hopefully looked across the harbor to see if, just maybe, the whole place wouldn't sink so we could forever forget it.

HOWEVER, WE must join in saluting the way the decision was made. It was truly the opinion of the grass roots citizenry that influenced the Ad. Bd. This is as it should be.

The "little people" of Charlevoix were up against some mighty big money and prestige in their battle to get Medusa. But they won. Good for the Republic.

It must be added that we sympathize with, and understand, the objections of our summer people, though we cannot agree with them. But it should be admitted by all that they had a right to enter the debate. After all, let us never forget Charlevoix would not be the much-envied community it is without our gracious and benevolent summer residents. And they do pay a good portion of the taxes to support our city and schools.

We are trusting that their fears will be disproven and that Charlevoix will continue to have its beauty, clean air and peace. And even as we disagreed with them we continue to respect their determination to defend and fight for what they believe in.

HOWEVER, AS ONE fella put it last week, "They never tried to make a living here in the winter." Not that a dollar value can be put on Nature's beauty, but in this case we can have both.

odds n ends

By FRAN MARTIN

It's been raining...but now the sun's coming out so bright and pretty, the robins are singing their rain song, here and there you can see a blade of green, green grass, kids are flying kites, ambitious people are working in their flower gardens, even some of the more serious gardeners are planting peas and radishes and lettuce, the city council has declared May 10-15 Clean-up week, shutters are beginning to come down from some of the cottages....These are just a few of the many signs of spring one sees here and there....but it's enough to give you spring fever....

And if you're driving around the countryside you'll see one sure sign...the willows which take on a golden hue this time of year....Before long we'll be seeing the first Mayflowers and arbutus....Ooooh, it's a good time of year....a time that makes you glad you're alive....

BUT IT'S NOT like this everywhere....My brother and sister-in-law, the Phil Martins and their family, were in the Upper Peninsula....and such snow as they still had there....At Watersmeet there was still banks along the roads and up at Hancock they still had more snow than we had all winter....

And in the midst of all this is one of the saddest things one can imagine....hundreds of deer that have died from starvation or from exhaustion after being chased through the deep snow by the coyotes....In the area of Watersmeet there's a tract of land owned by a paper company where loggers cut the wood until early March....In one such isolated area the deer lived on clippings from the trees as long as they lasted....then the snow became so deep they couldn't travel far....and at last count 20 deer had died within a comparatively small area....

In more densely populated areas people have been feeding the animals and in one clearing 100 were sighted near mealtime....Anyone who has made an effort to feed them now has a host of pets right in their yard....

One reads most every day of the deer losses because of the snow and weather conditions but until you hear it first hand from someone who's witnessed it it's just another newspaper story....

Evidence of the losses were visible everywhere and the youngsters were amazed and shocked that such things happen....

This all is in sharp contrast to what nature lovers in this area have been seeing....Deer must have their own calendars and know when they are protected....Almost nightly, just before dusk, they've been coming out into the fields along the highway....Many people take a drive into the country and over the more isolated cross-roads and count as many as 50 or 75 in as little as three or four miles....The kids love it and their elders enjoy it too....Most of the deer in this area are fat and healthy....After all, we really didn't have much snow, compared to other years, and apparently they came through the winter with little hardship....

WAS TALKING the other day with Clay Smith, my trapping friend....only this year he didn't do any trapping for beaver as he usually does....Beaver trapping season is a week or 10 days in March....but with the price of furs way down and the conditions in the woods so rugged....that was when we got our last big storm....he decided against it....I don't know why the beavers are so anxious for the furs but he said that a couple had been by his house ready to barter for his pelts....and when they learned he didn't have any asked for the names of others who might have been trapping....I don't know about Beaver Island where there's a huge colony of the industrious little animals but on the mainland, at least in the northwest section of the state, everyone decided to stay out of the woods....

Maybe this will force the price of beaver pelts up so the poor trapper can at least make expenses....I don't know where furs are getting these days but there's not many purchased around here....And to think that northern Michigan was the place where the Astors and all the other early furriers made their mint away back in the days when Mackinac Island was practically the fur capital of the world....It's sure a changing one....with most of this change credited to the whims of midlife....

There are changes everywhere....and one that we're all going to notice is one at the high school where the oldest teacher in years of service has announced his retirement....Of course we mean Ray L. Kipke.

Mind if I get a little commercial? There's a housing shortage in this community, a fact you're probably aware of, in case you've tried to find a house or apartment recently....If you have a rental of any kind want you please publicize it with a Courier Want Ad....or, if you've been thinking about preparing an apartment or house, won't you please, please, get with it....People are practically begging for places to live....

OZZIE THE Otter has been officially adopted as the mascot of the anti-litter group Keep Michigan Beautiful, Inc. Decals can be obtained from the group by writing the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, 215 S. Washington, Lansing.

Charlevoix of Yesteryear

THIS RARE PICTURE shows The Inn, luxurious resort hotel owned by the railroad at the east end of Dixon Ave., as it appeared in 1897 after it collapsed during construction. Bob Miles, who loaned us the picture, says construction of the hotel was started in 1896. The building collapsed because carpenters started plastering the upper floors before the lower floors were completed. Two persons were killed and several injured. Aided by a brisk northwest wind the north end first fell in toward the center and then the south end followed it until this jumbled wreckage was left. The Inn was finally completed in 1898. It was torn down several years ago. Lumber for the Inn cost $5 per thousand feet.

Scanning the Magazines

This article is reprinted from "Fishing in Michigan - 1965" magazine. It deals exclusively with fishing in the Charlevoix area. Other articles in the magazine are about fishing elsewhere in the state. This is the first edition of the magazine which is available from local newsstands.

One balmy late afternoon last spring Clare Staley looked through the display window of his downtown Charlevoix hardware store and remarked to a fellow townsman, "I don't know how anyone can live away from these lakes."

But many thousands of fishermen do live away from Clare's lakes. And because they don't know them as well as Clare does they stay away from them. The big lakes hold so many secrets the average angler shies away from them in awe.

FROM CLARE'S front door he can see across Round Lake, only a hundred yards or less from Charlevoix's main drag, US-131, and less than a quarter mile further on Lake Charlevoix, Michigan's fourth largest lake. Charlevoix is virtually surrounded by the big lakes. Only a few hundred yards behind Clare's rear display counter is Lake Michigan.

There are a handful of savvy anglers who can tell you northern Lake Michigan is one of the nation's least explored sport fishing grounds. Some 30 miles out in the "big lake" as Clare would call it--is the Beaver Island group. Here hardy fishermen, with the daring and just for adventure, sometimes hit smallmouth bass fishing that produces a strike on every cast.

Many anglers don't see a single fisherman all season. How many bass, pike, and musky even a few lake trout who have escaped the sea lamprey, cruise these rocky coasts no one can honestly say. Even state fisheries biologists admit they don't know. But those of us who live beside this majestic inland sea can tell you stories about sulking anglers who sneak out alone, careful to see they are not followed, and return from mysterious coves with bass that make the wildest fish stories dull. And at places like Charlevoix and Mackinaw City, where piers jut into Lake Michigan, hundreds of bass are caught annually by simply dunking worms off the breakwaters--which tends to indicate the bass are anywhere the fishermen are.

FEW PEOPLE FISH the Lake Michigan shore; picking a spot to start seems hopeless. Where do you begin when you're offered endless miles to choose from? A good piece of advice is to find a boulder-strewn bottom off a point or in a bay that is shallow enough to wade. Make sure the weather's calm and wade out to the drop off. Then start throwing nightcrawlers, spoons, spinners and maybe even one of those new Jig-a-Do rigs with plastic worms or eel attached. Let the night-crawlers settle to the bottom before moving them. Then repeat the action. Move your artificial lures slowly, allowing them to sink as much as possible without snagging. If you don't lose a few rigs you're probably fishing too fast. And if this doesn't work, speed it up--crank like crazy. There's no pat formula for catching big lake smallmouths.

If you can afford it, fishing from a boat will probably be more rewarding than wading. The catch is you need at least a 19 foot outboard to safely venture far into Lake Michigan. Should you get yourself fixed up with such a rig follow the coast looking for boulders. When you find them (which won't be hard) anchor right over the dropoff and cast toward shore and the horizon until you locate the fish. You'll find free boat launching facilities in Charlevoix. By launching your boat here, you can fish Lake Michigan, Lake Charlevoix or Round Lake.

Round Lake is the tiny deepwater lake around the banks of which stand the gracious summer homes of the City of Charlevoix. The lake is between Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix and is linked to the big lakes by short channels, deep enough to allow passage of Great Lakes freighters. During the summer months fishermen shun Round Lake because millions of dollars worth of luxury yachts are anchored in it. Ravenously cruising under these boats are large pike. An early morning or late evening angler has a good chance of landing pike in excess of ten pounds...especially in the spring and fall. Boats and advice are readily available.

GOING THROUGH the railroad bridge channel, with the aristocratic Belvedere and Chicago clubs flanking it, the angler enters the challenging waters of Lake Charlevoix. This massive body of water holds secrets that Conservation Department fisheries men openly admit mystify them.

There are fishermen who spend entire summers on Lake Charlevoix fishing for smallmouths. And they catch them. Several can honestly report they catch hundreds of legal bass annually. And some of them are lunkers--three pounders are not uncommon.

The South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, an eight mile long silver of water about a half mile wide at most, cuts off the main lake at Ironton and ends at East Jordan and the Jordan River. Because the South Arm is less immense than the main lake it is easier for fishermen to explore. It receives by far the heaviest fishing pressure, with Ironton the easting off point for many anglers.

The Outdoor Life "Complete Book of Freshwater Fishing" lists Lake Charlevoix among the top 100 smallmouth bass fishing spots in the country, yet thousands of skillful fishermen pass Lake Charlevoix by in favor of smaller waters where the fishing pressure is greater and the bass fewer. Why? Once again, because exploring such a vast body of water seems like a hopeless task. But by asking in Charlevoix, East Jordan, Ironton or Boyne City you can get some good tips on where to start. These, plus a little patience and skill will pay rewards you'll forever cherish.

If you are looking for the greatest fishing adventure in the Midwest there's a trip to Beaver Island on your agenda. The ferry to the legendary island leaves twice daily from Charlevoix during the summer months. Fishermen should write or call the Beaver Island Civic Association in St. James before heading for the island. While brook trout and pike fishing is offered in inland lakes on the island, the real drawing card is the bass fishing on neighboring Garden Island and Hog Island. The "Complete Book of Freshwater Fishing" also lists these among the nation's top 100 smallmouth hotspots. Getting to them can be something of a problem, and expensive, so make advance arrangements for a fishing boat. Don't try to make it to the fishing grounds alone unless you're an accomplished seaman and have a boat built for the unpredictable weather of the big lake.

ONCE YOU GET into the deserted bays of Hog and Garden islands you're on your own. You are literally in a wilderness. Hike 100 yards inland and you are in a world that's all yours.

If your first few casts into the shoal waters off the islands fail to produce strikes, don't be discouraged. The smallmouths seem to move into the bays in schools. No one really knows where they go or why they return, or, for that matter, if they really come and go. It may only be that they all get hungry at the same time.

But you can count on it, if you stick around a while you'll hit the jackpot. You're betting (and this I can promise you) won't believe it later when you tell them about it. When the smallmouths start hitting it's the wildest thing you've ever experienced. Nothing in my fishing experience in Michigan's most virgin waters can top it. There will be a bass hit your lure or bait so consistently you'll actually be surprised--and a bit indignant--if you make a complete retrieve without getting a hit. But don't worry about it. There will be one next cast. When they start coming like this, look at your fishing partner's face. He'll be wearing such a contented grin you'll swear he's reverted to childhood.

They may not all be big. In fact sometimes darn few of them are over 15 inches. But many six pounders have been landed...and many more lost, which lends a sense of wild expectation to every cast. A new record smallmouth will someday come from these waters....Will you get him on the next cast? Almost any kind of spoon, spinner or bait is good when the island smallmouths start hitting. But actually you are usually better off with an artificial because you don't have to tinker with it between fish. When they are taking you don't want to waste a second. Every second is one of the most precious in your lifetime. Probably the best way to combine the benefits of natural bait with the action of an artificial is the Jig-a-Do, which were designed especially for big lake smallmouths by a fisherman who catches them.

more "exactly" controlled.

BY TRYING different types and amounts of feed the Charlevoix hatchery came up with the formula used by all hatcheries to get the most efficient growth from lake trout.

Experiments conducted at Charlevoix showed hatchery experts how to inject antibiotic medication in feed that prevents diseases common to the trout.

By testing complex automatic feeding systems at Charlevoix and Fish and Wildlife Service feeds it has developed equipment that will save manpower and provide more uniform feeding at all hatcheries.

Experimental plants of 4-6 inch lake trout in the Pine River Channel and on the reefs around South Point showed the hatchery experts this was the right size fish to plant and what kind of location in which to plant them.

THIS SPRING the Charlevoix hatchery was used to hold a million fingerling size trout until they could be moved to a larger hatchery in the Upper Peninsula.

Nearly 100,000 4-6 inch fish will be kept in the old raceways here for a few days while they are being planted around Beaver Island this or next month.

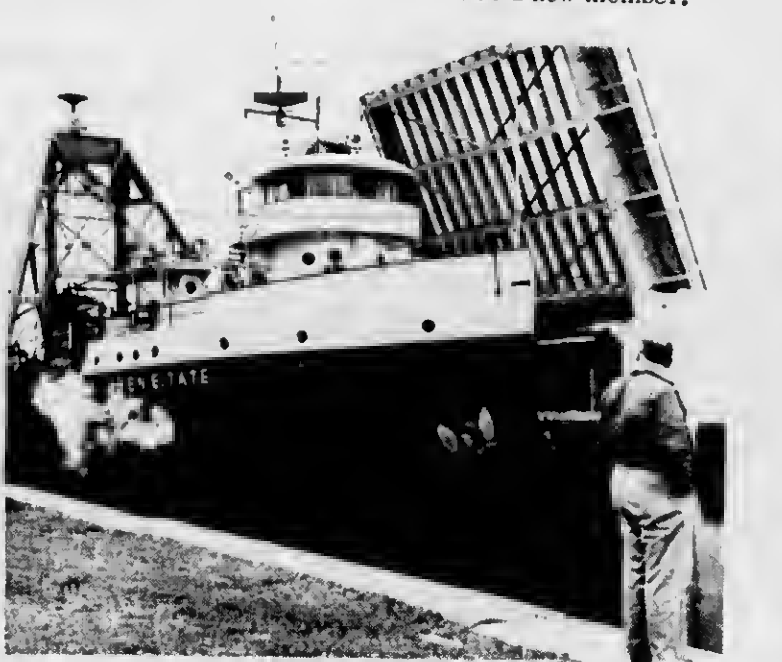

Mason isn't sure, and can't find records to verify it, but he believes the original Charlevoix hatchery was built before 1900. The present building was constructed, he suspects, around 1912.

In the early years lake trout eggs were obtained from commercial fishermen, hatched at the hatchery and almost immediately released in the lake.

TIME AND modern technology have proven this technique was largely wasted. Most of the just-hatched trout died. Hatchery men, partially due to work at Charlevoix, now know trout survival is best if they are planted when 4-6 inches long.

Put it all together. The nearly decade the Charlevoix hatchery stood alone against the lamprey. The experiments conducted here that are making it possible for the new hatcheries to do their job. The more than half-century of putting small fish into the lake.

There's no questioning it. As long as a lake trout swims in brooding and beautiful Lake Michigan a spark of life from the Charlevoix National Fish Hatchery will exist.

Though they feel sure their long dreamed trophy case is going to become a reality, Charlevoix High School students are baffled as to where they will get the additional $400 needed.

THIS CAME in the form of informal bids lowering the cost of the 32-foot-long trophy.

These figures, Bergmann said, do not include labor costs because Wojan, Browe and Stebe have offered to do the work without charge. In effect, Bergmann points out, the more than anticipated bids, are like receiving a $400 contribution.

Charlevoix Public Schools teachers will be among the highest paid in northern Michigan when classes resume in September.

Supt. Rex Milligan reports all teachers have signed contracts agreeing to the salary increase offered by the Board of Education. Teachers had been asked to decide if they would accept the increases by Saturday, May 1.

THE INCREASES will cost the school district approximately $25,000 next year, Milligan has estimated.

The new salary schedule, though lower than the originally requested by teachers, is $300 to $600 higher than last year, with the biggest increase going to experienced teachers.

Cancer Drive Falling Short

The Charlevoix Cancer Society drive is falling short of its $1,300 goal, Mrs. E. D. Mason, 106 Oak St. reports. Mrs. Mason asked that anyone who hasn't been contacted by Cancer Society volunteers mail their contribution directly to her.

With a salary of $4,900 for beginning teachers holding a bachelor's degree, the schedule starts new members of the profession at a higher wage than was paid by any school district in the 17 counties of the northern Lower Peninsula this year, according to the Michigan Education Ass'n. Some of these districts may raise their salaries for next year.

The maximum salary for teachers with a bachelor's degree and 12 years experience will be $6,767, compared to $6,200 this year.

A BEGINNING teacher with a master's degree will make $5,200, compared to $4,700 before. After 12 years experience the teacher with a master's will make $7,183, compared to $6,500 under the old schedule. The new salary schedule also includes an improved fringe benefit package.

Milligan said agreement on the new salaries just about completes next year's teaching staff.

Two new teachers have been hired.

GLENN TAYLOR of Ellsworth has been hired to replace Ray Kipke as math teacher. Kipke is retiring.

Taylor has been teaching at Croswell, Mich., for five years.

Mrs. James Luther, wife of Charlevoix High School's science teacher, has been employed to teach Type A special education. She will be paid by the State and Intermediate School District. This is a new position.

Mrs. Robert Martin will replace Mrs. Louis Courtade in the high school library.

Mrs. Conrad Klooster will return to her fifth grade classroom after a year's absence. In other affairs, the school board has announced it is considering two sites for the proposed new public library.

Architect Jack Begrow has been asked to study both sites and report back on them in three weeks.

The one site is the present one on the northwest corner of State and Clinton.

The other is the property on the north side of Park Ave. owned by Councilman Dr. Walter Hoffmann at the end of State St.

City Creates Planning Bd., Up Golf Rates

After more than a year of study Charlevoix City Councilmen Monday voted to create a Regional Planning Commission.

The professional planning firm of Williams and Works, Grand Rapids, will be employed to direct the Commission in preparing a master plan for Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township's development and improvement.

THE REGIONAL designation was given to the commission because Charlevoix Township has tentatively agreed to become an official member of the commission.

Councilmen have held off on creating the planning commission for several months in hopes of working out a plan with the township.

This, they contend, is necessary because planning within the city limits would be meaningless if conflicting development were allowed across the street in the township.

Seven members will be appointed to the commission, probably later this month. The city will appoint four and the township three.

THE PLANNERS will be paid $28,120 for spending 18 months with the commission directing its work in drafting a master plan. Of this the Federal Gov't. will pay 75%, if a planning grant is approved.

The City's cost will be $4,963. The Township will pay

$2,068. Williams and Works is the planning consultant for Houghton Lake and Grayling, as well as several southern Michigan communities.

In passing the resolution creating the planning commission, councilmen left the door open for other neighboring townships to join.

INCREASE RATES AT GOLF COURSE

Council approved a rate increase of approximately 10% at the Municipal Golf Course. The higher rates will bring in an estimated $2,100 additional revenue for golf course operation and improvement this year.

The new rates and old rates (in parentheses) are: Nine holes, $1.75 ($1.50); All day, $3 ($2.50); Resident single, season ticket $23 ($20); Non-resident single, $38 ($25); Resident double, $38 ($35); Non-resident double, $43 ($40); Resident family $43 ($40); Non-resident family, $48 ($45); Resident student, $12 ($12); Non-resident student, $20 ($20).

TERRILL WANTS BEACH IMPROVED

New councilman Delbert Terrill asked that the City improve the Ferry Ave. beach north of the lifeguard's pier to encourage swimming there. Terrill said the present beach needs improving and restroom facilities. The Ferry Ave. beach, he said, is often crowded and dangerous because it is so near the boat launching ramp.

HE RECOMMENDED that facilities for overnight campers also be included in the project.

City Council Urges Clean-Up Week Push

Making Charlevoix the beautiful a cleaner, brighter more attractive community should be the number one concern of every citizen next week, City Councilmen have decreed.

MAY 10-15 is Charlevoix Clean-Up Week, Mayor E. D. Hawley reminds residents.

"CHARLEVOIX HAS become known as the sparkliest town in the north and it is during Clean-Up Week when much of that reputation is earned," the mayor said.

City trucks will circulate through city streets during the week picking up all leaves, trash and other discards (except garbage) people put out. This includes items from attics, basements and garages that are no longer used.

Charlevoix Lions Club members will be selling household and commercial-industrial brooms during Clean-Up Week.

In addition to helping promote an awareness of Clean-Up Week, the Lions point out the broom-sale will provide funds for community projects and sight conservation.

CLEAN-UP Week, Hawley explained, has come to mean more than just raking lawns and trimming hedges.

Many persons start painting their homes and accessory buildings during Clean-Up Week, he pointed out. It is also a good time for repairing fences, porches and other outside items that make an impression on visitors and neighbors.

THE MAYOR urged people to consider preparation of their flower beds and other plants that vacationers so often favorably remember.

"When the busy summer season arrives there is seldom time for these chores," he said. "So Clean-Up Week has been set aside now to help remind people the job needs to be done."

Weather

The best news on the weather scene is that the water level of the lakes is up six inches or more over this time last year. The Courier's unofficial report on rising water levels comes from Charlevoix residents who make their living on the big lakes.

Other good news includes warming temperatures (in the 20's Sunday) and a brisk spring downpour Monday, which should bring the mushrooms, grass and flowers out.

Forest Fire Officer Ed Horne in Boye City reports the fire index reached 32 Sunday (past the critical point), but dropped off after Monday's rain. All persons must get permits to burn outdoors. They are available by phone. Call JU 2-6681 during the day or JU 2-9944 evenings.

THE CHANGING SCENE--Workmen started putting this new front (drawing above) on Neff's Bros. Quality Food Store, Bridge and Mason streets, Monday morning. Construction began last week on the new Municipal Airport administrative building (lower picture). Both were designed by Begrow and Brown architects. Lake Construction Co. is the contractor on Neff's new front. Charlevoix Lumber Co. is doing the airport job.

Spring Prods Building

City building permits for work totaling $42,890 were issued last week.

The biggest single permit was for construction of the new Municipal Airport administrative building, Charlevoix Lumber Co., the contractor, estimated the cost at $25,490.

THE SECOND largest permit was for $9,400 to Lake Construction Co. which is building the 630 square foot addition to the rear of the County Building.

Lake Construction Co. also took out a permit to build a $5,000 70 foot dock at Brow Marina. The dock will be all steel pipe pilings filled with concrete and a wood deck. It will replace the present dock.

Swanson Construction Co., Norwood, received a permit to build a 12 by 27 foot addition and basement to James Elzinga's home at 900 May St.

John W. Curtis was issued a permit for work estimated to cost $1,000 for an addition and basement on his home at 240 E. Carpenter.

CHARLEVOIX Lumber Co. took out a permit to move the garage from the corner cottage on the Bellevue Club to a new site next to the club house. Cost was estimated at $500.

Clevenger Sees Housing Need

President Johnson's aides have determined that in Appalachia the greatest barrier to economic development is the lack of roads.

In Charlevoix and most of northern Michigan, Congressman Raymond Clevenger figures it is the lack of adequate housing.

HOW MANY industries, Clevenger asks, have turned thumbs down on communities such as Charlevoix because they know their workers would be disgruntled when they did not find modern housing?

The Democratic Congressman from the Soo, who took office in January, doesn't have all the answers to this question. But after preliminary studies of his own and federal agencies, plus observations throughout the northland, he suspects there have been several who turned away due to a housing shortage.

While in Charlevoix last month Clevenger pointed out the nearly 200 military (Air Force and Army) people in the community help make the problem more acute. The welfare of servicemen in his district is a Congressman's business.

He also asks what will happen when Medusa moves here with several dozen employees. Another industry (Lexalite) is considering a plant here employing 100 men.

IF THERE is an excess of labor in the Charlevoix area it is minute. Its very existence has been denied by several industrialists.

Which means these new industries will have to import people. This, public officials point out, is good for the economy. It brings new money and new blood to town.

But Clevenger's question remains. Where are we going to house them?

The problem is even more acute when you realize new workmen and servicemen bring wives and families who are used to living in modern suburban or urban homes.

THOUGH THERE may be some homes and apartments available from time-to-time in Charlevoix, many of them are not new and modern.

Employers, Clevenger points out, recognize that if housewives are complaining about the inconvenience of an older home efficiency and employee moral falls off. Clevenger has several potential solutions. None of which call for declaring this area a poverty pocket.

He feels that if local people are made aware of financial assistance available through FHA loans and other federal agencies, building of new homes, and remodeling of old ones, will be encouraged.

THESE ARE not new programs. They've been in existence for some time.

The trouble is local lending institutions have not fully utilized them, and the bureaucrats (a word he didn't use) who administer them, have been less than zealous in efforts to inform northern Michigan residents of their advantages.

If Clevenger can break through this barrier and show people that through these programs they can afford a new home or remodel the old one, he feels he can quicken the pace of economic development.

Urge All to Get Free Chest X-Ray

An opportunity to have a chest x-ray without charge to check for possible tuberculosis, lung cancer, certain heart conditions, and other chest abnormalities will be offered to Charlevoix residents 30 years of age or older May 10 through June 11, according to Dr. A. F. Litzenger, County Health Officer.

Blood tests to screen for diabetes will also be offered to persons 30 years of age and over in Boyne City. Persons who wish to be screened for diabetes should have a meal high in starch and sugar approximately two hours before the tests.

Dr. Litzenger said that the tremendous strides in tuberculosis control during the last decade have drastically reduced the death rate and emptied the tuberculosis sanatoriums—but unfortunately have also resulted in an attitude of complacency among the general public.

MICHIGAN Department of Health records show that the number of new cases of tuberculosis reported each year is declining very slowly—only two or three hundred fewer cases each year.

"At this rate of decline, tuberculosis will be a persistent and costly public health problem for a long time to come in spite of the fact that we have the knowledge and means available to eradicate the disease right now," Dr. Litzenger said.

According to the Michigan Department of Health there were 3,298 new cases of TB reported in Michigan in 1963, including 21 cases in Charlevoix County.

Dr. Litzenger said that an estimated 1,700 persons would be hospitalized for tuberculosis this year in Michigan—at a cost to taxpayers of around $12 million.

"INDIFFERENCE to tuberculosis is an expensive proposition," Dr. Litzenger said. "It's a public problem for which everyone must assume responsibility—private physicians, public health workers, and especially the public."

"If this were a dictatorship we could eliminate TB in one or two years simply by compelling everyone to have a chest x-ray every year until every case of tuberculosis was treated and cured."

"But this is a free society,

Open House Set at State Police Post

The Michigan State Police will hold their ninth annual open house at each post Tuesday, May 18, Hospitality Day of Michigan Week.

Visiting hours at the Petoskey post will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to Sgt. Jack Brouard, commanding officer.

PERSONS calling at the post will be escorted on tours of the quarters and see an exhibit of equipment and facilities.

"Visitors are always welcome at a State Police post," Sergeant Jack Brouard said, "but this is a special reception and a fine opportunity to see how a post operates and learn about the many activities of the State Police."

The Petoskey post is located approximately a mile south of Petoskey on US-131 and is easily identified.

and we must rely instead upon education and persuasion. The public must assume responsibility for controlling this disease by taking part in public screening programs such as the one we will be conducting in Charlevoix County.

Every individual should take it upon himself to make sure he is free from tuberculosis and is not unwittingly spreading the disease. Every head of a household should make sure that his family is not infected.

"I urge everyone to take advantage of the up-coming opportunity to be checked for possible signs of tuberculosis, heart disease, and lung cancer—especially those who have not had a chest x-ray or a physical examination recently."

RECEIVING the scholarship from Charlevoix is John W. Duerr of 209 Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duerr.

Other winners from the county are Harold N. Fisher, 2974 Lake St., East Jordan, and Michael A. Neymark, 1021 E. Main St., Boyne City.

about My MOTHER

Most all other things come by twos, threes, or even by dozens. See the roses, the stars, the sunsets. Ah, there's brothers and sisters, too, and uncles and aunts and cousins a plenty. But in all the whole big world there's just one mother. There's much more about my mother and good it all must be. In fact she's as good as goodness is, and that's enough for me. Her words are kind, her faith is strong, and her hope as high as the highest tree. You can see from here that she is a dear, — she means everything to me. Not one single emotion comes nearer the divine than my mother's love for me. She is the soaring cloud of radiant rapture that lifts me to new attempts and the strength I need to see me through. I'm taking my mother to church this Mother's Day — what about you???

WATER SHEP

This column, you may recall, has for several months been reporting speculation that there are catchable trout in Lake Charlevoix. Last Thursday Stan Lievens and I set out to prove it.

As the Conservation Dept.'s top fisheries man in the northern Lower Peninsula, Stan makes it his business to see that anglers have the chance to enjoy every sport fishing potential.

STAN HAS a state-wide, and maybe national, reputation not only for creating trout lakes, but also for his uncanny knowledge of the habits of trout in lakes. He not only knows how to introduce trout into lakes where they are not native, but if any man can catch them it's Stan.

Stan figures there are brown trout in Lake Charlevoix that would provide excellent sport if someone would just fish for them. But no one does.

If he could catch a few of them and some duffer were along to write and photograph the event Stan felt anglers would get interested and a new sports fishery would be created at virtually no cost. But first he had to have something to get the fishermen coming. Strictly in the line of duty, I tagged along.

Stan caught a trout. Now we're both convinced there are trout available for the catching. But we would have a hard time convincing you.

OUR ASSAULT on the unknown started at the mouth of Horton Creek. Stan said it looked like "fair" water for browns (Not good, very good or excellent).

Wading in knee deep water from 40-feet to 200-yards below the mouth of the little stream I copied Stan as he threw lures into the deeper water and dragged them back.

We'd only been fishing a few minutes when a "bunk" rapped the end of my Darddevle. I didn't connect so I asked the expert to come up and show me how. Being overly naive I figured this was it: In the next few hours we were going to catch dozens of big fish and within a few months hundreds of fishermen would flock to Lake Charlevoix to spend thousands of dollars.

Stan moved into the hole and promptly hooked the trout. It was one of the Conservation Dept.'s pseudo brookies, about 11 inches long. Bah!

WE FINISHED all the way around the lake then: The Boyne River mouth, Advance, East Jordan, Monroe Creek. We didn't land another fish.

Stan's analysis of the water is that the best fishing will be found down near East Jordan. Why? Because the water there is richer colored and the bottom is a darker brown, meaning there is life in it. In most of the big part of the lake the water and bottom is actually too clean, or sterile.

And it was here that we ran into some heavy action. First I hooked a big fish on a slowly retrieved Flatfish. I had been negligent in not cutting out a weak spot in my four pound test spinning line and it snapped as I started to let the fish make his first run.

A few minutes later Stan hooked another one. His bait: A Jig-A-Do streamer, which he designed for the Burke Lure Co. of Traverse City. He got the big fish side-up before it tore the hook loose. Stan, who should be as good at such guessing as anyone, judged its weight as 7-8 pounds. We couldn't swear it was a trout, but its silvery side and actions indicated it might be.

THE BEAUTY of this kind of fishing is that anyone can do it. Most fishing in Lake Charlevoix requires a fair size out-board boat. Not Stan's technique of angling for trout in a lake.

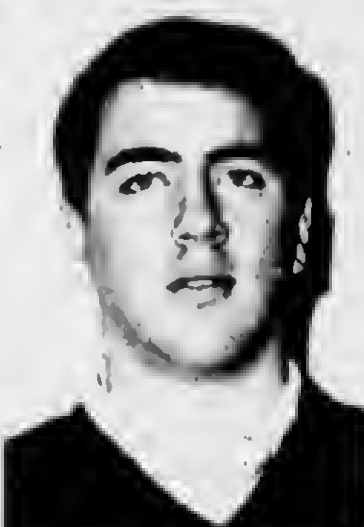

All you need is a pair of waders, dependable spinning rig and some of the more common lures. For lures try Stan's Jig - A - Do streamer (Clare Staley expects to get some, a small red-white Darddevle, pearl Darddevle, spinner, or whatever bait of this kind you have confidence in.

Find an area where water and bottom show signs of organic and aquatic life. Then walk out to about ten feet from the drop-off. You can spot it by the line where the water suddenly turns bluer, or darker. Pitch your lure out. Let it settle and bring it back. Experiment with retrieves of various speeds.

IF YOU'RE fishing from a boat try trolling right up against the drop-off. Or, if you spot a weed bed that looks good for pike, troll within a few feet of the weeds. Stan explains that the pike will be laying up in the weeds, but trout will be right outside of them.

Stan suggests you try wading just north of the East Jordan public beach. This is where we hooked the big ones. But remember, not even Stan knows where the trout are. And even though he can't prove it, he's sure they're in there. If he believes it I don't know of anyone who is qualified to deny it.

So how about giving it a try. It requires a minimum of effort. Go exploring on your own. If you find the trout let me know and I'll get in touch with Stan.

Medusa Portland Cement Co. shareholders sustained a net loss of three-cents per share during the first quarter of 1965, according to the company's quarterly report.

First quarter shipments declined 12% from the all time high of last year.

"THIS IS NO cause for concern since wintertime shipment volume is highly sensitive to the vagaries of weather," Ellery Sedgwick Jr., company president, stated.

Total billings, less discounts, for the quarter were $4,565,000. For the 12 months ending Mar. 31, 1965 total billings, less discounts, were $41,029,000.

ARCHITECT'S VIEW OF CENTRAL LAKE PLANT

New Plant Slated For Central Lake

Metals & Controls Inc., a corporate division of Texas Instruments Incorporated, announce the purchase of 58 acres of land for a new manufacturing facility in Central Lake.

Site preparation has begun and the first section of the new 10,000 sq. ft. plant is scheduled to be in operation by July, 1965.

Heading up the new plant will be Robert J. Achin. He served as resident engineer at Tecumseh Products Co., Tecumseh, Michigan.

John F. Wilson, M&C vice president, said the Central Lake plant is part of a ten-range program geared to meet anticipated demands by the refrigeration and air conditioning industries for electric motor and compressor overheat protectors, starting relays and thermostats. The building will have optimum flexibility so it can be adapted for up-to-date manufacturing technologies. Also, the new plant will use modular-type construction which will insure easy expansion when required.

Ellsworth Teachers Receive Pay Raise

When Ellsworth teachers return to their classrooms next September they will find fatter pay envelopes waiting for them.

The Ellsworth Community School District Board of Education has authorized a salary increase for its 14 teachers.

Robert J. Achin
Plant Manager

A variety of control devices for the electronic, aviation/aerospace, appliance and heating industries plus metalurgical products and nuclear fuel at its Attleboro, Mass. operation. Other Metals & Controls manufacturing plants are located in Versailles, Ky., Canada, Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Australia, Holland and Italy.

The raise will cost the school district approximately $3,800 next year.

WHAT IT amounts to for the individual teacher is $200 more for the 1965-66 school year than they are making this year.

Supt. Jerry Albright said the raise puts the district in a favorable position with other northern Lower Peninsula school districts of similar size.

Albright described the increase as a "very sincere attempt by the board" to give teachers as much pay as possible and remain within the district's budget.

"They (board members) know the need is there," Albright said, "but they also have a budget to work with."

ALBRIGHT SAID Ellsworth's pay schedule will remain among the lowest in the State, but won't look so low if only compared to those in northern Michigan.

In addition to salary hikes the board made minor changes in its fringe benefit policies. Under the new salary schedule a beginning teacher will make $4,500 a year (compared to $4,300 this year).

A teacher with six years experience will make $5,250, compared to $5,050 this year. At ten years experience a teacher will be making $5,850, up from $5,650.

TEACHERS WITH masters degrees will make $300 more than those with bachelors degrees.

Walt Kooyer Gets Top Sports Award

When the people came to buy their tickets for the Athletic Banquet it was to satisfy appetites and listen to a planned program.

What they didn't know was the talent the toastmaster possessed.

The speaker, Robert Johnston, told the audience, sports fans to receive its rightful credit for building character in a boy's life. He praised the Ellsworth players not only on their playing but on their sportsmanship, whether they won or lost.

Mr. Johnston said, "I know because I refereed in the Regional game last year."

Mr. Nidy said that because it was too light to show the movie that the program will be reversed. He introduced Mrs. Thompson, as the instructor of the Cheer Leaders. She presented the girls with awards. Mr. Nidy introduced Mr. Robt. Danforth and he presented awards to athletes for all sports.

This was the largest group of boys taking part in sports at Ellsworth. Mr. Danforth had a quip for each boy as he presented him with an award, naturally the shortest player got the biggest build-up ("wonder why?").

When the athletes from the Senior Class received their awards, a lump gathered in many throats, these boys have given the Ellsworth fans something to talk about ever since. They were in Junior High. Their willingness and spirit gave the other fellows courage to play their best.

The highlight of the program came when Mr. Danforth announced the selection of the boys for the Most Valuable Football and Basketball player and Most Valuable Sports Player awards.

With the large number of boys being selected to the All-Conference teams it must have created a difficult decision. Most Valuable Football Player is Walt Kooyer. Most Valuable Basketball Player is Chet Boss, and Most Valuable Player for 64-65 is Walt Kooyer.

The audience broke into a loud ovation when Kooyer's selection was announced. The "Hatchet Man" was a colorful athlete and his enthusiasm is unmeasured.

The selection of Chet Boss can not be overlooked, it will take two boys to fill his shoes. His ability to score was outstanding. One thing Mr. Nidy failed to tell us, is that Danforth was often busy till the moon disappeared. Mr. Albright held another surprise. He announced Robert Gaunt will be the new Coach for 65-66. Mr. Gaunt expressed the tremendous job he has, to uphold Danforth's record at Ellsworth. To finish a most successful event was the showing of the Bellaire - Ellsworth Basketball game film.

We welcome home our beautiful feathered friends and our fair weather friends.

You can see Mr. and Mrs. Vet Shooks sprucing up the lawn and digging in their garden.

Mrs. Jane Wieland rode the last 200 miles home with Dick and Doris Wieland. Dick and Doris had been visiting the Edward Taylor's and the Loren Hulziers.

The Robert Smalleys are anxiously waiting to move into the Coeling residence which they purchased.

THE LAST week of April brought the first planting of oats. Normally it would be the last planting of the small grain. The planting time for corn will be upon the farmer in two weeks. It appears that farmers all over the Midwest are pressed for time. A statement was made, the Midwest could plant a new crop, RICE.

MORE PEOPLE have traveled from Ellsworth this 64-65 season to visit other locations than any previous season. Mr. and Mrs. Thale Yetaw are on their way to the East for a three week vacation. One of their main interests of the trip is visiting the New York World's Fair.

BERNARD BEST will be spending one week at Purdue University. Mr. and Mrs. Best spent the May first weekend in Midland.

Jordan River Hatchery Gets Life From Creeks in Notch

A first-time visitor to the new Jordan River National Fish Hatchery near Alba might almost think he is in the Smoky Mountains.

The road leading into the hatchery west off US-131, about four miles south of the M-32 intersection, takes you on a steep, twisting drive for a quarter mile down to the floor of the Jordan River valley.

When you pull into the neat, almost sterile, visitors parking lot and look above the clean new brick buildings of the hatchery complex, high hills block the horizon on all sides. You easily imagine yourself in a natural setting.

The Fish and Wildlife Service carefully selected this charming site after rejecting 50 others. But not because of its scenic attractions.

From the notches between the highest hills to the east and north flow Five Mile Creek and Six Mile Creek. They provide the hatchery with 6,000 gallons of pure water a minute, year-round.

The creeks were so named because it required the use of bridge one and six miles to bridge the other when loggers first put a road through the area.

AT THE FOOT of the valley, and almost within bait casting distance of the lowest hatchery building, is the Jordan River.

Though the creeks have been diverted so they now supply the mammoth hatchery's needs, their water ultimately finds its way to the river.

The hatchery buildings are purposely constructed on different levels so the creeks can flow down from one through the other, and finally to the river and on to Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan and Lake Michigan at Charlevoix. No pumps are needed to achieve the necessary water pressure because the water flows in its natural direction.

FROM ITS humble beginning as a trickle on a hilltop tree this water goes on to nourish several million infant trout at the hatchery and ultimately into the big lake where it is hoped the trout will someday rear their own young.

Galen Butlerbaugh, manager, reports Jordan River is the largest hatchery in Michigan and the largest lake trout hatchery in the country. This spring 6 million trout were hatched there. It was the first full-production crop. The hatchery opened in December, 1964.

Buterbaugh, who lives in one of the family quarters buildings on the hatchery grounds, came to Jordan River last August. He is a professional federal hatchery supervisor. His home is Minnesota.

EUGENE MASON, 60, who lives in Charlevoix, also has his office at Jordan River. He is top man in the government's hatchery program to restock lake trout in the Great Lakes. Mason came to Michigan two years ago from South Dakota, where he was with another federal hatchery. He has been with the Fish and Wildlife hatchery program 34 years. He says he was "born and raised" in the hatchery field. His father owned a fish ranch in Colorado.

Another Charlevoix resident, Harold Newman, 403 Antrim, also works at the Jordan River hatchery. He is a fisheries technician and previously worked at the Charlevoix National Fish Hatchery.

SIX CHARLEVOIX women who used to work parttime at the Charlevoix hatchery, have been helping tin clip fingerling trout at Jordan River. Mason says they were extremely valuable to the hatchery because they had clipping experience and helped train the ten other women employed from the Alba area. The 16 women clip more than 5,000 fish each day.

The women from Charlevoix are Betsy Whitley, Laura Wells, Hope Sarasin, Beverly Brown, Irene Whitley and Audrey Mousseau.

Mason says it may be necessary to forever supplement natural reproduction of lake trout in Lake Michigan with fish from the Jordan River hatchery. He predicts the facility will always be needed. Lake trout from the hatchery are planted in areas of Lake Michigan where there is little small mesh netting by commercial fishermen, Mason said.

The occasional trout taken by a Charlevoix commercial fisherman, has, he said, been useful because it provided biologists with a chance to study the fish.

Through 1963, more than $5 million worth of improvements had been completed under Michigan's state park bonding program. These include additional campsites for 8,450 people, picnic areas for 4,000 more recreationists, expanded parking for 1,500 cars, four new lake impoundments, and a number of other facilities.

GALEN BUTERBAUGH holds a lake trout the size women in background are busy fin clipping at Jordan River Hatchery. Several of the women came from Charlevoix, where they had previous experience in the hatchery here.

THE CHARLEVOIX ORGAN CLUB will present a HOME-TALENT SHOW Sat. May 8 at 8 p.m. in the High School Gym. General Admission - 50¢

Sportsmen Find Michigan Tops

Michigan drew 1,740,811 licensed sportsmen during the 1964 fiscal year to boast the third largest force of registered hunters and anglers in the nation.

With 842,836 firearm enthusiasts and archers in its outdoor ranks, this state finished a shade behind front-running Pennsylvania in hunter numbers. Its sale of 1,178,581 hunting licenses, permits, and stamps produced a pace-setting revenue figure of $5,027,915.

MICHIGAN'S following of licensed fishermen totaled 897,748, good for fifty-place ranking among the nation's states. These sportsmen bought 1,073,901 licenses and stamps at a cost of $2,825,579.

As the year before, California fielded the largest army of licensed hunters and fishermen, while Minnesota had the second largest total, topping Michigan's combined figure for sportsmen.

Congressman Raymond Clevenger was introduced to a dinner meeting crowd in Charlevoix last month as the fellow from the UP who rode into office on Lib's coattails. To say the least this wasn't very complimentary. But, admittedly, a natural enough conclusion.

This column, however, isn't willing to accept this judgement. It appears more reasonable to conclude that Soo attorney and Democrat Clevenger won election thanks to hard work, party organization, adequate campaign contributions and his opponent—Incumbent Republican Vic Knox.

During my two-hour conversation with Clevenger in the Charlevoix Press Club, following his dinner meeting, it was impossible not to draw a comparison with Knox. Not once (except briefly at election time) did we find Knox in Charlevoix during the 16 months from October 1963 to January 1965. Yet in the four months since he has been in office Clevenger has spent a full day in Charlevoix County, and he has a much larger district than Knox had.

This becomes even more interesting when you realize Knox could count Charlevoix County voters as his friends. They voted for him.

But not Clevenger. He won in spite of the northern Lower Peninsula section of his district giving its votes to Knox. Since he has been in office (barely 120 days) Clevenger has constantly proposed programs to help his district. The fact that this column just about always disagrees with the theory behind Clevenger's proposals that the Federal Gov't can supply the answers to our local problems.

does not deter my respect, admiration and friendship for the Great Society—New Frontier disciple.

In Clevenger we find a thinker, a doer and a believer. Only ignorance can maintain party line barriers against such attributes.

Apparently it is asking too much to hope for a genuine Republican (a rarity these days) who will work as hard and be as effective as Clevenger in championing the cause of his constituents and his political philosophy.

If you ask what this column wants from Clevenger it is this: That his presence will stimulate a Republican candidate of even greater appeal. Until then...

AN INTERESTING side note on Clevenger's visit here cropped up in the person of Arthur Clevenger, 78 year old retired educator who lives between Advance and Boyne City on the Lake Shore Dr.

The elder Clevenger wrote the young congressman—39 years old—that he thinks they are distantly related. It seems the Clevenger family came to the U.S. about 1800 from England.

During his all-day swing through the county Ray stopped to chat with Arthur. It turned into a lengthy conversation. Arthur is basking in the northland's beauty after a lifetime as an educator including stints as a superintendent and at the University of Michigan and University of Illinois.

Though Arthur is a Republican, Ray reports blood is thicker than politics and he's glad of it.

BIG, IMPORTANT companies—especially those that crave a favorable public image—are forever putting out expensively intriguing annual reports.

These come on high cost paper and include an abundance of almost arty pictures, all put together by imaginative layout men.

Though it escapes me why these corporations go to such lengths to make their annual progress statements so appealing, I usually end up reading through them. Probably because my conscience bothers me if I ignore something others so obviously want read.

So last week Les Johnson sent over the Bell Telephone Co.'s 1964 report. It's the usual plush job.

As is customary, there's a pretty girl looking at you from the cover. And here is my complaint (Please take note, Les): There are a couple more winsome gals inside, but there should be more and they should be spaced throughout the book instead of all being toward the front.

MEARLE SCOTT may be a hardy seaman when it comes to conquering the secrets of Lake Charlevoix and the South Arm. But the fronton fishing outfit had better stick to northern Michigan.

Mrs. Scott reports Mearle didn't make out so well when he braved the Gulf of Mexico this winter. Seems he sat in the bow of their fishing boat and took turns holding first his mouth and then his stomach, with a cold sweat on his brow.

THE SAGE OF the South Arm, perky 82-year-old Sandy Sanderson, hasn't given up the battle yet.

"If they didn't call themselves the Honorable Board of Supervisors nobody else would," Sandy observed without malice. Until retiring this spring Sandy was a member of the board for going on 40 years, so he was including himself in this comment.

It's not the last of Sandy until they carry me out," he remarked when asked what he is doing now that he's no longer a member of the board.

He means it. Sandy's still fighting for stronger local government. He likes the lack of interest in local affairs and attitude that any dud makes a satisfactory township or city official.

WE WOULD HAVE never guessed it, but at last week's school board meeting Mrs. Fran Hooper revealed she, too, is a fan of The Man From Uncle on TV Monday evening. Trouble is, that has a board member she usually has Monday night meetings.

Just how many Charlevoix citizens do you suppose are missing this wingdinger of a program because they are public spirited enough to serve on the City Council and school board? Don't 'spose the TV network would consider putting the program on Tuesday evening next fall.

This editor would appreciate it and so, apparently, would Mrs. Hooper.

WHILE WE'RE ON the school board it's a little late, but this column's conscience would forever haunt it if there was no mention of the dandy poppy seed cake Mrs. Joe Martinchek contributed to post-board meeting harmony recently.

Now we know why Joe's such a fine fellow and good neighbor. Never did think it was his own doing.

Of Bataan & Trout

UNTIL RUMORS that it was closing prompted us to start digging into the history of the Charlevoix National Fish Hatchery. It was little more to us than a block building with a few large water troughs in it.

But after we sat down and talked to the people who are closest to the program we found the hatchery earning out its name. We couldn't help but compare it to the valiant, but hopeless, stand of American soldiers on Bataan in 1942. Though completely outgunned by the sea lamprey, the hatchery stood its ground and did its best to keep lake trout in Lake Michigan. As with the men on Bataan, this made it invaluable as the only symbol of resistance determined people had to inspire them.

TODAY THE biologists and big, new hatcheries are winning the battle. There is a day in the foreseeable future when the lamprey's domination will be a thing of the future. Sometime beyond that the day appears destined to arrive when lake trout will again be one of the major inhabitants of northern Lake Michigan.

Even to men of great imagination and vision this seems like a miracle. If man ever restores the lake trout population to anywhere near its former prominence it will be a miracle. . . but also much more. It will be one of the greatest man-made wonders of all time. Dwarfing others that were created out of pure selfishness and lust for power.

Which gets us around to asking what happens when the lake trout do return? Will we sit idly by and watch another creeping tragedy such as the lamprey caused? Or will man take the necessary action to protect that which he has restored?

WE CANNOT HELP but ask these questions. Man is too well known for his habit of slipping into apathy after a job is well done.

Shouldn't we begin taking precautions now? The answer, obviously, is yes. But the question, of course, is what is there to worry about?

Well, for a start, what about the booming alewife population? Couldn't it affect the lake trout and other desirable fish populations?

AND THERE IS commercial fishing. Whenever laymen meet with State and Federal fisheries people this question comes up. The experts avoid it. They don't like questions as to whether the hardy fellows with the nets were to a large measure responsible for the trout's disappearance.

Many sport fishermen hold with the notion that commercial fishermen so reduced the trout population that they were easy prey for the lamprey. The biologists have no positive answers for this question. The commercial fishermen categorically deny it. Sportsmen get their dander up and insist it is true.

We do not heap blame on commercial fishermen. But we look askance at sports fishermen who are so absolutely sure they are right.

Answers are needed. Now is the time to get them. Perhaps different types of regulations are needed on commercial fishing. If so, and if the reasons for them are logical and documented with scientific facts (instead of emotion and distrust) we feel confident the commercial fishermen we know will welcome them.

IT MAY EVEN BE that someday the value of recreational fishing and demands put on our resources will be so great they will make it reasonable to outlaw commercial fishing on the Great Lakes. We are not proposing this. Merely recognizing that times are changing. But we will have to remember that the lakes are a public resource, as are their fish.

If this does happen it will be a bitter pill for many of us to swallow. We cannot forget that the commercial fishermen—in spite of their modern equipment and methods—are a link with another day when a man was his own man. Already we have seen the ranks of commercial fishermen dwindle like those of the small farmer. But we'll not belabor the sports vs. commercial fishing subject longer.

Before we forget our original fears that man will ignore the possibility of future threats to the big lakes we must ask, again, what's being done about pollution?

We note there is still a bill pending in Lansing that would keep Michigan's notoriously poor pollution control program under political wraps. Citizens must demand that this responsibility be turned over to true conservationists. . . not bureaucrats.

Pollution is, even now, creeping north from the southern banks of Lake Michigan. It will be a long time getting here. But it will reach us—just as it did Lake Erie—unless it is eliminated in the southern part of the lake.

Our Library's Future

THE BOARD OF Education's continuing effort to build a new library remains on our list of needed community projects. As we have persistently maintained, the present library is inadequate and too costly to repair (approximately $25,000).

We cannot look with as much favor on suggestions that a new library be located in a different place. The corner of State and Clinton is ideal for the public library. It is near enough the center of town to be convenient for the majority of people, and yet far enough away to be in a quiet residential area where readers can concentrate and children are relatively safe crossing streets. Further, if the present building is left standing we fear it will ultimately be unwanted and deteriorate into an eyesore.

THE SCHOOL BOARD is now studying these proposals. We are inclined to trust its good judgement to decide the present site is the place for a new library.

The need for a new library is substantiated by the fact that the school board has not been able to spend all the money it originally intended to for new books. At least one of the primary reasons for this must be that there is not room in the old library for them.

In another couple of years the half-mill tax voted to support the library expires. Isn't it time now to begin preparing for this day?

The Courier continues to propose that organization of a Public Library Authority be seriously considered. Such Library Authority would be an independent governing body. It would not hold loyalty first to educating children or running a city. The Authority would have its own elected board members and a special tax voted to support it.

ALL AREA TOWNSHIPS could be invited to vote on joining the Library Authority, paying their share of tax and electing members to the governing board. What could be fairer or have a better chance of doing an impartial job?

We further suggest that Ellsworth be invited to join the Authority. Under Michigan law county lines are no barrier to such an organization. A branch office could be established in Ellsworth which would draw on the full resources of the main library in Charlevoix.

The idea may be slightly new here but does that mean we must ignore it?

Charlevoix of Yesteryear

HARDY MEN AND RUGGED horses were needed to bring the timber out of the big woods of Charlevoix County in the late 1800's. Here a load of timber comes out on its way to the mill, which was then located where Charlevoix Lumber Co. is on Round Lake. The picture was taken about 1895. The man on the ground is Percy Marsa. Mrs. Walter Smith, who donated the picture, could not identify the other men.

Our Art Fair Gains Prestige As One of Best

by Edith W. Gilbert

Citizens of Charlevoix have grown accustomed to the changing fashions on Bridge street that mark fishermen in spring, golfers in summer, hunters in fall and skiers in winter.

We accept the arrival of these seasonal sportsmen as casually as sunflowers and snowflakes.

BUT WHILE a few people weren't looking, a new kind of vacationer has made Charlevoix his headquarters—at least on the second Saturday in August. I'm referring to the artists and craftsmen who exhibit at the Charlevoix Waterfront Fair.

Exhibitors at this fair have spread the word far and wide that this fair is one of the most successful art fairs in the state.

Why? Is it because of the beautiful location on Round Lake? Or because it's organized by an extremely efficient committee under the capable leadership of Mrs. Jack Radar? Or is it because of the professional quality of the exhibits? All good reasons to make the fair a success to be sure!

But what motivates an artist to exhibit at any fair, particularly one where there are no prizes, no prizes, no differentiation between professional and amateur exhibits?

ATTENDANCE FOR one thing. We're blessed with the most sophisticated views in the state. Summer visitors from all over the country not only browse among the exhibits—but they buy!

They buy paintings for cottages and boats. They buy sculpture for their gardens in Chicago. They buy handmade jewelry to wear in St. Louis. They buy pottery for their tables in Memphis. They even buy paintings to hang in their New York apartments!

And they do much more. One summer visitor became so interested in a painter's work that he helped the artist obtain a scholarship to one of our State's finest Art Schools—Cranbrook. Last summer a sculpture student sold out his entire work and the funds provided him with enough tuition to continue his studies at Central Michigan University.

One aspiring artist, who had never exhibited before, became so encouraged, he's since had a one man show in Detroit; another won a prize in Cincinnati.

THE CHARLEVOIX Waterfront Fair has given many a midwestern artist or craftsman an opportunity to exhibit and sell his work to people from many parts of the country. It has given the summer visitor a few pleasant hours while browsing through the park.

But what has the fair done for the people of Charlevoix? We expect the merchants who sponsor the fair under the Chamber of Commerce to derive some benefits, but that isn't all. Because of the cultural stimulation ignited by the fair, numbers of Charlevoixans enjoy visiting Art Museums and Galleries when they go to New York, Chicago, etc. Others have been stimulated to paint or sculpt. Some have caught the collecting fever and hung original paintings in their homes for the first time. Many more have begun to question, to read, to become more informed.

In March, President Johnson asked Congress for Federal aid to be matched by nonprofit private groups to stimulate and encourage cultural activities in the United States. This idea is not new. Many European governments have subsidized the arts for centuries without restricting the artists. The President said: "Pursuit of artistic achievement, and making the fruits of that achievement available to all its people, is also among the hallmarks of a great society. The bill's Declaration of Purpose" stated that a "high civilization" must not limit its efforts to science and technology alone—but must give value and support in the "realm of ideas and of the spirit."

AS WE BEGIN to plan for the Seventh Waterfront Fair this summer, Charlevoix people may be proud of the fine example that's been established here.

This August the Detroit Art Institute will again send its Artmobile to us. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cummings will again exhibit original masterpieces from their private collection. Thousands of visitors will stream through Waterfront Park and more artists will enjoy the hospitality extended to them by the friendly members of the Committee of the Waterfront Fair.

There'll be some great art to look at—there'll be some good art to buy—there'll be some Sunday painters to encourage. Bridge Street will bustle with artists, craftsmen and collectors carrying canvases, ceramics, weavings, pottery and watercolors under their arms. It will be a full day—Saturday, August 14th—in Charlevoix.

Guest Editorial

LAPEER COUNTY PRESS

The U. S. Senate recently approved a proposal to write into all spending measures the pointed reminders that the money appropriated comes out of the taxpayers' pockets.

Let us hope that the House follows suit. The term "federal funds"—which we have seen applied to all manner of activities, from highways to welfare programs—has obviously misled many people. They seem to believe that this money comes from some mysterious source which has no relation to themselves.

The federal government can get money only in two ways. One is by taxes which hit us all hard. The other is by increasing the national debt which will have to be paid, plus interest and administrative costs, by the taxpayers of tomorrow.

The only money the government has, or ever has had, is that which it gets from you. It's time much more notice was given to this simple and inescapable fact.

LAPEER COUNTY PRESS

In an editorial, the San Francisco Chronicle dared to say what we have long thought but have not had the courage to say. The Chronicle noted that when the Star-Spangled Banner was played at the burial rites of President Kennedy, under circumstances that then existed, it possessed majesty and power and was in every sense an admirable national anthem.

"The effect," the editorial continued, "was in notable contrast with that produced by the shoddy renditions (generally canned) that annoy rather than inspire peanut-cracking, hot dog-munching, beer-and-bourbon-drinking fans at the outset of baseball games, football games, basketball games and—most regrettable of all—prize fights."

The custom of opening sports events with the anthem was inaugurated during the last World War. In our opinion it should be stopped.

As the Chronicle says, "The anthem is being debased and cheapened by over-exposure, atrocious renderings and inept timing."

Was it the sunshine or the calendar that prompted the Road Commission to get the picnic tables out for the season? . . . I didn't check with the office but I did see a couple truck loads being toted past my street. . . It could hardly have been the weather that brought about this action for there was still ice floating in Lake Michigan and had been a frost for several mornings in a row. . .

But everyone's hoping that one of those fine days balmy, warm winds will come out of the south to replace the cold blasts out of the northwest. . . But not if the long range forecast holds true for it says that we're to have above normal precipitation and below normal temperatures. . .

But weather or not, it's spring. . . Why? Because the wild animals are again invading the middle of town. . . This time it's a little raccoon that apparently hasn't been around very much for he was having quite a time making his way down the steep terrace behind the Roy Bennett's home on Clinton St. After a bit of skidding and braking he finally made it and did a bit of snooping around the neighborhood. . . He must belong to that family of 'coons that makes its home north of Park ave, along the channel. . . According to Mrs. B., this fellow looked like a newcomer to this world who must have been wandering around alone for the first time. . .

HOW ABOUT ALL those big catches reported after the opening day of the trout season? . . . Before you take off into outer space, I'm only kidding. . . Because there just weren't any big catches. . . A fact that has prompted the Conservation Department to consider setting the opening date of the season back a few weeks. . .

A lot of fishermen, discouraged by the lack of fish in area streams, are trekking north into Canada. . . but at last reports Canadian lakes are still covered with many inches of that blue ice that looks as tho' it's going to be around for a while. . . As a result they may not have any better luck there than here. . . tho' I'm told that the fish are there to be caught. . . if you're lucky. . .

Know what I miss this time of year? The perch runs we used to have. . . I was never much of a fisherman but I loved to go down on the dock and fish. . . Not so much for the fish I would catch (because I never got enough to make it worthwhile) but for all the people I'd meet and all the good conversation I'd enjoy. . . Made many good friends that way. . . And many times some of those fellows who fished for the love of fishing and not for the catch would share their fish with me. . . Miss those days. . . Maybe if they'd continued I might have become a fisherman. . .

OF INTEREST to many local residents who know him is the invitation to an exhibit at Bay City of cast bronze sculpture, Swedish Rya technique wall hangings and water colors by William W. Joseph. . . For those who might have an opportunity to visit Studio 23 Arts Center at 514 Center Ave, his works will be on exhibit from May 2 through 23. . . Anyone with this creative ability has my admiration. . . Since he's practically a native of this community, having been coming here all his life and spending a great deal of time here in recent years, I hope that those of you who can visit will the galleries while his works are on exhibit. . . Gallery hours are from 2 to 5 p.m. Friday through Sunday. . . So make this a "must". . .

WHAT WILL scientists come up with next? . . . The latest: Operation Tooth. . . That's right. . . they're asking the youngsters who are losing their so-called "baby teeth" to donate them to science. . . By using the teeth children lose, scientists can find out how much strontium-90 is being taken into the human body. Why teeth? They're easier to collect than bones and serve the same purpose. . . So, if your youngster wants to do his or her part to serve science and, incidentally, receive a button that he or she has done so, write to the "Operation Tooth" 1307 South Forest Ann Arbor and you will receive the information on how to do your bit. . . By the way, the Good Fairy, I'm told, is highly in favor of this. . .

For those of you who are interested in sports, don't forget the N.M.C.C. Conference track meet to be held at Kipke field May 10. . . It's the first time in a number of years that it's to be held here and it should be pretty interesting. . . I don't know why but many people don't care much for track. . . It's one of my favorite sports. . . probably because everything represents a personal accomplishment. . . Whether it's the hurdles, the mile, the high jump or the pole vault I like them because they represent an effort by an individual. . . Everyone must give of himself to be a winner. . . On a team, each member supports another but here it's one man against the world, so to speak. . . And there's a certain beauty about it all, too. . . as the vaulter soars over the cross bar, the runner takes the hurdles, the look on the athlete's face as he gives his "all" to win. . . One thing's for sure, it's a photographer's paradise. . . Keep that in mind when you go to Kipke's field next Monday. . .

I'VE NEVER BEEN in the desert but I've seen many pictures of it. . . as you all have. . . Probably the thing that amazes me the most are the beautiful, beautiful flowers in a rainbow of colors which grow from the cacti. . . and out in the midst of nowhere and without water. . . One doesn't have much of an opportunity here to witness this sort of things but last week I have the good fortune to see a cactus in bloom. . . a prickly, massive thing that you'd hate to stumble over. . . but from it was growing the loveliest pale lavender blossom, prettier than any orchid I think I've ever seen. . . It was in the breeze—a setting for it. . . The biggest and pinkest geranium I've ever seen. . . and one doesn't have flowers like that in bloom without caring for them. . .

Charlevoix Hosts Loop Track Meet

Charlevoix will be host Monday, May 10, to the biggest track meet held here this season.

All Northern Michigan Class C Conference schools fielding track teams will be here for the annual league meet, Del Terrill, Rayder coach, reports.

Meet preliminaries and field events will start at 2 p.m. Finals will start at 7 p.m.

OUT OF 48 Class C high schools in last weekend's 25th Annual Central Michigan University Relays Charlevoix captured 14 points, on a third in the mile relay, fourth in the two mile relay and fourth in the shuttle hurdles.

Charlevoix had 26 boys entered in the Relays. A total of 3,000 high school athletes from Class A, B, C and D schools were entered in the meet at Mt. Pleasant, Battle Creek St. Phillips finished first in Class C.

Running the mile relay for Charlevoix were Levi McClellan, Mark Bourgoin, Chip Terrill and Dave Smith. Floyd Parsons replaced Bourgoin in the two mile relay.

THE SHUTTLE hurdles were run by John Ferguson, Tom Webb, Bob Holtzman and Ron Puffpuff.

Terrill pointed out only three of these nine youths are seniors. McClellan, Bourgoin, Ferguson, Webb, Parsons and Holtzman will be returning next year.

In the high hurdles Ferguson and Puffpuff finished seventh and eighth out of a field of 80 boys.

First Ward Councilman William Fochtman said that when more money is spent on beach improvement it should go to the northside Lake Charlevoix beach.

COUNCIL ADOPTS $245,488 BUDGET

Monday's Council meeting was officially the public hearing on the 1965-66 budget. Not a single citizen was on hand to ask questions on the budget.

Councilmen unanimously adopted a $245,488 general operating budget; $296,000 electric utility budget; $36,335 water dept. budget and $16,000 sewer dept. budget.

REZONING FOR INDUSTRY OK'D

Hearing noobjections, Councilmen authorized rezoning from residential to industrial of the property on Carpenter immediately east of the former amusement park across from the softball field.

The rezoning was requested by Jess Penn, who reportedly plans to build an industrial plant on the property.

Water Level Will Go Up

-There is some good news for Michigan boaters, fishermen, and water users:

Levels of the state's inland lakes and streams should take a turn for the better this spring, according to the Water Resources Branch of the U.S. Geological Survey.

STARTING THE state off to a better year in 1965 have been this winter's generally above-average precipitation and frequent thaws which have raised ground-water levels in most of the agency's key observation wells in the state.

"Although ground-water stages are still in the low range, most are above a year ago, and levels this summer should be higher than last year if the favorable trend of precipitation continues at least until the growing season starts," reports P.R. Groux, hydraulic engineer technician with the USGS.

Levels of unregulated inland lakes have also shown some improvement and stream flows have been higher with some minor floods occurring in the southern part of the state; Groux adds.

Bingham said 88 students are expected to graduate on June 9. This is 18 more than ever graduated before.

has been active in Pep Club, Spanish Club, National Honor Society, Future Teachers of America, Chorus, Junior Play, Senior Play, debate and forensics. Community activities have included Girl Scouts, Episcopal Young Churchmen and being a Youth for Understanding exchange student to the Netherlands last year.

is now $876 available for the trophy case.

Leaving about $400 to go, Bergmann admits the students are in a real quandary as to how to raise this money. They've tried everything they can think of and just don't have any new ideas.

Among projects tried-most of them successfully to raise money were a house-to-house canvas, contact with former graduating class officers, cards to individual graduates, a dance, blanket toss, and display and donation tables at the city election and public meeting on Medusa.

If someone has an idea -- or a $400 check -- the students would like to hear from them.

Charlevoix Station Is Nerve Center in Fog-Bound Tragedy

The mist wallowed in Round Lake so thick that at times you couldn't see from the Beaver Islander's dock to Brown Marina.

And 50 miles north, in the Straits of Mackinac, 35 men were desperately fighting for their lives in the shoal-laden, fog-shrouded passage between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron.

THE GRAVE faces and determined eyes of Lt. Cdr. Charles Millradt and those around him in the communications center of the comfortable Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the railroad bridge seemed to mirror the tragedy.

Three radios squawked and jabbered. Telephones rang constantly. The teletype to Cleveland clattered demandingly.

In the first minutes after the two ships rammed together in the Straits about 10 a.m. Friday it was here, in the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station, that rescue coordination operations were centered. The station acted as a sort of nerve center for the operation.

Cdr. Millradt immediately, upon hearing that the Bradley line's Cedarville had been hit by the Norwegian freighter Topdalsford, 1 1/2 miles northeast of the Straits, ordered the 40-foot and 35-foot rescue boats he commands at the Mackinac Island Coast Guard Station, out into the blinding mist that filled the northern lakes passage.

THE CREWS of these tiny boats were to pick up survivors (if need be), inform Millradt of the situation by radio relay through the station on Mackinac Island, and assist where possible.

MORE COAST GUARD NEWS ON PAGES 5 & 9

At that time no one knew if the accident was serious. Millradt, with Chief Ed Pyrzynski directly assisting him, handled radio, telephone and teletype communications as he rapidly started putting together the first accurate picture of the as yet unseen drama.

Word went out immediately to other Coast Guard command centers in the north. An airplane was sent north from Traverse City. The Sundew was ordered north from Charlevoix. The mighty ice breaker Mackinac turned its bow north from Cheboygan. Civilian ships were ordered into the operation.

AND ALL THE time Ninth Coast Guard District Headquarters in Cleveland kept the teletype in the Charlevoix Station banging away. It wanted to know what was happening.

A visitor to the Charlevoix Station rapidly realized during the first hours of the rescue that Millradt and his crew probably had more information on what was actually happening in the Straits than anyone else in the world.

Corps Plans Work on Channel This Summer

Mayor E. D. Hawley Tuesday repeated the City Council's request that the Corps of Engineers avoid major construction work in the Pine River channel during July and August.

The Corps, in a special report requested by the Courier, revealed for the first time to Hawley's knowledge that indefinitely plans to work in the channel this summer.

WORK ON a $1 million rehabilitation project in the channel will begin this summer, Corps Technical Liaison Office Chief Michael Perrini, informed the Courier.

City Council, in giving its support to the Corps' plan to repair the channel, made it clear it did not want work done during the summer months.

Hawley said he does not think the Corps' operations will seriously harm the community's summer economy, but feels it will be a definite nuisance that boaters will not appreciate.

The mayor said he would prefer to see the Corps delay start of its repair work until September.

Perrini outlined the Corps' plans for the channel here in the following report.

"U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Detroit District status report on Charlevoix Harbor is outlined as follows: 'The study on rehabilitation of existing navigation structures is nearing completion. This is not to be confused with any new work on the Pine River Channel. New work on the channel is to be considered as a separate project and is discussed further on in this article.'

"The rehabilitation work will involve encasing revetments along the Pine River Channel from Lake Michigan to Round Lake and the revetment adjacent to the Belvedere Club, along the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix, with steel sheet piling, tied to an anchorage system.

"The outer 50-foot portion of the north pier is to be rehabilitated by encasement with steel sheet piling."

"THE REHABILITATION of the revetments on the south side of the Pine River Channel between Lake Michigan and Round Lake is scheduled to be initiated this summer (1965) and to be completed in 1966.

"The remainder of the structures to be rehabilitated are scheduled to be started in the summer of 1966 and to be completed in the summer of 1967.

"Cost of the rehabilitation work is about one million dollars."

"The Corps of Engineers is currently in the process of negotiating with local property owners for easement rights over a 50-foot strip of land to revetments between Lake Michigan and Round Lake. This involves only the rehabilitation work. The Corps of Engineers had not obtained any land rights as yet.

IT HAPPENED HERE—Lt. Cdr. Charles Millradt points out on a chart held by CWO James Seidl where the collision of the Cedarville and Norwegian ship happened 1 1/2 miles northwest of Old Mackinow Point. As information filtered in from various ships in the Straits Millradt and the men of the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station put it together and worked to coordinate the rescue effort.

Federal Loan to Help Bring New Industry to Hayes Twp.

Only routine details must be completed before construction will begin on a plant in Hayes Township for Lexalite Corp., John Michael, attorney for the Charlevoix Development Corp., reports.

Lexalite, Michael said, will employ 15-20 people immediately and probably more than 100 in 3-5 years.

FINAL arrangements must be settled for an $80,000 Small Business Admin. (SBA) loan before construction can begin, Michael said.

An additional $20,000 is being put up by the Development Corp.

With this $100,000 the Development Corp. will construct a plant and lease it to Lexalite, Michael explained. Lexalite will pay 1% interest a month on the lease. The SBA loan will be at 4% annually. The plant will be on a 4 1/2 acre site directly north of Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant on US-31 and Lake Michigan. It will be purchased from Ed Shanahan.

MICHAEL SAID preliminary details have been worked out with the SBA. Development Corp. and Lexalite officials are expected to meet with the SBA next week to complete paperwork for the loan.

Lexalite hopes to be in business as soon as possible, Michael said.

Josh Barnes is general manager of Lexalite. He is familiar with Charlevoix due to past visits during pleasure boat cruises.

Viet Death Felt in Charlevoix

The connection seems rather distant, but as far as the Courier can determine, the tragedy of military casualties in Viet Nam has touched Charlevoix for the first time.

Airman 1/c Robert W. Doss, 27, was killed April 27 at an air base in Viet Nam by a fragment from an exploding plane.

DOSS IS THE grandson-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Fred V. Tyler of Alice St., Charlevoix. Mrs. Doss is the daughter of Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. Earl E. Broussard of St. Ignace. Mrs. Broussard is the Tyler's daughter.

Mrs. Doss is well known to several Charlevoix people. She and her husband also visited her on occasion.

Airman Doss's death left two sons and a daughter fatherless. Mrs. Doss is expecting another child in September.

Mrs. Doss, who is living in Virginia, was interviewed two days after her husband's death by a reporter for the Richmond, Va., News Leader. He wrote:

AIRMAN DOSS had been in that war-torn country less than two weeks.

An hour after Mrs. Doss received the death telegram from the Pentagon the postman delivered a letter from her husband.

"He was a good Samaritan-type guy. He was friendly and wanted to help everyone," the reporter quoted Mrs. Doss as saying of her husband.

Her children, in a back bedroom, were playing and laughing unaware that their father would never return home.

"I HAVEN'T told them the news," Mrs. Doss said. "They're too young to understand."

"I have no bitterness because it could have happened any place. It could have happened at his base in Michigan where he was doing the same kind of work," she continued.

Young Doss, who expected to make the Air Force his career, had been stationed at Kincheloe Air Force Base in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. They lived there in barracks-type housing until early this month.

"I had known something was coming," Mrs. Doss said. "A year ago, he received overseas (medical) shots and his passport."

"ABOUT THREE weeks ago, he called me from work and told me he was going to South Viet Nam. I cried my head off."

"When he received his orders," Mrs. Doss continued, "he was half excited about it. But I don't think he really wanted to go. He was scared just like everyone else who receives orders for Viet Nam."

County Industry Climbs To Highest Point Ever

Industrial property in Charlevoix County is worth more than half the total value of all residential property in the county.

As far as is known the ratio between industrial and personal property is nearer to being equal than at any time in history.

THE TOTAL taxable valuation of industrial buildings, machinery, inventory, real estate, etc., has been set at $14,261,283. Residential property value is set at $28,052,973.

These figures were compiled by County Equalization Director Russell Curtis. Curtis has compiled the most complete report ever available showing the valuation of different types of property in every township and city in the county.

Curtis puts property in six basic categories: Agricultural, commercial, industrial, residential, timber - cutover and utility.

HIS FINAL figure shows all property on the tax rolls in the county totals $55,763,300. Because taxes are levied against one-half of theoretical true cash value, Curtis' figures have to be doubled to obtain a total county valuation. If you do this the conclusion is that all property on the tax roll in Charlevoix County is worth $111,528,600. Industrial property is worth $28,522,568 and residential $52,105,946.

However, these figures would not be complete because they do not include tax exempt state, county, federal, school, city and church property.

By percentage of the whole, Curtis finds industrial property makes up 25.58% of the county total, and residential makes up 46.72%.

TOTALS in the county for other categories are agriculture -- $4,516,059 (8.10%); commercial -- $8,181,357 (14.64%); timber cutover -- $688,527 (1.23%); and utility -- $2,081,101 (3.73%).

The City of Charlevoix has the highest percentage of residential property of the county's three cities. The taxable valuation of residential property in Charlevoix is set at $5,682,659 which is 65% of the city's total equalized valuation of $8,703,383.

This compares to 49% in Boyne City and 36% in East Jordan.

Charlevoix's equalized valuation, however, is the highest in the county. East Jordan's is $5,106,761 and Boyne City's $6,180,045.

In East Jordan industry is valued at 42% of the total. In Boyne City it is 24%.

CHARLEVOIX also has more commercial valuation than the other cities. Charlevoix's commercial property is valued at $2,326,650 (26%). East Jordan's commercial property is valued at $631,667 (16%), and Boyne City's at $1,259,235 (20%).

VENETIAN PREPARATIONS—Mrs. Edward Linse, left, and last year's Venetian Festival Queen Marcee Wallace check markings on this station wagon. The wagon will be used as a courtesy car for the 15-20 guest queens who are expected to take part in the 1965 Venetian Festival. Mrs. Linse is guest queen chairman. The guest queens will be interviewed at the band shell Saturday evening, July 24, and will ride in the parade earlier in the day.

Mrs. H. Tarsel, Mrs. Hilda Crowe, Ethel Kroll, Evelyn Alexander, myself and our teacher Lula Brock and our school children attended the annual Festival of Song at Boyne City Tuesday morning in their high school gymnasium. What a rewarding experience listening to the singing and dancing of the children from the County who receive a portion of their training and education by radio from the University of Michigan. You may find it difficult to realize that these children when they sing and present their dances, have never had a single complete rehearsal. Until then, most of them have never even seen their radio teacher, all preparation has reached them over the air waves and by tape, prepared by the University radio teacher, Ruth Clark, and the classroom teacher's supervision, makes this festival so worth while to attend. We commend our local teacher for her work and training. We were proud of our school children and the part they played.

God's Soil

...and it's time to conserve it...time to save it! It is evident, when we witness the increased destruction of timber lands, national cover crops and wide-spread erosion, America needs a national Save-The-Soil-Week. It is urgent that we treat Mother Earth with greater respect and appreciation. We must give back to her as much as we take away. There's no better time than during National Save-The-Soil-Week, to come to a full realization that "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." We are stewards, appointed by God, to look after the earth He gave us. It is time to renew your faith in God and the Good Earth.

Sundew Report

By L. Allen McLaughlin

Monday, May 3, marked the spring placement of the U.S. Coast Guard aids to navigation by the cutter Sundew, operating out of Charlevoix.

Aids to navigation, including more than 7 buoys in various sizes are being placed in operation in the waters of northern Lake Michigan and Lake Huron. Although the navigation season on the Great Lakes officially opened March 15, extensive ice conditions in the northern lakes prevented earlier placement.

The buoys were readied by Coast Guardsmen, for the navigation season at Charlevoix and Mackinaw City where they are stored during the winter months.

Various types and sizes of buoys will be placed at shoals and reefs and at the Mackinaw Bridge from Grand Traverse Bay through the Straits of Mackinac to 3 miles beyond St. Mary's River at False Detour, south of Lake Huron to the Thunder Bay area and west on Lake Michigan to Manitowish. The ship will also check and replace, if necessary, winter buoys and markers.

Charlevoix Coast Guard Flotilla Set for Duty

At the dinner meeting at The Argonne, a charter was granted for a flotilla in the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary for a group of 20 people from Charlevoix and Petoskey.

A total of 110 people attended and included Mr. Leslie Batchelder, Division Captain of Muskegon, Mr. Joseph Day, District Commander of Chicago, and Commander Howard C. Robinson, of the 9th Coast Guard District, of Cleveland.

Also in attendance were Flotilla Commanders from Traverse City, Cheboygan, Muskegon, and Alpena. *See below

Outdoor Rambling

The majority of Charlevoix anglers reading this rambling are in for disappointment this summer if they hook a trophy fish. They'll lose it.

That's the plain and simple truth of it. Personal experiences and those of other observers of the outdoor scene leave no doubt but that most fishermen are not ready for the moment of truth when they tangle with a really big fish.

SOMETIMES they miss that once-in-a-lifetime, or once-in-a-summer, fish simply because they don't have the know how to land it. But more of ten it is because they are fishing with poor equipment.

How many of you, for instance, thoroughly cleaned your reels before taking them out this spring? Are you sure all the parts are working and are not worn in such a way that they will bind up at the crucial moment?

Most important, does the drag work smoothly on your reel? If you bought a spinning reel that has a retail price of less than $20 chances are the drag never was dependable. And even if you paid $20 or more you have no assurance it will work.

If it doesn't, you're a lost soul. Just as a gonorrhea shot will tie into a big fish this summer.

IT ALSO TAKES a darn fool to try to use the same monofilament line two years in a row. It just isn't worth it. Line gets kinks and weak spots in it. For a couple bucks you can get a new line and confidence.

SPINNING reel spools pre-wound with line, such as these for the Mitchell reel, are a fisherman's best bet. They give you the line that can bind when a lunger is making his run and, if you have a spool to trade in, they cost no more than buying the line separately.

I probably go through 800 yards of mono line a season, in weights from four pound test to ten pound test. Everytime I'm done fishing I cut off five to ten feet of line. Just to be sure there are no flaws in the line time I go out. If you're not sure of your equipment, and you really enjoy fishing, it only makes sense to start over fresh. Buy yourself at least one good spinning reel. You deserve it. And remember, if you take care of tackle (clean and lubricate it regularly) it will last for years; proving cheaper in the long run than junk equipment that must be constantly replaced.

IF I HAD to fish with just one reel it would be a Mitchell 300, or other quality open-face spinning reel in that category. My first 300 landed everything from 20 pound lake trout and giant Alaska sheefish and salmon to bluegills and arctic grayling. When I finally swapped it the only reason was I had the bug and was single and had the money. Mitchell now makes a version of the 300 it calls the 330 that is fully automatic; it only costs a couple bucks more and is probably worth the money.

This column could go into a great deal of discussion on fly fishing and plug casting rods and reels. However, the best advice here is to buy such tackle off a person who is accomplished with it, or ask a fisherman who is before you put your money up. It costs no more to buy balanced tackle that fits your needs.

IF YOU HAVE a fondness for fishing the many small bass and pike lakes around Charlevoix I suggest you think about buying a good plug casting outfit and learn how to use it. Fishing small lakes often requires precision casting to penetrate lily pads and weed beds. This can best be done with a plug outfit.

New innovations have pretty much taken the backlash of plug casting with good reels; these include the Garcia Ambassador series (especially like the little 2850) or the Heddon Heritage. If you're interested in landing that big fish you might hook this summer, take a serious look at new tackle. Or make sure your present equipment is in top notch shape.

For a complete look at what's best in new tackle send for manufacturers' catalogs. Remember, the price in the catalogs is as much as 40% higher than you can usually have to pay.

GARCIA-MITCHELL will send you its Fishing Annual (complete with 90 pages of stories and pictures and 100 pages of tackle) for 50¢. Write The Garcia Corp., P.O. Box 339, Teaneck, N.Y. Heddon's catalog, which also has some interesting tips and ideas in it, along with rods, reels and lures, will cost you 25¢. Write James Heddon's Sons, Dowagiac, Mich.

of glass you can find. Buy a hollow glass rod of name-brand quality that is balanced with your new reel.

WHAT THE manufacturers call a light action rod in about seven footlengths probably the sportiest thing for spin fishing in the Charlevoix area. Such a rod will balance up well with the type spinning reel we've been discussing.

I regularly use seven rods--two fly rods, two spinning rods and three plug casting rods. And I buy just two types: The Heddon Mark II series or Garcia--Conlong blue series. Both of these are the lower (not lowest) priced line the manufacturers sell. But I've found they have the same accuracy as their high-priced models, the only thing lacking is the fancy trim. Other glass rods, even those of the biggest manufacturers, don't satisfy me.

RAMBLING

The most discredited boat in recent Charlevoix history is being resurrected as a proud member of the pleasure boat fleet.

The infamous, unwanted, Buddy-L of Sault Ste. Marie has lived a notorious life. She was built, so the oldtimers say, to outrun the revenue boats during the prohibition era.

Then she was relegated to more honorable, but less dashing, work as a fish tug. As the commercial fishing industry lost its financial lustre she fell into disrepute. For several years—under the ownership of Pat Martin and Carl Schultz—she lay on her side along the north shore of Round Lake and down near fronton, or floated like a derelict in Round Lake. She was scorned by many who felt she was an eyesore. Others looked on her scaling green and grey sides with contempt.

But no longer. The gentle, patient and skilled hands of 73-year-old Geoffrey (Skip) Patrio are putting new spirit in her lines.

Skip bought the old Buddy-L last fall. He spent the winter working on plans to rebuild her 36 feet as a pleasure yacht.

This spring he started work. Now the Buddy-L lays in a slip at Fairport Marina, where Skip works with son Dave and Phil Lawrence.

"She's strongly built," Skip points out. "But she's had a hard time. She's been neglected."

In spite of her years of neglect, Skip says she is plenty sound.

The Buddy-L, Skip explains, has a modified V bottom, like a pleasure boat hull.

With a small pipe jutting from under his heavy mustache, Skip recalls that the Buddy-L will be the fourth boat he has restored. But he sorta figures to keep this one.

A friend of his, over Cheboygan way, spent 20 years building a boat from scratch. "That's too long. Look at all the good boating years he wasted," Skip says.

Before moving to Charlevoix in the early 1950's to become part of the then new Fairport, Skip spent 40 years in Cheboygan as a telegrapher for the "Old Northwestern (Railroad) line."

Tacked inside the cabin of the Buddy-L are Skip's plans. He has already installed new walk-around decks. Next the cabin will come off and a more streamlined, pleasure boat-type, cabin will be built inside the decks. She will also get a modern engine.

Skip hopes to launch the resurrected Buddy-L (probably with a less disreputable name) next spring sometime. Of course, he will be the captain.

But for the moment he doesn't seem to be in a hurry. There's time for talk and throwing a few slices of bread to the swan that visits him three times daily. (The swan, incidentally, is a heartbreaker. Bread is his favorite dish.)

It seems to this columnist that when the new Buddy-L is launched on her maiden next year we may be ought to make something of the event. Perhaps even an informal christening by the Mayor.

Though Skip's having fun—and is going to have more—his efforts are making a contribution to a more beautiful Charlevoix.

BRUCE HENLEY is telling around these days that his son, Ned, has hit on a new and almost foolproof angling technique. We adults should hang our heads in shame for not thinking of it years ago. Ned's formula is to stomp and holler around the edges of small creeks when he's pursuing trout to make sure they're awake and he has their attention. Dad reports the lad catches fish.

IF YOU CAN digest any more lets ramble down to the Round Lake waterfront. All about us we see the start of a beautiful park and the potential for more. The question bothering us is why doesn't somebody get with it?

The value of Bridge St. property is going up almost weekly. Unless a few of the high sounding folks we've been listening to quit beating our ear drums and organize (with a healthy petty cash fund) it's soon going to be impossible to buy up the remaining buildings on the east side of Bridge St. and dedicate the property to the city.

Equally exasperating is the fact that no one seems to be doing anything about plans for a museum, new chamber of commerce and public restrooms. True, the City Council has been stymied by the Waterways Commission.

But that's no reason others who talk about wanting a museum can't get to work. What they need is chamber leadership.

Wouldn't it be a grand scheme to put up a waterfront building that would complement the view and provide museum, restroom, showers, chamber offices and a cultural center?

President Johnson, a local lady tells us, has decided the Federal government should subsidize culture. With a little leadership perhaps some of the money Uncle took from us would be returned for a museum and cultural center. The logical place for the museum is where it will attract tourists and parking is available. It has been proven that museums and cultural exhibits attract vacationers. So lets put it where we can present our best face.

Notions that the public library should be turned over for a museum get no support from this corner. The present library location is the best place for a new one. It is convenient for the majority of adults and children and is primarily for the use of year-round and summer residents.

But the museum is something else. Of course those of us who live here all year will get the most enjoyment from it. But it will also offer a bonus by stopping some of the thousands upon thousands of people who now pass through town with no more than a long look at East Park.

The museum could also be an important resource for capturing some of the spring and fall tourist business Charlevoix is missing.

Received the following request for information on a ship that appears to be in the bottom of Lake Charlevoix. If you have the answers why not give us a call and we'll pass them on to Errol Burton, who sent us this note:

I am doing a research project on a ship that sank in Lake Charlevoix in either 1923 or 1928. The Name of the ship was Kuka. I have exhausted all sources here in Saginaw.

My information if it is correct states that it was a gambling ship and was in Charlevoix for refitting after a fire. She caught fire again and sank. I know she is up there because I have been on the wreck numerous times.

I would like to know where she came from, what size she was and any other information

THERE WERE 3,273 total claims for unemployment insurance during April. Compensable claims totaled 2,958 and $93,591.50 was paid out. Total claims for the week ending April 29 were 563 for the Tri-County Area of Emmet, Charlevoix and Otsego Counties.

Registration May 21 For Kindergarten Students

Friday, May 21, has been designated as enrollment day for children of the Charlevoix school district who will enter the kindergarten in September, Glenn B. Silder, Charlevoix elementary principal, announced.

Parents of children whose surname (last name) begins with any letter from "A" through "K" are asked to register the preschoolers between 9-11 a.m. May 21.

Children whose surname begins with any letter from "L" through "Z" must be registered between 1-3 p.m. Friday, May 21.

Parents are asked to bring the child's birth certificate and immunization record.

Mrs. Jeanne Miles, school and community nurse, will be present to confer with parents and begin the school health record.

The 1960 Michigan Immunization Law requires a record of vaccinations, triple shots and Salk (polio) shots, and or oral vaccine, signed by a doctor, which will become a part of the child's health record at enrollment time.

To be eligible for kindergarten in the Fall, a child must be five years of age by Dec. 1.

All parents whose children will be enrolled in kindergarten next fall are urged to register the children. There will be no school for current kindergarteners on that day to permit registration of new students.

Police Caution Parents About Springtime Trouble

Because child molestation incidents increase heavily in spring and summer, parents should caution their youngsters now against going for walks or rides with any stranger, report State Police Sgt. JACK BROUARD, commander of the PETOSKEY post. Sheriff Glenn Rose and Police Chief Joseph Smith. They advised that this seasonal warning be occasionally repeated to children as they are outdoors more in good weather months. Police, they said, each year investigate many cases of child molestation and a large percentage could have been avoided if the children had been forewarned. The high months for such sex offenses are in summer.

Brownie Troop 266 met at Mrs. Carter's home. We made Mother's Day presents and wrapped them. We elected officers: Susan Donaldson, president; Cathy Worfel, treasurer; Linda Johnson, scribe. Tina Black brought the treat. We closed with a good night circle.

WHERE ADULT supervision over children in outside activity is not possible, parents were asked to insist that their youngsters be in company with others. A child alone on a playground, exploring a vacant building or loitering in an alley can too easily become the prey of a molester.

Any incidents involving molestation of children should be promptly reported by parents to police. Names of minors molested and their parents are not made public except where warranted in cases of abduction or murder. They listed these guides for parents in cautioning youngsters about molestation dangers:

Children should not go for walks or rides with any person without parental approval.

Since there is greater safety in numbers, children should have companions going to and from school, at playgrounds, going to or from movies, when running errands, etc.

BECAUSE public rest rooms, isolated places or vacant buildings can be high danger areas, children should be instructed not to loiter there.

Youngsters should be advised to remember unusual features about a suspected molester and about any car which may be involved.

Children having questions about their safety or suspecting a stranger should report the matter to parents, teacher or police.

THEY'RE OFF—Running on the just-completed Charlevoix High School track, these Northern Michigan Class C Conference athletes take the first hurdle in Monday's meet. Charlevoix won, giving it the league championship.

Charlevoix High Captures 1965 Conference Track Title

Charlevoix High School won a hard, but emphatic league track title Monday.

The Rayder track squad swept the annual Northern Michigan Class C Conference meet here with 53 points, to earn the 1965 track championship.

EAST JORDAN placed second with 45 points. Harbor Springs was third with 33, followed by Boyne City with 25, Mancelona with 16, Gaylord with 7, Pellston with 6 and Grayling with 5.

Rayder Coach Del Terrill said the meet indicated a growing interest in high school track due to the record number of entries.

Charlevoix's John Ferguson broke the 120 high hurdles conference record with a time of 15.7 seconds. The record was set in 1954 by Charlevoix's Bill Bennett, who ran it in 16 seconds flat.

The Rayders' Dave Smith came within one-tenth of a second of matching the half-mile record when he ran it in 2:07.6.

Charlevoix won firsts in the high hurdles, 880, low hurdles and mile relay.

Last weekend the Rayders placed second at the Oscoda Invitational meet, with 45 points. Farwell won the team meet.

Charlevoix athletes broke two records at Oscoda. Ron Puffpaft broke the old broad jump mark with a distance of 21-2 1/2. Dave Smith set a new 880-yard record of 2:03.

In a three-way meet with Gaylord and Grayling last week the Rayders came out easy victors with 112 1/2 points and 9 of 13 firsts. Gaylord finished second with 45 points, followed by Grayling with 19 1/2.

New Camp Program Pioneered Locally

A new type of camping PFD-PAD is being introduced by the Lutheran Church of East Jordan to boys of the Michigan District of the American Lutheran Church.

The title is an abbreviation for PFD-PAD, this means one course of the program will be traveled by bicycle and the other course is planned for the use of canoes.

The camp program is scheduled for eight weeks starting July 5 and ending August 28. Each week a new group of eight boys will participate in the camp-out.

A counselor and a guide will begin on Monday of every week at East Jordan and travel with bicycles through the Jordan Valley and Pleasant Valley area. The cycling trip will take two days and will cover 75 miles. They will carry their own provisions for the entire week.

At a designated spot at the north end of the Chain of Lakes the group will exchange bicycles for canoes for a journey down the lakes.

Rev. Warren Salveson, Minister of the East Jordan Lutheran Church has planned sites for the group to set up camp. The boys will have 3 1/2 days to make the journey to Elk Rapids by canoe.

Forty-eight boys have signed up from parishes in Ohio and southern Michigan. The boys must be high-school students, sophomores, juniors and seniors. The group will rough-it from Monday to Saturday in which time each boy will take part in the daily spiritual program.

Worth Waiting For

AT TIMES DURING the past year the Courier has expressed mild impatience with the City Council for its slowness in moving to create a much-needed planning commission guided by professional consultants. However, after last week's judicious decision to create a Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission we feel our long wait has been worthwhile.

WE ARE, INSTEAD, gratified to see the wisdom of City and Township leaders so obviously demonstrated. Community planning that will take in all of Charlevoix Township as well as the City is indeed the logical answer.

Furthermore, we are inspired by the foresight of City and Township officials in leaving the door open for neighboring Hayes Township and Marion Township to join the Regional Planning Commission.

Certainly, as Charlevoix grows these townships are becoming ever more closely allied to the city. Likewise present and future building in the city and surrounding townships affects all.

It should also be noted that the city's cost of hiring a professional planner was reduced approximately $7,000 by uniting with the Township. Charlevoix Township's cost was reduced an equal, or greater, amount.

CITY COUNCIL and the Township Board have still to appoint planning commission members. Some of the early appointments will most likely be disappointing. We say this not as pessimists or to cast doubt on the judgement of Council and Board members. But from experience.

Planning Commission members must be people not only of imagination and ideas, loyalty to the community, unselfishness, and with time to devote. They must also be strong individuals who can stand up to criticism from close friends when they make a decision that inconveniences individuals or violates tradition.

After long study and careful consideration the commission is going to find that in coming decades areas that are now considered residential will be best suited to commercial and industrial use. There will be other equally unpopular decisions. In 20 or 30 years they will prove justifiable and the community will realize it is indebted to the commission for making them. But at the present it will take strong men and women to stand behind them.

By listening to the professional consultants and studying the action of other planning groups, the commission is going to find almost unbelievable possibilities for the future of Charlevoix. If their job is done thoroughly we can look forward to bold new ideas that will inspire all of us.

However, Charlevoix has several obvious problems that the commission will, of course, tackle...and, we trust, solve. These include a business district that is becoming too crowded; blighted housing that must literally be destroyed; lack of future industrial sites; need for coordinated beautification of commercial areas, and expansion of recreation facilities.

THE COMMISSION, we suspect, will find that the logical solution to enlarging and improving the business district is to expand it west so that it fronts on both State St. and Bridge St.

The major sub-standard housing area is immediately north of the airport. By turning this into an industrial park two problems can be whipped at once.

The commission can eliminate one of the community's biggest headaches by drafting a stringent building code.

The Council and Township Board, we repeat, have acted wisely. The Courier feels privileged to be able to thank and applaud them.

Teachers' Salaries

CHARLEVOIX TEACHERS and the Board of Education have, in our opinion, concluded their salary negotiations considerably wiser and richer than they started.

The compromise finally reached is, as we see it, above criticism. It is all the board could, in good faith with the taxpayer, afford to give. It also gives our teachers one of the highest pay scales in the region and puts them on par with the majority of Michigan educators.

OF COURSE, teachers received considerably less than they wanted, and the board gave more than it probably wanted to. But, again, this is as it must be.

True, there were uncomfortable moments during the negotiations. These developed largely because the public became directly concerned through information printed in the Courier. But, once again, this is as it should be.

In the future we trust the board will realize its duty to fully explain to the public its financial position relative to salary increases and its collective opinion. If this is done in a routine manner it need not develop into argument, but will result in no more than mild discussion and understanding.

The salary hikes put the district in a position where it can give small annual increases without the major added outlay required this year. This should be done, rather than let the district again slip so far behind that it puts a great financial burden on the budget to get back in stride with the rest of the state.

CHARLEVOIX SCHOOL district, we should remember, is relatively wealthy, and growing richer every year.

A Commendation

TWO COUNTY AGENCIES -- the Road Commission and Planning Commission -- this week rate public applause. The Road Commission for the thoroughness of its annual report to taxpayers. The Planning Commission for its new four-color brochure on county tourist attractions.

The Road Commission's 23 page report shows in understandable detail how the agency spent every cent of its $484,747 annual budget. What roads it worked on and what it did to them is explained. Where and how non-construction funds were used it also outlined.

OBVIOUSLY THE commission is interested in telling the citizens of Charlevoix County what they get for their tax dollars.

As newspapermen we make it our business to try to keep tabs on what is being done with the public's money. Most agencies make this extremely difficult by issuing confusing financial statements -- that often resort to tricky juggling of debts. They execute their reasons responsibility by saying "It's all there." But they know darn well a lay person cannot make out head nor tail of it.

Consequently it renews our faith in public servants to find the Road Commission so evidently interested in seeing that taxpayers have no unanswered questions.

WE CAN PERSONALLY ATTEST TO THE FAVORABLE ACCEPTANCE OF the county tourist brochure, prepared and ordered by the Planning Commission. In the first week they were available the Courier gave away literally hundreds of them.

LOCAL PEOPLE coming into our office wanted several to take home to send to friends. Businessmen asked for several dozen to give customers.

The brochure cost $7,900 for 159,000 copies. This was paid by the various community chambers of commerce and the county.

They are attractively done and certainly do the finest job we have ever seen of telling the entire county's tourist story. Now let's just hope we can get them in circulation.

A Salute to Neff Brothers

NEFF'S GROCERY STORE -- this week rates a salute from all of us who love Charlevoix. The decision by Bob and Gordon Neff to give their store a facelift will make it another landmark Charlevoixians will point to with justifiable pride.

We should recognize that an investment of this sort requires a difficult decision from small businessmen who operate on a close profit margin. It is almost impossible to prove bettering a store's appearance will ever bring in enough additional business to pay for the cost.

WE ARE gratified to see the Neff brothers have enough confidence in Charlevoix to gamble that it will.

Trophy Case Fund Grows

EDITOR'S NOTE--The following letter was received by Randy Carey, CMS editor and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carey, from his great uncle William A. Carey, 12680 Roselawn Ave., Detroit.

DEAR RANDY: As per April 5th issue of Courier regarding funds for the Trophy Case, also having a picture of six public spirited and loyal students with initiative and pride to protect hard won trophies covering a period of 50 years, I herewith inclose a check for Five Dollars, ($5.00) to the Trophy Fund in memory of "Irish" Coleman, and also to encourage the committee in their efforts to raise $1,600 for a special Trophy Cabinet, which I hoped to see completed before the end of 1965.

Extend my regards to Mr. Jack Begrow whom I have known since his early childhood. For his activities in promoting business interests to make Charlevoix a better place to live in.

You have my permission to use this letter thru the Courier pages, if you think that it might encourage others to make a contribution to the Trophy Fund.

With best regards and wishing your committee a brilliant success in the project,

WILLIAM A. CAREY

Attacks Booze Industry

DEAR EDITOR: We hear a lot these days about the rights of minority groups and I am all for the rights of every one being respected but how about the rights of the people of this country who do not drink alcoholic beverages? We find that it is getting harder all the time to pay for our automobile insurance because there are more and more accidents each year.

Of course, the booze business being the sacred cow that it is because of its advertisement business, it isn't mentioned much in the news stories of accidents. Someone who is interested has to dig out the facts.

THE BEVERAGE alcohol industry spends more than $400,000,000 each year to make this subtle and convincing powerful thrust. A high percentage of highway accidents -- many fatal -- are caused by drinking drivers and drinking pedestrians. Social drinkage is proving to be the greater menace highway wise. The appalling alcoholic population approximating 8,500,000 to 9,500,000, includes women and teenagers along with men. The rate by which alcoholics are formed is estimated to 50 per hour. Citizens of our nation spend $12,500,000,000 annually for beverage alcohol.

How many schools could be built with that money? Or how many churches? Did you know there are more taverns in this country than churches?

MY HEART aches for our young people who are being exploited by the older generation just to make a miserable dollar. It wasn't the youngsters that voted in the liquor again after we had the country dry, neither are they the ones who are selling it, but they are being enticed to buy it by every means at the command of the money-hungry booze peddlers.

Liquor is of such a nature that it soon kills off its old customers and so it is up to those who sell to hurry up and make new customers. They seem to be doing a real good job of it according to all the statistics on juvenile delinquency. The pity of it is that parents of these same teenagers are just helping it along by their own example.

I REALLY FEEL sorry for people who are so lacking in inner resources that they have to be artificially stimulated with booze before they can have a good time. Parents, wake up before it is too late!

Charlevoix will have a special interest in the Academic Homecoming at Central Michigan University on Saturday, May 22, for at that time a new science hall is to be dedicated. . . . Known as the Kendall P. Brooks hall it honors a man who was on the faculty there from 1910 to 1947 and a person who was a summer resident of our community for a good part of that time. . . . Early in the 1920's the Brooks family built a cottage at Pine Point and occupied it until not too many years ago. . . . Since his death I understand it has been sold but during his years here, Prof. Brooks, as everyone called him, made many friends. . . . Naming the science building for him is, indeed, a well deserved honor for he is one of the people who helped bring Central to its present status. . . .

I'M SURE THAT you've been watching, with great interest, the progress of the beautiful new Weatheravene Terrace. . . . When just driving past you miss the true size and beauty of this grand new addition to our community. . . . It faces Pine River and is truly a very impressive structure. . . . And certainly a wonderful addition to resort facilities here. . . .

But then, it would be an attractive building if its creator had anything to say about it. . . . Most people are afraid of stone. . . . Many think it is outmoded as a building material and you must admit you seldom see it used anymore. . . . But Earl Young thinks otherwise and certainly uses it like an artist flourishes his brush. . . .

Take the fireplace in the Inn. . . . Who else would have the courage to use a massive stone weighing several tons as the focal point in a fireplace. . . . Or, for that matter, who else could look at a rusty old three story mill and see an attractive building. . . . I'd say no one. . . . And now he's taken the old Fountain City House and replaced it with another masterpiece. . . . What I like about this one is the courtyard. . . . One seldom sees one anymore but the Terrace boasts a most attractive one. . . . Of course I'll probably find other things when I take up Mr. Y's invitation to take a real look-see but for the moment I'll stick with the courtyard. . . . In which one almost expects to find knights in shining armor. . . . And nothing would surprise me less than to see little pennants flying from the tops of the spires as of old instead of the weathervanes that will soon be making their appearance. . . .

NOTICED THAT the golfers are back on the course after a winter interlude, which brings me to a subject I wrote about once before. . . . If you remember, I'm all for enlarging the municipal course to 18 holes in an effort to relieve the "congestion" and to give the city another course on which players could play qualifying rounds for the Michigan Amateur tournament. . . . I contend that more and more people are playing golf and therefore there is need for this expansion. . . . But many people have screamed at the thought of this. . . .

Now other communities have other ideas I've noticed. . . . Take Bay county, for instance, where the board of supervisors approved $180,000 for purchase of land and construction of a new 18-hole golf course. . . . From what I've read they feel that it will be a good investment and well worth the money. . . . The city's already made a move in this direction by purchasing some property adjacent to the present course. . . . I'm hopeful that they will continue the expansion program, utilizing some of the property that came with the original course when it was given to the city by the Chicago Club for the sum of $1.00, if my memory serves me correctly. . . . Certainly this idea is a lot more feasible and less expensive than lighting several holes for late evening play! . . .

AFTER SEEING the picture of the old Inn at the end of Dixon Ave., which collapsed, killing two workmen I had a call from Mrs. Will Ager who identified one of those who lost his life. . . . His name was Pierce Kimball and he was her favorite uncle she told me. . . . That was quite a tragedy. . . . The late Mrs. George Meggison whose husband was working there at the time once told me about it. . . . According to her, it was one of these projects where the contractor was trying to put up a big building at little expense in a short length of time and the collapse of the structure was the result. . . . "Haste makes waste!" . . .

A CARD FROM another of our travelers. . . . This time Mrs. Jake White who tells me she's been enjoying her trip to the west coast where she and her daughter, Mrs. Ken Celler, are visiting another daughter, Barbara, and other relatives. . . . They were scheduled to go on down the coast to San Diego to visit other relatives before returning here. . . .

Among those other relatives are her brothers including Raymond, Archie and Clyde, all of the famous Cross family. . . . Those of you today know John Cross. . . . but he's but only one of that family of 14 whose father was one of the early commercial fishermen in this area. . . . Most of the boys, at one time or another, followed in his footsteps. . . . John's the only one who remained here as a commercial fisherman but all followed the way of the sea. . . . Willis is now in Ludington where he used to work aboard one of the ear ferries. . . . The three on the coast who left here when the trout and white fish disappeared from the lakes once fished for tuna but now have other jobs. . . . Doing what? Sailing, of course. . . . On various types of vessels at San Diego and San Pedro. . . . It's a changing world. . . . and these people have changed with it but still remained on the water. . . . Can't imagine them any place else. . . .

This reminds of Beaver Island which, 'tis said, has given more ship's officers to the various large carriers on the Great Lakes than any other place of its size. . . . And speaking of the Great Lakes, did you notice the mirage on the lake last Tuesday? My partner, Walker Miles, called my attention to it. . . . The atmospheric conditions were just right and you could see the islands, North and South Fox, as tho' they were a few miles off shore. . . . and see ships that it would be impossible to see any other time. . . . That never ceases to amaze me. . . .

Five Candidates In Race for Two School Bd. Posts

Five men have filed petitions as candidates for the two expiring Charlevoix Board of Education posts to be filled at the annual school election June 14.

Incumbents Joe Martinechek and Al Smith did not file for re-election.

THE FIVE persons seeking the two seats on the board are John Martin, Glenn Kenney, Clarence Kotesky, Ralph Hamilton and Bill Peters.

A special proposal is also being submitted to Charlevoix school district voters by the Board of Education. The board is asking voters for permission to transfer $376 from the 1951 building bond issue to the general fund.

Though the bond issue was fully paid off in 1962, the $376 cannot be spent unless voters approve. The 1951 bond issue was for $225,000 to add to the old school.

SMITH, IN not running for re-election, is stepping down after 13 years on the board. A businessman, he owns and operates a service station and motel.

Martinechek has served one four-year term on the board. He is a Marlon Township farmer.

Trophy Case Fund Climbs Over Goal

In less than two months more than $1,000 has been raised for the Stewart E. Coleman Memorial trophy case at Charlevoix High School.

Bob Bergmann, trophy case campaign chairman, reports the committee has reached its goal. Enough contributions have now been received to pay for the $1,187 trophy case, he said.

STUDENTS, with an assist from several adults, began their campaign seven weeks ago. At the time, Bergmann reports, only $129 was in the trophy case fund.

The campaign actually started in late 1963 when Stewart E. Coleman, a former high school coach, died.

Bergmann and his group has collected more than 100 trophies, earned by school athletes since early 1960, to put in the trophy case. He reports several of them need repairs. "Some are smashed up pretty bad," he said.

The Board of Education will open bids on construction of the trophy case at its May 24 meeting. Specifications are available at the Board of Education office.

THE TROPHY case will be 40 foot long, 13 foot thick and 7 foot high. It will be built of glass and wood and will be along the north wall of the lobby outside the gymnasium.

Bergmann said the trophy case campaign was a success due to the efforts of several school clubs and numerous small donations from residents and former athletes.

Construction to Begin on Medusa Plant Here in July

It's Official!

After years (decades, actually) of speculation and spurs of controversy, Medusa Portland Cement Co., Cleveland, O., today made it official: It will build a cement plant, quarry and dock on South Point.

Clearing for the plant site and grading for a new road and railroad track will begin in July, Worth Loomis, Medusa vice president in charge of administration, told the Courier Tuesday.

HE SAID construction is expected to be completed and the facility in operation by mid-1967.

Loomis telephoned a specially prepared news release to the Courier Tuesday morning so Charlevoix citizens would be the first to read the story. The release follows.

The Medusa Portland Cement Co., today (Wednesday) announced its intention to build a major cement plant here to be in operation in mid-1967.

Ellery Sedgwick Jr., President, said the new plant, along with an adjacent quarry and dock in Lake Michigan will cost in excess of $20 million, the largest single capital expenditure ever undertaken by the company.

"THE NEW plant," Sedgwick said, "will have a capacity of $4 million barrels of cement a year and will be able to ship via low-cost water transportation to our growing markets bordering on Lake Michigan. This plant will permit us to assure our customers of a constant and reliable source of the highest quality cement for many years ahead."

Mr. Sedgwick said that the Manitowoc Portland Cement Co., a subsidiary of Medusa, will invest a substantial amount in new distribution facilities in Wisconsin, including a major bulkloading installation at Manitowoc to further improve service to customers.

He said, "new production capacity at Charlevoix may lead to the curtailment of manufacturing operation at Manitowoc in two to three years time, however it is impossible to predict requirements that far ahead and the company is now planning to continue to maintain its manufacturing operations at that location."

The Charlevoix plant will be located on top of a substantial deposit of excellent limestone, which the company has owned since 1926. Limestone for the Manitowoc plant now comes from quarries in other parts of Michigan.

LOOMIS is in overall charge of the project. W. B. Hanlon, vice president, engineering, will be responsible for design and construction of the new plant.

Loomis said the project will be financed from earnings combined with a bank loan over a period of peak borrowing. No additional equity financing will be needed, he said.

The plant will be equipped with special dust collection equipment to meet the strict air pollution code of Charlevoix township.

"Every effort will be made to make the plant an attractive part of the natural landscape for which Charlevoix is famous," said Loomis.

MEDUSA WAS one of the early manufacturers of portland cement in the U. S. It's first plant having been built in 1874. It originated production and sale of white portland cement.

The Manitowoc plant was the first cement plant in Wisconsin today the company's six plants, five distribution silos, eight sales offices serve the market lying in a broad belt from Minnesota to Maryland, including parts of Canada. This area contains over a third of the population of the U. S. and the major concentration of the country's industry, the news release concluded.

Loomis told the Courier the company has not decided if it will buy a ship of its own or (Continued on the back page)

AWARD WINNER-Ed Rebman, right, County Extension Service director, receives the Michigan Week regional and county awards for Agricultural Development from Wally Loder, county chairman. The awards were won for Charlevoix County's feed-calf program, which has put new farmland in production and raised the county's agricultural income.

State to Take Over Center For Area Retarded Children

The Charlevoix Retarded Children's Assn. will step aside next month. But its work will continue.

The Association has operated a school for retarded Charlevoix area children since 1954. It has been financed through private contributions and tuition.

NEXT FALL the State will assume financial responsibility and control of the school, located at 201 E. Garfield.

Rev. George Majors, president, said the association is turning its program and facilities over to the Charlevoix - Emmet Intermediate School District, because a certified teacher can now be hired.

The Retarded Children's Center did not qualify for State support in the past because it could not find a certified instructor.

Rev. Majors said Mrs. Lillian Bergmann, who has been the Center's teacher-director since 1957, is retiring.

REV. MAJORS, and the entire executive board of the Association, praised Mrs. Bergmann for her program at the school. Many of her ideas and innovations, he said, have gained state-wide recognition.

Mrs. Bergmann, in submitting her resignation, told the executive board putting the Center in the State program is a step forward and one she has been working toward for several years.

Since the Association was founded in 1954, 25 children have been enrolled. Nine are enrolled this year. Of these two have been in the program since it started.

The Association's operating budget this year was $6,947. A $4,400 mortgage remains on the building constructed in 1962. The Association first operated in the now abandoned school building across from Edwards IGA on Petoskey Ave.

Mrs. Bergmann said putting the Center under State control will relieve the community of a major financial burden and will assure parents of a continuing program for their children.

Mrs. Bergmann has been assisted at the school by Mrs. William Bergmann, Corwin Sutherland and Mrs. Alexander Wood.

Members of the Association's executive board, in addition to Rev. Majors, are Rev. Alexander Wood, Robert Hooper, Ann Cunningham, Clyde Cunningham, and William Morrison.

"The Association," Rev. Majors said, "has educated the public to understand and appreciate the concept and need for programs for retarded children."

Cut Arm Brings $20,000 Suit In Court Here

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Sheets are being sued for $20,000 by Kenneth L. Renaud, who claims he suffered permanent injuries from broken glass while a guest of the Hotel Dillworth, which the Sheets then owned.

The suit, filed last week in Circuit Court, charges that the Sheets negligently allowed broken glass to be on the floor of a basement room in the Dillworth Dec. 29, 1962.

RENAUD allegedly fell on the glass while playing ping pong and cut his right arm and "completely severed the ulnar nerve."

This, according to the complaint filed by Renaud's attorney Henry M. Smitter of Grand Rapids, resulted in losing much of the function, strength and feeling of the arm and loss of control of some of the fingers.

Sheets had not filed an answer to the complaint.

VFW Women to Sell Poppies This Week

"Every citizen who wears a VFW Buddy Poppy on their coat lapel has assurance that it was put together by a disabled veteran," Mrs. Leland Warner, VFW Auxiliary president, said.
Mrs. Warner reminded resale will be held this Thursday-Friday and Saturday (May 20-22).

WOMEN OF the Auxiliary will be on the streets selling Buddy Poppies.
"Whether you give much or little, every penny will be used exclusively for veteran welfare purposes," she added. "You can join with the VFW in honoring the dead by helping the living, and proving that we have not forgotten the men who cannot forget the scars of war."

Episcopal Youth Set Program

Sunday, May 23, the young churchmen of Christ Episcopal church, Charlevoix, will observe one of the four national youth projects for all Episcopal young people—Youth Sunday.
Each year the Episcopal youth throughout the church participate in a Corporate Holy Communion the first of the year, Feast of Lights service in Epiphany, Lenten study program, and Youth Sunday in May.
The Young Churchmen of Christ Church, Charlevoix, will observe Youth Sunday by assisting the Vicar, Rev. Alexander Wood, at the 8 a.m. Holy Communion service by reading the Epistle and the Gospel for the day and by serving as acolytes. At the 11 a.m. Morning Prayer and Sermon service the young people will be in charge of the entire service with the exception of the Absolution, the closing prayers, and the benediction. The acolytes will assist at the 8 a.m. service. The music for the later service will be by the Junior Choir.

In the Church School the Junior-Senior High group under the leadership of Mr. James Richey has been studying the Book of Common Prayer and what it teaches about the church and its services. Youth Sunday will give his class the opportunity to put in practice what they have learned during the year. Mr. Richey is also the advisor for the young people in their Sunday evening programs.
The friends of the Episcopal young people of other churches are cordially invited to attend the 11 a.m. service. The youth from Christ Church who will participate and lead in the services are Rae Marie and Monica Jill Szudzik; Carolyn Jean and Rebecca Sue Gallagher; Dennis, Bradford, and Christine Carey; Stewart Coleman; Robert Reed; Michael Wood; Connie Goer; Cynthia Alsbaugh; Debbie and Scott Crandall; and Barbara Wood.

After all, you don't get the No. 1 place (or stay there year after year) unless you give people a lot for their money. That's Chevrolet does. Look what's new for 1965. Everything.
Like the handsomest new styling you've ever turned around for another glance at. Like Chevrolet's Jet-smooth ride, even better now with Wide-Stance to steady things as you go. Like however much economy or excitement you'd want, our miserly 140-hp Six to our ferocious Turbo-Jet V8, 325 hp on order.
Besides price, one other thing hasn't changed: Chevrolet's traditional resale value... still so good you won't believe it until you get it. So get it (along with all that's new) at your Chevrolet dealer's.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

By resolution passed on May 3, 1965, the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix designated Monday, May 31, 1965 at 8:00 p.m. in the Council Room in the City Hall in the City of Charlevoix as the time and place for a public hearing upon a proposed amendment to the Zoning Ordinance wherein the following described parcel would be re-zoned from Residential District I to Residential District II:

WORM SHOP

as it has an action that either tempts a fish's taste buds or makes him angry or curious.

Color, my observations indicate, is not as important as action, but can be a contributing factor if fish are finicky.

MENTION OF Flatfish brings up another interesting and important consideration: The lure must be castable. In a brisk wind you often find Flatfish and some other lures almost impossible to cast. I've known men who refused to fish with a Flatfish because of this.

But, getting back to our original point, if action and color are the basis needs of a good lure, just which of them have these qualities?

My tackle box is filled with plugs and spoons I seldom, if ever, use. However, the top two trays are literally spilling over with various sizes and colors of the following:

Dardevil—In sizes from about one-eighth ounce to one-half ounce and in three colors. The new pearl color in quarter ounce is a killer for bass and small pike.

SPINNERS OF the Heddon Hepp and Tom and Garcia Abu-Reflex Vette and Celta type—from one-sixteenth to one-half ounce.

Super Dupers—in one-eighth and one-quarter ounce and in silver and gold. This is an especially effective lure for big lake smallmouths, and it is easy to cast.

Jig-A-Do worms and streamers in a large variety of sizes. This lure (new to me this year) has an amazingly life-like action and is a streamlined castor as well as being nearly weedless. The fact that it was designed by a friend has nothing to do with my attachment to it; he has designed many others that are not even found in my tackle box. This one is a doozy and gets my nomination as the lure of the year...

HEDDON COBRAS—in all sizes. This lure is a close runner-up to the Jig-A-Do as the finest new one on the market... but it is harder to fish.

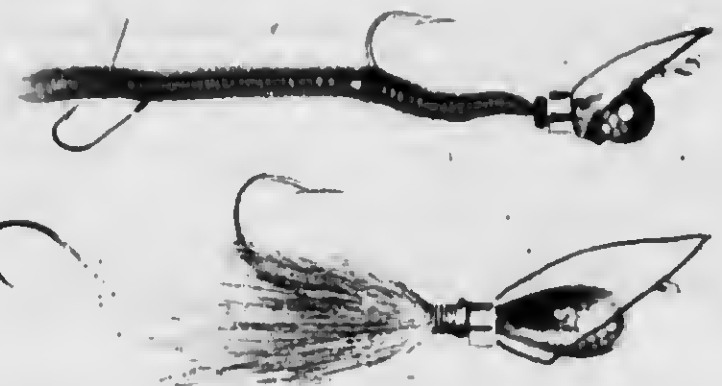

Silver Minnow—in the smaller sizes. This is an easy spoon to cast and is nearly weedless.

Arbogast Jitterbugs—in sizes from one-eighth through three-eighths. This classic top-water plug is still the best of its type. The addition of weedless hooks this year makes it even better.

Arbogast Hula Popper—an other classic surface plug for bass that has been improved with weedless hooks. No bass fisherman should be without this one.

Arbogast Hawaiian Wiggler—in the smaller sizes. Another must for area bass fishermen.

HEDDON CHUGGER and Lucky 13—in large sizes. Good for bigmouth bass.

THE PLASTIC SCOOP on the front of this Jig-A-Do worm and Jig-A-Do streamer are what give them their unique, patented, fish killing action when coupled with the jig head. They are easy to cast and relatively weedless. The Jig-A-Do was designed by an area fisherman and fisheries biologist. Ultimately, this column predicts, it will become a classic, rotating right alongside the Daredevil, Jitterbug and other oldtimers.

Obituary

JUD HARDY

Jud Hardy, 80, 102 Green St., Charlevoix, died May 12 at Charlevoix Hospital after a one month illness.

Funeral services were held May 15 from Winchester Funeral Home by Rev. George Majors with burial at Brookside Cemetery.

A LIFE LONG area resident, Mr. Hardy was a member of Charlevoix KOOF Lodge and the IOOF Encampment.

He was born Aug. 28, 1884 in Ellsworth. In 1906 he married Edith May Miller. She preceded him in death.

Surviving are three sons, Gerald of El Cajon, Calif., Charles of El Monte, Calif., and Richard of Traverse City; six daughters, Mrs. Bessie Burgess of Lincoln Park, Mrs. John (Marie) Markstrom of Royal Oak, Mrs. Versil (Maude) Mason of Lakeview, Mrs. Claire Lyon of Traverse City, Mrs. Donald (Lyle) Swick of Saginaw, and Mrs. Earl (Lyla) Bamberg of Chicago; 24 grandchildren and several great grandchildren.

Talk of the Town

Mrs. Rose Sawal came from Ann Arbor to spend some time with her sister, Mrs. Lester A. Cavanaugh who is a surgical patient at the Charlevoix Hospital and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Peter O. Gallagher. Her son, Clare, brought her here.

Mrs. Margery Malone and son, Paul, of Lansing were guests at the home of other parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edwards.

Mrs. Charles Stager and two children came Thursday from Milwaukee to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Fred Gill. They will return home Thursday with her mother, Mrs. Vernon Snyder, who spent the past two weeks here.

Heddon Twin Pal—in small sizes. This is sometimes the deadliest thing in my box when bass or pike are laying up in the weeds. Don't be without one.

There are many other good lures people catch fish on. But I don't, so I seldom use them.

One thing to be cautioned about: Do not be taken in by these life-like imitations of minnows, insects and reptiles. Many of those seem to have literally no action. Just because they look like the real thing will get you nowhere; they have to act like it.

THIS ASSORTMENT of lures makes a deadly package when properly fished in Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan. The Perrine bait box is a handy item for carrying lures in your pocket... especially when wading.

WITH ROY

The farmers in this section have taken advantage of the beautiful weather that has preceded the date for planting corn. The intriguing thing about modern farming is how fast the farmers are able to get their fields in shape to insert the seed into the terra firma. Employees at the Farmers Exchange said there were more certified seed oats purchased this spring and less home grown seed oats cleaned for planting. A noted increase in corn acreage shows a definite trend toward corn silage.

Several new silos are to be erected in the area this season, and I should say larger in capacity, above the four hundred pound class. All of this progress is being accomplished on family size farms. The picture of the family size farms looks brighter. With the demands of the Labor Department, larger farm operators will have a difficult time obtaining qualified help, or dependable labor. A farmer is compelled to function at a low income and he cannot operate on a cost-plus basis such as industry can.

The restrictions of Migrant Labor from entering the States can make farm products loom higher on Consumers tables. Farmers from the largest farm organizations have been trying to make known to the public what is happening. But maybe when the consumer notices what he is eating costs more he will realize the free enterprise system of farming is going out the window. I can say, "more power to the farmer," but when you take away the fuel the power is lost.

MRS. JOHN Boughton, a resident of Nashville, Michigan, who with her husband own the Nashville Newspaper, told Mrs. Hazel Tillotson (her sister) that she never sees her name in the paper. The sister was wondering if Hazel ever did anything. Well, if I would write the activities she takes part in, this column would turn into a gossip section. Hazel is not only a member of many organizations, but a worker. John and Hazel Tillotson entertained Hazel's mother on Mother's Day. It was also a day of farewell to their son Tom, who has returned to Great Lakes Naval Base. Mike, the eldest son arrived home for the occasion.

BANKS TOWNSHIP (Ellsworth) had the least number of people having their Chest X-Rayed in the county. The reason for the low figure could be that a great number of people are employed in other towns and are unable to meet the time schedule. These are the towns in Antrim County: Elk Rapids, 296; Bellevue, 412; Manistowish, 463; Central Lake, 344; and Ellsworth, 195.

MRS. HANS DeYoung's pupils gave their piano recital Friday night May 14 at the Ellsworth Community School. The 24 students showed their talents by making the keys dance with the whims of their fingers. Pupils participating were: Dale Shooks, Mary Addis, Nadine Chellis, Pam Kruse, Cindy Boss, Ellen Wallick, Sudien Kayner, Yvonne Campau, Diane Best, Norven DeGroot, Patty Dreth, Fran Dreth, Shirley Dreth, Alvin Elzinga, Patti Ruis, Judy Friske, Susie Smalley, Arts Dreth, Marcia Dreth, Rhonda Shooks, Carolyn Denny, Terry VanderSluk, Jade Hood.

Lancer Track Team Finishes 2nd In League

The conference meet at Charlevoix was highly successful, even though the Lancers came in second to Belaire in total points.

Between the three track teams 56 1/2 points went to Belaire, 44 1/2 to Ellsworth and 14 to Central Lake.

Ellsworth was pleased to bring home the trophy for the mile relay event, along with numerous individual ribbons.

THE REGIONAL meet, with 15 teams competing, was held in Traverse City May 15. Ellsworth had seven track men making the trip. They amassed a total of 13 points in this regional meet; eleven of the points coming in the field events. They were won with Walt Kooyer and Ken Richardson taking second and third respectively in the pole vault, and Walt placing third in the high jump. Fred Gibbs collected a fourth place in the 100 yard dash -- missing a third by inches.

By placing second and third in the field events, Kooyer and Richardson are qualified to enter the State finals at Mt. Pleasant on May 22. This will be an individual effort on the part of the boys, so let's wish them each a lot of luck.

Ken Richardson suffered a heel bruise in the regionals but we hope he will be able to participate at full capacity by the time of the finals.

Mr. Kaufman thanked the boys who have co-operated and stuck with the team to the end of the track season. Since Ellsworth is only losing one man by graduation, it should be able to come through with a winning team again next year.

Insult and Injury

IT SEEMED TO us the other day that a cliché was in order when the City Council read a letter from a Michigan Waterways Commission member explaining the virtual impossibility of the State supplying more than 50% of the funds for toilet facilities at Charlevoix's public harbor facility.

Certainly this was adding insult to injury.

No sooner had Mayor E. D. Hawley finished reading the letter than Councilman Robert Gill started quoting a newspaper article that told how Leland (just down the lake a way) received more than $800,000 in State and Federal money to build new boating facilities. Leland, the article explained, put up something like $5,000. This is one of many similar instances council has noted in the past year.

PERHAPS THE Waterways Commission can get away with such injustice and insult. It may very well be that the powers that control it have no reason to fear rebuttal from tiny Charlevoix.

But it all becomes so absurd we simply can't sit by and swallow any more of it without sounding off.

Consider these factors:

1--The Waterways Commission admits Charlevoix is among the most popular, and finest, harbors on northern Lake Michigan.

2--Charlevoix has already invested a great deal more than 50% in developing the harbor facilities and purchasing land.

3--DUE TO LACK of sanitary facilities this "most popular" harbor is slowly being contaminated during the summer months; which, ultimately, could make its natural assets and the financial investment useless.

4--In spite of this the Waterways Commission continues to channel hundreds-of-thousands of dollars into harbors that are not nearly as desirable or popular; and where the local community has displayed virtual unwillingness to make a complete effort.

5--We have been told in no uncertain terms that getting a harbor designated as a "harbor of refuge" (which qualifies it for more than 50% State and Federal participation) is often no more than a political maneuver.

6--Few, if any, harbors in northern

Lake Michigan provide shelter during storms for more pleasure boats than Charlevoix.

7--BOATERS WHO do use the Charlevoix harbor put proportionately more into the Waterways Commission and Federal Gov't, kiddy than those in other harbors.

8--Charlevoix already provides the finest marina services in the northern lakes.

Now, add all of this up. If you don't feel Charlevoix has been insulted and injured we'll forever forbid our typewriter to use this cliché.

Perhaps the City Council could scrape up the money to pay for 50% of the cost of a toilet building for boatmen. But even if it can we don't see how it could justify the outlay. The majority of our citizens receive only slight, intangible, benefits from the harbor. So how can we spend a relatively large chunk of their tax money on it?

FURTHERMORE, IT would almost amount to irresponsibility for the Council to give up its efforts to get our just share through the Waterways Commission.

Should the Waterways Commission ever decide to give Charlevoix a fair shake and pay a bigger portion of the cost, it seems to us the Council should consider raising some of its remaining share by levying a long term special assessment on business establishments, which derive the most benefit and the rest from the general fund. We doubt there would be any squawks from Charlevoix's fair-minded businessmen.

The Waterways Commission and the people of Charlevoix must also face up to the inevitable: Round Lake is slowly being polluted. Unless toilet facilities are made available for boatmen (and then all heads sealed when a boat pulls into the channel) and other corrections made we will eventually have a disgrace on our conscience.

IF THE WATERWAYS Commission does not face up to its responsibility in this matter the City of Charlevoix may ultimately be left with no choice but to close the harbor.

If this extreme action is required, how will the Waterways Commission brush aside logic and fairness to deny it must accept the blame?

Greensky...A Humble Reminder

THE DEATH LAST week of Rev. George E. Greensky, revitalized our concern about a suggestion made in our office recently by Mrs. Edith Gilbert.

Writer-broadcaster and Waterfront Art Fair promoter Mrs. Gilbert is considerably less than enthused about proposals that a Charlevoix museum be established. She doubts the community has the assets to do a first rate job with a museum.

SHE Proposes, however, that the community already has one of the north's finest historical attractions in Greensky Hill Indian Methodist Church. This, she points out, is being overlooked by thousands of vacationers because Charlevoixians are not directing them to it.

We may disagree with Mrs. Gilbert about the museum, but certainly not about Greensky Hill's value to Charlevoix, all of Michigan and everyone of Indian heritage.

Our solitary visits to the nearly 140 year-old Indian mission always leave us with a feeling of admiration for Michigan's first residents. Much of the Indian's understanding that there is great beauty and happiness to be found in Nature is forcefully felt at Greensky Hill.

All but the most cynical visitor to Greensky must feel an appreciation for the Indian culture which white men so efficiently and shamefully destroyed.

THERE IS A certain humbleness that grasps the intruder as he realizes how overly complex and frustrating our haste and pride have made life. It is impossible not to feel a sense of longing to escape into that long-doomed world of humble simplicity.

It is almost as if we have an obligation to share this heritage with the rest of Michigan. If Charlevoix can benefit financially as a result all the better. But let us never commercialize Greensky Hill. If we do it will lose its value.

A suggestion comes to mind: Wouldn't it be fitting to prepare a marker in East Park--complete with an artist's drawing of the Greensky Hill setting--as a tribute to our Indian heritage?

Real Life Just Ahead

COMMUNITY ATTENTION IS focusing on our high school seniors as they prepare to receive their diplomas and take their first major step into the real life of adult responsibility.

As always our congratulations go to honor graduates; this year Valedictorian Barbara Wood and Salutatorian John Duerr, as well as others on the top ten academic list.

FOR MOST YOUNG PEOPLE THE years right after high school or college are the most frustrating. Suddenly, no matter how cocky their air, they are no longer sure the world is just waiting for them to conquer it.

Grades and reputations made in school no longer hold tangible values. Textbooks and tests will not lower the hurdles that must now be faced. It will take determination and moral strength. School cannot put a fine edge on these qualities, but it can make students aware that they have them and give them some idea of how to use them. Let us hope it has done this.

If knowing the community is hoping they win the trials of real life and find their place in the sun (no matter how humble or impressive) helps students, we feel we can assure them it is.

Charlevoix of Yesteryear

CAMPING ON SHORE OF ROUND LAKE.

CAMPING MAY BE one of Michigan's fastest growing family activities, but it certainly isn't new. This print from Mrs. Eleanor O'Neill's collection shows a group camping on the shores of Round Lake in the late 1800's.

Teachers Fear Lack Of Interest in Pay

The Courier May 5 stated that teachers in Charlevoix Public Schools "will be among the highest paid in northern Michigan when classes resume in September." This statement is misleading. It is taken out of context, and may result in an unwarranted complacency among citizens who read it.

The following facts are part of the whole picture and should, therefore, be considered:

(1) During the current school year, in the amount of valuation behind each student, Charlevoix is in the top 7.3% of the school districts in the state. In other words, of approximately 774 school districts in Michigan, only 41 have more wealth behind each child than Charlevoix does. However, in salary, Charlevoix teachers have been in the lowest 7% of the 70,000 school teachers in the state.

(2) The advance in teacher salaries in Charlevoix next year will probably correspond to the percentage of increase in schools throughout the state. This will do little or nothing to improve the relative position of Charlevoix in the matter of teacher salaries.

(3) The top Charlevoix teacher salary next year will be below the top salary of some of the schools in this northern area this year.

(4) UP UNTIL 1960 Charlevoix teacher salaries were at state average, and the salary of a teacher with a master's degree was slightly above average. Since then no Charlevoix teacher has had a salary up to state average, nor will there be a teacher at state average next year.

(5) In the matter of fringe benefits, Charlevoix teachers next year will continue to be given a 10-day sick leave the unused portion of which will accumulate to 30 days. This provision has been in force for several years. They will also continue to have one day for personal leave for which the administration must give approval when the day is requested. Beginning with next year, the personal leave days may accumulate to three days. The last-mentioned provision is the only fringe benefit to be added for next year. This is the improved fringe benefit package referred to in the Courier.

(6) The present low salaries in Charlevoix for teachers of many years of experience place the local school in an unfavorable position to compete for experienced teachers of top-notch ability to fill openings as they occur. The attractiveness of higher - paid teaching positions down - state or positions in business or industry will make it increasingly difficult to attract the best teachers here.

Compliments Ed. Heise

DEAR EDITOR:

This letter is going to lay it on the line--pulling no punches, and let the chips lay where they fall.

The first week in August, 1964 I visited with Mr. Ed Heise, complimenting him upon his successful efforts to establish an antique museum with the assistance of his numerous friends, who have donated relics from Civil War Days and early pioneer farm land and logging camps.

MR. HEISE told me that only two prominent citizens, (Mr. Bob Miles and councilman Whitley) have shown any interest. The others have not used just common decency to stop in and look around for just a fraction of a minute.

However, in spite of snubbing and disregard of city officials, Mr. Heise continued to improve the store front, which had lain idle for several years, he has 2202 artifacts attractively labelled and artistically arranged in glass show-cases, on tables and shelves and hanging on the side walls, to prove that Charlevoix does have a credible antique museum now, and which no doubt will continue to operate a long time after the present city officials have ceased to function. If the present city officials refuse to be stirred out of their all too apparent lethargy, then a civic organization ought to meet the challenge and do something toward making the present Museum venture more brilliant and outstanding success.

It must be a little embarrassing to a town where the city officials have not shown any regards for a successful organizer and business man as Mr. Heise has already shown himself to be.

THE MUSEUM ought to be mentioned as a special feature in connection with the Annual Venetian weekend. Mr. Heise told me that in addition to visitors from 37 states who signed the book up to Labor Day, businessmen from nearby cities had offered to pay moving expenses if he would consent to leave Charlevoix with his museum.

Mr. Heise has the perfect plan working out successfully for a city of this size. He is not only a qualified businessman, he is also acting as a curator of the museum, saving Charlevoix many hundreds of dollars, and is paying taxes in order to keep the museum operating.

Mr. Heise told me that he had names and addresses of people who had antiques to donate to the museum if he would pick them up, but there is not space for them. Additional store frontage would have to be rented.

After this revelation to the citizens of Charlevoix they ought to feel real proud of their city officials.

Lets forget the old Fish Hatchery Building and build on the present foundation just across Bridge-st., from the Board of Commerce Pagoda. This is how I see it. How about you?

P. S. Here is a little background regarding "Bill Carey"--born May 8, 1885, Left Charlevoix Sept. 1905. Over sixty years ago played in 1st organized band. Earl Johnson and Bob Stafford and myself are the only ones living on borrowed time as the other 18 members have answered the final Roll Call. I am the oldest of four brothers and three sisters in various versions of health. Have lived in Detroit approximately 57 years, except for one year in Kansas City, Mo. Will be seeing you sometime next summer.)

Identifies Old Picture

DEAR EDITOR:

Quite some time ago you ran a picture of beautifully clear ice on Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix beach with people out skating. You asked if anyone knew when that picture was taken. I have never seen a reply to your query. I have a snapshot very similar to it showing Miss Lois Bowman and Miss Blanche Oliver skating on that ice. They were teachers in Charlevoix during the school years of 1920-21 and 1921-22. Miss Bowman was principal of Charlevoix County Normal and Miss Oliver was teacher of music in Charlevoix High School. I believe the picture was taken during the first year Miss Bowman was there. That probably would have been in January or February of 1921. I don't recall that there were ever skating conditions like that on Lake Michigan at Charlevoix before or since that time.

I was pleased to note in your May 5th issue the increased salary schedule for Charlevoix teachers. It was long overdue. When I was a student there in High School back in 1917-21 Charlevoix seemed to have the proud (?) distinction of being the lowest paying place in the state, I believe. Being the highest is much more noteworthy. I am sure the teachers there, as everywhere, are more than worthy of every cent paid them. May I quote from the last issue of our Bay City Education Association monthly new bulletin, TOPIC?

"If a doctor or a lawyer or a dentist had 40 people in his office at one time, all with different needs, including some who didn't want to be there and were causing trouble, and the doctor or lawyer or dentist, without assistance, had to treat them all with professional excellence for 40 weeks, then he might have some conception of the classroom teacher's job."

Very truly yours,
Alice W. Chew

odds ends

Everyone said it couldn't be true... that two ships from the same company could be lost in a lake tragedy within a decade... But the news was all too true... that the Cedarville, owned by the Bradley Transportation Co. out of Rogers City had collided with a Norwegian freighter and gone to the bottom at the Straits within 20 minutes of the accident... And all at once everyone was recalling Nov. 18, 1958 and the Carl D. Bradley and praying that the loss would not be as great as it was then... But along with the loss of this monster of the Great Lakes were 10 lives... one ship and 10 lives too many... Another chapter in the history of this great area...

"I UNDERSTAND that the robin is Michigan's state bird. I was surprised to learn that because all we saw were red-winged blackbirds as we drove north to Charlevoix from Cleveland"... was the comment made recently by Mrs. Cecil E. Merce who had accompanied her husband, Capt. Merce, to Charlevoix for the presentation of the Concord minute man award to Coast Guard Group, Charlevoix... Since we have so many robins here I was just as surprised to hear her make this comment for I haven't seen a red-winged blackbird in years... Just as I haven't seen a bluebird... It seems, however, that she had seen scads of these enroute north and therefore felt that they should represent the state... But the little old robin with his gay song, I feel, is much more typical of Michigan... And speaking of the robins, they've sure been busy in the maples along our street... every place you look you see these industrious birds preparing for the advent of a nest of little ones... Another inhabitant in the neighborhood supplies lots of amusement to everyone... He's a little black squirrel that scampers through the trees every morning as though he was checking on the entire street... I see him from my window frisking up and down and across the biggest tree in the neighborhood... a huge maple in the Russ Mieras yard... He has a regular route set up for himself so that he travels from tree to tree... Everyone enjoys his antics...

HOW MANY mushrooms have you come home with? Haven't heard of any outstanding finds this year... Guess the weather's been too cold... Haven't heard of any big catches of smelt either... Wonder what happened to the silvery little fish that make for such good eating... Maybe they've joined the perch in some more attractive area... Sure wish they'd come back this way... I'm told that everything travels in cycles... so maybe if we're patient... who knows?

I would have bet money on it... and if I had I would have won for as sure as May came around so did Bob Bergmann with the first Mayflowers of the season... Every spring for ages he's remembered me with this sure sign of this wonderful season... Sometimes wonder where he finds such beautiful ones...

Understand that youngsters in one of the first grades enjoyed a trip to the Himebauch farm one day recently... and had a whale of a time... It's amazing how few children have occasion to visit a farm and see all the animals found there... I'm sure they all know more about country life than they did before... and what a wonderful thing for the Himebauchs to do... Inviting the youngsters for a visit... Even the older youngsters, those in the fifth grade, are to visit the Potter farm some time soon...

Congratulations to Neil Cross for having the privilege of representing Charlevoix county on the United Nations Youth Pilgrimage... I understand he based his winning talk on the youth activities of the M. R. A. which has its headquarters on Mackinac Island... As close as this is to Charlevoix, I wonder how many people are really aware of the work of this organization... But Neil is one youngster who explored its activities and came through with a pretty worthwhile speech on it...

CAN YOU believe that we're in the home stretch of the current school year? It's hard to believe yet within two weeks we'll be observing Memorial Day... On June 6 there'll be the baccalaureate service and on June 9 our seniors will be receiving their diplomas and leaving their high school days behind them... Where has the year gone?

Have been watching with great interest an English hawthorn tree in my neighborhood... While the buds on the other trees are hardly noticeable, these warm days have brought out the leaves on this beautiful tree that dates back many years to the days when one of Charlevoix's early families planted it at Ainslee St. and Michigan ave... It's on the property now owned by the Wood family that was once the home of the Mayne family... It's a hardy tree... But I wonder if, when it was planted, the people realized that it would still be flowering more than a half century later...

And speaking of flowering trees, I have a question... why couldn't some of these lovely trees be planted around our fair village now so that future residents might enjoy them as much as we've enjoyed the scattered few on private property...

Seems to me that some sort of planning should be done to protect our beauty... So many of our lovely maples are being lost to progress... I think there should be some planning done to replace them now... or compensate for their loss by planting some smaller tree... How about it? Wouldn't that be a good project for some committee that could be given some authority by our city fathers...

How about that awful fog last week? For a while I thought I'd never see the blue of Lake Michigan again... and when you can't see the water of Round Lake... well, things are bad... How would you like to live in London that's famous for its pea soup fog? It's great for the complexion but that's about all that can be said for it...

NOW I'D LIKE to bring you up to date on our travelers... One of these days you'll be seeing Dave Rader striding down the street for he's scheduled to arrive in Norfolk shortly... Howard Majors, who managed to sell his bike, took a swing into the Scandinavian countries before heading for home last week... So we should all be hearing about the wonders of the continent before many a day passes... And won't it be good to see those two again...

use the services of another fleet.

Loomis also said Medusa will not ask Charlevoix Township to help it with financing by selling low interest municipal bonds for which the company would be responsible.

"We considered using Michigan's new industrial development act, which provides for revenue bond financing through municipalities, however decided not to follow that route, particularly since the Michigan Supreme Court has not ruled on its constitutionality," he said.

Earlier a Lansing newspaper, with absolutely no basis in fact, reported that Medusa's decision to build a plant here would depend on the City of Charlevoix selling $10 million in municipal bonds.

DR. RATIGAN AT MEET

Students Did A 'Good Job'

Charlevoix High School's two entries in the State Forensic contest were lauded after their efforts Saturday by their coach, Mrs. Robert Martin.

"They did a good job," Mrs. Martin said.

Barbara Wood was eliminated in the third round of interpretative reading, in the five round tournament.

Sherry Holborn was eliminated in the fourth round of humorous reading.

MRS. JERRY CONLEY

Mrs. Jerry (Virginia) Conley, 80, former local resident, died Sunday at Ormond Beach, Fla., where she had made her home for the past nine years.

Funeral services and burial were held here Tuesday. Born at Ashland, Ohio, Mar. 24, 1884, the former Virginia Ryall spent her early life in California. She was a graduate of the Palmer School of Chiropractic at Davenport, Iowa. She came to Charlevoix in September 1923. On Dec. 25, 1926, she was married to Mr. Conley, a marine engineer, who preceded her in death Jan. 17, 1956. She was a member of the Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star. She had spent the winter in Florida since 1945 and had made her home there since Mr. Conley's death.

She has no survivors.

Want Blossoms, But Not Fruit? Then You Spray

By ED REBMAN

Extension Director Many Charlevoix gardeners find their number one objective at this time of year is to enjoy the fruit blossoms yet keep the trees in his backyard from bearing fruit. This is the time to take care of this problem.

Horticulturists around the country receive a deluge of letters asking how to keep backyard trees from bearing fruit and "messing up the yard."

Chemical treatment of trees prevents some 80 to 85 per cent of the fruit from forming--thus avoiding an annual backyard fruit problem for many gardeners.

Naphthaleneacetic acid is the spray material that will do the job. It is available from garden centers, usually in the 3 1/2 per cent solution. One teaspoonful to a gallon of water is the right amount. Labels on packages will explain how to mix the spray material.

Thorough coverage of all foliage and flowers is necessary to curb fruit formation. The addition of one tablespoon of the insecticide Sevin per gallon in the spray mixture enhances the spray's defaulting effect.

Yet this chemical treatment can cause some foliage wilting, but trees recover within 10 to 14 days.

Post Office to Close on May 31

Regular holiday schedules will be observed by the Charlevoix post offices on May 31--a federal holiday by virtue of the fact that May 30, the usual Memorial Day holiday date, is a Sunday. Postmaster Dan Genelt reports.

No delivery services, except special delivery, will be provided.

Street mail collections will be made on a normal holiday schedule, and outgoing mail will be dispatched.

The post office lobby will remain open, providing access to lock boxes, stamp dispenser and mail deposit slot, Genelt said.

Call on Veterans For Memorial Day

Veterans! Charlevoix's two veterans organizations are issuing their once-a-year call for all former servicemen to assemble for the Memorial Day parade Monday.

American Legion are again asking you to honor those who have not returned to their homes since freedom's opening shot in 1915.

If you can't find it. Turn out in civvies. But turn out!

The Memorial Day parade will assemble between 9:30 and 10 a.m. Monday, May 31 near the Congregational Church on Park Ave. It starts at 10 a.m. All veterans are urged to participate.

At least 100 local veterans should be in the parade if Charlevoix expects to hold its head up with pride in honoring our war dead, VFW and Legion commanders pointed out. The lack of local veterans in recent Memorial Day parades has been noted with some criticism.

They Died to Make Brotherhood Live

By REV. CHARLES A. STOPPELS
Pastor, Community Reformed Church

Memorial Day is more than a holiday, it is first of all a Holy Day. It commemorates something which could happen only in such a nation as ours, a nation not yet 100 years old at the time. Victory in the most bloody civil war ever fought declared it to be God's will that there should be no such thing as a brotherhood conditioned by man.

When God created man He created him to be free and equal to all other men who would be born into this world, regardless of race, color, creed, climate, position, possessions, power; mind, talent, skill, or what have you? that differentiates between man and man. "God... made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth".

CAIN WAS THE first to challenge God in this, His purpose. You know the fate that befell Cain. Such has ever been the fate of man, alone or in union with others, when he challenges God in His purpose, all men to be free and equal. In our country, young as it was, there soon developed a very marked difference of opinion as to God's revealed purpose in signed due to ill health. Chamber president Robert Lieberman said applications for a new manager will be accepted by him at his downtown department store until Noon Tuesday, June 1.

Seek Chamber Member

Robinson Urges Murray to Annex

Charlevoix - Emmet Intermediate School District Supt. Charles Robinson is trying to talk himself out of the job of chief administrative officer of the Murray School District in Hayes Township.

Murray district residents vote Saturday, May 29, on whether they will annex their one-room school to the Charlevoix Public School District.

If THE annexation plan is approved it means Charlevoix Supt. Rex Milligan will become the top school administrator for Murray children. As intermediate district superintendent Robinson now handles this responsibility for all rural schools.

He says annexing to Charlevoix will give Murray children a more thorough education for less money. Murray voters will cast their ballots from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the Murray school.

EARLIER THIS year Murray voters approved the annexation but failed to agree to pay a share of Charlevoix's bonded indebtedness. They must approve both questions on the ballot Saturday or the annexation will not be authorized.

Robinson said he feels voters would have approved both propositions earlier if they had thoroughly understood them.

If Murray becomes part of the Charlevoix district taxes will be about 15 mills. They are now 13.375 mills in Murray.

However, Robinson points out Murray School District is going in debt and is not running a complete program.

TO GET OUT of debt, and operate in the black with a full program would raise Murray school taxes to around 20 mills, Robinson said. This would include the necessity of raising more money to hire a certified teacher.

In addition to getting more education for their children for less money than is possible in the small (24 students) school district, Robinson said Murray children will have bus transportation to school if the annexation is approved.

Two Pay Fines For Littering

Justice John Connolly last week fined two Charlevoix men for litter they discarded last December.

Connolly fined William Tomkiw, 30, and Edwin C. Lester, 20, $30 each and ordered them to clean up the rubbish. Tomkiw littered the road or adjacent area in Hayes Township on Burgess Rd. Lester discarded litter on the Mt. McSaba Rd.

Both were arrested by the Sheriff's Dept. Connolly said the charges were brought against them now because the litter was hidden by snow during the winter.

Will Scour Area Beaches

Litter Clean-Up Planned

Somebody is going to do something about the litter along Charlevoix's Lake Michigan beaches and scenic shoreline.

Ralph Doan is getting the ball rolling. Early indications are that he's not going to be alone.

SATURDAY, June 12, Doan would like to have 50 or 60 high school students and adults join him for a clean-up of the beaches.

He's already talked to the Boy Scouts, high school, Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce and Garden Club.

Boy Scout Troop 11 has assured Doan it will turn out at the appointed hour on June 12 with rakes to comb as much of the Lake Michigan beach as possible.

The Garden Club has agreed to serve refreshments. High School principal Harry Bingham promised Doan he will recruit as many students as possible for the beach clean-up.

THE LIONS Club said it will pay $10 of the cost of refreshments and turn-out as many of its members for clean-up crews as possible.

Irv's Cocktail Lounge has agreed to donate another $10 toward purchase of refreshments.

Doan estimates the Garden Club will need $40-$50 to buy the refreshments it will serve students, Boy Scouts and adults on the clean-up detail.

The Chamber of Commerce, Doan said, has agreed to give the project its wholehearted support and endorsement.

DOAN, A SHIFT supervisor at Big Rock Nuclear Plant, lives on Meech St. He was recently appointed to the newly-created Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission. "We've sat back and looked at it for years and never done anything about it," Doan said of the litter along the Lake Michigan shore.

"I can't let my kids run free along the beaches," he added.

Due to broken glass, rusty cans and other litter parents have long been fearful of letting their children use the beaches and walk bare-footed along the shore.

THE CHARLEVOIX Garden Club has spearheaded a drive for several years in hopes of cutting down on the litter problem. It has been joined in these efforts by the City Council, Sheriff's Dept., and many individuals.

The Courier, for more than a year, has been advocating a litter clean-up detail to dramatize the problem and remove debris that has been accumulating for years. However, Doan is the first person to actually organize such a project.

His plan calls for putting as many people along the shore as possible on June 12. If enough people turn-out he feels all existing litter from Fisherman's Island to North Point can be picked-up.

FIRST IN CITY DOCKS—This gleaming black steel and teak beauty is the first large sailing vessel to use the city docks this year. The 60-foot ketch is called the Katrina C. She hails from Windsor, Ont. Owned by Robert Pflaumer of Chicago, a General Portland Cement Co. official, the Katrina C was built two years ago in Hong Kong. Skipper is Bill LaPorte of West Palm Beach, Fla., who with Fred Simms brought her into Charlevoix Monday for the night while on their way to Chicago. The Katrina C uses 2,700 square feet of working canvas.

Kiwanis Club Donates $10,000 For Library

A new public library for Charlevoix was virtually assured Monday night by the Kiwanis Club.

Kiwanians voted to donate $10,000 toward construction of a new public library. The money will come from the club's youth activities fund. It will be earmarked for a youth meeting room in the basement of the new library, Harold Totten, Kiwanis president, reported.

THE CHARLEVOIX Board of Education needed $20,000 as its share of a $60,000 new library. The remaining $40,000 will be paid by the Federal Gov't.

The school board was able to raise $10,000 of its $20,000 share, but was stymied for the remaining $10,000 until the Kiwanis Club's action Monday.

School Supt. Rex Milligan said Tuesday morning detailed plans for the new library have not been completed. The cost, he said, could come to more than $60,000.

The school board will need an additional $3,400 as its share of the $10,000 cost to equip the library after it is built.

Name Members to Plan Board

The Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission is ready to begin its 18-month job of drafting a master plan for the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township.

Both the city and township have appointed their members to the commission.

FORMER SECOND Ward Councilman Kenneth Staley heads up the city's four-man delegation on the commission. Staley was appointed for a three-year term.

Other city appointees are Ralph Doan, two years; Postmaster Dan Genelt, one year; and Councilman Dr. Walter Hoffmann, one year. Hoffmann was appointed to represent the council. Councilmen pointed out other members of the council do not have time for the job.

Oscar Stroud was appointed to the seven-member commission for a three-year term by the Township Board. James Lewis will represent the township on the commission for two years and Mrs. Ted Bergmann for one year.

In other City Council affairs, a request to rezone the Lodge from R-2 to C-1 was tabled. Six persons living near the Lodge appeared to object to the rezoning.

THE LODGE requested the rezoning so it could start a restaurant on the grounds. Residents of the area said they would not object if the Lodge served only its own guests and did the cooking and serving inside the present building.

At its next meeting Council will consider a request by Hal Forbrigg to rezone the Colonial Club property on Meech St. from R-1 to R-2.

Pending rezoning, Forbrigg has agreed to purchase the Colonial Club from the city for $8,500. If the rezoning is approved he reportedly plans to erect a 16-apartment structure on the property.

Councilmen have approved levying 8-mills in property taxes this year. Six of this is for the general fund and two for street maintenance and improvement. The eight-mill levy remains unchanged from recent years.

COUNCIL ALSO asked for bids on a new four-wheel drive rubber-tired front-end loader with a 1.25 cubic yard bucket.

Senior Trip Set This Week

Charlevoix High School seniors will take a one day trip to Mackinac Island today or tomorrow, May 26 or 27.

Which day the trip is taken will depend on the weather, Harry Bingham, principal, said.

THE CLASS has been offered a special fare of $1.20 per person on the boat to the island. The class will pay $1 of each student's fare. School faculty members will go with students and supervise the trip.

Early Deadline

There's only one thing wrong with a holiday that falls on Monday. No one has yet learned how to make up the lost day without extra work.

Which means the deadline for the Courier must be moved up to Saturday Noon next week so the staff can work through the weekend. We will, of course, appreciate your cooperation in getting all material to the Courier by Noon Saturday. Happy Memorial Day. And, please, DRIVE CAREFULLY!

MEMORIAL DAY

The muffled drum's sad toll has beat
The soldier's last tattoo;
No more on Life's parade shall meet
That brave and fallen few.
On Fame's eternal camping ground,
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards, with solemn round,
The bivouac of the dead.

RAMBLING

Before someone else suggests it perhaps I should. Maybe this column should be re-named: Congressman Roy Clevenger's Ramblings.

So now you're forewarned. Anyone who doesn't want to read about the young Democrat member of Congress from the northern one-third of Michigan can turn to something else.

The honorable mister Clevenger is back in this column because he had the audacity to bring politics into our week-end retreat at Idle Acres. Though I rate politics as the highest of callings, I figure it should exist only five days a week. Fishing and hunting are the only respectable pursuits the other two days.

Returning home Saturday afternoon (after catching and returning some whopping big bass to Lake Charlevoix) I found a postcard survey on the kitchen table. Mr. Clevenger, it turned out, was sampling his district to see how we voters would like him to act on ten specific items before Congress.

To this column's way of thinking it behooves everyone of us to send our answers in. In a few weeks I'll see that we get a report on what the survey indicated the people of the northland want. Which adds up to putting Clevenger on the spot. But he was man enough to ask for it and seems willing to play the game without pulling any punches.

Let's take a look at his questions and see what thoughts they provoke.

Right off the bat, Clevenger wants to know if we favor or oppose the medical care plan. That's an easy one to oppose. The people who get the benefits will not pay for them. It will create an even bigger deficit for your sons and mine to wrestle. Though we all hate to see an old couple bankrupted by medical bills, why wasn't it their responsibility to prepare for them while they were still wage earners? Most important, the problem is that doctor and hospital costs are too high. Why doesn't Congress find out why and do something about it, rather than simply helping the problem become worse?

The Republic was founded as a country in which the responsible could prosper. Medi-Care, and so many more of Big Daddy LBJ's programs boil down to no more than penalizing the responsible to make the irresponsible comfortable. In a few years we're all going to feel like darn fools for working, as we see more and more of our sweat and worry being turned into dole for the lazy and immoral, and less and less finding its way home.

Who can blame kids if they drop out of school and don't have the stamina to grub through a few hard years learning a trade. Certainly, it is unjust to lay the fault at the school's steps. These kids can see little reason to worry about the future. After all, won't ole Tex take care of them? Sure he will.

But this isn't Clevenger's doing either. Sole's got back to his questionnaire before my income tax is found short again.

He asks if we favor changing immigration laws to base admission on skills rather than country of birth? That sure sounds logical. And less discriminatory. It's pretty hard to figure out why this country needs immigrants, unless they have a skill of critical value to our defense, health, economy or culture.

Next question is whether the Federal Gov't. should legislate mine safety rules for our U. P. iron and copper mines? Surely the State and Boards of Supervisors can do this. Do we favor removing the toll from the Mackinac Bridge? Yes. If some system is devised to pay for the bridge from road funds, either State or Federal.

Clevenger has been working hard to convince Congress an Upper Great Lakes Authority is needed to further his district's economy. This would be similar to the poverty program for Appalachia. His survey wants to know if we're for or against this one.

This column is stoutly opposed to such Federal interference. These things are supposed to be handled on the local level. However, it is a fact that local and State government and people is not meeting the challenge. I'm inclined to say that if the local folks won't fight and work hard enough for themselves then let them suffer. But that's the easy answer. If the problem were on my conscience I think I would be doing what Ray's doing... but probably not as well.

The freshman Congressman is leading with his chin on the next question. He asks if the people of northern Michigan favor more controls on the sale of firearms? A number of bills are now before Congress that would peek away at our rights to bear arms without harassment from bumbling government clerks. Time and sorrow have proven that when government starts this kind of program it eventually makes it impractical for the sportsman to own firearms. Leaving only the boos and power lustling political bosses with guns. It's also been shown that crime does not decrease when guns are illegal. This column isn't against outlawing machine guns, cannons and the like. But let it end there. If you want to get at the crook who uses a gun make it a mandatory life sentence for any person to commit any kind of crime when he has a gun in his possession.

Next up is a question as to whether we're for an expanded State - Federal program to control water and air pollution. Nope. The State now has this power but doesn't do the job it should. Give it to Washington and they'll just confuse it more. The only solution is in strong local laws that are policed and enforced.

If we skip a couple questions we come to the last one. It asks how we stand on plans to expand Federal support to public education. This column has long been narrow minded on that one. Down with Federal and State school aid. It's about the most absurd waste in the bureaucratic machine. The money comes from the local school district in the first place and by the time it gets back here several dozen people have taken out a share for themselves. Let's keep it here. We don't need Lansing and Washington telling us how to regiment the education of our children. If educators can't educate the public to support their schools through local tax programs then let them admit their failure and step aside.

That's all of the questions. And the end of my thoughts on them. If you see it differently that's fine. But I hope this stirred you up enough to spend the five-cents and time to answer the survey and mail it back to Roy.

THE MISTRESS of Idle Acres isn't satisfied with just keeping her husband fat. She's got to fatten up every critter in the woods as well.

In fact, we're still keeping the bird feeder filled. The birds must be getting lazier than ever. (Sorte corrupts the, like a government hand-out, you know) We've now used either 200 pounds or 250 pounds of sunflower seeds since the first snow.

And it's worth it. With the birds in their bright plumage they're stunning. Especially the gold finches and purple finches that have kept us company all winter.

In addition to squirrels, grouse, hawks, crows, robins, sparrows and blue jays, Mrs. Shep reports she saw the following on our birdfeeder during the cold months:

Bluebirds, Rose Breasted Grosbeaks, Hairy Woodpeckers, Downy Woodpeckers, Yellow bellied Sapsuckers, Flickers, Gold Finch, Purple Finch, Evening Grosbeak, Chickadees, Nuthatches, Cardinals, Cedar Waxwings, Brown Creepers and Slele Colored Juncos.

A pretty impressive list, aye? Who can do better?

Most people who spend much time observing Nature's citizens eventually pick favorites. Mine is the chickadee. I would rather share my solitude with a chickadee than with even a deer mouse or lemming.

And, to my notion, the handsomest bird about is the evening grosbeak.

The GLAD Way

Too long have we thought of The Way of the Cross as the "sad way." There may be sad moments along every noble path, but not all great ways are sad ways. The path of motherhood may have sad turns but it is a satisfying path. The path of education climbs some difficult and steep places but it is a thrilling way. Isaiah talked about the highway of God, where faithful servants passed on good errands. The way of the Cross is the way one takes when he serves God. It is not the "Sad Way" but rather the "Glad Way." Jesus came by way of the Cross, and the Book of Books on which the cross is planted, tells us to "take up our cross and follow." Whether atop the church steeple or on the highest mountain, it is The Glad Way. Heaven and God are at the end of that way. It is today aglow with the light of forgiving grace. It challenges the weak to walk by faith and offers pardon to those who fall at its foot. It is where Jesus prayed, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." It is The Glad Way.

BROTHERS REUNITE—The four Lawyer brothers at their first reunion in 56 years, held in St. Joseph, Mo., earlier this month. From left are Arthur Lawyer, Alcio Lawyer, Noah Lawyer, and James Lawyer of Charlevoix.

James Lawyer Meets Brothers After Separation of 56 Years

It took 56 years, but James A. Lawyer of Charlevoix, former owner of the Moonlight Gardens, has reunited with his three brothers for the first time since 1909.

The nearly six-decade separation for the brothers started in 1909 when they were sent from an orphanage in Schenectady, N.Y., to Andrew County, Mo.

THE BROTHERS were James, then 10; Alcio, 11; Noah, 8; and Arthur, 6. Their baby brother, Perry Paul, was placed in a children's home in New York City. Shortly after the brothers arrived in Missouri they were separated. In the following years there have been several meetings, with sometimes as many as three brothers living in the same city.

But earlier this month was the first time all four have been together. Baby brother, Perry Paul, who would now be in his 50's, has not been heard from in many years and did not make the reunion with his four brothers in St. Joseph, Mo.

THE OLDEST brother, Alcio, now 67, lives in St. Joseph, and was host for the reunion. Between 1933 and 1939, Alcio, Arthur and Noah lived in St. Joseph. Then Mr. and Mrs. Noah Lawyer moved to Rochester, N.Y., where they still live.

Arthur, the youngest of the four, once struck out from Rochester, N.Y., and after being heard from in Dallas, Tex., was out of touch with the family for 16 years. He has lived in Oak View, Calif., since 1945.

James Lawyer lost contact with his brothers when he moved to Detroit in 1929. He was later located in northern Michigan. After the reunion this month he and Mrs. Lawyer returned to Charlevoix.

Ben Cunningham has returned to his studies at Ferris State College in Big Rapids after spending the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cunningham.

traps

tiny particles in gasoline

(before they get into your fuel line!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency... could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It traps these tiny particles right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

Fishermen Support Alewife Theory on Perch

Bernie Ward Sr. was sitting on his dock one warm mid-afternoon recently gazing idly into the Round Lake. "What do you suppose happened to them?" seemed like a logical question. (Of course, Bernie didn't need an explanation. The "them" is the perch that have disappeared.)

BERNIE AND son, along with many others in Charlevoix once counted on the spring and fall perch runs to bring scores of anglers to our beautiful shores in quest of the little yellow fellows that make such fine eating and happy sport.

But the perch haven't been keeping their schedule for five or ten years. Bernie's getting by. He, along with others, have found ways to fill the hole in their pocketbook.

Yet it was obvious the good old days were on Bernie's mind. Not just the dollars that have been lost, but also the hundreds of joyful people he remembered having the time of their life filling a bucket with perch.

So I couldn't help invading his meditation by asking what he figures happened to the perch.

HIS ANSWER wasn't shocking. It wasn't wild and absurd like some of them you get about commercial fishermen catching all the perch or the lack of raw sewage eliminating their food supply.

No sir. He figures it just like the most informed fisheries biologists do, which is something to take note of.

Bernie says the alewives (shad) are the crux of the problem. Which is exactly what district fisheries chief Stan Lievens suspects.

When you find an informed and interested layman like Bernie agreeing with a professional biologist like Lievens you've got yourself a story. The laymen generally seem to make it a habit to disagree with the Conservation Dept.'s experts.

LIEVENS FIRST presented the theory that alewives may have eliminated our perch runs by eating too much of the perch's food or simply overwhelming them. He was careful to point out, however, that he isn't an expert on perch and that the alewife theory was no more than an educated guess.

At the time this column contacted Walter R. Crowe, the Conservation Dept.'s Great Lakes fisheries expert down in Lansing, Crowe wasn't inclined to give the notion much credence, but appeared too polite to cast direct disrepute on Lievens's theory.

Then the other day we found Lee Smits, dean of Michigan outdoor writers, in a column he does for Michigan Consolidated Gas, Co. quoting Crowe:

"There is another possible factor--the alewife. This runty edition of the herring has swarmed into Lakes Huron and Michigan in amazing numbers. It sneaked in originally from salt water. But in the Great Lakes the alewife is stunted, it gets up around seven inches in length, weighs about two ounces, and is not considered fit for human consumption, whereas in salt water the alewife attains a weight of as much as two pounds and is in demand for the table, fresh or smoked."

"THE ALE-WIFE creates traffic jams at all levels in our lakes. Commercial fishermen scoop them up in trawls, for processing as pet food; otherwise the alewife is not a very profitable species."

"So it is possible -- since we lack any other very good theory -- to say that schools of perch may refuse to compete with dense schools of alewives. We do know that perch are plentiful in Lake Michigan waters and that if hook-and-line fishermen can locate them, they'll catch 'em."

So it seems that Lievens's notion is gaining the respect of experts.

As Bernie sees it the alewives are eating perch spawn and just-born perch.

HE BASES THIS idea on very real evidence. When commercial fishermen (including Bernie) first set their perch nets in the spring they get big perch, but no shad.

Then, when the perch start spawning the nets turn up full of alewives.

Outdoor Rambling

Where have the perch gone? Bernie Ward says shad are eating perch spawn. Now is the time for the Rod and Gun Club, businessmen and anglers to act. Write the Conservation Dept. and our representatives in Lansing. Let's get the facts on the alewives before they get all of our sport fish.

NOTE BONY STRUCTURE OF THIS ALEWIFE

The need for answers becomes more paramount due to efforts to restore lake trout as natural spawners in Lake Michigan. Hundreds-of-thousands of lake trout are being planted this year, and soon it will be millions every year.

If the alewives do eat spawn, Crowe admits they will also eat lake trout eggs.

This column isn't going to criticize the Conservation Dept. for not getting a research project underway on shad. Great Lakes fishermen do not have to buy fishing licenses. So who is going to pay for the study?

THERE REMAINS a chance, though. Every year there is a bill introduced in the Legislature to provide for a license to fish the Great Lakes.

Why don't local sportsmen and businessmen get their hands on a couple postcards and send one to Sen. Thomas Schweigert and another to Rep. Clayton Morrison saying they support a license on Great Lakes sport fishermen? (The address for both of them is Capitol Bldg., Lansing.)

It would also seem in order for the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club to quit spending its time squabbling over insurance policies and pass a resolution calling for such action.

THE SUNDEW REPORT

By L. ALLEN McLAUGHLIN

At 10:25 a.m., Friday May 7, the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Sundeew, departed Charlevoix in route to the Mackinac Straits area, scene of the Cedarville marine disaster.

Although heavy fog conditions impeded navigation, the Sundeew proceeded at a steady speed of fifteen knots, depending almost entirely on radar equipment. At 11:40, through the Cutter's radio equipment, it was learned that the Cedarville, a 558 foot, 8,575 ton lake freighter, owned by the Bradley Steamship Co. of Rogers City, was sinking two miles southeast of the Mackinac Bridge after colliding with the Norwegian ship, Topdalfjord.

At 12:30, as the Sundeew proceeded northward, the Coast Guard Cutter Mackinac, operating out of Cheboygan, arrived on the scene, taking charge of search and rescue operations.

The Sundeew arrived at the scene at 2:15 p.m., to assist in rescue operations. The cutter, through the aid of depth finding equipment, located and marked the wreckage of the sunken Cedarville with a navigation marker. It was noted by the Sundeew's Captain Lt. Cdr. Paul T. Anderson, that the vessel was resting in approximately 102 feet of water.

Working in conjunction with the Mackinac, the cutter Nautaguck and air craft detached from the Coast Guard air station in Traverse City, the Sundeew participated in the three day vigil of search operations. During this period 23 survivors were rescued, the bodies of 4 dead were recovered, but the bodies of 8 crewmen were yet unaccounted for. One of the greatest shipwrecks in modern annals of the Great Lakes had happened in a few short moments in the Straits of Mackinac, with the towers of the mighty Mackinac Bridge looming in the distance. The hopes and dreams of the dead crew members were lost forever in the cool waters of the Straits.

Rose Cautions

About Salesmen

Sheriff Glenn Rose has cautioned area residents to be on the alert for what he terms "unscrupulous door-to-door" salesmen.

According to Rose this is the time of year when such salesmen are soliciting in the area.

ROSE SAID some of the people use an indirect approach to gain admission to a home.

He recommended that people ask the salesmen if they have a license to sell in the area.

$25,000 Suit

Is Filed Here

A $25,000 automobile negligence suit has been started in Circuit Court for Barbara Dyer, a minor, against Glenn Massey and Dennis Massey.

Seberon Litzberger, Petoskey, attorney for Barbara Dyer, contends in the complaint that Miss Dyer suffered injuries and pain due to negligence on the part of Glenn Massey and Dennis Massey in an auto accident Aug. 2, 1964 in Wilson Township.

They're the County's Best

The students below are the best, the very best, spellers among the 2,818 children in grades 1 - 8 in Charlevoix County and northern Antrim County schools.

They proved it last week at the annual Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate District spelling bee in the Charlevoix Reformed Church.

EVERY SCHOOL entered their best spellers from each grade 3 - 8. These students then met for the showdown to see who was the best from their grade in the county.

When the judges were down, and each student had spelled 100 or more words, these 18 were the winners. A first, second and third place winner was named from each grade.

First place winners received dictionaries and engraved pins. Second and third place winners got engraved pins.

They then got a pep talk and commendation from Intermediate District Supr. Charles Robinson. Robinson told the losers they, too, had plenty to be proud of because they are the best spellers from their school.

SCHOOLS INCLUDED in the spelling bee were Charlevoix, East Jordan, Ironton, Ellsworth, Central Lake, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Melrose (Walloon Lake), Murray, St. Mary's and Ebenezer Christian.

Here Are the Finest 18 Spellers From 2,818 Students

WELL, East Jordan, fourth grade; KARRI ARNOLD, Central Lake, third grade; MARILYN HAUSLER, Boyne Falls, eighth grade.

Lip Service

WITH ROY

The Ellsworth High School found a way to be politely sent home.

Friday morning the senior girls came to school attired in shorts and boys, looked as if they were ready to help the farmers instead of working behind a desk.

The educated Seniors were greeted at the doors of learning and told to replace their steps and return in school clothes. It was their last day in the classrooms and they wanted to be comfortable. Johnny Hastings is the class president and something like this could be his idea. The girls aren't talking!

IT MAY BE of some interest to the people of Ellsworth to know that the Legion Hall will be painted on the outside. Thanks to the Lions Club for taking this project upon themselves. The landscaping project is being undertaken by the Legion members.

I AM A Grandpaw! Shouted Bob Smalley. His daughter, Lynda, Mrs. Tom Organeck, gave birth to a son May 21. The father, Tom Organeck, said his son's name is Robert Thomas and weighs eight pounds and fifteen and half ounces. Sam Carlisle heard of the birth and went to the hospital to take the baby's picture. Sam had the enlarged photo in Smalleys Store Saturday morning.

DAVID Oosterbaan told me he was elected President of the Student Council at the Charlevoix High School. David grinned from ear to ear when he was telling of this honor, he is proud of being elected.

MR. AND MRS. Thale Yetaw have returned from an enjoyable trip to the big city of New York. The results: Oh! how quiet it is back home. Ellsworth servicemen are asked to report to the Rood for further instructions for Memorial Day. Legion members will be out picking up donated articles this week. If you wish to donate call Roy Staudenmeyer LU 8-2919.

ATTENTION! All boys and girls ages 10 years old and older who are interested in joining the 4-H summer program. The Ellsworth 4-H Club will meet Friday night May 28.

Visiting Judge Presides Over Criminal Court Here

Judge Edward H. Fenlon of Petoskey last week presided over Circuit Court in the Charlevoix County Building for Judge Charles L. Brown who was ill.

Judge Fenlon sentenced Danile L. Ruhling, 17, East Jordan to two years probation and $50 costs for larceny. Ruhling plead guilty to the charge.

AMOS JOHN, 54, Charlevoix, was sentenced to one year probation for furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors.

Morris E. Sheldon, 23, Boyne City, was referred to the probation department for a sentence recommendation for resisting an officer.

Donald J. Snyder, 21, East Jordan, plead guilty to indecent liberties and was referred to the probation department.

David A. Sturgess, 23, Detroit, stood mute on a larceny charge. A plea of not guilty was entered for him. The trial will be held at a later date.

KENNETH L. Mousseau, 18, Charlevoix, plead guilty to larceny and was referred to the probation department.

Edward Conner Jr., 25, Detroit, stood mute on a larceny

Boyne City Man to Run Marina Here

Don Seelye, 25, is the new manager of Stover Creek Marina.

He came to Charlevoix with his wife Carol and two children from Boyne City where he was a draftsman for Courter Products. His original home was in the Flint area.

THE NEW Lake Charlevoix marina is located next to the City boat launching ramp at the foot of Stover Rd. It is owned by Hal Forbrig, who is still finishing construction of the boat basin.

Seelye reports he has been tinkering with boating and outboard repairs for years. Next winter he expects to take a training course in fixing outboards.

The marina, he said, will offer slips for rental, both dry and wet storage, service and sales. He also expects to sell fishing tackle and bait.

Gun Club Re-Opens Trap, Skeet Range

Weekly skeet and trap shooting has been inaugurated at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

Shoots are held every Sunday from 12:30-4 p.m. Both trap and skeet ranges are in operation. All area residents and visitors are invited to participate.

BILL PETERS, who has been appointed range master, reports shells in the three popular gauges and clay pigeons are available at the lowest rate to shooters in the state. Rates range from $2 to $3.50.

Peters and other volunteers rebuilt the skeet and trap fields after getting authority, and funds, to do so at the May meeting of the Rod and Gun Club. The fields have not been used for several years. Peters said incentive and competitive shooting are planned if enough interest is shown. However, individual shooting will be continued. Other possible plans call for constructing a night shooting range for summer months.

IF TURNOUTS are large enough, and interest warrants, Peters said the clubhouse will be used and refreshments served.

The weekly skeet and trap shoots will pay their own way at no expense to the Rod and Gun Club, Peters said.

Between 80 and 100 persons turned out for the first organized shoot last Sunday.

The following results were reported.

Trap shooting -- Ron Sixberry, 16 birds busted out of 25; Esther Sixberry, 16; Bob Tripp, 23, and Jim Walters, 18.

Skeet -- Jerry Houts, 23; G. Jeffries, 23; Bill Peters, 22; Dan Sylvester, 21; Ron Sixberry, 19.

Fine Follows Auto's Flip

Gary Hull, 19, Charlevoix was fined $30 or 20 days in jail last week when he plead guilty to a reckless driving charge.

Hull was arrested for reckless driving after his 1955 convertible went off M-66 near the Loeb Rd. on May 19 and turned over.

He was treated for minor injuries at Charlevoix Hospital and released.

Sixteen members of the local Farm Bureau met with Wayne and Sally Saunders Tuesday evening. Edna and Ole Nelson showed their moves that they took while on their trip to Florida last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted England from Lansing are spending several days at their cottage.

Wayne and Sally Saunders received 5,500 new laying hens last Tuesday to take care of their summer egg business.

Memorial Day was set each year, first by custom and later by statute, for the purpose of honoring the memory of the soldiers who fought in the Civil War. The custom of Decoration Day, as it is otherwise called, originated with the Southern States in strewing flowers over the soldiers graves and this idea was adopted by a few states in the North. In May 1868, Gen. John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued an order, appointing May 30 of that year for Grand Army Services. This day was chosen because it was the date of discharge of the last union volunteer of the war. The states that observe the day have adopted it singly, as there is no national law on the subject, but it is one of our federal holidays and we always look forward to having old friends and neighbors return to help observe this day.

MRS. LILLIAN BERGMANN, kneeling, and her two assistants, Mrs. William Bergmann, standing on left, and Corwin Sutherland, standing on right, and their students at the Retarded Center.

Let Us Never Forget

TAKING THE PICTURE above was a heartbreaking assignment. Mrs. Lillian Bergmann cautioned the photographer not to tell the children why he was taking it or they would burst into tears.

In a sense it is a farewell picture. It may be the last ever taken of Mrs. Bergmann and her students at the Charlevoix Retarded Children's Center. It is a picture we were not all eager to take.

THOUGH THERE is no disputing the conclusion of professional educators that having the school financed and run by the State is a more practical system, there was a gnawing doubt in our minds that the present program will be improved on. Since 1954 it has been financed as a private school through voluntary donations and tuition.

Next year children enrolled at the Retarded Center will have a teacher with all the proper certificates required by the State.

Mrs. Bergmann resigned as teacher-director so the Center could be turned over to the public school, which will get State aid to pay for its operation.

But, as we took the picture, we could not dismiss the thought that credits for college courses fail to reveal a person's true capacity for love, understanding and respect. Certainly, nothing anyone can give these children can be more important than this.

Mrs. Bergmann and her assistants at the Retarded Children's Center have given their pupils this in the fullest measure.

WE HAVE WATCHED the children snuggle up to Mrs. Bergmann almost like an infant does its mother when it wants to show affection it cannot express verbally. We have also seen the gleam of happiness that flashes into their faces when they master a problem or are mildly disciplined.

Mackinac Bridge Tolls

Manistique Pioneer-Tribune

DESPITE THE obvious injustice of the Mackinac Bridge toll, there are still a few obtuse souls in lower Michigan—including, we are sad to confess, some newspaper editors—who oppose removal of the tolls.

They point to the fact that they were told the bridge would pay its way, and that it would not cost the citizens of Michigan one red cent. Now they feel outraged at being asked to share the burden.

There are toll roads elsewhere, they point out. Why not the Big Mac? Why ask us to help pay for it?

Answer We agree that toll roads can

Brow and Fairport Enrich Our Beauty

ALL CHARLEVOIXIANS should feel a sense of gratitude to Fairport of Charlevoix and Brow Marina. These two marinas are again showing us that private enterprise is the vital moving force making Charlevoix the beautiful more beautiful.

Brow and Fairport are planning improvements to their waterfront property

We have watched youngsters come in for recess early so they could do simple chores that to them are an important responsibility and one they accept with pride and great satisfaction.

We have heard adults express amazement at the advancements shown by children at the Center.

All of this makes only a slight impression on paper. When you see it for yourself it is one of the most fulfilling experiences a sensitive human being can discover.

IT IS ALSO a contradiction of mankind's purpose. On one hand we find man learning to destroy himself more efficiently than ever before. On the other we find children, who a 100 years ago would have been a social disgrace to their parents, and in some cases even locked in closets, living a richly rewarding life in full view of the public.

And though it sidetracks us momentarily, it brings us to ask, which is man's true destiny? Will he obliterate himself? Or will examples of love and respect, such as Mrs. Bergmann has set, prevail until they extend to all human beings?

We could use more Lil Bergmann's in the world. And more community's with the compassion and understanding that Charlevoix has displayed in making the Retarded Children's Center a dramatic example of the highest achievement in human relations.

Before we say our editorial farewell to Mrs. Bergmann, we hope we have not misled anyone.

The Courier does not oppose the Retarded Children's Assn. in its agreement to turn administration of the school over to public school educators. In the long run we have confidence these unfortunate children will fare as well under the new program. Our faith is bolstered by the fact Mrs. Bergmann was the most ardent supporter of the new program. If she believes in it who are we to be doubters?

be found in many states, particularly Indiana and Illinois, but -- they are not the only route. They are not the sole connecting link between geographical portions of the state. There are alternate routes, and if the motorist would rather not pay, he can choose those.

At the Straits of Mackinac, there is no alternative. You have no choice. You pay. The only alternate routes open to residents of Schoolcraft County, for example, are around the far side of Lake Michigan or eastward through Canada.

That's the unfairness of it. We would rather switch than fight, but unfortunately, there's nothing else to switch to.

that will enhance Round Lake's appearance. Workmen are now building the new pier at Brow. Next fall, or spring, they will begin making improvements at Fairport. No matter how attractive the city makes East Park, it is a wasted effort without this kind of continued improvement by private Marina owners.

Old Glory Tells Of Disappointment

DEAR EDITOR:
Hello-remember me? Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Stars and Stripes; also I have been referred to as the Star Spangled Banner. But whatever they call me, I am your flag, or as I proudly state, the flag of the United States of America.

There is something that has been bothering me, so I thought that I might tell it over with you. Because it is about you and me.

I REMEMBERED some time ago, I think it was Memorial Day. People were lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade. The town's high school band was in back of me and naturally I was leading the parade.

When your daddy saw me coming along waving in the breeze, he immediately removed his hat and placed it against his left shoulder so that his hand was directly over his heart. Remember?

AND YOU, I remember you. Standing there as straight as a soldier, you didn't have any hat but you were giving the right salute. They taught you in school to place your hand over your heart.

Remember little sister--not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you. I was very proud as I came down your street. There were some soldiers home on leave and they were standing at attention giving the military salute. Ladies as well as men all paying me reverence that I deserve.

NOW I may sound as if I am a little conceited. Well, I am. I have a right to be. Because I represent the finest country in the world, the United States of America. More than one aggressive nation has tried to haul me down, but they all felt the fury of this freedom loving country. You know, you had to go and defend me. And a mighty fine job you did, too.

What happened? I'm still the same old flag. Oh, I have a couple more stars added since you were a boy. A lot more blood has been shed since that Memorial Day so long ago. Dad is gone now. The old home town has a new look.

The last time I came down your street I saw some of the old landmarks were gone, but in their place shined majestic-ally in the sun were a number of new buildings, beautiful new homes. Yes sir, the old town sure has changed.

BUT NOW I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street, you just stand there with your hands in your pockets and give me a small glance and then look away.

When I think of all the places I have been, Anzio, Guadalcanal, Korea, Who knows where I'll be next?

Then I see the children running around and shouting. They don't seem to know who I am. I saw one man take his hat off and then look around. He didn't see anybody else with theirs off, so he quickly put his back on.

IS IT A sin to be patriotic any more? Have you forgotten what I stand for? Have you forgotten all the battlefields where men fought and died to keep this nation free? When you salute me, you are actually saluting them.

Take a look at the Memorial Honor Rolls sometime. Look at the names of those that never came back. Some of them were friends or relatives of yours. Probably went to the same school with some of them.

THAT'S WHAT you are saluting. Not me. Well, it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So when you see me, stand straight, place your hand over your heart and you'll really see me waving back, my salute to you. And I'll know that... YOU REMEMBERED!

Planners Eye Area's Future Growth, Needs

This article was prepared by the planning firm Williams and Works of Grand Rapids, which has been employed to advise the newly created Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission. It explains, in more complete detail than ever before presented, why the community must begin now preparing for the future.

Charlevoix is one of the most favorably situated and one of the most attractive cities in the state of Michigan. The prestige it commands as a resort center is rivaled only by its orderly appearance and efficient municipal administration.

Planning is essential, however, to maintain the desirable features of the city in the face of overwhelming changes that are in the offing. For example, the President's Outdoor Recreation Resource Review Commission predicts that the nation's population will increase by 100 percent between 1960 and 2000, disposable personal income will increase by 306 percent, and recreational boating will increase by 307 percent. With the present concentration of pleasure craft in the Charlevoix area, it is logical to assume that long before the year 2000, it will be necessary to devise many innovations in boat traffic and service if this community is to share in the economic impact of this growing industry.

THE AVAILABILITY of open water and connecting waterways makes Charlevoix a prime target for future growth. With the further improvement of highways, aviation facilities, and marine and harbor facilities, previous concepts of remoteness and distance will be drastically reduced. The Michigan State Highway Needs Study, for example, shows that a four-lane limited access freeway will be needed to replace U.S.-31, and that the Charlevoix area will thus be drawn much closer, time-wise, to the Grand Rapids and Chicago market areas. Interstate 75 is only 42 miles from the city now, and it has had the effect of moving Charlevoix at least one-third closer to Detroit or Lansing. Michigan has scarcely scratched the surface in the use of private, corporate, charter and scheduled aviation in developing its recreation and resort areas, but in the future this will certainly become a much more important means of access.

The impact of the crushing demand for recreation must be met in Charlevoix with clear-cut plans for coping with the future. Earlier growth of the city has been at a leisurely and orderly pace, quite unlike the future rate of growth of all forms of recreation and traffic that will pour through the city. In the half-century from 1910 to 1960, the city of Charlevoix gained only 13.7 percent population, whereas the state of Michigan as a whole increased by 178 percent. During the decade of the 1950's, Charlevoix experienced a 2.1 percent increase in population, but the state increased by 22.8 percent during the decade.

Charlevoix County was one of seven northern Lower Peninsula counties that actually lost population between 1950 and 1960, and all seven are located in the northwestern part of the Lower Peninsula. Yet Otsego and Cheboygan Counties, immediately to the east of Charlevoix County, had population increases of 17 and 6 percent, respectively. Nearby Crawford and Grand Traverse Counties had 1950-60 population increases of 20 and 17 percent, respectively. The true impact of improved accessibility has not yet been felt by the Charlevoix area, but its growth will not be far behind that of the counties that are directly served by Interstate 75.

It is significant to note that Charlevoix Township, which completely surrounds the city (except for the portion fronting on the lake) had a 1950-60 population increase of 58.5 percent. Although the numerical increase in the township was quite low, only 107 more people in 1960 than in 1950, it was nearly double the city's numerical population increase.

Had a little chat with my former milkman, Sonny Belfy, the other day. . . and the conversation turned to the recent tragedy in the Straits of Mackinac that sent the freighter, the Cedarville, to the bottom of the Straits. . . Sonny spoke of the ship with a bit of nostalgia for, at one time when he was sailing, he had called the huge vessel home for three sailing seasons. . . that was when it was owned by the Pittsburgh Steamship Co. and sailed under another name. . . He is considering returning to sailing and is counting his lucky stars that he wasn't called back and assigned to the Cedarville for, as he puts it, that water's mighty cold this time of year. . .

THERE ARE places around the community that are always interesting to watch. . . we have such a place on the north side for as the seasons change, there's always a changing array of flowers. . . they don't have the largest garden spot in the community but it's certainly an attractive one. . . first came the crocuses, then the grape hyacinths, next the daffodils and, if the schedule is followed, the tulips will be next. . . All summer long there's always colorful blossoms to brighten the corner of Dixon and Burns st. . . at the Gordon Moeller home. . . I'm sure everyone notices and enjoys them as much as we do. . .

Not that I'd want to be in a position where I'd have to be rescued or transported in a hurry but I've always had a yen to ride in a helicopter. . . The hummingbird, but that these things can accomplish always fascinate me. . . And you're always so close to everything. . . Added to that, they seem like such a handy gadget. . . landing just any place. . . no need for a big landing strip. . . Seems like a good sensible way to get around. . .

Getting around is something a gal we know does very well. . . Since she spent a year in our midst I'm sure you'll enjoy hearing about her for she knew a host of people when she was here as a student. . . I mean our exchange student, Nyko Bierma of Holland who spent the 1962-63 school year with the Ralph McRae's. . . Last year she decided, after attending the University, that she'd like to become an airline stewardess. . . which isn't exactly easy for one must be adept in at least four languages. . . but she made it in a breeze on this count for she knows her native language as well as German, English and Spanish. . . As you know, she's also a very capable person so all this, combined with her natural attributes (and they are many) got her into the school. . . Earlier this year she completed her studies and is now with KLM, the big Dutch airline that's world-wide. . .

The first year you fly only in Europe. . . runs to Rome, London, Paris, Madrid, Oslo. . . just any place on the continent. . . even to a charter trip recently into Yugoslavia. . . She said the airport where they landed was comparatively small and many of the townspeople came to see the plane. . . The crew was allowed to walk about outside the fence so Nyko, armed with a handful of postcards publicizing her airlines, made her way outside the fence and proceeded to make friends with the spectators, especially the children. . . Though there was a language barrier, she said they managed to exchange a few words and that she thoroughly enjoyed the experience, her first behind that Iron Curtain. . .

Hearing her talk of her experiences around the capitals of Europe is like listening to a modern-day Arabian Nights story where a plane has replaced the magic carpet. . .

She's presently on vacation and is spending most of it here where she's re-newing old acquaintances. . . In another year she'll be flying where KLM planes travel so now and then she's hoping to get back to see her American friends. . . Meanwhile she's hoping to see other exchange students she's met or knows about through friends here. . . This old world is getting smaller and smaller as friendships grow.

area, is typical of what is occurring in most other city-township areas. The seriousness of it is that commercial developments tend to string out along the highways outside of the city, rather than contributing to the tax base and customer convenience in the city. Such roadside developments create unnecessary trunkline traffic congestion, and they very frequently lack the necessary controls to assure a pleasing approach to the city.

Although the population of Charlevoix increased 2.1 percent between 1950 and 1960, there was actually an out-migration of 193 people, or 7.2 percent of the 1950 population. This was the result of more births than deaths, and an obvious lack of job opportunities to hold young people in the community. This is substantiated by the fact that 16 percent of the 1960 population of the city were 65 years old or over, as compared to a state-wide average of only 8.2 percent.

Charlevoix thus finds itself in the same position as many other northern Michigan communities, with the burden of raising and educating youngsters, only to have many of them migrate away during their most productive years, leaving a higher than average proportion of elderly people, many of whom require additional medical and welfare facilities and appropriations.

The program for comprehensive planning is designed to realistically assist the city of Charlevoix to evaluate its resources and potentials and to minimize its problems. Personnel of the firm of Williams and Works have had many years of experience working with communities of this size, especially in resort areas. The staff possesses a combination of specialists in urban and regional planning and economic development, backed up by a wide range of specialists in all phases of municipal engineering and management. Direct knowledge of the problems confronting Charlevoix enables a more personalized type of service that will help make a good community stay that way.

equipment will be available to carry the litter away, hasn't been determined. Doan expects to meet next week with leaders of the organizations that have indicated they will support the project to work out these details.

He pointed out trucks, dozers and four-wheel drive vehicles with trailers may be needed to carry the litter off the beaches.

Doan said that where this has been done (Traverse City, for one) it was found that the work moved rapidly if enough people were willing to pitch in and do it.

Complete details on what time the clean-up will start, where volunteers should report and with what personal equipment will be announced in a later edition of the Courier.

regard to man's relation to others. This difference of opinion brought on the Civil War. Through victory in that bloody war, costly to both North and South, our nation made known unto all the world that we would ever be our "brother's keeper." That declared purpose of ours has been repeated in every war we have since engaged in. We have been, by the grace of God, victors in all such wars, but we have never asked a reward for ourselves, we have only asked that the reward-freedom be to the downtrodden, the oppressed, the enslaved.

Memorial Day was set aside to honor men who gave up their lives in our first war for the attainment of God's purpose-unconditioned freedom for all. Since first set aside for that purpose Memorial Day now honors all who have given up their lives, in every war in which we have engaged, that all men everywhere may be free.

A true appreciation of God's continuing mercy to us as a free people ought to stop the fast drift in our day toward making Memorial Day a holiday, and return us to that which its founders intended—a recognition of the day as a Holy Day.

Kiwanis Club

Club's youth room will be in the basement of the library. Stating partitions will make it possible to turn the room into three meeting areas.

The club's donation carried these stipulations: 1--That recognized youth activities be given first choice in using the room; 2--That there always be a Kiwanis Club member on the library board.

The $10,000 donated by Kiwanians came from the approximately $16,000 youth activities fund that has been accumulated in recent years. Kiwanians originally hoped to build a community swimming pool with the money, Totten said, but found that considerably more would be needed to construct and maintain a pool.

TOTTEN VOWED when he assumed the club presidency this year that his goal would be to put the youth activities fund money to a worthwhile purpose.

William Peck of Ironton, a Kiwanian and member of the library advisory committee, outlined the proposal to the club. Granting the $10,000 donation was recommended by a committee composed of Kit Carson, John Lachman and Don Anders.

The new library may be built on a site owned by Dr. Walter Hoffmann on the north side of Park Ave. at the end of State St., instead of on the present location on State St. at Clinton.

Michigan's Upper Peninsula, with its 16,538 square miles of land area, is equal in size to the combined areas of Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

icism, they added. Commanders are Harry Pearsall of the Legion and Ed Mann of the VFW.

THE PARADE will follow its traditional route. Starting at Park and Bridge streets, a wreath will be placed on the State Highway memorial bridge.

Lead by Charlevoix High School bandmen and a Coast Guard firing squad and local Color Guard, the parade will move south to Memorial Park at Bridge and Antrim streets.

A wreath honoring Navy and Marine Corps dead will be placed in Round Lake at the foot of Antrim with rifle salute and taps.

The parade formation, with all veterans and probably several floats and uniformed units, will then move south to Brookside Cemetery where the major ceremony will take place at the marker honoring Charlevoix's veterans.

THE REV. FR. E. F. Denay will deliver the address. Rev. George Majors and Rev. Raymond McBratnie will participate in the ceremony.

Melvin Matchett, a Charlevoix High School student, will recite the Gettysburg Address.

The VFW and Legion point out non-veterans and women and children can show their respect for Charlevoix's war dead by viewing the parade and remembering their flag etiquette.

When the flag passes spectators should stand erect and salute with their hand over their heart. Men should remove their hat and hold it at left shoulder.

ANYTIME THE national anthem is played all persons should stand erect (hands out of pockets) and face the flag. Only men in uniform salute during the anthem.

Spring Concert Tomorrow

The annual Spring Music Festival will be presented tomorrow evening (Thursday) May 27 in the Charlevoix High School Gym. The program will begin at 8 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Being presented by the Music Department of the high school, all school music groups will appear. These groups will be directed by Mrs. Earl Lawrence, vocal music instructor, and C. A. Odmark, who is in charge of instrumental music.

THE GIRLS' Glee Club completing its first year of work since its re-organization last fall will present numbers suited to the season. This group will be accompanied by Miss Janet Pease.

The traditional "parade of bands" will take place with the seventh grade beginning band making its first public appearance that evening. The Charlevoix Reserve band, composed of 8th and 9th graders will perform several selections.

The concert will close with the Charlevoix Senior Band, 90 pieces strong, presenting a light and varied program. Closing the concert in a traditional way the band will play John Philip Sousa's Stars and Stripes Forever.

The concert, which annually attracts a large crowd of parents and friends, is designed to show those present the progress each group has made in the school year culminates the year's work.

Memorial Day

They marched!
Not many of them. Maybe a dozen.
Lining Bridge St. watching were dozens more.
who had served their country in World War II and Korea. But they chose not to march.

THE VFW AND American Legion had asked that at least 100 local veterans participate in Monday's Memorial Day parade. They were disappointed. As in other recent years, most veterans of the last big war and Korea were not in the ranks.

Several of their wives were, however. The women, wearing VFW and Legions Auxiliary caps, marched behind the handful of veterans who filled the front ranks.

Maybe, a veterans' organization leader suggested, the men who returned from World War II and Korea would rather not remember.

But they did. As Getch Campfield blew taps at the foot of Antrim St. and at Memorial Cemetery, those veterans who elected to watch instead of participate were remembering. If you looked you could see they were.

IN SPITE OF the lack of veteran-participation, the parade could be dubbed a success. Several hundred persons turned out to watch. They stood respectfully at attention along the parade route and at ceremonies in Brookside Cemetery.

The Charlevoix High School band, as always, drew considerable of attention.

A Charlevoix Coast Guard Station firing squad put on a fine display of military precision.
Though lacking the faraway look that were evident among those in the Color Guard, Charlevoix Boy Scout and Girl Scout organizations brought up the rear ranks in good order.

In the Front Ranks Were A Handful Who Remembered.

The Cannons Thunder Was Recalled
At Brookside Cemetery Services.

They had no memories, but did their duty.

As Getch Campfield sounded taps memories came back.

They Sat In Silent Respect. Some Only Wanted To Forget.

Ellsworth Supt. Resigns

ELLSWORTH School Supt.
Jerry Albright has resigned to accept a similar position in the Upper Peninsula, he announced Tuesday morning.

Albright has been Ellsworth Community School District superintendent since July 1963. He went to Ellsworth three years ago as high school principal.

A 1954 Charlevoix High School graduate, Albright holds masters and bachelors degrees from Central Michigan University.

HE AND HIS wife Jean have two children, Craig, 4, and Patti Jo, 2.

Going to U.P. School

Albright announced he has accepted a job as superintendent of the Powers-Spaudin-g (Powers, Mich.) school district in the U.P., near Escanaba.

"We hate to leave our many friends in the Ellsworth - Charlevoix area," Albright said. "But we have wanted to move into the Upper since I graduated from college. All of Jean's family lives up there."

The Powers-Spaudin district has approximately 500 students, compared to Ellsworth's 290.

Albright said he will remain in Ellsworth for several weeks.

Chamber Eyes New Manager

The search for a new Chamber of Commerce manager has been narrowed down to three unnamed men, the Board of Directors announced after a lengthy meeting Tuesday evening.

Chamber directors said they will interview the three applicants still under consideration at a special meeting Thursday. The decision on hiring one of the men is expected to be made then.

EIGHT PERSONS applied for the position. At Tuesday's meeting the Board of Directors eliminated five of the applicants from consideration. To avoid embarrassment, none of the applicants were publicly named.

It was reported, however, that one of the remaining applicants is from Charlevoix, one from Traverse City and one from Big Rapids.

Chamber President Bob Lieberman pointed out it is imperative that a new manager be hired as soon as possible because the summer season is nearing.

The vacancy was created last week when Chamber manager Dean Davenport resigned.

Mrs. Paul (Dorothy) Kohler has also resigned, effective in mid-June, to accept a position with Hess Furniture Co.

The Board of Directors
Tuesday evening decided the new manager will be given a one-year contract. The contract will specifically outline the manager's duties, including his responsibility for collecting membership dues.

The chamber managership is a fulltime position paying between $5,000 and $6,000 annually.

The manager is generally responsible for coordinating and directing all chamber projects and providing leadership to get new programs underway. Chamber policy and approval of expenditures is the responsibility of the Board of Directors. Directors are elected by chamber members.

IN OTHER matters Tuesday evening the directors announced that Medusa Portland Cement Co. has joined the chamber and paid its first year's dues of $100.

The board decided to contribute $10 toward Ralph Doan's volunteer beach clean up program Saturday, June 12. It was also agreed that at least one director will officially represent the chamber at the clean-up.

Scheduled airline service from Detroit to Charlevoix will be offered by Q Airlines (owned by L. T. Quarstrom) from June 6 through Labor Day, the board announced.

Jack Mol, a member of the Board of Directors, said that plans for the Venetian Festival July 23-24 are progressing in fine shape.

THE MICHIGAN Historical Society's 70-foot long History Mobile will be in Charlevoix August 3-5, the board learned. The public will be invited to visit the History Mobile.

Largest Class In CHS History To Get Degrees

High school degrees will be awarded to 68 seniors Wednesday, June 9, at the annual commencement program.
Charlevoix High School principal Harry Bingham reports the 1965 graduating class is larger than any other in the school's history. The largest previous class was 69 graduating seniors. In 1964, he said, 65 seniors received degrees.

THE PUBLIC is invited to the commencement program, starting at 8 p.m. in the high school gym. Seats are reserved for relatives and friends of graduates. The program will last about two hours.
Baccalaureate will be held Sunday, June 6, at 8 p.m. in the high school gym. The public is invited.

Dr. Clyde M. Campbell, professor of educational administration at Michigan State University, will deliver the commencement address. His topic is "The Outlook for Intelligence."

Dr. Campbell has been a member of the MSU College for Education since 1945. Previously he served as a high school principal and public school superintendent in Illinois.

Residents Balk On Corps Plan For Easements

Corps of Engineer plans to rehabilitate the Pine River channel this summer may be delayed by a disagreement with landowners over giving the Corps a right-of-way.
Landowners, reportedly, have refused to give the Corps the right-of-way it requested.

MRS. P. D. Campbell of Pine River Lane recently asked City Council to purchase her property on the north side of the channel because it "will be virtually useless" when the Corps gets its right-of-way.
Councilmen informally decided not to purchase the narrow strip of land between the road and channel.

If the city purchased Mrs.
Campbell's property, Councilmembers decided they would be obligated to buy all the land the Corps wants right-of-way on along both sides of the channel.

"IF SHE refuses to give the easement to the government it will have to condemn it and buy it," Dr. Hoffmann said. He estimated the Corps would pay from $1,500 to $2,- 000 for the 160-foot long strip.

City Attorney John Michael said the Corps wants legal permission to use a 50 foot strip of property along both sides of the channel.

Under the terms proposed by the Corps, both Hoffmann and Michael said, property owners would have little control over the land, though they would continue to pay taxes on it.

When asked by the Courier, the Corps did not outline specifically what it is requesting in the right-of-way agreement.

Other persons who own property through which the Corps is seeking rights-of-way are the City of Charlevoix, Eva Smith, Marie Mitchell, Bob Miles, Betty Byrum, Mrs. Tad Pearl and Dr. Hoffmann.

DURING WW II he was an educational consultant for the Civil Aeronautics Admin. in Washington. He has been president of the National Conference of Professors of Educational Administration and executive secretary of the Michigan Assn. of School Administrators.

The commencement program will include honors for class Valedictorian Barbara Wood and Salutatorian John Duerr.

The other eight students among the top ten graduates are Nancy Novak, John Bloha, Verene McClanahan, Joseph
Olsen, Patti Penn, Delbert
Terrill Jr., Janice Vandenberg, Drew Young Jr.

Rev. Everett Herberger of the Assembly of God Church will deliver the sermon at Sunday's Baccalaureate program. Others on the program will be Rev. Alexander Wood,
Rev. George Majors, Rev.
Jack Harris and Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen.

In Boyne City 73 seniors will get degrees. East Jordan High School will award 63 degrees.

Mrs. Robert (Lillian) Berg-

Her appointment was an-

MRS. BERGMANN resigned last month as teacher-director of the Charlevoix Retarded

Judge Makel said Mrs.
Bergmann's success at the

was a primary factor in his selecting her for the court position.

The appointment was approved last week by Gov.
George Romney.

A State juvenile court work-

Bergmann recommended her appointment to the governor due to her "warmth, enthusi-

MRS. BERGMANN will be

C-G Will Raze Old Building

Thousands of memories recalling hardship, fun and com-radship linger within its old frame walls.

But it no longer serves the needs of the U.S. Coast Guard.
So the old Charlevoix Lifeboat Station -- behind the National Fish Hatchery on the Pine River channel -- must go.

THE COAST Guard has put the station building and utility building up for demolition bids. It is not selling the property.

Persons interested in purchasing the old buildings and removing them from the property should get their bid in by June 8 to the Contracting Office, Ninth Coast Guard

District, Main Post Office
Bldg., Cleveland, O.

The two buildings are described as:

"1. Old Station Building -- Frame, two-story, attic, in-

"BOTH ITEMS 1 and 2 are ing on the interior walls, and the foundation."

The garage-barracks building on the site will not be razed. It is a modern building.

The old station building became surplus when the new Charlevoix Coast Guard Station was constructed in 1962 at the east end of the railroad bridge channel into Lake
Charlevoix.

The Coast Guard received the old station site from the City of Charlevoix for $1 in 1899. The property transfer agreement may make it necessary for the Coast Guard to return the property to the City if it is no longer used.

HARVEY L. Idding, Charlevoix Village president in 1899, signed the property transfer agreement. It was also signed by William Mc-Cartney, village clerk.

Charlevoix Coast Guard
Group executive officer CWO
James Sedell reports no definite plans have been announced for the property's future use.
Mayor E. D. Hawley has said the city is interested in reclaiming the property if it is no longer needed by the Coast Guard.

Area Ice Supply Dries Up

Charlevoix's ice tycoon, Charles Heise, reports the clinking cool stuff may be in short supply this summer.
The area's supply of block ice has been eliminated by the closing of Boyne Valley Foods' ice manufacturing plant, Heise said.

"IF WE'D known they were closing we would have harvested ice here this winter and stored it," Heise said.

Until recent years Heise and others cut hundreds of tons of ice in Lake Charlevoix every winter. With the economical supply available from Boyne Valley Foods they quit using lake ice. Boyne Valley Foods supplied block ice to an area extending from Houghton Lake to Mackinaw City.

Ice cubes will be available,
Heise said, from people making them here in commercial quantities.

HOWEVER, THE nearest suppliers of block ice are in Saginaw and Grand Rapids.
Importing ice from that far south is expensive, he pointed out.

The major users of block ice are boaters and summer residents.

Litter Gets Licking From Cub Scouts

Charlevoix Cub Scout Den 2 last week got a head start on picking up litter along the Lake Michigan beach.

The boys, along with their Den Mother Mrs. Ivan Whitley, picked up two trash barrels of litter from a small area near the city water pumping station on Lake Michigan.

MRS. WHITLEY said filling the two barrels took less than an hour and the boys picked up the most obvious litter.
All area people have been asked to participate in a thorough cleaning of the beaches Saturday, June 12.
Details of where the cleanup will start and at what time will be printed in next week's Courier.

Cub Scouts picking up the litter last week were Martin Anders, James Donaldson,
Jerry Russell, Jim Moerland, John Peterson, Randy Webster, Randy Winchester, Carl Whitley, Pat Whitley and Den
Chief Eric Peterson.

Outdoor Rambling

Try saying "sploop!"
Hal That's just about what a big bass sounds like when he hits a frog, moth or other large hunk of food on the surface of a lake.

It's an intriguing sound. And one that is usually heard only by the stealthy after-dark angler. Next to the "blup" of a big brown trout taking a fly about midnight on a stream, a bass' sashay to the surface is perhaps the most exciting sound a Michigan angler can hear.

CHARLEVOIX area bass fishermen are some of the most fortunate in the northern United States. Several of the nation's top fishing writers repeatedly point to Lake Charlevoix and our northern Lake Michigan shorelines as the finest smallmouth hotspots in the country.

Our first chance to cash in on this opportunity comes this weekend . . . the first of the 1965 bass season. Though the season actually opened Tuesday, June 1, few fishermen were able to turn out.

Those that did generally found fishing in the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix and around the Beaver Island group better than, or as good as, ever. Lake Charlevoix's bass population has been building up for years. This year biologists estimate there not only are more bass, but a larger number in the lunker class -- three pounds and up.

THIS COLUMN'S pre-season angling in the South Arm has produced eight or nine of these three pounders. One ran to slightly over 5 pounds . . . the biggest smallmouth I've ever landed. (Of course, it was returned.)

Though I've tried other techniques, the most productive has been to wade almost out to the drop-off and then pitch a Jig-A-Do bucktail into deeper water. The strikes usually come when I'm using a start-and-stop retrieve.

I've done so well with this Jig-A-Do lure (made by the Burke Lure Co. in Traverse City) that I seldom even consider using any other during the day on Lake Charlevoix. But if you buy some of them make sure they have the trailer hook, or you'll miss strikes.

Other people prefer trolling with a small spoon or Heddon Ilep - type spinner or casting and still fishing with worms and minnows.

The most important thing to remember is that only a small portion of Lake Charlevoix will produce bass. You have to find these spots and concentrate your fishing at them. To haphazardly fish the entire lake is a waste of time and casting muscles.

THOUGH SOME of us are inclined to spurn the most popular hotspots this is a mistake. Such places as the channel into Lake Michigan, and by the railroad bridge into Lake Charlevoix, continue to produce more bass than almost all others. They're the easiest to fish. So why not try your luck there?

There is no denying the disadvantages of fishing the big lake. Because it is so large an angler can sometimes spend his whole day looking for bass and never find them.

Which gets us back to that bass "splooping" on the surface of a lake. Lake Charlevoix bass seldom feed on the surface. This thrill is reserved for those who fish the small lakes to the south of Charlevoix.

If you'll look at a map you'll find a concentration of small lakes between Charlevoix and Central Lake. Though some of them are shallow and overrun with stunted perch and bullheads, most offer splendid bass and pike fishing.

PERHAPS EVEN more important to vacationers who work under the pressure and harrowing pace of a big city, the small lakes offer a feeling of solitude and wilderness that is hard to grasp on Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan.

-And it's on the little -- often virtually hidden -- lakes that those out to nail bass on surface lures find their sport. (Conventional underwater tactics also pay off.)

For night surface fishing glide your boat or canoe as silently as possible near a likely looking shore. Wall a few minutes for things to settle down before casting.

Then throw your plug or fly right up against the bank. That's right. In the shallowest water possible. You'll be surprised how often a lunker will come surging out from under the bank of the lake.

OUR FUTURE

This is a day of congratulations... a time for the rewarding of those who deserve it. They have finished a job. It is also their Commencement... young graduates must survey their individual and personal futures. It is beginning time for each. Unless they have learned well to do their duty instead of demanding their rights... unless they are qualified to take prosperity without pride, and adversity without anguish — they are unprepared for the future God has for them. This is a glad some time, but it is also a most frightful, serious occasion. Eternal vigilance is the demand made by the world on those reaching this commencement hour. Today the pattern is formed, the die is cast. May every graduate from something-to-something in America, remember the words of St. Paul, who said: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any praise, think on these things. Those things which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do, and the God of peace shall be with you," through Your Future.

RAMBLING

"Is your summer all over with up here?" a sarcastic downstater asked as he hunched his shoulders against the 50-degree temperatures driven across Torch Lake by a lively west wind.

Several hundred people crowded around a gravel beach on the northeast corner of Torch Lake, Thursday afternoon waiting for Gov. George Romney to put in his brief appearance.

Though no one really said why, the governor was due to plant the first bucketful of kokanee salmon in Michigan waters. (Believe it or not, an inscribed gold-colored bucket was used.)

The outlet of Wilkenson Creek, two miles west and south of Eastport was selected for this rather formal informality. Fisheries biologists decided Torch Lake offers Michigan the best chance of starting this imported breed of landlocked sockeye salmon.

The project has special significance to Charlevoix because the Conservation Dept. says it someday intends to introduce Kokanee in Lake Charlevoix. How the program works out in Torch Lake will determine whether the silvery little fish are stocked here.

When the governor finally did arrive, to speak from a platform on the bed of a stake truck, waves a couple feet high were breaking on the shore of Torch Lake.

The fella from downstate was enviously eyeing "the natives" who had been wise enough to bring along a parka. Gov. Romney stepped to the microphone without benefit of a coat or hat. He was wearing a bright blue jacket which looked like the same one I first saw him campaigning in more than two years ago.

After praising the Conservation Dept.'s blueprint for improved sport fishing the governor revealed how interested he actually is in the program by calling Howard Tanner—the author of the new book—by the wrong name.

Steve Myers of Grand Rapids, head of the mighty Michigan United Fish Conservation Clubs, remarked that even if the kokanee plant isn't a success at least it shows the department is trying to make progress.

"Did you ever figure a fish could get so much attention," Myers added as he looked at the dozens of half-frozen downstaters dutifully looking inspired as they listened to the governor of Michigan speak and shake his hands at the mike.

Before it was over the governor revealed that he and his family had spent their first ten summers in Michigan vacationing on Torch Lake. His eldest son, he said, caught his first fish in Torch Lake. Romney also kidded a fellow in the audience who said he had two Torch Lake trout in his freezer. Which the governor asked how many people in the crowd had ever caught a lake trout in Torch Lake about 50 held up their hands.

Finally the wind from the speakers platform gave way to the chill blast coming across the lake.

With more than a dozen photographers crowding the opposite bank of the creek the governor poured a pallful of two-inch-long kokanee fry into Wilkenson Creek.

Seconds later, as the program ended and the enthusiastic crowd headed for coffee shops in Bellaire, this column continued to feel something was missing.

Getting back to Charlevoix and leaving through the bulging press kit the Conservation Dept. had prepared on the kokanee, I discovered what it was. No one had said, or written, why the kokanee salmon is desirable in Michigan.

It certainly doesn't have any fighting superiority over bass, pike or trout. Nor was there any mention that it would accommodate more anglers than our splendid perch, bluegills and rock bass.

So, at the risk of being a party pooper, I can't resist asking why Howard Tanner and Gov. Romney don't get busy and improve fishing for the wonderful species we now have?

Could it be that Steve Myers was right when he suggested planting an exotic imported fish is a fine way to attract attention?

This column was getting a lecture recently from a citizen who has more venom in their tongue and hate in their heart than anyone I have ever met.

Since I'm used to human ugliness and learned long ago to ignore it as a vocational hardship, there wasn't any sense in arguing. Just sit there and take it, seemed like the wisest thing to do. Maybe, I figured, if enough of the poison was spit out at me it would open a little room for kindness toward another human creature.

But one statement was made that simply insists on findings its way into print.

"It isn't leadership that we don't have. It's followers. We have good leaders. But we need more followers!" I was angrily told.

Now, that one ought to become a classic. The Michigan Legislature, Governor and U. S. State Dept. could

Talk of the Town

Mrs. Lillian Pettis has returned to Grand Rapids after spending the long weekend with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Pettis.

James Ladd, a student at the University of Michigan, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ladd.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Left and three sons spent the weekend camping at Mackinaw City and attending the Michillimackinac Festival.

Marilyn Novak who has been in Ann Arbor, has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Novak for the summer. She has been doing graduate work at the University of Michigan.

Robert Thornton has returned to New York after spending the long weekend here as the guest of his fiancée, Lenore Erber, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Karl J. Erber.

Mrs. David Silberman and Mrs. Hamilton Moses of Chicago, summer residents here, spent the holiday weekend at their Michigan Ave. cottage.

Jerry Boss, student at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Boss.

Douglas Johnson, who has completed his first year of study at the Kendall School of Design in Grand Rapids, has arrived home to spend the summer with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Johnson and daughter, Corrine of Northville, spent the holiday weekend here at the home of Floyd Chamberlain while attending the dedication of the new Jordan Fish Hatchery.

Ben Cunningham, a student at Ferris State College, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cunningham.

use it to excuse all of their weaknesses. Let's hope they draw the line, though, before they start using it at West Point.

Leaders who don't have followers make darn good followers.

Several weeks ago we ran a letter to the editor that seemed to suggest all of us who enjoy a mouthful of beer or swallow of liquor are the cause of the world's woes.

Since it is obvious that this kind of tirade has little or no influence on the public it didn't arouse this column. No one is going to put a padlock on the tap down the alley no matter how much our letter writers carried on.

But one fella here in two who represents a company that makes the hard stuff was downright indignant about it. He presented the following article to reveal booze does do some good.

"The federal government's share of alcoholic beverage taxes in just one year would be adequate to pay the entire expenditure for one fiscal year for both houses of Congress, the federal courts, the office of the President, the Departments of Interior, Justice, Labor and State, the Post Office, Civil Service Commission, National Labor Relations Board and the National Science Foundation. And $38 million would have been left over for interest payments on the national debt."

How to, or not to, Buy Dairy Case Eggs

By CLARE BROWN Home Economics Advisor

Because you no longer have a cow to have milk or a flock of chickens to have eggs, we are not quite as versed as we used to be regarding some of these basic commodities.

Take eggs for example--To the consumer of today, the egg comes from the refrigerated dairy case in the store -- not from the hen house.

AS WITH OTHER foods, we consumers are protected by some rigid state and federal laws regarding eggs.

Michigan standards of quality for eggs are based on U.S. Dept. of Agriculture standards. All eggs sold through regular market channels must carry one of these grade labels: Michigan Seal of Quality, Grade AA or Fresh Fancy, Grade A, or Grade B.

Michigan law does not permit the sale of either Grade C or cracked eggs to consumers by processors--handlers or retail stores.

All eggs sold through regular-market channels must be labelled according to size (weight). To meet federal and state standards, one dozen eggs in the six established sizes must weigh: Jumbo, 30 ounces or more; Extra large, 27 ounces or more; Large, 24 ounces or more; Medium, 21 ounces or more; Small, 18 ounces or more; Pewee, 15 ounces or more.

Refrigeration is so important that Michigan law requires processors--handlers and retailers to hold eggs at 60 degrees or lower, until they're sold. Give eggs the same cool treatment at home.

KEEP COVERED...if possible. Eggs can absorb odors through the shells.

Keep them large and up. For some reason (known only to the egg quality is lowered when the egg is stored large end down.

In buying a given grade of eggs, consider the price differences between the various sizes. For example, a fairly accurate rule is: If there is more than 8 cents difference in price between medium and large eggs, then medium eggs cost less per pound.

If there is less than 8 cents difference in price between medium and large eggs, then the large size offers more egg for the money.

EGG SHELL color is a breed characteristic. However, the nutritive value and quality of both white and brown eggs of the same grade are identical.

The yellow color of egg yolks depends mainly on the hen's diet. Most of our eggs now come from confined flocks. Their yolks are a lighter, more uniform yellow.

One thing is just as true today as it has been since our pioneer days. Eggs are an essential item for a good cook. Just as essential as they are for the nutrition they provide for young and old alike--their high quality protein, valuable minerals and vitamins.

University Says Milk Is Still Number 1

--Milk remains the least expensive and most palatable source of calcium in your daily diet, say dietitians at The University of Michigan Medical Center.

Calcium, the "bone builder" of the body, is needed all through life. Although growing children and pregnant women have a special need for calcium, adults need it too.

The U-M food specialists say it may be difficult to get adequate calcium with out milk. (For most people, foods other than dairy products provide less than

Camera Shoots Trap Shooters

Petoskey sportsman Don Meyers Sunday shot the first perfect score on the re-opened Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club skeet range.

The range is back in operation after being virtually unused for 11 years, Bill Peters, range master, reports.

MEYERS SHOT a perfect score of 25 on skeet. Three others, Walter Jump, Jim Walters and Lloyd Jefferies, were only one bird behind him with scores of 24.

Sunday's shoot was the second on the re-opened range. Both trap and skeet houses and fields have been rebuilt.

Though intermittent rain held down participation, Peters reports 15 shooters turned out. They shot 850 rounds on the two ranges.

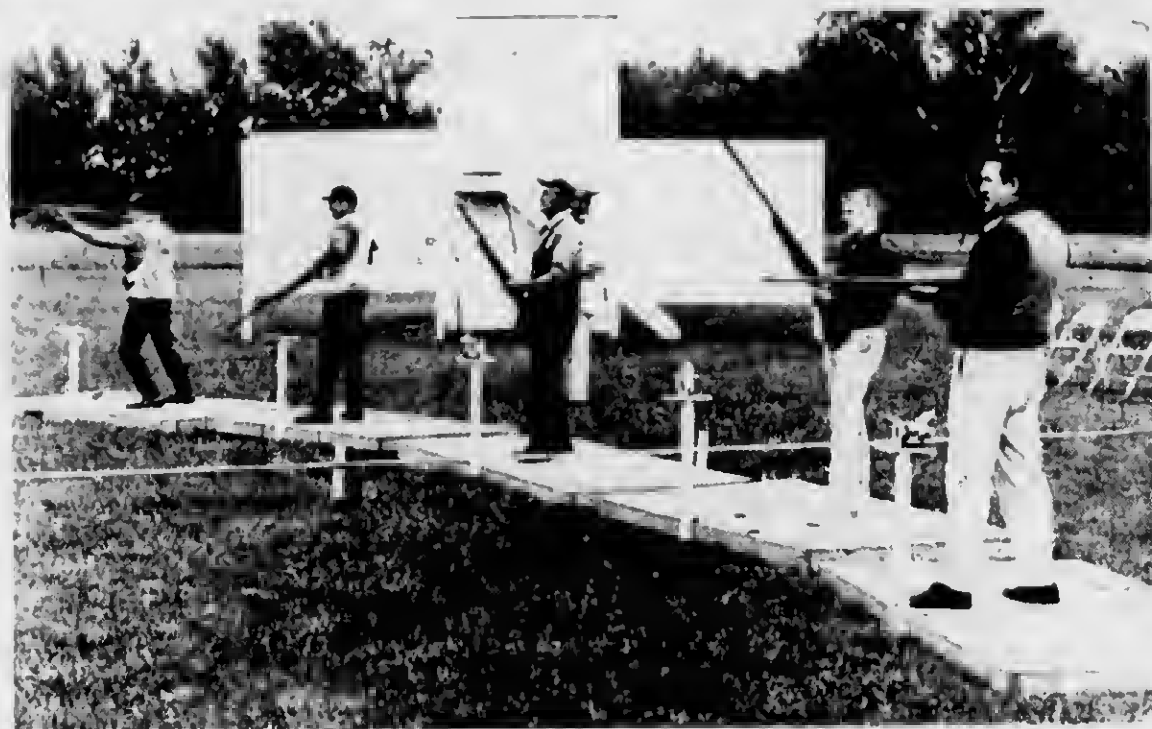

Trap and skeet shoots will be held every Sunday afternoon from Noon to 4 p.m.

throughout the spring, summer and fall, Peters said. The public is invited. Shotgun shells and clay pigeons are supplied by the club at a cost of from $2-$3.50 for one round of 25 shots at either skeet or trap.

PETERS SAID he and other volunteers give free instructions to anyone requesting them.

Top skeet scores Sunday, in addition to Meyers' perfect round and those shooting 24 were Dan Sylvester, 23; Bill Peters, 18; Steve Adams, 17; Ron Sixberry, Andy Peters and Norm Empey, 14. Other skeet shooters were Betty Meyers, Tom McDaniels, Frank Zednick and Ron Buckner.

High scores on the trap range were Jim Walters, 22; Gary Plumm, 15; Bill Peters, 13, and Norm Empey, 12. Other trap shooters were Tom McDaniels, Lloyd Jefferies, Ken Empey, Elmer Green and Dale Reedy.

Early Monday morning May 24 mothers of Ellsworth High School Seniors served breakfast to the boys and girls and their parents, and class sponsors.

Agnes Klooster was in command of the kitchen and had everything under control. Bacon and eggs was at the top of the menu.

I forgot to tell you why this meal was being served. The Seniors and their sponsors were taking off on a senior trip. The trip includes The New York World's Fair, when the students returned from their trip Friday evening May 28, they had many interesting stories about their bus ride and other points of interest.

THE SWEET Brazilian Miss visiting with the Richard Wieland family is making friends with many people in the area. Miss Mutuko Suzuki is thrilled to meet with 4-H members at their club meetings. Doris Wieland has chauffeured Mutuko to many rural groups, organization meetings and banquets. Doris drove Mutuko and Roy to Torch Lake where Governor Romney introduced the Kokanee-Salmon to the hundreds of people celebrating the raising of the fingerlings in Wilkason Creek. The three of us had the privilege to talk to the Governor and shake hands with him. The Governor told Mutuko he wished he had known her presence before the program so he could have introduced Mutuko to the crowd from the platform. Miss Suzuki is keeping a daily record of her activities and is making good use of her camera.

WE HAVE heard the name "Queen" mentioned almost every day. The Ellsworth Girl Scouts have a Queen also. She is Diane Best. She acquired this title by setting the most boxes of cookies. Queen Diane sold 104 boxes, the next largest number was 51. The leaders crowned Diane at the Girl Scout supper. Diane's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Best.

The Retarded Center building will be leased from the Charlevoix Retarded Children's Assn., which constructed it in 1962. The lease money will be paid by the association to pay the remaining $4,400 mortgage.

Special Education Gets State Label

The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District's plan to use a $1 million private donation to build a special education program has cleared the hurdle of inflexible bureaucratic red tape.

Charles Robinson, Intermediate District Superintendent, reports the State Dept. of Public Instruction has granted a special exception for the special education program.

IN ORDER to allow the district to run its program in a somewhat unconventional manner, Robinson said the State has granted permission to call it a Center for Experimentation.

Robinson and Lee Jansen, the Intermediate District's special education coordinator, have been trying to convince State officials to give them this go-ahead since last fall.

This, Robinson said, means that construction can now start at Central Lake on a $200,000 facility for a variety of special education programs.

The Central Lake Center for Experimentation will provide programs for physically handicapped children, those that are deaf or hard of hearing, the blind, type B mentally handicapped trainable children, and type A mentally handicapped educable children.

WHEN THE Center is completed, Robinson said, it will have facilities to house and feed severely handicapped children.

The Center will be administered by the Central Lake Board of Education. The program will be guided by a Special Education Committee, made up of area educators. The State will pay operation costs.

State officials had refused to pay operation costs until the experimental label was decided on because the Center's facilities were not attached to a regular school building.

COST OF THE actual physical facility will be paid by the private individual who has offered to build a similar Center in the northern part of the district (Emmet County) if the first one works out.

This person has also offered to put up the money for construction of a home for underprivileged youths.

When the Central Lake Center for Experimentation in special education is completed it will give Charlevoix and Emmet County and northern Antrim County the most complete program of this type in northern Michigan, Robinson said.

Beaver Island Tales Islanders Say Their Farewells

Reprinted from the
BEAVER BEACON

Because of its isolated position, residents of Beaver Island have learned to be about as independent as any group of people anywhere. However, there is one basic need that has been of major concern to all that live here, that being medical attention during emergencies. This year ends the professional career of one who has helped fill this basic need for the past 18 years.

Marion Rice has served as Charlevoix County Nurse since 1947, with a special place in her heart for the island, as the Islanders hold the same feeling for her.

In June of 1947, Marion was first sent to the island to stand by while Dr. Palmer was away. During this time a baby, belonging to a member of the Coast Guard and his wife, became seriously ill. With a call to Dr. G. B. Saltonstall, in Charlevoix, arrangements were made for a fast transfer to a mainland hospital.

The baby and parents were immediately put aboard the Beaver Island Coast Guard boat, while a radio message was sent dispatching the Charlevoix Coast Guard boat to rendezvous with them in order to speed up the transfer. In the middle of the shipping lane, the boats met and the baby, with its parents, were transferred to the Charlevoix Coast Guard boat and headed toward Charlevoix. Between 9 p.m. and 12 p.m. the errand of mercy was made and within five days the babe made a full recovery.

In 1947 there were nearly 600 people living on the island as compared to the less than 200 today, thus making frequent visits to the island necessary.

In January of 1953, an epidemic of measles broke out at a time when there was no doctor on the island, affecting nearly every family. Marion's days were without end, as she made house calls on all of the sick, with volunteers taking turns doing the chauffeuring. Each evening she had to call Dr. Grate, in Charlevoix, for medicine orders. Gamma globulin was given to all exposed children under five years, until the crisis was over.

The medicine at that time was in McDonough's Store and all numbered, so that her orders would be to give no. 9 to John Doe and no. 12 to Mary Jones. It certainly made a real number's game out of her job.

With this small sampling of her work on the island, to this day she doesn't think of the island as a place of labor but enjoys the beauty of the country side and the close association of her many friends here. With her tour of duty over and her many kind deeds, that extended way beyond the term of duty, well remembered, we all hope she and her husband will make many more trips to our shores.

As a small token of appreciation for her efforts, a surprise party was given in her honor at the Beaver Lodge on the Beaver Island School Board. With President of the P.T.A., Lawrence McDonough as M.C. and a delightful talk by Dr. Haynes, topped off with a gift presentation by Rita Gillespie, an enjoyable evening was spent by approximately 60 Islanders. Patrick Bonner played his violin and at times was accompanied by Jewell Gillespie.

A fond farewell goes to Marion Rice from all of us and we hope she will always remember the island as she first saw it. As she expressed it, "In June of 1947, the woods were so green and fresh, the meadows starred with buttercups and the reeds along the streets with nets drying on them were so picturesque. It was such a happy, busy beautiful place and all were so kind and hospitable. For me it was a most enjoyable experience and I knew the island would always be special."

Third Grade To Stage Musical

Third grade students of Charlevoix Elementary School will present a "special music day" program Friday afternoon, June 4.

Under the direction of vocal music instructor Mrs. Mildred Lawrence, each third grade room will have its own program.

A VARIETY of instrumental and vocal selections will be featured.

"The purpose of this activity is to provide an experience for performing, to teach proper behavior for listeners, and to help students appreciate the accomplishments of fellow students," Mrs. Lawrence said.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Barker and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Qualmann and sons, Ken and Gary, have returned to their homes in Centerline after spending the holiday weekend at the Barkers' Cherry St. home.

It Depends on YOU

FOR YEARS WE HAVE realized that someone had to organize a detail to go out and comb the litter off the Lake Michigan shoreline. But the job seemed too enormous. Nobody seemed to have the courage to break the ice and actually tackle it.

However, that somebody has finally stepped forward. Ralph Doan has done it, and in doing so has shown us it isn't really as hard as we thought.

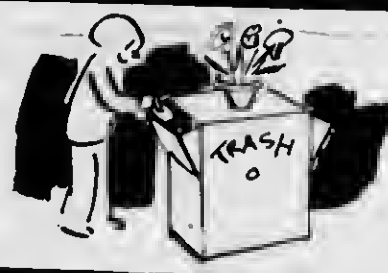

BY ALL APPEARANCES Doan's proposal to get Charlevoixians out on the beaches Saturday, June 12, is being met with enthusiasm. We get the impression he's the most surprised person involved. Quite understandably he approached the project with serious doubts that others would step forward to join him.

IN YOUR COMMUNITY

Take part in local clean-up campaigns to improve your neighborhood.

Work for more and better-looking trash receptacles and trash collection services.

Promote beauty--more trees, plantings, flower boxes, anti-litter ordinances that can be enforced.

AND MOST OF ALL--SET AN EXAMPLE in your community by practicing good trashkeeping on highways, sidewalks, beaches, at shopping centers, in parks and playgrounds, stores and drive-in theaters.

Of course, we won't know until June 12 if this oral support and cash backing the project is getting will turn into volunteer helpers when the hour of reckoning arrives.

But the Courier is willing to bet it will. The people of Charlevoix are doers. We're predicting they will do our community proud by being on the beaches with rakes, and whatever other equipment is needed.

We've all long been disgusted -- even repulsed -- by the ugliness of litter along our beautiful shorelines. Now, for the first time, we actually have a chance to erase this blemish from our boast of a Charlevoix the Beautiful.

AND THERE'S MORE to be gained than just a temporarily clean shoreline. Those of us who are on the beaches June 12 are not going to fast forget the stooping and reaching required to clear litter. So next time we decide to leave a container or wrapper on the beach we'll probably figure it is easier to carry it away with us than come back next spring and pick it up.

The June 12 clean-up will also drive home the point that litter is literally covering our beaches with filth. Many people still do not believe. But when they see the piles of debris dedicated Charlevoixians pick-up June 12 they will no longer be able to ignore the fact.

By showing us that it really isn't such an enormous undertaking, the June 12 project may turn into an annual, or even semi-annual project. All the better. It will probably even be fun. It certainly should be the largest community work project ever undertaken in a single day.

ALL OF THIS speculation, of course, depends on YOU. There isn't a person who is so important, or unimportant, that they shouldn't turn out to do their share Saturday. Even if you can rationalize an excuse for yourself, forget it. Join the rest of us.

Complete details on what time the project starts and what equipment is needed will be printed in next week's Courier. But the most important thing to remember is that YOU are needed.

Our Thanks to Kiwanis Club

THE CHARLEVOIX Kiwanis Club's decision to donate $10,000 toward construction of a new public library was a hard one for some veteran club members to make.

Kiwanians have worked hard over the years to accumulate their youth activities fund. Inspiring many of them to donate these hours of public service work was the dream of a swimming pool where hundreds of children would happily romp and laugh. To say the least, theirs was a worthy goal.

UNFORTUNATELY, construction and maintenance of a swimming pool has, so far, been financially impractical. So the image of happy children plunging into its artificially warmed water has not become a reality.

And, there's no denying, one cannot conjure up a picture of young people frolicking in a public library. (And all young people should go a-frolicking every chance they get.)

However, as much as we like to see children and teenagers merrily enjoying themselves, we have to agree with the Kiwanis Club that it made a contribution of unsurpassed value to Charlevoix's youth by making construction of the new library possible.

People often forget that children raised in a culturally healthy environment are ultimately the happiest.

TRUE, WE HAVE a library now and an outstanding school system. But does our somber old library inspire many parents who are hesitant to use it? No. Can even the best school do the whole job in producing a well-rounded individual? No.

Though some may argue that we shouldn't have to tempt people to read by housing our library in a new building, that fact is that more adults (and young people) use a public library that is in a pleasant building. And, no matter what critics say, our objective is to kindle that curious spark in peoples minds that makes them want to read.

The more our parents are reading the more this will rub off on their youngsters. Result? A healthier, happier, community.

As fundamental as this seems it is too often forgotten.

We will be thanking the Kiwanis Club for decades for its contribution to this healthier, happier community.

Still Need Help at Girl Scout Camp

HE REPRIEVE ON selling the Charlevoix Girl Scout camp given to local parents by the Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council may be short lived if more adult help doesn't turn up.

Don Brown, who is heading the committee to put the camp's buildings and grounds in shape so they meet Crooked Tree Council requirements, reports he could use more help.

FOR THE LAST three weekends a handful of parents and girls have shown up at the camp on Marion-Center Rd. next to the Belvedere Golf Club to help with the project. More are needed. Money is also in short supply to purchase materials.

However, the fewer than 25 workers have already made obvious progress. The storage shed at the bottom of the hill has a roof on it and the well at the house on top of the hill is working.

The camp, Brown points out, can be an important facility for our young people. But your help is needed. You can lend a hand on any Saturday or Sunday. Just call Don at home or at Hess Furniture.

INGHAM COUNTY NEWS

Back before last fall's presidential election, the Johnson administration was quite emphatic that things were really under control in South Viet Nam. The solution to the conflict, according to Candidate LBJ, was a continuation of a winning battle of political science with a strictly advisory position for the U. S. military.

On the other hand, Candidate Barry Goldwater said things were a mess in Viet Nam and the solution was a determination to fight to win.

The country chose Johnson to be president. And a person would have every right to expect that because LBJ happened to be president during the campaign, he might have been telling the American people the facts. The people chose to believe on the basis of facts presented that there was relative peace in Viet Nam. Goldwater attempted to tell about what was in store for the United States in Viet Nam. Some American military officers tried to tell, too. But the people wouldn't listen. The president laughed one day during the campaign and said more people were being killed on Texas highways than in Viet Nam. Consequently when Goldwater presented an outline for winning the war in Viet Nam, a war that the president denied existed, Goldwater was painted as a war monger.

This background is interesting in view of what's happening today. Johnson seems to be doing everything that Goldwater said ought to have been done several months ago.

Remember when Goldwater said the U.S. ought to take the war into North Viet Nam?

Guess who's doing it now? Remember when Goldwater said the U.S. should strike at Chinese supply lines to the north? Guess who's doing it now? Remember when Goldwater said some military strategists advocated a "de-foliation" of the jungles through which supplies entered the Viet Nam area? Guess who ordered it done last week?

About the only thing Johnson has done that Goldwater didn't propose 6 months ago was the introduction of gas warfare to Viet Nam, a near-disastrous decision detrimental to the advancement of the U.S. effort in Viet Nam.

By withholding facts from the American public last fall, Candidate LBJ was able to make Candidate Goldwater look like a war monger. And the American public bought it.

How odd it is that LBJ has now done what Goldwater proposed a few months ago. How odd that LBJ is now credited with being heroic for doing what Goldwater dared to propose before the election.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS RATE AS BEST READ CLINTON COUNTY NEWS

What interests the readers of weekly newspapers?

The Suburban Press Foundation conducted a survey to find the answer to that question, and Editor & Publisher has printed the results. They cast a revealing light on the wants of the millions of people who live in the small towns and the country-side.

As one would expect, local news led the field in readership, with 92.9 per cent of those polled saying they read it sometimes; and only 0.6 per cent confessing they never read it.

Next -- and close behind -- came editorials and local columns. A mere 0.7 per cent said they never read these.

THIRD IN READER interest was advertising. Only 2.7 per cent said they never read it. All the rest said they always or sometimes read it.

Actually, the whole weekly paper is very thoroughly read. Even the poorest read classification -- sport news -- drew a combined "always" and "sometimes" readership of 88.1 per cent.

The weekly paper is one of the most welcome of visitors to rural homes. It stays for seven days, not just one. And the whole family has a lasting and hearty appetite for just about everything in its columns.

By FRANK MARTIN

Another week and 88 seniors will be picking up those long-sought diplomas. . . and marching out the door at good old C. H. S. to conquer the world and cure its ills. . . And, you know, they might just do that. . . Ever since this class was down in Junior high I've been hearing about it. . . for, besides being the largest class to ever graduate, it has the greatest number of youngsters who have consistently made the honor roll. . . In other words, a class with more than a fair amount of brains. . . It's been quite some years that such an outstanding group has graduated. . . I think the last such group was in '52 and that gang sure did OK by themselves. . . We shall watch with interest the progress of this class. . .

And to all 88, may we wish "Everything good". . . Though you probably don't realize it, you're leaving your happiest years behind you. . . I hope they've been good ones and that you'll grow to treasure them. . .

And speaking of graduates, noticed recently that one of our summer residents, the mother of seven, is now boasting an BA degree after her name. . . She's Mrs. Monte Korn of Detroit and a summer resident at Boulder Park where the Korns and their seven kernels will be putting in an appearance before too long. . . Imagine working toward a degree while raising a family of seven which includes a pair of twins. . . She certainly should be commended for the tenacity under such circumstances. . .

AND THOSE of us who were longing for warm weather have certainly gotten it in a hurry. . . But isn't it wonderful not to shiver every morning. . . It's been wonderful picnic weather and everyone I know has been making the most of it. . . But while picnicking, do be careful of the food you eat. . . Since reading an article on food poisoning in a recent magazine, I've become very food-conscious, especially in this warm weather. . . To be honest with you, I didn't realize there could be so many kinds. . . So, please, won't you be careful and follow all the important rules. . . I don't mean to be a spoil-sport but it is important. . .

AND FROM OUR travelers little message sent on the most beautiful picture postcards. . . From Mrs. Fred deCastro "Greetings from Copenhagen! It is too incredible! Such fun! Such food! . . . Went to a Danish luncheon especially done to acquaint tourists with the Danish food and eating customs. Louise modeled first! Wish I could share it all with you". . . Can't you just imagine all this in that fairland country? . . . Louise, you may remember, is her daughter who is one of Denmark's most outstanding models. . . And it is she and her young daughter, Jennifer, whom Mrs. deC. is visiting. . .

And from the land of the midnight sun, northern Norway, a card and message from the Carl Kohlers who write: Here we are well above the Arctic Circle and the mountains pile up on each side of our boat. We have no night and one day just runs into the next. . . A beautiful trip. . . Had a marvelous visit in Holland, Germany and Denmark. After we finish with Norway, Sweden is next. Keep the home fires burning and we'll see you sometime in late June. . . Doesn't it all sound just too, too exciting? and wouldn't you love to have such a trip? I'm told that Norway is a very rugged but very beautiful country but few people seem to want to see this sort of thing. . . I think what I'd like best would be the northern lights which, they say, are beyond description. . . This bit of nature has always fascinated me since the first time I saw them as a child. . . Imagine seeing them as they must be above the Arctic circle. . .

I DON'T KNOW about you, but I'm feeling rather blasé about the fact that the place known as the fish hatchery isn't going to be in operation here too long. . . It's been at its present site for a long, long time and before that was operated in a small building at the "corner" of Round Lake. . . some place near where Bernie Ward holds forth now. . . It's going to seem funny with that building closed. . . and as someone said, it was such a nice place to take the youngsters on a rainy day. . . Through the years the fellows there did a grand job in public relations by teaching visitors more in a few minutes of conversation than they'd learn by reading a dozen pamphlets of the subject.

The new hatchery on the Jordan is beautiful. . . and in a heavenly setting but I'm going to miss our own right here. . . And, you know, that building may have promise as a site for a museum. . . Certainly no one's going to pick it up and move it away. . . so how about trying to get it for just that. . .

I think that it's built on property that was once given to the city for use as park. . . so what better way to utilize it than to turn it into a museum if it can be obtained. . . and you must admit it's in a beautiful spot. . .

AN ORCHID led to Ralph Doan for attempting to clean up our beaches. . . as he said in a statement in the Courier last week, we've sat back too long. . . I hope that everyone will join the effort to clean up the beaches. . . certainly some of the most beautiful on the lakes. . .

And after this is done, everyone should appoint himself a committee of one to see that they're kept clean. . .

IT WILL OFF into the wild blue yonder tomorrow (Thursday) for a couple more of our great astronauts. . . this time for a period of quite some hours. . . If those fellows have as many butterflies in their tummys as I have in mine (and I'm sure I'm not alone in this feeling) I don't know how they ever get into space. . . This may become "old shoe" to some people but I still think it's one of the most exciting things of this age. . . which is filled with so many wonderful new experiences. . .

And while you're looking to new experiences, don't forget those of yesterday. . . such as June 6. . . D-Day. . . a day so many will remember though today's youngsters look upon it only as another date in history to them but to those many who lived through it it's still an all-too-vivid memory. . .

Electric Utility Scores $61,243 In Profit, 50 Higher

Profits from Charlevoix's electric utility shot up 50% in 1964-65 over the previous year, City Council learned last week. Dinwiddie and Kandi, certified public accountants of Petoskey, revealed the profit increase in their first report on the annual city audit.

THE ACCOUNTING firm, represented by E. Darrell Dinwiddie, pointed out the electric utility showed a profit of $61,243 in the year ended Feb. 28, 1965. This is nearly $20,000 more than the $41,688 profit for the year ended Feb. 29, 1964.

The electric utility did $325,030 in business last year, compared to $295,717 the year before. Operating expenses last year were $265,299. The year before they were $255,366.

The city sold 14,098,383 KWH last year. In 1963-64 it sold 12,585,139 KWH.

PURCHASED POWER (from Consumers Power Co.) cost the city $160,005 last year and $145,330 the year before. Dinwiddie and Kandi two years ago predicted the city's electric business would increase 9.7% last year. Actually it increased 12%.

Though the increase in business was greater than the firm predicted, profits were less than they anticipated. The accountants predicted profits last year would total $70,700. Actually they were $9,457 less than that.

This was caused by operating expenses of $20,825 more than Dinwiddie and Kandi projected.

THE AUDIT report revealed profits from the water utility fund were $188.90 less last year than the year before. Last year's profit was $12,744, compared to $12,555 the year before.

However, water revenues were up $1,081 from the year before; $48,672 last year compared to $47,591 the year before.

The sewage disposal utility fund lost $109 last year compared to a loss of $2,069 the year before. Total business for the sewage utility was $20,085, up $1,007 from the year before.

Voters to Pick 2 Members for School Board

Charlevoix Public School District voters go to the polls Monday, June 14, to select two of five candidates for the Board of Education.

Five men are asking voters to put them in the two school board seats vacated by Joe Martineck and Al Smith, who are not running for re-election.

SEEKING THE two board vacancies are Ralph Hamilton, Glenn Kenney, Clarence Koteskey, Bill Peters and John Martin.

Polls will be open at the high school from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. School district voters will also be asked to approve a transfer of $376 from the dormant 1951 building bond issue fund to the general fund, and elect seven persons to the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

Candidates for the seven Intermediate District board seats are Harlan E. Ruback, Clayton Healey, Casper Merris, Carl K. Bush, William Parsons, Hazel Evers, Mildred Lutz, Thomas R. Kirk, Ann K. Irish, Francis J. Hill and Amos W. Hodgkins. Only Mrs. Evers and Parsons are from Charlevoix.

THE COURIER sent Candidate Questionnaires to the five candidates for the Charlevoix Board of Education. Martin did not answer his questionnaire.

Hamilton, a former City Councilman and resident of Charlevoix all of his life, is 61 years old. He and his wife have three grown children—David, Nicholas and Sam—all graduates of Charlevoix High School. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton live at 104 W. Hurst. A graduate of a Grand Rapids business college, Hamilton is secretary of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, a post he has held for 20 years. Before that he was a Charlevoix businessman for 16 years. He is active in Kiwanis, having served as the local club's president and a district lieutenant governor. He served eight years on the Beach Clean Up Sat.

Saturday is the day of reckoning for Charlevoix's Lake Michigan beaches.

If Charlevoix citizens are sincere in their often heard condemnation of beach litter, the Lake Michigan shoreline north and south of town will sparkle by mid-afternoon Saturday.

RALPH DOAN has been joined by just about every youth group and civic organization in town to stage Saturday's beach clean-up.

All the project needs now to be a success is YOU, Doan points out.

All volunteers -- adults and children -- have been asked to assemble at the North Point beach at 8:30 a.m. Saturday, June 12.

Groups will then be organized to scour the beaches from Fisherman's Island to North Point. Individuals should bring a garden rake and container with them.

ASSISTING DOAN, who initiated the project, are the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, St. Mary's and Charlevoix High School students, Charlevoix Garden Club, Lions Club, Kiwanis Club and Chamber of Commerce.

Refreshments are being provided for all workers by Drost's Cocktail Lounge, Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club and Kiwanis Club. They will be served by the Garden Club.

Individuals who have volunteered to help organize and direct the cleanup are Charles Sonnenberg, Guy Scott, John Michaels, James Lewis, Thomas Basset, Louis McKendle and Don Meggison. Doan pointed out that in other areas where such a project has been tried the work went "surprisingly fast." He specifically cited Traverse City.

THE TRICK, according to Doan's observations, is to get enough people out. If this is accomplished, the clean up becomes as much, or more, fun than it is work, others have found.

The plan is to pick up all unnatural debris along the beaches. Rakes will be used to uncover broken glass that mothers have complained about for several years.

Doan does not feel it will be necessary to scour the entire shoreline from Fisherman's Island to town. He points out only a few areas south of the hospital get much use. Only these will be cleaned up.

Several four-wheel-drive vehicles and trailers will patrol the beaches collecting litter that has been deposited in piles by pick up crews.

CITY SUPT. James Taylor has volunteered to provide burial sites for all the litter collected. Heavy city machinery will be used to dig holes in convenient locations and then cover them. Doan points out that none of the groups or individuals involved in the project will be responsible for accidents.

Appoint City Brass

City Councilmen last week appointed the following department officials for the coming year.

James Taylor, city superintendent and assessor.
John Michael, city attorney.
Leo Allard, street commissioner.
JOSEPH SMITH, police chief and harbor master.
John Curtis, fire chief.
Richard Curtis, assistant fire chief.
Joe McPhillips, airport manager.
Mary Felndt, surveyor.
Dr. Robert Martin, health officer.

to check accidents."

The following auto dealers and service stations are offering motorists a free voluntary vehicle safety-check:

Thorp's Sunoco Service.
Smith Texaco Service.
Charlevoix Oil Co.
Ken's Dodge Service.
Kusina Motors, Inc.
Martin's Standard Service.
Erber Auto Co.
Norton Standard Service.
Meggison Auto Service.
Louie's Zephyr Service.
Carney Oil Co.
Jerry's Gulf Service.
Jim's Shell.
Parsel Garage.

These Safety-Check centers will issue a windshield sticker for automobiles that have all items in safe condition. Dick Fochtman, Lions Club Safety Check Committee chairman, said.

"Each year a half million vehicles checked in the nationwide Safety-Check are found to need immediate attention to one or more of the items affecting safe driving conditions," Hawley said.

"The items Safety-Checked are brakes, front and rear lights (turn signals, stop lights), steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield."

BIG JOB AHEAD--Charles Sonnenberg and Ralph Doan display disposable beer containers from a large pile of similar litter on the Lake Michigan beach north of Fisherman's Island. Doan, who is organizing the community beach clean up for this Saturday, points out the majority of litter is no-deposit beverage containers. If enough Charlevoixians turn out Saturday Doan hopes to make a clean sweep of the mess these containers have created on the beaches.

Dealers, Stations Prepare 1965 Vehicle Safety-Check

Fourteen Charlevoix service stations and auto dealers have organized for the community's first voluntary Vehicle Safety Check, this Thursday, Friday and Saturday (June 10-12), Mayor E.D. Hawley reports.

The mayor urged all area motorists to join the "Circle of Safety: Check your car, check your driving, check your accidents. Even our best drivers are poor risks if they are driving cars with bad brakes, worn tires, or other neglected items."

THIS VOLUNTARY Vehicle Safety-Check gives every motorist a chance to do his part in making our community a safe place to live, the mayor added.

"Equally important in our Safety-Check is the challenge to all drivers to check their conduct behind the wheel," Hawley said, "both safe cars and safe drivers are needed

County Bank Has Prickly Business

Interest in the remodeled Charlevoix County State Bank has spread.

Monday a couple came waddling down Clinton St., stopped to take a brief look at the new Fords at Erber Auto Co. and then took a direct route into the back door of the bank on the corner.

When the porky found that Bob Bridge and assistants did not welcome his business he left.

IS YOUR CAR SAFE?--Dick Fochtman, left, checks the tread on a tire while Phil Martin, center, puts a new windshield wiper on a car in preparation this week's Vehicle Safety-Check program at 14 Charlevoix service stations and auto dealers. City policeman Bob Summerville displays a Safety-Check poster.

OUT OF BUSINESS--Sheriff Glenn Rose discards his drivers license files in preparation for closing out the operation this week. After June 10, Rose reports, the Sheriff's office will no longer issue drivers licenses. Licenses will be issued in East Jordan.

Drivers Must Get Licenses In E. Jordan

Sheriff Glenn Rose is going out of the drivers license business this week.

Rose reports he has been ordered by the Secretary of State to close out his drivers license issuing bureau on June 10.

ALL LICENSES for Charlevoix County will henceforth be issued in East Jordan, Rose said.

City Police Chief Joseph Smith said he may be allowed to issue licenses a few days longer than Rose, but will soon suspend operation. The drivers license bureau was switched to East Jordan when the County Board of Supervisors refused to give Rose additional space to operate the bureau in the county seat.

The Secretary of State demanded that Rose find a bigger office for the bureau so that a camera to photograph all applicants could be installed.

NEW STATE law requires that all drivers have their picture on their license. The State is providing the cameras. In putting the cameras in operation the state limited most northern Michigan counties, including Charlevoix, to one drivers license bureau.

Before the new law went into effect Charlevoix County motorists could get their licenses in Boyne City and Charlevoix.

However, both Boyne City and the City of Charlevoix refused to bid for the drivers license bureau. They contended if there was only to be one office in the county it should be a county service.

EAST JORDAN Chamber of Commerce and City officials asked the Board of Supervisors to allow the bureau to be located in East Jordan. They promised that there would be no cost to the county.

W.W. Mac Store Purchased By H.A. Dahlquist

H. A. Dahlquist of Central Lake, Mich., and St. Petersburg, Fla., has re-purchased the Charlevoix W. W. Mac Store and eight others in northern Michigan.

The Charlevoix store will operate under the name of Dahlquist Stores, Inc., with Dahlquist as president.

ACCORDING TO Dahlquist the store here will be upgraded; it will be completely restocked and redecorated.

Dahlquist opened what later became the W. W. Mac Store here in 1931, as the first in his chain of stores. Milton Carter will continue to manage the store here. Dahlquist's Michigan stores will be under the direction of E. J. Meek. Other newly acquired Dahlquist stores in Michigan include W. W. Mac Stores in Bellaire, Boyne City, East Jordan, Edmore, Elk Rapids, Frankfort, Mancelona and Onaway.

Dyksterhouse Gets Ok on Land for New Plant Here

Charlevoix City Council last week agreed to sell property in the industrial park on U.S. -31 north to Robert Dyksterhouse.

Dyksterhouse asked to purchase the lot directly west of Lietz Industry. The lot has 180 foot of frontage on the highway and is a maximum of 564 feet deep.

HE WILL PAY the city $1,800 for the property ($10 a front foot).

A 6,400 square foot, three-level, industrial plant will be constructed on the property, Dyksterhouse said. He hopes to have it completed by fall. The Electra Machine operation at 1300 Bridge St. will be moved to the new plant. It makes machinery for foreign export.

Dyksterhouse said Electra Machine now employs five men. He did not know how many men the new plant will use. Walt Ilford will continue as manager of the operation.

IN AGREEING to sell the property, City Council stipulated that the plant must be built in a year and have at least 5,000 square feet of floor space.

City Councilmen last week also rezoned the Colonial Club property on Neech St. from R-1 to R-2.

Hal Forbrigg has agreed to purchase the re-zoned property for $8,500. He plans to build a 16-apartment building on the site.

Council refused to act on a request from Julius Gilbert to rezone the Lodge property from R-2 to C-1. Several citizens objected to the rezoning at an earlier meeting. Before taking any action, Councilmen said they want Gilbert to appear at a meeting and outline his plans.

George Labiance's property at 1201 Bridge St. was rezoned from R-2 to C-1.

Chamber Still Seeks Man

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors expects to complete arrangements to hire a new manager this week, President Robert Lieberman reports.

According to Lieberman the board is still considering two, and possibly three, candidates. Several details must be worked out before the board can decide which to employ, Lieberman said.

WITH THE SUMMER season drawing near, and work piling up, Lieberman said he hopes the board can reach a decision early this week.

The board is also preparing to hire a new secretary to replace Mrs. Dorothy Kohler, who leaves the Chamber next week. Hiring of a new manager became necessary when Dean Davenport resigned early this month.

DEAR DISTRAUGHT: Apparently your neighbor likes the "Free baby-sitting." Send the kids home, if they won't mind. Then tactfully explain to their mama... if your appliances are that bad, better visit PUFF'S APPLIANCE CENTER. Their low prices on name brand appliances will save you plenty. -- DICK.

The attendance at the ceremonies through-out the morning where the American Legion performed on Memorial Day was greatly appreciated. The Post membership again wants to thank Rev. Geurkink and the Loper family for giving of their time and talents. John Kooyer, Post Chaplain, was pleased with the services of a transistor and public address system, owned by Layton Reibel. The machine served the purpose extremely well.

The 17 Veterans that formed to make up the squad, the colors and the men placing the flowers are showing their regards for the day. Three Auxiliary members had lunch ready for the group at 10:30 so they would have enough strength to finish the schedule. The people at Norwood Cemetery took up a collection and donated it to the Post. From the Jansen-Richardson Post 488 Thank You. The two World War 1 Veterans who are always front and center when you need them, the members take their hats off to Emory Wilson and Zell Bricker.

On Memorial Day The Legion Post holds services to pay tribute to the veterans who served under the United States Flag and have been laid to rest. The people who attend these services have come to honor those who have given their life for a just cause and also to pay homage to their loved ones. The Post has a Military and a Reverent program. It instills in a person who wears the uniform of this country a respect for the Stars and Stripes and the playing of the National Anthem.

You, whom we call civilians, you, who consider yourselves citizens of these United States, have you forgotten what the flag represents? Men could be seen with their hats on white the flag passed in front of them and during the playing of the National Anthem the hats still remained on their heads while others carried on conversation. Remember, Respect and Reverence to "God and Country".

THE COMMENCEMENT exercises held in Ellsworth for the Seniors of the Ellsworth Community School was a happy moment for the graduates. The sad part is to see a class of this stature leaving this school. The speaker for the evening Dr. Nelmt, Dean of Students at Northern Michigan University, titled his speech in accordance to the Class motto.

The motto being, "In God we Trust, In Him is held Our Future." Dr. Nelmt referred to the Bible when he said, "Ask and you shall receive, Seek and you will find, Knock and it shall be open unto you." To go into the future these three quotations must be considered.

Commencement holds many important parts to its program, the thoughts of the Seniors are, to receive their diplomas, while other people are interested in the presentation of Scholarships and Awards. Then the parents of the Valedictorian and the Salutatorian deem the addresses as the highlight of the evening.

At the end of Chester Boss' valedictory address he said to his fellow Classmates, "I would like to offer a toast", "Our Class! Here's that she always may be in the right! Here's that her standard may ever be white! Here's that whatever our future may be, Steady and fearlessly God-like may be, Our Class!" These following Graduates received Scholarships and Awards: Michigan State Scholarship -- Nancy Peebles, Joyce Campau, Chester Boss, Central Michigan-Carl Goe-man, Davenport School of Business - Sharon Drenth, Alvin Bentley Foundation Scholarship Award to North Central Michigan College in Petoskey, John Hastings, Library Award-Jane Gibbs.

Leadership Award and Bosch and Loma Science Award, John Hastings, D.A.R. Citizenship Award during her Senior year and also citizenship award for Senior Class-Darlene Klooster.

The following Honor Students had a B average or better: Ardith Bolhuts, Chester Boss, Joyce Campau, John Hastings, Darlene Klooster, Nancy Peebles, Cheri Taylor and Gary Torga.

King of Kings

And there is no finer name for the Great Teacher. He speaks and His words come with authority. There is no court to refer His words for judgement... for He is the judgement. He has blessed mankind so richly that we have sought other words to do Him honor; the Great Physician, Shepherd of Souls and Lord of Life. But Handel's Messiah keeps ringing in our ears... "King of Kings, and Lord of lords. And He shall reign forever and ever." Isaiah looked forward to the coming of this "Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace."

The artist has done us a service in the picture. Christ is destined to reign over His people, over His church, over His world. His throne was a cross spelling sacrifice. His vehicle is the church and His army a company of devout followers. His dominion is within the hearts of men and His forces are Truth, and Goodness and Love. He will triumph through our loyalty and devotion. They stop where you are! Is He regnant in your heart? He is looking to His church, imperfect as it may be, to bring in His Kingdom and to save the world. Won't you join His army, His church today... for He is the King of Kings.

You in The Church
The Church is You — form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs
the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support the program

ity, be a faithful worker and attend services regularly.

Lay-A-Way Plan

What does the American FINAL/FILTER really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasoline picks up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER bars contaminants right at the pump nozzle. If you use your car on the job (and even if you don't) you stay out of trouble when you "fill'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

You expect more from Standard and you get it!

Who Can Blame Them?

WE CAN HARDLY blame residents of Park Ave. and Pine River Lane for their reluctance to sign away property rights along the Pine River Channel to the Corps of Engineers. Though some may argue these people are stubbornly standing in the way of progress we disagree. It seems more fitting to suggest they are protecting the rightful privilege of any property owner.

THE COURIER asked the Corps for a detailed explanation of just what it wants from property owners along the channel. We did not get that explanation.

Last word we had from city officials and property owners was that the Corps wants the right to use from 25 to 50 foot back from the channel pretty much as it sees fit. There is some confusion as to whether the Corps will guarantee not to disturb landscaping and buildings that might be located on the right-of-way in the future. One citizen said that if she bows to the Corps it will make her property useless.

Furthermore, the people owning the land, but having questionable right to use it, would continue to pay taxes on it.

TO US THIS sounds like making an absolute farce of a taxpaying individual's right to stand secure from intrusion from big government.

We assume that most persons owning property along the channel paid an extra premium for it because they value the view and pleasure that the "World's Shortest River and the Only One That Flows in Two Directions" affords.

So it hardly seems like justice to expect them to sacrifice this in the name of progress.

We are not here suggesting that the channel improvements proposed by the Corps are undesirable. The latest plan for rehabilitating and improving the channel has previously received our editorial endorsement.

WE ARE SUGGESTING that the Corps has once again failed miserably in its public information efforts, local coordination and respect for the rights of small-town Americans.

It's Not For Us To Scold

CATCHING UP ON our reading last week we noticed an recurring theme in the outside newspapers: Where were the veterans during the Memorial Day parade? The Courier, we remembered, had reported the same reluctance of veterans to participate in the parade here.

If every veteran in Charlevoix were to fall-in for the parade formation there would be few left to watch. But, instead, nearly all of the veterans chose to watch. All of those that watched, we assume, served their country honorably. Some set inspiring examples of valor and dedication.

SO WHY? WHY weren't they in formation to march down Bridge St. to Brookside Cemetery in tribute to those who did not return from the land, sea and air battlefields?

The answer to this nationally timely question does not come to our typewriter. And though we have several ideas, none of them inspire us to scold those veterans who stood on the sidewalks and watched.

She's A Darling Queen

AT THE RISK OF being corny we can't resist quoting a visitor who when she looked at outgoing Venetian Queen Marcee Wallace's picture beside incoming queen Dianne Dyksterhouse remarked, "Isn't she a darling thing!"

Our friend went on to support our opinion that Miss Dyksterhouse is a fittingly beautiful young lady to step under Miss Wallace's crown.

MARCEE HAS served our community well. We have all been proud of her. Not only of her charm and fairness, but also of her composure and warmth. We haven't a second's doubt but what Dianne will do us equally proud.

In congratulating Dianne and thanking Marcee we should keep in mind that there is more to being Charlevoix's Queen than just a smile and pretty face. It often means hours of extra duty and travel. It means being at your best at all times. In effect, our queen becomes our roving goodwill ambassador.

Our queen's court also rates our thanks. The beauties who will surround Dianne at this year's Venetian Festival July 23-24 are Sue Skelton, Rita Sanford, Barbara Dohm, Carol Moore, Sandra Sundberg, Karen Ohmer, Pam Hiller, Laujean Scott, Kathy Hoffman and Chris Seidl.

What Of the Channel's Future?

ANNOUNCEMENT THAT the Coast Guard is definitely going to have its oldest buildings on the Pine River Channel razed leads us to speculate on the site's future.

The Coast Guard has obviously decided to hold onto the property. There is talk that due to housing shortages in the area quarters will be built on the property for Coast Guard families. There have been other possibilities discussed.

WE HAVE NO argument with the Coast Guard keeping the site if it needs the water access it offers. However, if some other use is being considered that does not require direct water frontage we would urge that another site be selected.

Nor can we justify the property reverting to the city. If anything the city already owns too much property. Unless it has a specific and important use in mind for the property we do not see any reason for the city to take it.

Such an attractive site, it seems to us, should be put on the tax roll if at all possible. We cannot immediately imagine what use a private owner would put the property to. However, such things as a motel, restaurant, or some type of curio come to mind. All of these appeal to us.

SO, IF THE Coast Guard no longer needs the water access, and the property should return to the city, here's hoping the property will be put up for auction and an effort made to find a buyer that will do the most for Charlevoix.

We often overlook the quaintness and ever-changing view the channel offers.

THE BLACKED-OUT portions of this map of Charlevoix are owned by the city. If the lack of a draftsman's skill in preparing the map is excused, readers will get a relative picture of the proportion of land owned by the City. The map does not show all of the airport property, Lake Michigan beach, northside industrial park, or several large holdings in Charlevoix Township.

Real Estate Tycoon Doesn't Know Value Of Their Property

Who is Charlevoix's biggest property owner? The Belvedere Club? Chicago Club? Earl A. Young? Henry Hagan?

Nope. None of them. The Courier editor last week set aside an entire day and part of another to turn the pages of plat and assessment roll books trying to find out just who is the largest single owner of land in the City of Charlevoix.

THE COURIER found the answer. Perhaps even more interesting it discovered that the city's biggest landowner doesn't have an accurate tabulation of how much property it owns.

Ah yes, you're still wondering who the real estate tycoon of Charlevoix is. It's the City of Charlevoix itself.

Nobody, but nobody, even approaches owning as much land as the city does.

Though you've probably given the matter little thought, stop and ask yourself where this property is?

THE COLF COURSE, industrial park north of town on U. S. 31 Airport, Lake Michigan Beach, Ferry-ave., boat launching ramp and beach, Brookside Cemetery, Round Lake docks and East Park.

Sure. All of this and more. These parcels include some of the most valuable property in northern Michigan.

But what about the others that aren't mentioned above?

For instance, did you know the city owns an old gravel pit behind the Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix Township? That's right, five acres that were purchased several years ago for a dump. The dump never developed so the property is not used.

DID YOU KNOW the city has a 12.5-acre chunk of vacant property on the northwest corner of the Look-out, and M-66?

And there are more than 42 acres in Charlevoix Township where the Mt. McSaba Ski Club is located. This includes a long stretch of beautiful sand beach along Lake Michigan, Mt. McSaba leases the ski hill from the city.

Then there are four 25-foot wide and 117 foot deep lots near the west end of Green St. in the southwest section of town.

There's also a lot on the northside of M-66 just west of the City Garage that City Supt. James Taylor's secretary Mrs. Shelby (Bunny) Goss said, "We just found out we own that one."

ACROSS FROM The Colonial Club (which has tentatively been sold by the city) the city owns a small pie-shaped piece of property.

There are also a couple of irregular-shaped lots between Elm St. and Cherry St. east of the Reformed Church that belong to the city. City Councilman Bob Gill would like to see them turned into a recreation area.

The city also owns the northwest section of land along the Pine River channel and a small piece adjoining it along Lake Michigan. Then, too, there's the thin sliver of property running from Michigan Ave. to Lake Michigan that is dedicated as a public walkway. City Supt. Taylor says he believes it belongs to the city.

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP'S assessment roll shows that the City of Charlevoix owns the 8.28 acres Charlevoix Hospital is located on. However, Taylor and hospital administrator Miss Anne Baumgartner say the hospital now owns the property.

Approximately 43 acres of the airport is also located in the township.

There is another 13.3 acres in the township adjoining Brookside Cemetery that is owned by the city.

Is there more?

It seems possible the city also has other small lots and chunks of land within the city limits. No one really knows for sure. Mayor E. D. Hawley said, "I don't know right off hand," when asked where all of the city's property is.

"I HAVE NO IDEA . . . nobody does," City Attorney John Michael said in answering this question.

"I've discovered some (property owned by the city) in the last six months I had no idea we owned," Michael added.

When City Supt. Taylor was asked this question his immediate reaction was, "Too much!" But it would be erroneous to suspect this makes the city a land hog. After more than a day of investigation it appears that nothing could be further from the truth.

SEVERAL CITY officials when asked why Charlevoix owns the several small pieces of unused property responded with an immediate offer to sell it.

There appears to be nothing they would like better than to reduce the city's real estate holdings.

The small parcels of land scattered throughout the city were not, in most cases, acquired intentionally. Several of them were donated to the city after the Conservation Dept. received them due to unpaid taxes.

Of course, the fact that the city has acquired the larger parcels, such as the golf course, industrial park, beaches, and docks, is the envy of most other northern Michigan communities. As recreation land becomes more expensive and harder to obtain this property will only can only gain in value for the city.

BUT WE STILL don't have an answer to just how much property the city owns. And we're not going to get one.

Last winter City Assessor Larry Feindt of Charlevoix Abstract Co. tried to figure out how many acres and square feet of land the city owns. He reportedly spent many exhaustive hours looking for the answer in order to comply with a State Tax Commission request. The best he could do was come up with what he calls a "rough estimate."

What is that rough estimate? Larry doesn't know today. He sent it to Lansing for a copy. (The Courier has written to Lansing for a copy.)

Don't forget, Larry probably knows more about who owns what land in Charlevoix than any other person. But even after hours of research he can only come up with a figure he apologizes for by admitting it is "rough."

AND WHAT ABOUT a figure on how much the city-owned land is worth? County Equalization Director Pat Curtis said this would be "just about impossible" to come up with.

Pat's secretary Mrs. Rex (Joan) Blanchard spent the better part of an hour just helping the Courier figure out how much land the city owns in Charlevoix Township.

Bunny Goss spent more than an hour, assisted by Taylor, helping us leaf through the 48 26-by-20 inch linen pages in the multi-colored plat book in search of our answer.

If there are any conclusions we can draw from our hours of investigation they are that the city of Charlevoix definitely has a bigger stake in their city than any individual and that their investment is being wisely looked after.

odds ends

We're back to the birds this week, if you don't mind. . . . Recently I mentioned that a visitor to our fair state, Mrs. Cecil Merce of Cleveland thought the red-winged blackbird was our state bird because she's seen so many as she drove up through the middle of the state. . . . I'd said I hadn't seen any in years.

Mrs. Arnold Copeland, who lives on North Merceer Blvd. across from the golf course, called to tell me that if I'd look in the right places I'd see lots and lots of the gaily colored birds. . . . She added that after an absence of several years these birds were making a comeback and that the morning she called me she'd partaken of the goodies at her bird feeders.

The little goldfinches are the ones that I love to watch. . . . Every year seeds of them apparently live in the many cedar hedges (or at least that's where I see them coming from). . . . They are so bright and pretty and they dart so through an apple tree outside my window. . . . I've grown to look upon them as my special pets. . . .

MRS. BRYON Wright recently had an experience with a bird I'd never heard of before. . . . As you remember, we had some mighty cold mornings recently and on this special day the temperature dropped into the 30's, making it mighty cold for everyone but especially miserable for the wee birds. . . . Her husband was working around the yard late in the afternoon and saw this teeny feathered thing clinging to the handle on the outdoor grill. . . . He called Colleen who immediately picked the little thing off the grill and carried it inside. . . . After examining it thoroughly to determine if it was injured, she noticed that it opened its little eyes.

She continued to hold it and stroke it and soon it was as perky as could be and was trying to free itself from her hand. . . . Little Wendy was all for keeping it but she decided that the poor little thing had just gotten real cold. . . . A little later she took it to the door and tossed it into the air. . . . It took wing at once and flew away. . . . It turned out to be a little hummingbird, the first one any of them had seen at close range, and they were all thrilled by the experience. . . .

Recently Bob Humphries asked if I could compile a list of former queens (incidentally, I managed to get all but four) and as I thought about all these girls who had held the title at various times through the years I was impressed. . . . for the majority of them are now lovely young matrons who are raising even lovelier families. . . . If plans work out you'll have an opportunity to see them again during the 1965 Venetian Festival for they're being issued invitations for a return engagement this year. . . .

MEMORIAL DAY weekend, being a three-day affair, turned out to be a preview of summer. . . . for among the many visitors to the community were more than a fair representation of our summer residents who came from as far away as Chicago, St. Louis, Nashville, Tenn., as well as cities closer to northern Michigan. . . . A large group on the Belvedere called for some socializing, a smaller group at the Chicago Club meant several informal gatherings, Boulder Park people were much in evidence as were others on the north side and the surrounding lake areas. . . . It was good to see them for the first time since fall and to know they'll soon be back in our midst to stay for a while. . . .

I'M BEGINNING to wonder if events on the lakes in recent weeks are just a forerunner of things to come. . . . I hope not for there have been all too many serious things. . . . First the lake freighter hitting the Grey's Reef light station, the tragedy at the Cedarville the next day and then over the weekend, another accident that could have been even more serious. . . . a fire in the engine room of a tanker loaded with all sorts of fuel products. . . . Luckily the fire was extinguished before it spread but not before it put out the ship's electrical system, leaving it to drift in four-foot seas until the Sunday arrived to tow it to Traverse City. . . . One can't help but shudder when you think of what might have happened. . . .

Sure hope boaters will remember all the safety rules they've ever learned and help make this a safe summer. . . . Lake tragedies are something we can do well without. . . .

Another place that's beginning to look more and more like summer is the golf course which, despite the wind and threat of rain, was really crowded over the weekend as everyone took to the course to get back in shape before the really serious play gets started. . . .

"Discovering unsafe vehicles now will permit owners to have dangerous conditions corrected before they become a factor in a traffic accident. Many motorists don't know they are driving cars that endanger themselves, their families, and their community. A Safety-Check is the best way to find out," Hawley added.

THE SAFETY - Check in Charlevoix is part of the annual National Vehicle Safety-Check for Communities sponsored locally by the Lions Club and nationally Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee and LOOK Magazine, with the cooperation of the Association of State and Provincial Safety Coordinators.

Last year, Safety-Checks were conducted by 3600 communities, counties, military installations, industrial plants, governmental agencies, youth groups, new car and tire dealers, and other organizations.

CLEVENGER'S string of bass is admired by Marquette County Sheriff Tom Jernstad, on right.

Clevenger Basks in Therapy of Islands

BEAVER ISLAND--Congressman Raymond Clevenger last weekend decided to let his hair down.

To do it he picked the hair-driest place in his vast district of informal, relaxed northern Michiganers--Beaver Island.

BOARDING THE Beaver Island ferry Friday afternoon at Charlevoix--as a guest of the Beaver Island Boat Co.--Clevenger wore the exhausted, always-on-your-guard look that is a dead giveaway of cabin fever victim.

Since going to Washington last January, after upsetting incumbent Republican Victor Knox, Clevenger hadn't had a full weekend off to enjoy himself and shake the tension of politics.

By Sunday afternoon, when he boarded grocer Ken Staley's 19-foot outboard boat at St. James, Clevenger's face was sun-baked to a fine tan and his eyes sparkled as he exchanged friendly jibes with Beaver Islanders.

The magic of the Emerald Isle had done its job again.

ISLANDERS, LEAD by Dick (Vernon) and Archie LaFramiere, made sure their isolated paradise lived up to its reputation. Upon arrival at the St. James dock Friday afternoon Dick took over a full weekend station wagon waiting for transportation. For the next few hours Clevenger was escorted to meet island folks and shown their special places of beauty and pride.

There was a trip to the Mormon Museum, dinner at the Circle M, cocktails at the Beaver Lodge and Beachcomber, a reception at the Shamrock... and a much needed visit to Dick's apartment over his renowned grocery store.

Then the politicking came to an end. The Islanders had agreed in advance that there would be no politics after Friday evening. The rest of the weekend was strictly for the fun-of-it.

SATURDAY MORNING started with breakfast at Grace Cole's always enjoyable table. Then to the boat. With Staley at the wheel, it was a scenic and fast trip to the shallow bays of Garden Island.

A raw northeast wind lashed Jensen Harbor into a swirls that threatened to leap over the top of waters.

While his comrades lay comfortably in the bottom of the boat soaking up sun, Clevenger unknowingly initiated a fisherman's duel with this writer.

PERHAPS OUT of loyalty to his Upper Peninsula Finnish constituents, the congressman insisted on fishing with a Rapala, a light, patented in Finland balsam wood lure. And, while I maintained he couldn't be caught eight nice bass.

His success put my loyalty to a lure called the Jig-A-Do to test.

My best, though half-hearted, efforts produced two smallmouth bass. Were these, as Marquette County Sheriff Tom Jernstad suggested, Democratic bass?

ANOTHER one comes to the stringer.

Jernstad, a friend and political advisor to Clevenger, had accompanied us on our island escape.

THE RETREAT TO THE Seavers was prompted last summer when Clevenger made his first trip to Charlevoix to announce his candidacy for Democratic nomination in the race for Congress. After a few minutes in the "Courtier" talk inevitably turned to fishing and a tentative date was set to invade the Islands last September. But Clevenger ended up the winner of the primary election in September. The result being that he's had no time for such things until this month.

After a restful night back at St. James, Staley turned the boat Sunday morning into Garden Island Harbor (Indian Harbor) on the west side of Garden Island. This was where our duel between Clevenger's Rapala and my Jig-A-Do was to be settled.

In less than two hours fishing I landed (and released) more than 20 keeper smallmouths. Jernstad did just about as well.

Kenney, Koteskey On Board

Glenn Kenney and Clarence Koteskey were elected to the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday.

Kenney polled 237 votes and Koteskey 225.

LOSERS IN the five-way race for the two board seats were John Martin, 110 votes; Ralph Hamilton, 96, and Bill Peters, 9.

A total of 355 persons cast ballots.

Kenney and Koteskey will replace Joe Martineck and Al Smith on the board. Martineck and Smith did not run for re-election.

LITTER OF ALL descriptions kept piling up on the Lake Michigan beaches last Saturday as these young people attacked the years of neglect with enthusiasm and rakes. This is only one small pile. Many times this much litter was collected from the beaches in the community's first litter clean up, organized by Ralph Doon.

No Building for Medusa Until Air is Protected

The Charlevoix Township Board has withheld approval of Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s request for a $20 million building permit until an air pollution ordinance is enacted.

Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach reports.

According to Rabach adoption of the air pollution ordinance may come in the next week.

HE SAID Medusa several weeks ago applied for a $20 million building permit to begin construction of its South Point plant.

The Township Board, Rabach said, did not feel it should authorize the permit until the ordinance becomes law.

A copy of the ordinance, Rabach said, was sent to Medusa. The cement company was asked to study the ordinance and "send their objections up here to portions they can't meet," Rabach said.

"It's got to be reasonable," he added. "We don't want to write up something they can't operate under."

THE ORDINANCE, Rabach

said, is so "highly technical I don't understand it. This is a very highly technical field."

"We've got to have some tolerance there because if their machinery doesn't function right where does Medusa sit if they can't meet it (the limitations in the ordinance)?" Rabach said.

The air pollution ordinance was drafted by a Michigan Health Dept. engineer and Medusa's engineers. Rabach described its size as "like a Sears Roebuck catalog."

Buy Restaurant

George and Steve LaBlance have purchased Gordon's Port restaurant on north U.S.-31 and renamed it the Hitching Post. They expect to have it open this weekend.

Steve LaBlance will manage the restaurant. It will specialize in breakfasts until early afternoon and then serve short-order cafeteria meals, closing about 10 p.m.

Petoskey Getting License Business

Closing all licensing bureaus in Charlevoix has prompted many local motorists to get their drivers licenses renewed in Petoskey instead of East Jordan, the Courier learned this week.

Emmet County Sheriff Zink

Islanders Pay Big Penalty For Licenses

SEASIDE ISLAND -- Island residents are finding that new and renewal drivers licenses cost them $12-$15 more than other Charlevoix County citizens.

Due to the new state edict that a driver's picture must appear on his license--and the county's decision to allow license bureaus in Charlevoix to close--Islanders must now travel to East Jordan or Petoskey for their license.

PREVIOUSLY Sheriff Glenn Rose visited the island to issue licenses.

Now the approximately 100 motorists on the island must pay the fare ($5.50 by boat or $14-$28 by plane) to the mainland and then rent a car ($5-$10) to get to East Jordan or Petoskey.

The minimum additional cost, Rose estimates, will be approximately $12-$15.

Rev. McBratnie to Leave for Boyne

Rev. Leona M. Winegarden of Mancelona will become the new pastor of the Charlevoix Methodist Church and Greensky Hill Indian Methodist Church this Sunday, June 20.

Miss Winegarden will replace Rev. Raymond J. McBratnie, who has been transferred to a larger parish in Boyne City and Boyne Falls.

SHE IS NOW pastor of the Methodist parish embracing Mancelona, Alba and Central Lake.

Rev. McBratnie has been in Charlevoix five years. During this period the church and parsonage have undergone remodeling and refurbishing.

The Charlevoix congregation numbers approximately 180 in town and another 25 at Greensky Hill.

The Boyne City congregation numbers 260 and the Boyne Falls congregation 40.

DURING REV. McBratnie's ministry here the Greensky Hill church was dedicated as a state historical site.

REV. and Mrs. McBratnie have three children, Hugh, 27; Jim, 23, and Sharon, 14.

Rev. Winegarden is a native of Elk Rapids. She has been in Mancelona six years, during which time the church there has been refurbished and remodeled and an education unit added. She is familiar with the congregation here, having participated in affairs at the church in town and at Greensky Hill.

SHE IS A graduate of National College of Kansas City, Mo., University of Kansas City and Boston School of Theology.

Before going to Mancelona she served the Methodist Church in Saginaw, Cadillac, Manton, Elk Rapids and Detroit.

The new assignments for Rev. Winegarden and Rev. McBratnie were announced at Albion College last week by Resident Bishop Dwight E. Loder at the Michigan Annual Conference of the Methodist Church.

Carlton Smith, Joseph Smith, Charles Coleman, Linda Neff, Diane Uhrick, John Flynn, Barbara Mossmore, Janet Schroeder, Susan Pearl and Peter Ance have completed their studies at Michigan State University and arrived here for the summer.

A few weeks ago a lake freighter, the J. E. Upson, allegedly got off course in one of those heavy fogs we had earlier and plowed into Greys Reef light some 30 miles north of here. The accident happened the night before the Cedarville was lost in the Straits so was overshadowed by this. The accident didn't hurt the sturdy lighthouse too much but it sure did quite a lot of damage to the ship. Lt. Cmdr. Charles Millard of the Group office was telling me the other day that the crew at the station was down on the 'deck' of the lighthouse one night recently when they sighted a freighter with a big splash of fresh paint on its bow coming through the passage. As it neared the light, practically the entire crew appeared on deck. Until it drew opposite the light, the crew of the light didn't realize what the excitement was about. Apparently this was the ship's first passage through Greys Reef channel in daylight since the accident and the ship's crew was out on force to get a good look at the lighthouse that had sent them to the shipyard for repairs.

"YOU'LL NEVER guess what I just found. . . a single mushroom almost big enough for a meal", that was Mrs. William (Mary) Haggard's comment on a big one she found recently in her peony bed out on the old Boulder Farm at the corner of Mercer Blvd. and Durand road. When she measured it she found it was six inches in diameter. She's hoping that there'll be more next year because by the time she found this one it was about to dry up.

Mrs. David (Mary Lou Ver-Wys) Ikens was in Grand Rapids recently and decided to call her brother, Jim, who is now employed there. She was told he was 'jumping' and when she was told where she dashed to the southwest side of the city to see for herself. This may all sound like Greek until you find that Jim was formerly with the paratroopers and, since his discharge more than a year ago, has been jumping with a jump club in Grand Rapids. Marylou arrived just in time to see the group making a free fall before pulling that old cord. Never having seen him jump before, she said she about fainted till he hit the ground. After almost hitting a nearby building, according to her. His version was that he'd missed it by a mile. Well, at least by 50 feet. After watching this one jump, Marylou has decided there's things she's rather do. . .

I KNOW YOU'VE missed her and I'm sorry I haven't mentioned this before because I've missed her too. When someone's been around for the better part of 38 years in a given office, you come to think of this person as a part of the firm. But comes a day when you decide it's time to take a rest and that's exactly what Mrs. Walker (Sylvia) Miles has decided to do. And now I'm busier than I ever was before but it's fun to do things that I've wanted to do for years. Mrs. Miles' comment on all her 'spare' time which is being taken up by all sorts of things like knitting sweaters, painting, having a cup of coffee with a caller and, though she didn't mention it, cooking all sorts of goodies for which she is just famous. When Mrs. Miles went to work back in 1927 for Mr. Sloan who then had the Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Co., she had no idea of making a career of it. On occasion she'd decide to call it 'quits' but someone would always talk her into coming back. When Mary Findt took over the business, Mrs. Miles stayed on. . . and then on and on. . . This time, however, she put her foot down and said that this time it was for keeps. Mr. and Mrs. Miles' having such a good time I wouldn't be surprised if she stuck to her words. . . But then again, I wouldn't be surprised to see her back at 213 Bridge if only to give them a hand. . .

Wheat Support

faithful postman planning to retire at the end of the year, they have all sorts of wonderful plans in the making. . . And two people never deserved anything more than those two. . .

EN'T IT A shame that inanimate objects can't write their memoirs? . . . No, I haven't lost mind. . . I was just thinking what good reading the stories by the old Coast Guard Lifeboat Station on the channel and the Colonial Club would make. . . The history of the first dates back three quarters of a century. . . and that of the Colonial Club to the 'roarin' '20s'. . . Truly both are landmarks in a community filled with reminders of another day. . .

And how about those new 'twins' that are making headlines these days. . . White and McElvitt. . . and as you read this, you'll also be reading of their well-earned Michigan. . . When they return to the University of Michigan where both were graduated. . . Makes you feel as though you've all been a part of this great venture, doesn't it? . . . When you add up all those who had a part in the Gemini venture in one way or another, it's mighty impressive. . . But then, those two have done a bit of impressing themselves, wouldn't you say? . . .

AND BEFORE another week rolls around summer will be here. . . Keep your fingers crossed and hope for beautiful weather. . . like sunshine, warm temperatures and blue skies. . . Remember I reminded you to watch the weather at the time of the equinox for it set the pattern for the next 90 days? . . . Whether you want to believe it or not, it's true so join me in hoping for a fine summer.

A 'well done' to all those who turned out for Operation: Clean-up on Saturday. . . I hope that the entire community appreciates what these people have done to make our town more beautiful and will cooperate in keeping it that way. . .

This year, be a winner!

Why not? Mort Neff will be presenting 33 big prizes in Leonard's 1965 "Michigan Outdoors" fishing contest — and you have as good a chance to win as any other fisherman. The contest runs from the opening of trout season through Labor Day, so you'll have all summer to catch a big one. Stop in today and pick up your free entry blank. We're holding one for you. And, we hope you catch a whopper!

DRENTH BROTHERS

Iron-ton

By Mrs. Ross Alexander
L17-2037

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meyers spent last Sunday visiting friends in Hemlock, Michigan.

Mrs. Evelyn Alexander entertained sixteen friends with a "Tupperware" party last Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James White and son Jim from Paris, Kentucky, arrived last week to spend several weeks in their summer home, Mrs. White is the daughter of the late Charlie Snyder.

The church luncheon at the Wilson Sale, Thursday was a real success. We extend thanks to Mrs. J. Jensen and Mrs. Ada Williams for their efforts in organizing and working on the project.

Former residents, Mrs. Mary Goff, and two sons, Edward and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Goff from Grand Blanc, have been spending this week at Wrights cabins. They were dinner guests Sunday evening at the Pete Bennett home.

Roy and Minnie Meyers are spending this weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Schuelte, in Rose City, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Chamberlain from Sequanota, left Monday on their trip around the world.

Our community extends its sympathy to the family of Lewis Boyer, one of our longtime residents, who passed away Thursday evening. Services were Saturday afternoon.

This Sunday was Childrens Day. Everyone was proud of the Junior Choir and of the well-attended Sunday School.

Mary Bennett was a dinner guest at the home of Mrs. Violet Bustard in East Jordan, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kolkman from Holland, Michigan are guests this weekend at the William Vanderwall home.

We spent this Sunday on Mackinac Island, this is the time when they celebrate the blooming of it's famed, double purple lilacs, unique for their abundance and deep, rich color, these lilacs were planted there, more than three hundred years ago by French explorers and has become the symbol of the island. The parade was most interesting, and it surely is nice to cross the streets and not think about traffic, just horses clip-clopping by, reminds one of the "good old" days, on the mainland.

HIS DAY

Come Sunday, the world will pay homage to a very special fellow.
He is the husband—the father—the breadwinner and the sturdy foundation of our community. We pause to do him honor. He may be gruff, and stern, and tanned of face, but he is Dad. Just get an x-ray of his heart if you really want to see something rare. What strange, but wonderful people these fathers are. They are the world's easiest victims of love's attack. Just pour on a little attention, seasoned with about two parts of tenderness and give in very small doses... since he could never stand a big dose. Then just sit back and watch his big heart warm up. It will respond in true father fashion. This Father's Day, won't you take him to God's House for an hour of worship?

Summer Music Lessons Will Start on June 28

Plans for the 18th Annual Summer Instrumental Music Program have been announced by C.A. Odmark, Director of Music at Charlevoix Public Schools. Miss Evelyn Peters, a recent graduate of Northern Michigan University and an alumnus of Charlevoix High School has been engaged to assist Odmark this summer. This addition to the staff has been necessitated by a steadily growing enrollment, which reached 135 last summer.

The program will begin during the week of June 28 for students who have finished the seventh grade and above. The beginning band of 6th grade students will begin one week later. During the week of July 5, This delayed start will enable Odmark to interview the candidates for this band before they purchase instruments to begin their instrumental training. These interviews will be scheduled upon Odmark's return from a short vacation on June 24.

Sponsored by the Charlevoix Board of Education, the program is open to students in the Charlevoix School District. It consists of a weekly lesson. Either individual, or in small groups. It will continue for six weeks. Lesson times will be set by the Board of Education, for participation in the program.

Davenport Readies Summer Recreation Plan

"We're all set for an outstanding summer of recreational activities and, if the weatherman cooperates, it could be the best summer yet."

This is the consensus of Deano Davenport, who returned last week to head up the city recreation program for the eleventh season.

THE CITY'S summer recreation program, which started out with two softball leagues, now embraces six leagues, a Red Cross Swimming program, tennis and golf school, track and field days, plus some new innovations which will be included this year.

A record 31 teams await the opening games for the coming softball season. The season is scheduled to open Monday June 21.

Two junior league entries, Barnard and Jerry's Gulf will play the 1st off the season at 7 p.m. Then at 8:30 the Class A Fastball opener will find defending Champions American mold meeting the Air Force. On Tuesday the Peanant League opener pits the Lions against the Cardinals at 7 with Class A Lake Construction going against the Merchants at 8:30.

TEAM ENTRIES for the various leagues are as follows: Fast Ball League—Merchants, American Mold, Air Force, Lake Construction, and the High School, Junior League—VFW, Scouts, Jerry's Gulf, Barnard, and A & W. The Women's league has four entries—Edwards, High School, Paul-Ried, and the Military Wives. The Blooper League, for men over 30, has increased to six teams including: Novak's, Ken's Dodge, Barnard Holm and Crain, Consumers, and two Boyne City teams.

The peanant league has undergone some changes. The age level has been increased to include those who start the season as thirteen year olds. Six teams set are the Tigers, Cubs, Cards, Pirates, Braves, and Lions. The boys who have been on a peanant league team and are 8 or 9 will join 7 year olds to form a four team Pee Wee League.

Lessons will begin the week of July 5 and more information and sign up blanks will be released later.

DAVENPORT said "The beaches will be manned and in operation for the summer as soon as warm weather merits it." He added, "That the rafts and diving platforms will be placed in Lake Charlevoix at the Depot Beach and the Lake Michigan Beach within the next 10 days."

Golf lessons, which proved so popular last season, will again be offered this summer.

"Such a heavy demand for enrollment will make it necessary for two sections of lessons to be offered," reported Davenport. "The first section will start June 21 and enrollments will be closed as soon as we get a full class. Class enrollment will be based on a first-come-first-served basis and those interested should call the City Hall 2510. A second session will be started in July."

The tennis program will get under way later this month. Application blanks will be made available to those wishing to take lessons. Don Nowland, a recent graduate of the Army Academy at West Point, will be in charge of the instruction and will also serve in the capacity as assistant recreation director.

The shuffleboard courts are also included as part of the recreation program. Supervision at both the Round Lake and Lake Michigan courts will begin when weather dictates.

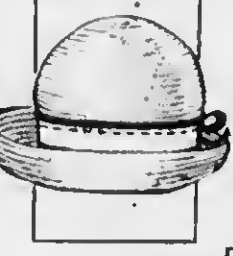

MEANWHILE the job of getting the fields in shape, ordering new equipment to supplement that acquired throughout the years, setting up schedules, and preparing for the opening of the various programs is keeping director Davenport busy.

Davenport stated, "Records show a continual increase in attendance in all phases of the program each year. We have no reason to believe the same won't be true this year. However, we need to be continually expanding and improving our offerings so that everyone can benefit from recreation and leisure activities. We are ready to add a new feature to our program, but we want to wait on the announcement until we're completely organized and ready to go."

Survey Use of Airport

The Charlevoix airport will figure in a statewide aviation survey conducted this summer by the Michigan Department of Aeronautics.

James D. Ramsey, Director of the Department, announced that a total of 37 communities, including Charlevoix, will be involved in the survey beginning June 18 and ending September 6.

Thirty selected airports will be surveyed on two consecutive weekend periods during the months of June, July, August and September, and results will be combined with a full week's survey at seven other locations.

A full week's survey will be run beginning July 24 and ending August 1 at Adrian, Bad Axe, Charlevoix, Charlevoix, Grand Haven, Menominee and Midland.

Personnel will be furnished by the Department to conduct the summer-long, State-wide survey, which will serve to update a similar survey conducted by the Department in 1962. At that time, the Fact Finder revealed total annual aircraft operations in the State of 3,963,000--7.2% by air carrier (airline), 91.4% by general aviation (private and business aircraft), and 1.4 military.

Ramsey expects that in 1965 tabulation of aircraft movements and economic factors will show an increased amount of traffic and greater expenditures.

The 1962 survey revealed that non-resident aviation passengers expended more than $110 million annually in Michigan.

Pilots and their passengers will be expected to answer their amounts. Motion accepted by the following Yeas and Nays: Yeas: Alderman Hoffmann, Neff, Terrill, Whitley, Fochtman and Gill. Nays: None. Absent: None.

On motion the council adjourned.

questions regarding origin and destination of their flights, their home base, dollars spent in the community, length of time spent in the community, etc. Since the study is being conducted primarily by the Department may design its program to more nearly meet the needs of aviation users, Ramsey is hoping for full cooperation in answering the questionnaires.

The 1965 Michigan Aviation Fact Finder is part of a continuing program by the Michigan Department of Aeronautics to evaluate the use of existing airports and the need for improved facilities to serve the aviation traffic in the State.

Pictures Tell Story of Litter Clean Up

The Ladies Kept Refreshments Handy Throughout the Day.

Young Citizens Purge Beach of Its Shame

Approximately 50 enthusiastic and conscientious Charlevoix youths turned out Saturday and with the aid of 12 adults purged our Lake Michigan beaches of their shame.

Under the leadership of Ralph Doan several miles of shoreline were literally picked clean of tons of litter and debris—most of it deliberately left behind by litterbugs.

THE WHOLE project cost $30 cash. The most important outlay was energy and a sincere interest in the cleanliness of our natural beauty, Doan points out.

The young people, with their adult leaders, picked litter and raked litter from the beaches from North Point to the Pine River Channel and in the Inwood Creek-Fisherman's Island area.

Doan, and others who saw the results of the clean up hailed it as a complete success. It proved, they report, that willing volunteers can remove the wastes left by humans on our beaches and have fun doing it.

During the morning and afternoon litter clean up sessions women of the Garden Club and Girl Scouts followed the volunteers around with soft drinks, hot dogs and potato chips.

THE REFRESHMENTS were supplied by Ken Staley, Bob and Gordon Neff, Dick Edwards and Harry Pearsall.

Vehicles were supplied by Charlevoix Oil Co., Meggison's Sinclair Service, Martin's Standard Service and the City of Charlevoix.

Adults helping supervise the work, were Louis McKenzie, James Lewis, Tom Bassett, Gus Sonnenberg, Larry Hooper, Don Meggison, Ed Buday and Russell Mieras.

It was for the young people that Doan reserved his greatest praise.

"THEY WERE great. They enjoyed the day also. Many of them even asked to go over the areas again on the following week," Doan said.

"Charlevoixians can be justly proud of these young people," he added. "They cleared the majority of refuse that older people didn't have the courtesy to pick up and carry home."

"In the past two weeks at least two of our young people suffered cut feet from careless adult habits, broken throwaway beer bottles."

"We grownups set a wonderful example for our youth, don't we? These young people possibly saved a dozen or more children from painful cuts and shots these coming summer months...if only the careless beach party members would thus suffer instead of our children," Doan said.

Commencement Exercises in the area are over and invitations are now souvenirs. It is a shame and embarrassing to refuse an invitation to a persons graduation. People realize there are not enough days in a week, but with the new intermediate school district the Administrators could select dates for their commencement that would not conflict with other schools. As many speakers have stated, "this is an important time in your life." Those invited to these exercises have the feeling that it is important to be present.

The eighth grade seniors from the Ebenezer Christian School arrived home after their Senior trip. Teacher Paul Krause was chauffeur and chaperone for five students, Karen Burns, Mary Del VanderArk, Nancy Vanderberg, Slan Drenth and Jay Esenberg. The six visited Niagara Falls. At the Falls they took a boat ride and also rode the cable car, this was exciting. The trip started on June seventh and was completed on June the eleventh.

The Wolverine Girls State Chairman, Mrs. Emory Wilson announced that Miss Toni Armstrong representing Jansen Richardson Unit 488 of Ellsworth at the Wolverine Girls State in Ann Arbor will be leaving Monday June 14th. The Boyne City representative will also be motoring with Toni and her mother Mrs. Alma Armstrong.

Marvin Ruls and James Kooyer will be leaving for the American Legion Wolverine Boy's State with the three boys from Charlevoix on Wednesday morning for the Campus at Michigan State.

Earlier the girls and boys were guests of honor at a Legion dinner.

Clevenger Basks in Therapy of Islands

Clevenger's Rapids didn't produce a fish. Three other boats of fishermen were in the harbor at one time or another during Clevenger's stay. Their efforts also went unrewarded.

And if you think it poor manners or sportsmanship to make a point of my Jig-A-Do's superiority over the congressman's lure consider that I earned this one chance to boast.

After all, Clevenger, Staley and Jernstad are faithful to the Democratic philosophy, making me the only maverick in the party. You can believe I didn't come out feeling like a victor on anything but my lure's success.

The only unpleasant part of the Garden Island Harbor adventure was evidence that someone has been spearing bass off their spawning beds by using a light at night. Clear signs of spear marks were found on fish we caught.

The Conservation Dept. has a fulltime work force living on the harbor. This eliminates any possible excuse for violators being allowed to operate in the secluded harbor.

Sunday afternoon, following a Killarney Inn hamburger, Staley turned the boat east toward Charlevoix. Aboard was the United States' number one official from one-third of the land area of Michigan.

But there was a change. The congressman was no longer the man with the harried look and tired eyes who had made the crossing Friday. You might almost have taken him for a Beaver Islander. . . a thought he admitted appealed to him.

No Building

Medusa will build a cement plant, quarry and loading dock on South Point. The plant is expected to hire more than 100 persons.

APPLICATION for the building permit came after months of controversy that reached all the way to Washington and Lansing.

Some residents and summer visitors took exception to Medusa's plans, contending the dock or plant will ruin the area's natural beauty and destroy the tourist business.

Another faction supported the company's plans and urged the state Administrative Board, Conservation Department and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to issue the needed permits. The permits were issued.

The first phase of the controversy came when the City of Charlevoix initiated proceedings to annex the Medusa property unless Charlevoix Township drafted an ordinance to protect the area from air pollution.

Board

The Board of Education approved a $445,963 budget for 1965-66. Last year's budget was $431,014.

SUPT. REX Milligan announced that revenues for the year will total $447,993, more than budgeted expenditures. Two persons turned out for the public hearing on the budget.

The board will levy 14.75 mills for 1965-66. Of this 11.5 is for operation and 3.25 for debt service. The total is up 1/4-mill over last year due to an increase in the county allocation for school operation.

CMU Grads
Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, lists four Charlevoixians as June graduates. They are:

No Agreement Yet on Corps Easement Deed

No agreement has been reached between the Corps of Engineers and property owners over easements along the Pine River channel, Dr. Walter F. Hoffman, city councilman and involved landowner, reports.

According to Dr. Hoffman and City Attorney John Michael, property owners refused to sign the Corps' first request for an easement deed.

THE CORPS then, several weeks ago, stated it would revise the request so it was more palatable to property owners.

However, Dr. Hoffman reports no such revision has been presented.

The Corps, according to the easement deed it asked Hoffman and others to sign, wants almost complete control of all property from the Pine River channel banks to 50-feet inland.

Property owners along the channel have protested to councilmen and others that the Corps is virtually asking for complete control of the most valuable part of their land.

THE EASEMENT deed landowners have refused to sign, reads: "That for and in consideration of the sum of ONE DOLLAR ($1) the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties of the First Part do convey and quitclaim to the United States of America and its assigns a perpetual and assignable easement and right to construct, operate, maintain, repair and patrol channel improvement works in, upon, over, across and under the following described parcels of land....

"...Including the right to clear, cut, fell, remove and dispose of any and all timber, trees, underbrush, buildings, improvements and/or obstructions therefrom; to excavate, dredge, cut away and remove any or all of said land, and to place thereon dredge or spoil material; and for

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bolin, former residents of Batesville, Ark., have purchased the complete interest in the Farmer's Meat Co. of Charlevoix.

The couple has taken over management of the company from its former owner H. G. Foster.

MR. AND MRS. Bolin report they will keep the meatpacking plant on U.S.-31 south open year-round. In the past it has only been open in the summer. Year-round service, Bolin said, will make it possible for the company to better serve its present and new patrons.

Bolin comes to Charlevoix with broad experience in the meat packing business, including training in both retail and wholesale operations. After attending the Kroger Meat School of Oklahoma City, Okla., he managed Kroger Stores in Arkansas for five years.

He then went into the meat packing business in Batesville and was co-owner of Wheeler and Bolin Packing Co. for ten years.

UNTIL RECENTLY he was manager of a farm supply business in Batesville and Mountain View, Ark.

He points out that his experience with both farmers and businessmen should be helpful in the operation of the Farmer's Meat Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolin are Episcopalians. He is a past president of the Batesville Rotary Club.

Mrs. Bolin will assist as manager during the summer months at Christ Episcopal Church. In Batesville she was Welcome Wagon Hostess for three years and served as Public relations director for the Mack Farm Dairy.

ASSISTING The Bolins at the Farmer's Meat Co. will be Bill Anderson of East Jordan and Wallace Roberts, who until recently lived in Clare. The firm will buy as much of its meat from local farmers as possible, Bolin said.

Air Pollution Ordinance Ok'd

Charlevoix Township has enacted an air pollution ordinance to control Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s operations on South Point.

The 24-page, highly technical, ordinance appears on pages 7 and 8 of this week's Courier.

UPON PASSING the ordinance last week the township board promptly authorized issuing a building permit to Medusa. The permit will allow Medusa to build a dock, quarry, cement plant and other buildings, estimated to cost $20 million.

The building program will take from 3-5 years, Worth Loomis, Medusa vice president, has said.

The ordinance, Clarence Rabach, township supervisor said, requires that all emissions from the cement plant be 99.4% free of impurities. Rabach said the ordinance sets a precedent for northern Michigan, being the first of its kind drafted by a small community.

EIGHT YEARS ago, Rabach said, the township set a similar precedent when it drafted the area's first township zoning ordinance.

Rabach said the township will not measure the dust and smoke emissions from the plant to see if they meet the code's 99.4% purity requirement.

He said the township will rely on the company and its equipment suppliers to do this. The ordinance, according to Rabach, gives the township power to close the cement plant if it violates the restrictions. However, he added it is doubtful this will ever happen.

THE ORDINANCE also calls for a fine of $100 a day and up to 90 days imprisonment for violators, Rabach added.

He added that the township will be as "reasonable" as possible with the company should there be any equipment malfunctions.

Isn't it good to see all our youngsters home from college? And have you noticed how much as little as one year has done for them? You don't know what you're missing if you don't have an opportunity to rub elbows with these terrific youngsters as they grow up.

We'll go back to the birds again if you don't mind for five a bit of news I'm sure you'll be happy to hear. As you know, we don't have many blue birds around anymore, mainly, I understand, because there are few nesting areas in places to the liking of the beautiful little bird that denotes happiness. It has been of great concern to bird-lovers who are even supplying little bird houses for them. For what it's worth, and let's hope it's a lot, a pair have been sighted right here in Charlevoix. In a telephone conversation with Mrs. Harry Hammond last week, she was telling me that her husband had been insisting for days that he had heard the song of a bluebird. He finally saw them in his backyard. So they're holding their breath and hoping that there'll be more. I'd certainly love to see them for it's been years since I've ever heard of any being around.

I had a chat the other day with Mrs. Eugene Wolfman, the former Jean Swinton, who is summering in the old Swinton cottage at "The Point." The wildlife out there is truly wonderful because it's so isolated and quiet. She was telling me about the bird population that includes many kinds including a pair of cardinals and a pileated woodpecker. A shy, shy bird that is seldom seen. The noise that he made by pecking for food first made them aware that there might be one nearby and one day they sighted him as he flew over. I'm told there aren't too many of them around and that one seldom sees them because of their shyness. The only other time I'd ever heard of one was a few years ago when one flew into one of the big windows at the Charlevoix hospital.

al and, of course, fractured its neck. If you've any doubt about the season look about you. Those lovely hanging baskets that add so much to Charlevoix's beauty are up, and as a result you just know it's summer.

Not only that but seeds of our summer residents are putting in an appearance. It's so nice to greet them again after an absence of several months.

And every place you turn another committee is meeting to make plans for some summer event. Deano Davenport's busy with his softball program as well as getting his swimmers together in preparation for the swimming projects. The Waterfront Fair committee's pushing its plans in preparation for the big event in mid-August. It looks like a bigger and better show than ever with seeds more talent requesting entry blanks. The Venetian Festival committees are making all sorts of plans that will be unveiled shortly.

As I mentioned earlier, former Venetian Queens are being invited to the Venetian Festival this year. But we're short one queen and no one has turned up with her. If you should remember who was queen in 1953, would you call Bob Humphries... or me. It's gotten to a point now where we just have to know or we can't go on.

If you have any idea that you're not the luckiest person in the world you should have spent some time at the orthopedic clinic where I worked as a recorder on Wednesday. Youngsters of all ages came from the four counties in health department district. There was a bit of everything but it added up, in the most part, to children who were enduring things that we, as grown-ups, could never stand. But it took more than a little handicap to dampen the spirits of the kids. There was more than a bit of happiness about it too. Especially when a child was told he no longer had to wear a brace or could do something he'd been wanting to do for ages. And then there were the parents who were told that nothing real serious was wrong with Sally or Joe. That just some little thing would take care of the difficulty. Then there were those few who were seeking re-assurance that never came. I am certain that everyone who came away from there thanked his or her lucky star that those he loved were healthy kids who had the good fortune to be alright. And to you football fans, there's supposed to be a game on ABC on June 26. Of course, I'm not certain I'd get it here, but they'd remind you so you'd be on the

Not a CENT for GOD!

What a story here! And it's all written down, too. The stub of an old check book! Here is part of the story of what one man wanted most in life. Here he selected and paid for the things dearest to his heart. Here is the measuring stick by which he determined things most valuable to him... his selection, then his check, his money. Mister, what would the stubs of one of your old check books reveal? Suppose in the future friends of yours should thumb through it. Would you be proud of your portrait there? Would you be ashamed of the relative importance it gave to the church on the corner? Don't kid yourself. As a good steward of the goodness of God, act on your better judgment today. Your church needs you, and you need your church.

To make Child Eat New Foods Sneak them In

--If Johnny refuses to eat "new" foods, Charlevoix mothers might try these hints from dietitians at The University of Michigan Medical Center.

--First offer the new food during a meal where favorite foods are also being served.

--Give the child a very small portion.

--Do not draw undue attention to the new food.

--If he doesn't eat it the first time, serve it again a few days later.

The U-M food specialists say you should wait until the child has become acquainted with a new food before you start increasing the size of his portion.

And if there is any unpleasantness associated with the new food, put off serving it again until the child has had time to forget.

In determining whether or not a variance shall be granted, in all cases the equities involved and the advantages and disadvantages to the residents and the occupation or activity, shall be weighed by the Air Pollution Control Board. Such variances shall be by an order of the Board.

- Any person requesting a variance shall make his request in writing and shall state in a concise manner the facts to show cause why such variance should be granted.
- Variances shall be for a period of time not to exceed twelve months, but may be renewed for a similar period of time by the Air Pollution Control Board upon reapplication.

Section 12.02 REVOCATION OF A VARIANCE

A variance granted may be revoked or modified by the Air Pollution Control Board after a public hearing held upon not less than 10 days' notice. Such notice shall be served upon the holder of the variance and all persons who have filed with the Board a written request for such notification.

ARTICLE 13. CONDITIONS WHICH MAY BE JUDGED NOT IN VIOLATION OF THIS CODE

Section 13.01 UPSET CONDITIONS, BREAKDOWN OR SCHEDULED MAINTENANCE

Emissions exceeding any of the limits established in this Code as a direct result of upset conditions in or breakdown of any operating equipment or related air quality control equipment, or as a direct result of the shutdown of such equipment for scheduled maintenance, may not be deemed to be in violation of this Code, provided all the requirements of subsections (a) and (b) of this section are met.

- Such occurrence shall have been reported to the office of the Health Officer as soon as reasonably possible; for scheduled maintenance, such report shall be submitted at least 24 hours prior to shutdown, and for upset conditions or breakdown, such report shall in any case be made within two hours of the occurrence.
- The person responsible for such emission shall, with all practicable speed, initiate and complete appropriate reasonable action to correct the conditions causing such emissions to exceed the air quality limits of this Code and to reduce the frequency of occurrence of such conditions; and shall upon request of the Health Officer submit in writing a full report of such occurrence, including a statement of all known causes and the nature of the actions to be taken pursuant to the requirements of this subsection.

- In case of breakdown the owner or operator shall outline a corrective program acceptable to the Health Officer.

ARTICLE 14. AIR POLLUTION EMISSION LIMITS

Section 14.01 VISIBLE EMISSIONS

- No person shall cause, let, permit, suffer or allow to be discharged into the atmosphere from any single source of emission whatsoever any essentially carbonaceous air contaminant of a density equal to or darker than No. 2 of the Ringelmann Chart except as provided in subsections (1) and (2) which follow.
- A visible contaminant of a density equal to but not darker than No. 2 of the Ringelmann Chart may be emitted for not more than 3 minutes in any 60 minute period.
- A visible contaminant of a density equal to but not darker than No. 3 of the Ringelmann Chart may be emitted for not more than 3 minutes in any 60 minute period, provided such emissions shall not be permitted on more than 3 occasions during any 24 hour period.

Section 14.02 EMISSION OF SULFUR COMPOUNDS FROM EQUIPMENT USED IN A MANUFACTURING PROCESS: VOLUME STANDARD

No person shall cause or permit the emission of air contaminant from equipment used in a manufacturing process if the air contaminant emitted as measured in the exhaust stack contains sulfur compounds, calculated as sulfur dioxide, of more than 2,000 parts per million.

Section 14.03 EMISSION OF PARTICULATE MATTER FROM REFUSE BURNING EQUIPMENT, FUEL BURNING EQUIPMENT, OR EQUIPMENT USED IN A MANUFACTURING PROCESS: WEIGHT-RATE STANDARD.

No person shall cause or permit the emission of particulate matter from refuse burning equipment, fuel burning equipment, or equipment used in a manufacturing process if the emission from such equipment is in violation of the provisions of Section 10.01 or if the particulate matter emitted as measured in the exhaust duct exceeds the following weights:

- In refuse burning equipment, 0.30 pounds, for each thousand pounds of dry gases, adjusted to 50 per cent excess air or calculated to 13 per cent carbon dioxide, but in no event shall more than 200 pounds of particulate matter be emitted in any 60 minute period.
- With the exception and exclusion of those processes as provided for in (d) below, in fuel burning equipment in which the preponderance of the particulate matter emitted is caused by the burning of fuel, 0.60 pounds for each million BTU per hour input if the equipment has a capacity rating of 10 million or less. If the capacity rating of the fuel burning equipment is more than 10 million, the amount of particulate matter which may be emitted for each million BTU input shall decrease as the capacity rating of the fuel burning equipment increases, as follows:
 - no more than 0.48 pounds for each million BTU input from equipment having a capacity rating of 50 million;
 - no more than 0.40 pounds for each million BTU input from equipment having a capacity rating of 100 million;
 - no more than 0.30 pounds for each million BTU input from equipment having a capacity rating of 500 million;
 - no more than 0.26 pounds for each million BTU input from equipment having a capacity rating of 1,000 million;
 - no more than 0.23 pounds for each million BTU input from equipment having a capacity rating of 2,500 million;
 - no more than 0.20 pounds for each million BTU input from equipment having a capacity rating of 5,000 million;
 - no more than 0.19 pounds for each million BTU input from equipment having a capacity rating of 7,500 million;
 - no more than 0.18 pounds for each million BTU input from equipment having a capacity rating of 10,000 million, or more.

The amount of particulate matter which may be emitted from fuel burning equipment having an intermediate capacity rating shall be determined by linear interpolation. If two or more fuel burning units are connected to a single flue, the total capacity rating of all fuel burning units connected to the flue shall be the capacity rating for the purpose of computing the amount of particulate matter which may be emitted. If a single fuel burning unit is manifolded to two or more flues the capacity rating of the single fuel burning unit shall be the capacity rating for the purpose of computing the amount of particulate matter which may be emitted;

- In equipment used in a manufacturing process, with the exception noted in (d) below, 0.55 pounds for each 100 pounds or less of process weight per hour. If the process weight per hour is more than 100 pounds, the amount of particulate matter which may be emitted in any 60 minute period shall decrease for each pound of process weight per hour increases, as follows:

Table 1 ALLOWABLE RATE OF EMISSION BASED ON PROCESS WEIGHT RATE

To use this table take the process weight rate (lb./hr. or tons/hr.). Then find this figure on the table, opposite is the maximum number of pounds of contaminants which may be discharged into the atmosphere in any one hour. EXAMPLE: If a process which emits atmospheric contaminants and the process requires three hours to complete, he will divide the weight of all materials in the specific process, in this example 1800 pounds by 3 giving a process weight rate of 600 pounds per hour. The table shows that A may discharge up to 1.83 pounds in any one hour during the process. Interpolation of the data for process weight rates in excess and extrapolation of the data for process weight rates below the equation, $E=0.11/55.0P-40$, where E equals rate of emission in pounds per hour and P equals process weight rate in tons per hour.

- Emission levels of particulate matter in some processes are dependent upon technological developments. The processes listed below together with a description of mandatory control procedures and/or maximum particulate emission levels are excepted from the schedule in (c) above. Exceptions to both (b) and (c) above may also be made upon application to the Air Pollution Control Board where it can be shown that a variance is justified.

(1) Cement Manufacture

New Kilns - Gas cleaning equipment designed for full range of operating conditions and which limits emission to 0.25, plus or minus 0.14 pounds of particulate per 1,000 pounds of gas must be applied. Future expansion of existing kiln facilities and addition of new kilns subject to review and approval of Air Pollution Control Board. Each kiln is to be considered a separate process.

Clinker Coolers - Gas cleaning equipment designed for full range of operating conditions and which limits emission to 0.25 pounds of particulate per 1,000 pounds of gas must be applied.

Grinding, crushing, screening, conveying, drying, packaging and other material handling operations.

Air cleaning equipment must be applied and have a minimum collection efficiency of 99% (on a total weight basis). A maximum emission of 0.13 pounds per thousand pounds of exhaust gas is permitted.

Section 14.04 EMISSION OF AIR CONTAMINANT (INCLUDING ODORS) OR WATER VAPOR; DETRIMENT TO PERSON OR PROPERTY AND NUISANCE

No person shall cause or permit the emission of an air contaminant or water vapor, including an air contaminant whose emission is not otherwise prohibited by this Code, if the air contaminant or water vapor causes or may cause detriment to the health, safety, welfare or comfort of any person; or causes or may cause damage to property or business; or causes a nuisance or if it reacts or is likely to react with any other air contaminant or natural air, or is induced to react by solar energy to produce a solid, liquid or gas or any combination thereof which causes or may cause detriment to the safety, health, welfare, or comfort of any person, or which causes or may cause damage to property or business. No person shall cause or permit the handling, conveying, storing or accumulation of any material in such a manner that dust or other emanations may escape and become a nuisance, beyond his own property line.

Section 14.05 TESTS OF FUEL BURNING, COMBUSTION OR PROCESS EQUIPMENT TO BE MADE IN ACCORDANCE WITH SPECIFIED SAMPLING PROCEDURES

The Health Officer is hereby authorized to conduct, or cause to be conducted, any test or tests as may be necessary to determine the extent of emission of particulate matter from any fuel-burning, combustion or process equipment or device, if and when, in his judgment, there is evidence that any such equipment, process or device is exceeding any emission limitation prescribed by or under this chapter. The result of any test shall be made available to the person responsible for such property tested. Tests shall be made and the results calculated in accordance, where applicable, with American Society of Mechanical Engineers "Power Test Codes, Test code for determining dust concentration in a gas stream PTC-27-1957" procedure as revised from time to time or in accordance with modified procedures mutually agreed upon between the Health Officer and the person. All tests and calculations shall be made under the direction of a competent engineer. Any test or tests to be conducted on the premises where such equipment or device is located shall be made during reasonable hours, after written notice to, and with the cooperation of, the owner or operator. The cost of any such test or tests and calculations shall be a debt due the Township from any person responsible as owner, operator or otherwise of such fuel-burning combustion or process equipment or device in all cases where such test or tests shall have been proven any emission of particulate matter shall be recoverable in any court of competent jurisdiction. If any such emission is shown by such test or tests to be within the limits of emission prescribed in this chapter, the cost of such test or tests shall be charged to the Township.

Section 14.06 TEST FACILITIES

It shall be the responsibility of the owner or operator of the operation tested to provide, at his expense, reasonable and necessary openings in the system or stack, and safe and easy access thereto, to permit technically valid samples and measurements to be taken.

Section 14.07 CIRCUMVENTION

A person, firm or corporation shall not build, erect, install, or use any article, machine, equipment or other contrivance, the sole purpose of which is to dilute or conceal an emission without resulting in a reduction in the total release of air contaminants to the atmosphere.

ARTICLE 15. SPECIFIC OPERATION REQUIREMENTS

Section 15.01 OPEN BURNING

No person shall ignite, cause to be ignited, permit to be ignited, or suffer, allow, or maintain any open outdoor fire, unless they are otherwise exempt from the application of this Code, or have obtained a variance pursuant to Article 12 of this Code and have a valid fire permit from the Fire Chief of Charlevoix Township. Under no circumstances shall any open outdoor fire permitted by this Code or the Fire Code contain tar, asphalt or rubber products.

Section 15.02 HEAT TRANSFER OPERATIONS

No person shall cause, let, permit, suffer, or allow any emission from any heat transfer operation which does not comply with the emission limitations provided in Article 14. Every person responsible for an emission covered by this section shall have and maintain means whereby the operator of the equipment shall be able at all times during the operation to know the appearance of the emission.

Section 15.03 GENERAL COMBUSTION AND GENERAL OPERATIONS

No person shall cause, let, permit, suffer, or allow any emission from any general combustion operation or general operation which does not comply with the emission limitations provided in Article 14.

Section 15.04 INCINERATION AND SALVAGE OPERATIONS

No person shall cause, let, permit, suffer, or allow any emission from any incineration operation or salvage operation which does not comply with the emission limitations provided in Article 14. Every person responsible for an emission covered by this section shall have and maintain means whereby the operator of the equipment shall be able at all time during the operation to know the appearance of the emission.

Section 15.05 INCINERATOR CONSTRUCTION STANDARDS

Notwithstanding Article 9 of this Code, construction of any article, machine, equipment, or contrivance for incineration or salvage operations shall be in accordance with standards set by the Incinerator Institute of America's code as of the effective date of this Code, and the National Board of Fire Underwriters Pamphlet No. 82 as of the effective date of this Code, three copies of each of which are on file in the offices of the township supervisor.

Section 15.06 EXCEPTION TO INCINERATOR CONSTRUCTION STANDARDS

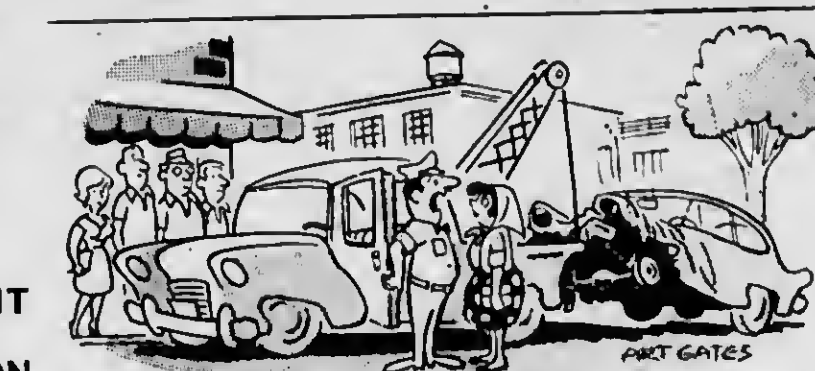

Any article, machine, equipment or contrivance for incineration or salvage operations in existence and in normal operation on the effective date of this Code which does not meet the standards of Section 15.05, but does meet the standards provided in Article 14, Sections 14.01 and 14.03, then it will be deemed to be in compliance with Section 15.05.

ARTICLE 16. EFFECTIVE DATE

Section 16.01

Camp Charlevoix Corrall Chatter

By KEN SMITH

CAMP CHARLEVOIX started its 40th season on Saturday, June 19th when boys from many states and foreign countries arrived to make this another great season at this nationally-known camp. Boys came from Venezuela, and from Panama City, and from California, New York, Florida, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New Jersey, West Virginia, and Michigan. Campers arrived all day via train, plane, car and boat, and it was great to see these boys renewing friendships that they started a year ago. Many of the parents saw the camp for the first time, and they were greatly impressed with its beauty as Barney, our camp manager for the last 19 years, had the grounds carefully groomed and the flower beds were in perfect condition. Those who came by car, marked on the horses at the stables, especially the four new colts that were born to Camp Charlevoix mares this spring. These colts add much to the excitement around the barn.

After our first meat together, dinner at six, several cabins had athletic contests against other similar cabin groups. This is always a source of much fun. Later in the evening, the traditional opening night pillow fights were held in the club house. The object of this is to knock your opponent off the log which is hung by rope about four feet off the floor so that it is moving when the two boys are on it. It is a very exciting event, and the following are the results: Van Martin, E. Lansing, beat Bob Moore, Port Huron; Brad Mast, Grosse Pointe, beat Nick Williamson, New York City; Skip Sales, Grosse Pointe, won over Phil Hayes, Dayton; Stuart Strain, Dearborn, beat Chris Hutton, Birmingham; Robert Weber, Louisville, Ky., beat Skip Claudon, Canton, Ill.; "Geh" Bushnell, Grosse Pointe, won over Jim Henderson, Springfield, Ill.; Jim Case, Columbus, Ohio, beat Steve Strain, Dearborn, Ron Scherer Grosse Pointe, tied with Jim Reichebach, Holt, Mich.; Stormy Holderman, Columbus, Ohio, won over Ken Mahab, Chicago. Tim Washburn, Detroit, and Dan Scherer, Grosse Pointe, tied. Bill Silver, Akron, won over Barry Hull, Grosse Pointe; Brian Ingersoll, Ann Arbor, won over Gary Hill, Grosse Pointe; Jeff Windsor, Mansfield, Ohio, beat Jim Huddleston, Indianapolis; Bob Smith, Toledo, beat Rick Gellett, Grand Rapids; Phil Sheridan, Dayton, won over Jim Chalal, Detroit; David Townsend, Lynn, Ind., beat David Williamson, New York City; Doug Ling, Kalamazoo, won over Ernie Kelly, Grosse Pointe; and Steve Upham, Mt. Vernon, Ohio, tied with Gary Fritchie, Dayton Ohio. It was a very exciting evening with the boys cheering loud and long for their favorites. At the end of the events, "Ken" taught the new boys the words to "Tape" and then the entire camp faced the west, and with the lights out, sang the traditional closing to all All-Camp events.

On Sunday morning, early, we had a nice rain, just enough to dampen the ground. Chapel service was held in the "Bigwam" with Ken Smith as the speaker. He spoke on "Building a Reputation", extolling the boys to start now to build the kind of a reputation that will attract friends, and help them get much out of camping. In the afternoon, physical exams were held and three sections of boys, Preps, Intermediates, and Seniors, having ball games. The Juniors were taken on a hike, and they returned to camp very happy that they had seen more of the camp, and were gradually learning their way around our 360 acres of woods. It was a very windy day, bright and sunny and warm, but the lake was too rough for the swim tests, which were postponed until Monday.

On Sunday about six o'clock, a had storm hit here and the whole countryside was without electricity. We had our Sunday night supper with candles on all the tables, and several of the boys and staff suggested that it might be a nice gesture to eat our Sunday night supper by candlelight every week, so we are going to try this and perhaps a few Camp Charlevoix tradition might be in the making. The entire camp met in the "Bigwam" for their Vesper Service. Ken Smith at the piano and Ace Hoyt plus several counselors led the boys through many camp songs. Dick Wright, the camp tutor, spoke on "Sportsmanship" and gave the boys much to think about.

We say "welcome" to the new families whose sons are coming to Camp Charlevoix for the first time, and to those whose sons have been at the camp before, we say "it is good to see you again". We have a camp song that expresses our feelings very well: "Once again we come together in this sacred place".

GIANT MOREL--Mrs. William Haggard found this 6 1/2 inch high morel in her backyard last week. It measured 14 inches around the top and weighed a half-pound. She speculates it must have weighed as much as two pounds when it was in season; when she found it it was dried out. "It serves me right," she said, "I should have started weeding the flower beds sooner and I would have found it."

Time to Enroll for Summer Recreation

Recreation director Deano Davenport announced procedures to follow to enroll in the free instructional programs offered to the public as part of the City recreation summer program.

Swimming enrollment should be completed by June 30. Lessons will start July 5 and will again be offered in the mornings at the Depot beach. It is important that youngsters indicate if they have earned certificates in previous course offerings so that they can be placed at their proper skill level. Those that enroll will be notified as to the time and days of their lessons. Waterfront director Joel Arvilla will head up the program aided by Kathy Seidle.

Those wishing to enroll in the golf school should do so by June 27. Lessons will be one hour sessions and will be offered in the morning. Deano Davenport will be the instructor.

Tennis classes will be handled by Don Nowland and the deadline is also June 27.

Michael Gibbons Gets Law Degree

Michael A. Gibbons was graduated from Wayne State University college of law in Detroit with the degree of Juris Doctor.

He is a graduate of Aquinas College, Grand Rapids, having received a B.A. in English Literature in 1962. He was graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1956.

GIBBONS HAS accepted a position on the legal staff of Michigan Mutual Liability Co. in Detroit.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Gibbons of Charlevoix and is married to the former C. Marilyn Neff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Neff.

Classes will be held at the school tennis courts.

Mr. Davenport again stressed the importance of enrolling in the classes early as the growing popularity of all instructional programs may cause a quota to be placed so that instruction can remain at a high level.

CMU Study On Islands To Continue

A Central Michigan University biologist has received a grant from Sigma Xi, national science honorary society, to continue his study of population control of small mammals on Beaver Island.

Dr. Larry D. Caldwell, assistant professor of biology at Central, intends to use the $250 grant to carry on his research on rodent population at Beaver Island this summer. He began his current study there last summer at Central's biology institute.

DR. CALDWELL'S research is concerned with studying the natural factors which determine the general distribution of animal species. Such factors as presence of other species in a given area and interaction between and within species are believed to affect population control.

On Beaver Island, Dr. Caldwell is working mainly with such woodland rodents as the deer mouse, shrew and vole. He has found these rodents to be widely distributed in all habitats on the island where there is little competition from other species. On the mainland, where interspecies competition is greater, the woodland rodent population is less widely distributed.

Dr. Caldwell joined the Central staff in 1961. He received his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Michigan State University and his Ph.D. from the University of Georgia.

Les Johnson Retires As Telephone Manager

C. Lester Johnson, manager in the Petoskey area for the Michigan Bell Telephone Company for the past 39 years, will retire Aug. 1 after nearly 41 years with the firm.

Kenneth T. Harrold, Sr., who has been on special assignment in Petoskey since last October, has been promoted to succeed Johnson, who will begin a month's vacation July 1.

JOHNSON WILL go from managing telephone company operations to overseeing 180 acres of Scotch Pine trees. "I'll be pruning and shaping Christmas trees on my 20 acres in Harbor Springs," he said. "I also will look after 160 acres of trees for a friend."

Johnson, who got into the business of raising Christmas trees as a hobby, has long been active in community affairs. He is secretary of the board of trustees of Little Traverse Hospital and is vice president of North Central Michigan College, which he helped organize. He also is a member of the Petoskey Rotary Club and has worked on Community Chest drives.

JOHNSON WILL be honored by fellow employees and friends at a retirement party Thursday, June 24 at the Chalmers Corner in Petoskey.

Harrold started with Michigan Bell in 1941 as a cable splicer's helper at Flint. He served three years with the U.S. Army during World War II and returned to Michigan Bell where he held several plant craftsman jobs.

Hundreds of Loons Found Killed From Eating Shad

BEAVER ISLAND -- Hundreds of dead loons were discovered on the beaches of Beaver Island this spring, Karl Kuebler reports.

Kuebler, a deputy sheriff and veteran Conservation Dept. law enforcement officer on the island, said he found the dead loons on the north beaches of the island.

LOONS ARE treasured by many nature lovers as a symbol of wilderness. As such, they hold stature only slightly below the timber wolf.

Loons are becoming rarer in northern Michigan. Due to this the Beaver Island die-off this spring may be considered a major tragedy, Kuebler explained.

He blamed the loon deaths on their eating alewives (shad). According to Kuebler, small, sharp bones in the alewives cut the loons' throats. He said blood marks on the outside of their throats revealed this is what killed them.

Rabach, Graham Say County Doesn't Need Home Rule Law

Charlevoix County government is not in need of the streamlining and professional administration provided for by a proposed law to authorize county home rule.

County Board of Supervisors Chairman Hugh Graham, South Arm Township, and Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach both expressed this opinion last week.

HOWEVER, neither of them opposed the bill that is being considered by the State Legislature.

Rabach said that if the Legislature passes the bill it will not make it mandatory for Charlevoix County to adopt home rule government.

Home rule government would not go into effect here unless the Board of Supervisors, or voters, wanted it to, he explained.

Five-percent of the county's voters would have to petition to have the proposition to create home rule government put on the ballot before it would be considered. Then the majority of voters could defeat or approve the proposition.

OR THE BOARD of Supervisors could put the question on the ballot without a petition requesting it be done.

Should voters approve home rule, a commission would be named to write a charter (constitution) establishing individual ground rules for county government.

Pollution

The ordinance does not specifically mention Medusa. However, it was drafted after a campaign by citizens, the City Council and Courier calling for laws that will assure the community Medusa will not endanger the tourist trade by polluting the air.

The ordinance was drafted by Michigan Department of Health technicians in cooperation with Medusa.

THE TOWNSHIP is now measuring air purity in the area to give it a basis for analyzing Medusa's effect on the air.

Air filter stations have been set up in several locations, Rabach said. These catch dust and, with a filtering system, give the State an accurate measurement on the amount and type of impurities now in the air near Charlevoix.

ling the air filter stations and sending his findings to the Health Dept. in Lansing.

Loder will also administer the new ordinance and the building permit.

Rabach said Medusa and the township have not agreed on what the building permit will cost. However, he expects it to be several thousand thousand dollars to cover all costs.

Audit Reveals City Still is Plenty Sound

One of those things observers have come to accept as being inevitable as taxes was proven again Monday evening. City auditor Darrell Dinwiddie, of Dinwiddie and Kant, Petoskey, revealed—to absolutely no one's surprise—that Charlevoix continues to be a financially sound municipality.

AFTER NEARLY four months of preparation, Dinwiddie presented the year-end (Feb. 28, 1965) audit of city accounts to councilmen.

The 40 page document has its high points and low points. But the high points far outweigh the low points.

(A summary review of the audit appears on pages 8 and 9 of this week's Courier. The complete document can be studied in City Supt. James Taylor's office.)

The audit revealed the city handled $918,359 during the year. Much of this was money the city merely collected and turned over to other agencies.

THE CITY'S general fund income for the year was $261,790; $12,990 more than anticipated in the budget.

This was largely due to an transfer of $61,000 in electric utility profits to the general fund.

Total general fund spending was $250,315; $1,515 more than budgeted.

Dinwiddie repeated his warning that the city is eating away its equity in the electric utility "little by little."

AS IN OTHER years, he did not find this cause for alarm. As long as councilmen realize they may not be able to rely on a large transfer to the general fund from the electric fund forever, Mayor E. D. Hawley has said when this day of reckoning comes the city will be prepared to meet it responsibly.

Dinwiddie pointed out more than 95% of current property taxes were collected in 1964. He termed this "excellent."

Little Support Seen for New Corps Easement Plan

Efforts by the Corps of Engineers to take the sting out of its request for easements along the Pine River Channel appeared destined for failure at Monday's City Council meeting.

Last week the Corps submitted a revised easement request to channel property owners.

THE NEW easement deed the Corps is asking landowners to sign calls for:

--A 25-foot wide right-of-way along the channel banks. (Previously the Corps had requested 50-feet.)

--The right to remove or destroy anything the landowner may have on this 25-foot strip, including buildings, shrubbery and trees.

--The right to "excavate, dredge, cut away and remove any or all of said land, and to place thereon dredge or spoil material."

--THE RIGHT to build whatever it deems necessary on the channel-front property.

For these concessions the Corps proposes to pay each property owner $1.

The revised easement is

The information center will open as soon as repair work is completed.

Freedom Rings

Charlevoix will participate in the nationwide "Let Freedom Ring" project, Mayor E. D. Hawley reports. Hawley has asked Charlevoix churches to ring their bells at 1 p.m. on July 4 in recognition of the signing of democracy's greatest manifesto—the Declaration of Independence.

The Lake Michigan shoreline near North Point was devoid of debris two weeks ago. Today it is a mess. The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Dept. estimates between 1,200 and 2,400 throw-away beer bottles and cans have been discarded along the North Point Beach area since June 12.

THAT'S 50 to 100 cases of empties.

On June 12 Ralph Doan led 50 volunteers to the beach to pick up litter. When they left there wasn't a beer can or bottle left to disgrace the area's rugged natural beauty.

Last Saturday evening—exactly two weeks later—the Sheriff's Dept. and State Police, acting on a tip, raided the beach area.

According to Sheriff Glenn Rose, when the two police cars pulled up on the road leading to the beach they found more than 25 parked cars.

"PEOPLE RAN in every direction," Rose said. "We didn't have enough manpower to handle a crowd that size... only two men."

Most of the parties scattered along the beach area and disappeared into the woods, Rose said.

"There's just no way we can adequately handle a situation like this," he added. "I've got four deputies working around the clock, seven days a week. Getting more than one out at a time is almost impossible.

"I'm going to ask my board (County Board of Supervisors) for more help...that's all I can do."

"WE KNOW these things go on, but as long as the board refuses to make it possible for us to control them we're helpless,"

Rose said neighbors in the North Point area are upset about the beach parties and litter. "And I'm upset, too!"

He added, "Deputies managed to identify 12 persons they believe were at the Saturday night party."

According to Rose and Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varnum they will be charged with disorderly conduct.

ROSE ADMITTED he would like to charge them with a more serious violation, but after consulting with Varnum doubts he could make it stick.

Both Rose and Varnum said they will recommend to the justice of peace that the 12 persons be ordered to completely clean up a five mile sector of the beach and area immediately behind it.

"In a couple of hours they undid everything that those kids (volunteers) did, I'm plenty mad!"

THE Ironton (Eveline no. 4) school district will be absorbed by the Charlevoix Public Schools and East Jordan Public Schools if there re-organization committee has its way.

In compliance with new State law, the committee, an arm of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, has recommended the Ironton district be dissolved.

THE NEW State requirement demands elimination of all non-high school districts and assigning them to high school districts.

The committee has come up with a plan to consolidate seven of the remaining eight rural schools in Charlevoix and Emmet counties with high school districts.

Ironton is the only remaining rural (non-high school) district in the Charlevoix area. Murray (Hayes No. 1) School consolidated with Charlevoix this spring.

The Ironton school had a 1964-65 enrollment of 15 students. State equalized property valuation was $1,071,142.

THREE YEARS ago Ironton district voters approved a bond issue and millage to construct a new school. The committee's recommendation did not deal with the future of the new building.

Intermediate district Supt. Charles Robinson said all tuition students from the Ironton District now going to high school will live in the Charlevoix portion of the re-organized district. Some of them now attend East Jordan High School.

Robinson said the committee's recommendation must receive State approval and then be submitted to voters before it goes into effect. He said public hearings will be held in the area.

The proposal, Robinson said, was designed with consideration for transportation and community ties.

HE ADDED the committee wants to measure public reaction before submitting the plan to the State.

The only other Charlevoix County non-high school district, Watton Lake (Melrose No. 5) will be divided between Petoskey and Boyne City.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill West have opened the Parkside restaurant on Round Lake for their 31st season.

End Nears For School In Ironton

PARKSIDE OPEN

Mr. and Mrs. Bill West have opened the Parkside restaurant on Round Lake for their 31st season.

The dining spot will again this season feature its popular pastries, baked goods and fine dinners.

HERE'S THE PROOF--Deputy Sheriff Joe Etienne poses with these empty beer containers up on the North Point (Mt. McSaubo) beach to dramatize the fact that between 1,200 and 2,400 such cans and bottles have been thrown along the beach area since it was cleaned up June 12 by volunteers. Sheriff Glenn Rose and Harvey Varnum say they will ask the court to order the offenders to clean up their litter.

Seek Citizen Help To Nab Hotrodders

City officials have joined with law enforcement agencies to urge citizen-support for efforts to curb teenager hotrodders in town and outlying rural areas.

City Councilmen, after several weeks discussion of the problem, have asked that citizens obtain license plate numbers of speeding cars and file formal charges against their owners.

MAYOR E. D. Hawley joined with Police Chief Joseph Smith to point out Charlevoix continues to be fortunate in that it has a relatively minor problem with unruly driving.

Compared to other communities, Smith and others report the majority of Charlevoix's drivers are extremely capable and responsible.

However, there are a handful of chronic offenders, Smith said.

These youths, Smith said, have developed a system for knowing where police are. Consequently they are able to avoid detection and arrest.

IF IT WERE not for the city's dependable, 24-hour, police patrols, Hawley pointed out the problem could become acute.

Mrs. Bruce Withers, who with her husband owns and operates the A&W Drive-In, last week took Smith's advice and filed formal charges against Michael J. Haver, 19, Clawson, Mich., for alleged reckless driving at the drive-in.

Haver plead not guilty and was released on $50 bond.

Teenage hotrodders are known to have several favorite "drag strips" in the county, he said.

Rose agreed with Smith and the City Council that the only way to control this hotrodding is through citizen's complaints.

RECEPTION FOR NEW MINISTER

Rev. Leona Windgarden, Charlevoix's new Methodist minister, will be introduced as the guest of honor at a reception Sunday, July 4, following services.

All members and friends of the Methodist Church are invited to attend.

MAY BAN PARKING

The Michigan Highway Dept. is expected to ask City Council to ban parking on Petoskey Ave. (US-31) in all but the downtown area.

For safety reasons, the highway dept. is reported to feel parking should not be allowed on either side of Petoskey Ave. south from Antrim St. to Carpenter and north from Michigan Ave. to the city limits.

THE PINE RIVER channel's sometimes exasperating combination of unpredictable current, narrowness and a tricky dogleg earlier this spring caught this large work barge and swung it around so that it first struck the south bank and then the north bank. It finally came to a halt here, laying against the north bank and got under way again, this time clearing the bridge.

DEADLINE WOES

There may be happiness and celebrating in the rest of town, but there can be little joy at the Courier office when a holiday rolls around on Monday, such as next Monday, July 5.

A Monday holiday means we lose the busiest day of our week. The only way we can make up for it is by asking our readers to get their news and advertising to us early.

So won't you please help make our Fourth of July holiday a bit more pleasant by calling your news in to the Courier by Friday at 5 p.m. and your ads in no later than Saturday Noon. The number is LI 7-6558.

Here's hoping all of our readers a happy Fourth... and remember, be careful on the road and water.

stops

tiny particles in gasoline
(before they stop you!)

What does the American FINAL/FILTER really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasolines pick up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER stops harmful contaminants right at the pump nozzle. If you use your car on the job (and even if you don't), stay out of trouble—fill 'er up filtered with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

You expect more from Standard and you get it!

Tornga-Klooster Rites in Atwood

Dear Dick,
Affair

Dear Dick: We had a going away party for my boss. After a few drinks, all the girls started kissing him. Just as my turn came, my husband walked in to drop off our car keys. I am in the doghouse. How can I get out?--EMBARRASSED.

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Bark for forgiveness. Even though innocent, it was a risky prank? Save your affectionate gestures for your husband. It's never risky dealing with PUFF'S APPLIANCE CENTER. Women all over this area love (name brand) refrigerators, washers and dryers almost as much as they love their husbands. You can't beat PUFF'S; prices for quality (name brand) appliances.--DICK.

ATWOOD--Judy Tornga and Allen Ray Klooster were united in marriage Friday, June 18, at the Atwood Reformed Church.

The double ring rites were performed before an altar decorated with yellow mums and white gladiolus.

THE BRIDE is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tornga. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Versille Klooster.

The groom's cousin, Bonnie Klooster, played the organ while Marvin Shooks sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Bridesmaids were Linda Tornga and Vicki Henderson, cousins of the bride.

Other attendants were Shirley Garen, Jerry Klooster and Steve Tornga.

SAMUEL VanderHelde was best man. Ushers were Roger Sizema, Gary Tornga and Larry Tornga.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wynsma were mistress and master of ceremonies at the reception that followed in the church. Serving were Pat Sizema and Dorothy Klooster.

Following a wedding trip to Kentucky the newlyweds are making their home at the former Nick Brock residence in Atwood.

Mr. Tornga is employed at the East Jordan Iron Works. Both are 1963 graduates of Ellsworth Community High School.

Father-Son Banquet Held

Forty fathers and sons attended the breakfast in St. Mary's School.

Father Gerald St. Francis Church, Petoskey, spoke about a good father - son relationship. Father E. F. Denay gave the benediction. Willis Peters was master of ceremonies.

Smorgasbord

The Little Flower Guild of St. Mary's Church will sponsor a smorgasbord dinner Sunday, July 11, in the school cafeteria.

The dinner will feature ham, turkey and Polish sausage, homemade salads, breads and pies.

Don Berg, MM2, is spending a 23-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Berg. He is stationed aboard the submarine, USS Archfish presently at Bremerton, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Schaefer of Maple City and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Weidenhoff and children, Laurie and Dale, of Marblehead, Ohio, visited last week with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Looze and other friends here. Mrs. Weidenhoff is the former Hazel Noonan who resided here at one time.

ENGAGED--Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Avery of Flint announce the engagement of their daughter Shirley Darlene to Raymond J. Schultz.

Mrs. Avery is a graduate of Flint Technical High School and attended Flint Junior College. She is employed by Buick. Mr. Schultz is a 1958 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a graduate of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology. He is employed by Chevrolet in Flint. A January 29 wedding is planned.

INDEPENDENCE

... that good old American brand. A "way-of-life" that was signed into being, July 4th, nearly two hundred years ago. Ah, for that memorable day, when in the course of human events... Liberty Was Born. Then let us, on this Independence Day, rededicate ourselves to this "hope-of-the-world-way" ... this way of life that guarantees for all men, Freedom, Equality and Justice. Give us an unyielding faith and supply us with genius that cannot err. Endow us with vital religious convictions to pilot our inherited ship of state. Let us always remember that the source of our freedom is The Book. Then Americans, don't forget to remember that, Music Was Born When Liberty Spoke. It is our Independence Day!!!

Circlin the Bases

with DEANO

The first week of action brought out some excellent pitching and a couple contests of lousy hitting. Defending champion, American Mold, could collect only three hits in two games yet they won them both. Meanwhile Lake Construction indicated they will be taught to handle as they rattled the fences with 16 hits in chalking up two impressive victories.

In the opener Sonny Wright and Nate Boss hooked up in a pitching battle with strike outs aplenty. Wright whiffed nine Mold batters while Boss sent 15 service men back to the dugouts shaking their heads. Mold scored two unearned runs in the third, just enough for a 2-0 win. Mold's Don Kowbell had the only hit off Wright. Boss allowed two.

Against the Merchants the Mold used the same tactics. They collected only two hits off Jack Ingalls but used five walks and a couple errors for 6 runs and a 6-3 win.

Lake Construction rang up two victories in easy style. Against the Air Force they romped around the basepaths for 13 runs in just four innings, beating the servicemen 13-0 behind Ted Potter's pitching. Several of the winners had two hits apiece but Steve Faculak had his two in the same inning, a double and a single.

USAF edged Oleson's 11-10, and they were happy to settle for the narrow win. They ran up an early 9-1 score and relaxed a little only to see Oleson fight back with seven fifth inning runs. The losers scored two more in the seventh before their rally fell short. Sonny Wright and Deward Hendrix hit home runs for the winners. Bob Holtzman hit two safeties in a losing game.

JUNIOR LEAGUE
Jerry's Gulf posted two wins to jump out in front in the Junior circuit. They defeated defending champion, Barnard, 8-5. Dan McKenzie had two singles and Tim Dohn and Ron Crandall each had important base knocks for the Gulf nine. Greg Seese had two in a losing cause.

Against A&W they scored in every inning for a 13-2 win. Steve Smith and Ralph Doan each collected two hits for the winners.

Freedman Aircraft notched an opening victory edging A&W 2-1 in a well played affair. Don Potter and Roger Lee combined for a 2-0 win. Freedman runs in the second inning. Chuck Pease accounted for the loser's run.

PEANUT LEAGUE
Several teams took impressive in the Peanut League. The Tigers and Cards posted impressive wins while the Braves edged the Dodgers.

The Cards needed nine innings before edging the Lions 4-2. Tom Bergman and Bob DeYoung put base hits together for the winning markers. Ron Weislik had a Lion home run.

The Tigers beat a good Cub team 10-6, scoring five times in the third inning. Bill Carey, Stewart Coleman, and Bob Gill each had two hits for the Tigers. Paul Fiedorek had a triple for the losers.

The Dodgers and Braves hooked up in a good contest. Lord hit a Dodger triple with the bases full to give the lead to the Red shirts. However, Jim Warner came right back to duplicate the feat for the Braves. The Braves hung on for the narrow 5-4 win.

Talk of the Town

Rev. and Mrs. Ted Louisselle and family and his mother, Mrs. William Louisselle Sr. arrived last week from Fort Wayne, Ind., to spend the summer at their Petoskey ave. home.

Denar Bodley was discharged from the U. S. Army at Fort Polk, La., recently after completing two years' service. He has arrived here to join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bodley.

The Rev. and Mrs. Harold E. Kohn have announced the sale of their cottage at Wide Sky Harbor on Lake Charlevoix to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Janssen who are moving here from Coruna to make their home. Mr. Janssen is here with the Special Education Division of the Charlevoix-Eminet Intermediate School Division of the Charlevoix-Eminet Intermediate School District.

Spencer Roof, who is stationed at Chesapeake, Va., with the U. S. Navy, visited briefly with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Roof, while in Michigan for his wife who was graduated recently from Central Michigan University and their son. They accompanied him East and will live at Virginia Beach, Va.

KIWANIS YOUTH LEAGUE
In the seven, eight, and nine year old league there was plenty of excitement. The black Sox defeated the Blue Sox in extra innings 16-13. The green Sox blasted the Red Sox 16-7. In this league, played every Tuesday and Thursday evening at 6:30, the boys hit the ball off a tee, and their antics have pleased the crowds viewing their contests.

BLOOPER LEAGUE
Novak's Insurance picked up where they left off last year by posting a 6-1 win over Boyne City. Bill Carey had two singles while Don Carey and Bill Lusk chipped in with doubles.

Consumers came from behind to beat Ken's Dodge Service 8-5. Dziedzic paced the winners with three straight hits while Ken Empey duplicated the feat for the losers.

LINEDRIVES... New dugouts, bleachers, and fence brightened the local ball park... Sonny Wright's home run, the first of the season, won him a free shrimp dinner at the Argonne... Thirty teams in the program are a new record... Adult managers who have devoted their time to serve youth in our community should get some recognition. So here they are: Harvey Cole, Bill Seese, Jim Stewart, Lloyd Cummings, Del Terrili, Don Carey, Ed Lineo, Max Novak, Elden Potter, Bob Lieberman, Ralph Doan, Dave W., Jerry Goss, Ivan Whitley, Max Hosmer, Dave Novotny, Harold De Young, John Sladek, John Boss, Jim Alger, Norm Helms, and Fritz Puffpaft. A very impressive list, wouldn't you say???

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The first week of camp started off Monday morning with the boys being shown the different activity sites and given a short idea of the activity by the counselor in charge of that activity. The boys were all eyes to see the cowboys and the horses, and to hear about all the activities that are taught here at camp. At the evening meal the boys were given paper on which they made their choices for the week.

On Tuesday, the schedule got under way and the boys were busy starting to learn the activity of their choice. Wednesday morning the entire camp slept late, until 8:30 a.m. with breakfast at 9:15 a.m. as it was a rainy morning, and just a good one for sleeping in. After cabin clean-up, everyone met in the "Bigman" to see two movies, one being "The Road", put out by Ford Motor Company and it was very enjoyable. In the afternoon, as the sun was out, the activities were held. Immediately following supper, the Greens and the Greys met to choose their leaders for the season. These are great honors, as much depends upon the leadership of the chosen boy to lead in this competition that continues all through the camp season. The following boys were elected: The Junior Greens are captained by Van Martin, E. Lansing; and his Lieutenants are: Tim Washburn, Detroit, and Rick Kahn, Dayton. The Junior Greys are captained by Brian Sayles, Spring Lake, Mich., and his Lieutenants are: Dave Lutz, Spring Lake, Mich., and Bob Moore, Port Huron. The Prep Greens are led by "Skip" Sales, Grosse Pointe, and his Lieutenants are: George Lackey, Grosse Pointe, and Jim Case, Columbus, Ohio. The Intermediate Greens chose Ken Mahatt, Chicago, as Capt. and Seth Taylor, Dayton, and Fitchey Dayton, as Lieutenants. The Intermediate Greys chose Dave Washburn, Detroit, as Captain, and his Lieutenants are: Steve Orr, Grand Rapids, and Phil Sheridan, Dayton. The Senior Greens are to be captained by Jack Borden, Cleveland, with the Lieutenants being Dave Livingston, Columbus, and Iain Hamilton, Grosse Pointe. The Senior Greys are led by Jimmy Kuehn, Princeton, New Jersey, with Randy Turfs, Dearborn, and David Oberhelman, Cincinnati, as Lieutenants. This is a fine group of leaders, chosen by the campers, to lead them in all the camp competitions this summer. Wednesday evening was the start of the Green-Grey competition, with a "Capture the Camper" event. The campers are given five minutes to take off for the woods to hide, and the counselors are then sent out to find them. The teams getting the least number caught, get the points. After much running through the woods and the counselors doing a great job of finding the campers, two of the Sections were tied in the number of campers caught, but in the other two Sections, the GREYS won, thereby gaining a two point lead over the GREENS. Thursday dawned warm, bright and sunny, a typical camp day, everyone excited at being alive and happy at the prospect of another fine summer's day. Cabin 17, with Dick Wotterson as the counselor, took a horseback overnight to Bay Shore. The boys on this trip were: Phil Salvador, Rick Gillett, Tige Magnuson, Bob Smith, Bob Holderman, and Michael Fish. Don Strutz, cowboy, and Bill Gross, Assistant, went along as being in charge of the horses. In the evening, the Senior Section had a soccer game which the Greys won, bringing the score up to this date as: GREYS-3, GREENS-0. Friday was another beautiful day, with everyone enjoying their activities. "Skip" Sales, counselor of Cabin 18, took his boys on a horseback over night, with Don Flandt as cowboy, and Rick Tomkinson as assistant. The boys were: Fred Schultz, Mark Holderman, John Jelliffe, John Schable, Peter Poll, and Scott Cooper. On their first canoe trip down the Jordan River got under way, too. Bob Perry, our canoeing instructor, took his cabin of boys on this trip, the boys being: Jack Borden, Michael Kuehn, Jim Kuehn, "Red" Bushnell, Stuart Watterson, Jim Henderson. The Inspector from the State Social and Welfare Department was here. This is the Department that issues all licenses for camps, and after his tour of camp, he once again gave us a top rating.

On Saturday, the canoe trip and the horse trip returned to camp, all reporting a great overnight, cool, starry night, a great night to be out. In the evening, the Initiation Council Fire was held. This is the ceremony in which the new campers are challenged and initiated into the tribe of Charlevoix. The new boys are blindfolded and led by the old campers along a devious route to the council ring where Ken Smith, Bill Townsend, and several braves are waiting to welcome them and challenge them. The four challenges this year were very well presented. Dick Wright spoke on "The Awareness of the Camper in God and Nature". Grant Washburn spoke on "The Camper's Responsibilities to Himself and His Cabin Group". One of our cowboys, Herky Williams spoke on "What a Camper Should Get From His Summer at Camp". Tom Kennedy, Waterfront Director, spoke on "The Camper's Responsibilities to His Camp". All four challenges were very thought provoking and left the boys in deep thought. After these challenges were made, the new boys lined up in front of one of the braves who painted on the boys' forehead an Arrow "C". The entire camp faced the lake and sang taps, after which they walked silently to their cabins. It was a very fine ceremony, and many of the boys found it quite touching and thought provoking and most challenging. On Sunday morning the chapel service was held in our outdoor chapel. Grant Washburn was the speaker and gave a very fine talk on "Finding God In Camp". The camp photographer, Paul Gach, from Grosse Pointe arrived about noon and immediately set about to get camp pictures. Mr. Gach has been coming here for 18 years and is now a real part of the camp family.

At the noon meal, Assistant Counselors, Steve Wardrop and John Gillett put on a comedy skit, with John being the straight man for Steve. Wardrop's "Charlie Weaver" imitation. It was very funny and the boys enjoyed it. After the meal, the camp pictures were taken, some of them, and as it was a very hot afternoon, we had what we call a "Waterfront" afternoon. The boys swam, and just trolled around in the sand. Pictures were taken of the boys from the cliffs from which we draw our greatest number of boys, such as Grosse Pointe, Akron, Dayton, Grand Rapids, Columbus, Detroit, and Birmingham-Bloomfield Hills. In the evening, Vespers were held in all Sections. It hardly seems possible that the first week of camp has passed as everything has happened so fast and already several boys have expressed the idea that "Camp is going too fast". More next week.

A man bought insurance "much cheaper"
But of course he's become a light sleeper
For his claims, when they're paid,
Are all long-delayed
And he now knows "cheaper" is "steeper."

Coast Guard Auxiliary Out to Assist Boaters

By TOM LOEB

Commander, Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla

National Safe Boating Week has been proclaimed annually since 1957 by the President of the United States, and will be observed this year the week of July 4th through 10th.

Boating is America's favorite family sport, and with increasing numbers taking to the water for fun and recreation, a special effort must be made to call attention to the need to know and observe basic rules of common sense and courtesy afloat. Although America's pleasure boat fleet has grown to more than 7,500,000 vessels of all types, the number of boating fatalities has declined slightly in recent years. In Michigan, however, provisional statistics released by the State Police show an alarming increase in the first 5 1/2 months of this year over the corresponding period of 1964; 83 persons died in 104 accidents in 1965, as against 59 deaths in 74 accidents last year. This trend must be reversed quickly and sharply!

Group Charlevoix of the United States Coast Guard runs two safety patrols, one out of Charlevoix and one out of Mackinac Island, each of which patrols navigable waters in its area for six hours every Saturday, Sunday and holiday. Their mission is to increase boating safety, and in its furtherance they will stop and board any craft seen or suspected to be operating in an illegal or reckless manner, otherwise board to spot check the sufficiency of required safety equipment, and generally offer information and guidance to mariners.

Obviously, however, legislation and enforcement alone are not enough; safe boating must be PRACTICED by each and every skipper. Overloading is the most common cause of boating mishaps. Standing up in a small craft is another—if you must, move slowly and keep low. A teaspoon of gasoline has the explosive power of a stick of dynamite! A boat has no brakes.

Official statistics indicate that, although inexperienced boatmen are responsible for many mishaps on our waterways, a majority of accidents are caused by thoughtlessness on the part of seasoned skippers. This highlights the fact that promoting safety is a never-ending job.

During National Safe Boating Week make it a point to learn or review the "nautical rules of the road," to check your boat to be sure it is equipped properly and in accordance with regulations, and to renew your knowledge of good seamanship. Common sense, courtesy and alertness are the passwords to safe boating. And remember: SAFE Boating Is Fun!

Boyne Man is

State Farm

Representative

Boyne City State Farm Insurance agent Tom Smith has been assigned to cover the Charlevoix area. Philip J. Knapp, agency manager from Traverse City announced this week.

Knapp said Charlevoix State Farm policy holders should call on Smith for service and other needs.

SMITH HAS been the company's representative in Boyne City since 1962. He and his wife, Irene, and three children live at 320 Trent St., Boyne City. He will continue to maintain his Boyne City office.

Mayor Puts Emphasis On Boating Safety

National Safe Boating Week, July 4-10, has special significance for Charlevoix, Mayor E. D. Hawley said this week.

Hawley pointed out that Charlevoix is one of the pleasure boat capitals of Michigan. This, he said, makes it essential that safe boating be given uppermost consideration both by those who operate boats and those who are passengers in them.

A member of the Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla and a small boat owner himself, the mayor asked that anyone who is not familiar with safe boating rules and equipment either ask at a local marina or the Coast Guard group office.

Service men to Lose Hometown Paper Due To Chest Cutbacks

Effective July 1, the Charlevoix Service Organization will discontinue sending the Charlevoix Courier to all servicemen and women with the exception of those who are serving their first "hitches". Ralph S. Hamilton, CSO chairman, announced this week.

He went on to explain that increased demands on the Community Chest, through which the CSO receives funds to underwrite the cost of the Courier, plus increases in the price of newsprint and postage have made it necessary to make this cut-back.

AFTER THIS week's copy of the Charlevoix Courier goes in the mail only service men who are serving their first tours of duty, either through the draft or through enlistment, will receive the Courier without cost.

These are the people who still have ties with Charlevoix for, in most instances, they have been living at home until they entered the service, Hamilton continued.

On the other hand, men and women who have decided to make the service their career have, in most cases, married and established homes elsewhere.

"Though we have been happy to send the 'hometown' paper to all service people, the time has come when it is necessary to limit the funds to be spent for this project. By sending the Courier to servicemen who are in their first tour of duty, we can continue this service which does much to dispel homesickness for someone away from home for the first time, Hamilton said.

All career service people who are presently in the CSO mailing list will be informed in a personal letter of the action being taken. In the letter they will also be told that Charlevoix Courier Inc. will make the newspaper available to them at the cost of $4 per year, the local rate, as long as they remain in the service.

It Costs You $3.22 A Day To Operate Family's Car

The average Michigan motorist pays $3.22 daily to own and drive a car 28 miles, according to research statistics.

"Car owners in Michigan spend approximately $9 million annually on their automobiles," says Jerry E. Fisher, an auto manager.

"FOR MANY persons, a car is the largest daily expense after food and housing," he adds.

The information is based on the performance of a 1965 eight-cylinder standard car of the lower price class.

Yearly cost for driving 10,000 miles is set at $1,177. This is up $15 as compared with 1963, according to figures compiled by two independent research firms.

Expenses for gas, oil, tire and routine maintenance remain unchanged since the last report at 3.7 cents per mile. Fix costs -- depreciation, insurance and registration -- are up slightly across the nation.

The study separates car expenses into two categories, as follows:

1. Variable costs per mile (based on 10,000 miles yearly) -- gas and oil, 2.53 cents; maintenance, .68 cents; and tires, .44 cents. This totals a little over $1.01 daily or $370 yearly.

2. Fixed costs per year -- fire and theft insurance, $31; property damage and liability, $126; license and registration, $24; and depreciation, $626. This totals $2.21 daily or $807 yearly.

Motorists who travel 10,000 miles yearly spend 11.8 cents per mile. Travelling less than 10,000 miles yearly ups the cost per mile, whereas an annual mileage of 20,000 lowers it to 7.7 cents per mile.

Michigan car owners, however, pay less than the national average for car operation due to lower insurance.

Mrs. David W. Hardy and four children will arrive Sunday from Simi, Calif., to spend a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Versal Seymour. They will also visit her mother-in-law, Mrs. Richard Hull and Mr. Hull.

Outdoor Rambling

No one really knows what is going to happen to the Lake Michigan fish population. The lake's old status quo has been completely upset and it is impossible to predict the outcome.

Though not at the root of the problem, the lake's mushrooming alewife (shad) population seems to pose the most sinister question.

These conclusions are drawn from this column's recent built session with Dr. Howard Tanner, the Conservation Dept.'s new fish division chief.

TANNER, QUITE frankly, surprised this column with his immediate grasp of the alewife threat and his understanding of what's going on in the big lake. Most fisheries people I've talked to aren't interested in the alewife. And it doesn't seem that Tanner has been back to Michigan long enough to have studied this problem. But he has.

A native of Antrim County, Tanner, I found, is familiar with Lake Charlevoix and this area of Lake Michigan. And, quite refreshingly, he's interested in our area.

He realized the financial loss Charlevoix and Beaver Island suffered when the perch disappeared a few years ago. And he says he sees the alewife as a "very distinct threat to the perch sport fishery."

THE POSSIBILITY that alewives may be overwhelming northern Lake Michigan perch and competing with them for food and eating their spawn was first presented as no more than an "educated guess" by district fisheries chief Stan Lievense.

Stan's suggestion came after fish biologists have been scratching their heads in despair for nearly a decade trying to explain the disappearance of perch.

He was immediately seconded by local commercial fishermen, whom Stan and other biologists recognize are closer to the Great Lakes fish scene than they are.

The Lake Michigan fish population was thrown out of balance a few years ago due to the disappearance of lake trout from lamprey predation.

THIS OPENED the door for a complete upset. The alewife appears to have rushed through this open door mowing down everything in its way by sheer superiority of numbers.

Alewives, Tanner says, will eat everything and anything in an effort to sustain themselves. This includes small fish and spawn.

Tanner admits biologists don't know how far these salt water immigrants will go in completely dominating Lake Michigan or how fast. But he does predict that once they reach a population peak they will level off. He does not believe this peak has been reached.

Howard Tanner

If the alewife population doubled and remained at such numbers the result could be that Lake Michigan would be completely useless for sport and commercial fishing.

Tanner has no assurance that this won't happen.

HE POINTS out that four of the original seven species of chubs in Lake Michigan have already disappeared and two others are rare, with one remaining in abundance. Chubs, like alewives, are plankton eaters. They couldn't compete with the alewives.

Tanner doubts alewives will immediately interfere with efforts to stock young lake trout in Lake Michigan. He points out the stocked trout are too big for the alewives to eat and they live at different levels in the lake.

However, in six to eight years, when the trout are ready to reproduce, he foresees the possibility alewives will eat the spawn.

AT PRESENT, he explains, every kind of fish in Lake Michigan is eating alewives. If more gizzard shad species could be introduced (possibly striped bass) they might solve the alewife problem for us, Tanner says, without much conviction.

Sportsmen who are looking at the Conservation Dept. for a solution should keep in mind they are not yet forking over the money to pay for it. Great Lakes sport fishermen are not required to buy a fishing license. Bills to levy a Great Lakes sport fishing license are killed every year by the Michigan Legislature.

As someone pointed out the other day, it is worth noting that the department operates on a total budget of about $26 million and, for comparison, it costs an estimated $30 million just to build five miles of freeway.

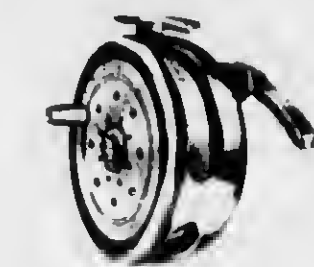

Tackle Notes

If you're a fly fisherman who has cursed spring-driven automatic reels for years this column has found a way to escape this plague.

I stumbled on it at Jack's Rod and Fly Shop in Roscommon. It's called the P & K Re-Treev-It fly reel. There are no springs to bolox up the works, yet it retrieves line in a flash.

THE TROUBLE has always been that spring-driven automatic reels slipped when you needed them badly to pick up a pile of loose line while trying to play a fast moving fish from a float boat or on a large stream.

Now the Re-Treev-It provides the fast line pick-up of an automatic without the constant threat of something going wrong. If you want to retrieve your line in a hurry all you do is gently pump an elongated trigger with your little finger and in it comes. If the fish should suddenly be pulling against this the drag takes over and out goes the line with no broken tipper.

THE SIMPLE mechanism cannot fail. There are no unpredictable springs to foul the works.

If there is no need to pick up line in a hurry you can use it like a single action. It's made of plastic, steel and aluminum, in a neat package that costs about $12. You can buy spare spools if you use several rods with different size lines and don't want to invest in, or carry, more than one reel.

For any fly fisherman who uses an automatic reel I recommend a Re-Treev-It. It is seldom that you can endorse a piece of equipment with ab-

We Still Have Fears

AS MUCH AS we would rather not have to say it, the Courier cannot avoid raising some questions about Charlevoix Township's new ordinance to prevent air pollution from the plant Medusa Portland Cement Co. will soon start construction of on South Point.

Our doubts -- and even fears -- in no way stem from lack of trust in Charlevoix Township officials or the cement company. We have repeatedly gone on record as feeling these people are sincere in their efforts to protect and preserve our beautiful Charlevoix.

NOR DO WE question that the ordinance can do the job. It is, of course, too highly technical for laymen to thoroughly understand. But our limited understanding of such documents leads us to believe this is a good one.

However, we are not so naive as to believe a piece of paper will do the job. A law is only as good as the enforcement and vigilance behind it.

Charlevoix Township Supervisor Clarence Rabach told the Courier the township will rely on Medusa and its agents to report on whether the plant's smoke emissions are the required 99.4% pure.

Months ago the Courier warned that a township, with its limited financial resources, would not appear capable of policing and enforcing such a technical problem. Rabach's statement appears to confirm our fears.

AS MUCH FAITH as we have in Medusa, we are not willing to put all of our eggs in their basket when the stakes are our beloved Charlevoix.

We do not have a simple, guaranteed solution to the always present possibility the cement company will someday find it economically advisable to cheat on the ordinance's strict regulations.

We do, however, suggest that citizens remain always alert to this possibility and not sit back feeling secure that the township is doing a thorough job of looking after its interest. If it appears our air is being polluted citizens must demand that the ordinance be enforced and that the township, somehow, find the funds to test the purity of the plant's smoke.

We Repeat Ourselves

OCTOBER 10, 1963 the Chamber of Commerce had a new secretary-manager. This month it has another new manager, Archie Dayton.

Dayton, a man with a proven record of success in such ventures, inevitably will upset a few people because he will make changes.

CONSEQUENTLY WE believe it is fitting to repeat an editorial that appeared in the Oct. 10, 1963 Courier. The following, with a few minor changes to update it, is the editorial we wrote then.

"New ideas pursued with enthusiasm and perhaps, a dash of daring, are bound to unnerv a few people who find it easier to cling to the tried -- but seldom proved -- way of doing things.

"For this reason, we suspect the Chamber of Commerce's new manager, Archie Dayton, is bound to run into some opposition.

Our Beaver Island Views

HAVING RECENTLY stolen a few days for vacation, the Courier's editorial writer has several fresh thoughts on Beaver Island that warrant public attention.

Number one, we feel all Charlevoix County citizens should be concerned about the hardship pressed on islanders by the State's new driver's license program. Travelling to the mainland and then to East Jordan creates a problem for island motorists that amounts to discrimination.

GETTING TO East Jordan or Petoskey from St. James means loss of a complete day and from $12 to $25 for islanders. We can find no way to justify this. It is completely unreasonable.

Perhaps the only solution is special legislative action setting up an exception for islanders. But whatever it is, a solution should be found and is the responsibility of the County Board of Supervisors and State Legislature to find it.

Whenever we think of the island we are amazed at its outstanding job of promotion. Continually we find magazine and newspaper articles telling of the island's wonders. These, of course, are all justified, but would not materialize if islanders were not busy getting writers to their tiny gem and selling them on its resources.

WE MUST ALSO applaud the island on the pleasure boat docks that are being constructed. You can count on it, the State didn't just stop in one day and ask Beaver Island officials if they would like new docks built. No, it took foresight and determination on the part of islanders to get the State to approve the plan and pay for it.

And now we get to a note from the island that alarms us. Hundreds of loons are reported to have died on the islands this year due to eating alewives (shad). The loon is a bird of the wilds, one that cannot stand the encroachment of civilization. Consequently, they are becoming all too rare. So let us hope this will spur the Conservation Dept. into more active efforts to curb the alewife problem.

Why Not Try Ellsworth Day?

ELLSWORTH DAY, Sunday, July 3, should not be overlooked by Charlevoixians and other area residents. Smalltown festivities such as this always prove to be fun.

And doesn't Ellsworth Day present an exceptionally appropriate time for its neighbors to get familiar with the small town and its people?

ELLSWORTH FOLKS, we have found, feel strong ties to Charlevoix. If you will take time to visit with Ellsworth people it's a sure bet you will feel just as strongly about them.

There couldn't be a better time than on Ellsworth Day. Treat your family and yourself to an afternoon of fun and lasting pleasure in new acquaintances.

Our Girls Scouts Get Bonus

LAST WEEK'S outstanding picture spread by Sam Carlisle on Charlevoix Girl Scout Camp activities that appeared on page 1 of the Courier prompts us to, once again, applaud those who restored the camp property so that it is again useful.

Led by Don Brown and a handful of volunteer mothers and fathers, the work force sacrificed its weekends, and in some cases contributed money, to make the camp suitable for camping. If it had not done this indications are the Girl Scout council out of Traverse City would have disposed of the property.

As we have said so often, this is the kind of community responsibility that makes Charlevoix a wonderful place to live, work and play.

What a difference a year makes. . . In 1964 the Michigan Amateur golfers teed off in a gale out of the southwest with the temperatures in the low 40's. . . Last week the temperature was in the mid-60's but it was overcast with a brisk wind blowing out of the west and it was wet. . . after an all night rain. . . which everyone, but the golfers, appreciated. . .

Seems golf is fast becoming the national pastime. . . and, while it once was considered the game for those who were capable of no more strenuous exercise, it has, to a great degree, been taken over by the younger people who are mighty fine golfers. . . That is why there were so many new faces in last week's tourney. . . they've replaced the older players whose names have been familiar for some time. . .

As you know, there were 224 entries in the tournament. . . but if the time ever comes when the city has a second 18-hole golf course, there'll be many more. . . A move has been made in that direction with the acquisition of a couple pieces of property north of the present municipal course. . . With more and more people chasing the little white ball around every year, there'll soon be a time when we need the longer course. . . And I'm hoping it won't be too far in the future. . .

THOUGH THEY'RE on the down-grade now, haven't you enjoyed the Hawthorn trees around the community? They are so lovely and every year when I see them I thank those early residents of our community who had the foresight to plant them. . . I'm sure that they never dreamed that we'd be enjoying the results of their labors many generations later. . .

All this brings me to a subject dear to my heart. . . Whether it will come under the work of the planning commission or whether a special committee should be named to look into it, I don't know. . . but I'm all for starting a program to replace the trees that are dying for various reasons. . . and to plant some flowering shrubs and other decorative trees and shrubbery around the town. . . It's a program that could be carried out over a period of time and would add a great deal to the beauty of our community. . . How about it? . .

YOU'VE BEEN hearing about the wildlife moving into town. . . what with the porkeys calling at the bank and the raccoons running around Park ave. . . Mrs. Clara Walker, who lives out on the corner of Lincoln ave. and Lake St., saw an even larger specimen in her yard at 5 a.m. one morning recently. . . a deer, grazing in the yard as though he belonged there. . . She said it wandered around the neighborhood as though it was a regular visitor. . . Could be for how many people are in the habit of getting up at 5 a.m. . .

WE THINK the mystery of the 1953 Venetian Queen, that has created so much interest, has been solved. . . You remember that the Chamber of Commerce had a line on everyone for the past 20 years but that one. . . After scanning copies of the Courier for the months of June and July for that year, after talking with Dr. Walter Hoffmann who was M.C. that year and after receiving a letter from Mrs. Keith Evans, the former Gail Krahnke, who was the '54 queen stating that she could not remember receiving her crown from a former queen, we've come up with the conclusion that was the year that didn't boast a queen. . . The search has been carried on through this column and by Bob Humphries and Mrs. Edward Linse. . . We'd like to thank all of you who helped in the six weeks of sleuthing. . . Incidentally, I've been told that more and more of the former queens are finding that they can attend this year's festival so you will be in for quite an influx of royalty. . .

TELL BOB NEFF you like the new front on his building. . . the Courier that you like their new shrubbery. . . the Murdicks you like their attractive new building. . . to name a few. . . I don't care what you say but say something. . . I've confidence, however, that in regard to this type of thing you'll voice the admiration you've been thinking but never taken the time to relay to the people concerned. . . Added to that, you'd be surprised how good it will make you feel. . . And while we're on this bit, I'd like to thank John Schroeder for his new clock on the corner. . . It's the handiest thing to see just how late you're going to be for that meeting. . . But truly I think it's a real asset to the business district. . .

ARCHIE LIVINGSTON at the desk that has served him for 52 years at the Charlevoix County State Savings Bank. On the wall, always in view, are pictures of the Charlevoix he has served during those five decades.

Bank's Confidence As Strong As Ever

News item...The Charlevoix County State Bank celebrated its 60th Anniversary Friday, June 25, with free coffee and cake and souvenirs for its patrons and friends. The bank originally received its State charter on June 26, 1905.

Things were different 52 years ago when Archie Livingston came to Charlevoix as an assistant cashier at the State Savings Bank in 1913. The bank then was eight years old and only the year before had moved into its new home at 217 Bridge St., where it is still located.

IN THE ENSUING five decades just about everything has changed. About the only things that remain from 1913 are the building, an oak desk, Archie and the bank's confidence and loyalty to Charlevoix.

Of these only the institutions dedication to Charlevoix the Beautiful hasn't changed. Archie, of course, has grown older--he's now 75--and wiser. He's no longer drawing cashier's pay, he and his family own controlling interest in the bank and he is its president.

Though Archie's still using it, even the large, seven-drawer oak desk has changed. A few years ago Archie had it refinished and took about eight inches off the top that he used to build a small shelf beside the desk.

THE BUILDING was completely remodeled in 1955, for the bank's 50th Anniversary. Then two winters ago a red, steam heated sidewalk was added, making it possible to advertise as the "Bank with the friendly, warm red sidewalk."

Archie recalls that building the sidewalk came as something of a sudden inspiration. "It was the talk of the town for a while," he remarks.

The most obvious evidence of the changes at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank are reflected in its assets over the years. In 1905 the bank had assets of approximately $30,000. By the time Archie came to Charlevoix in 1913 they were in excess of $200,000. In 1940 assets totaled $365,184. Then came 1950 and assets were just shy of a million dollars, at $906,677. By 1955 the million-dollar mark had been surpassed and assets stood at $1,226,642. Five years later, in 1960, assets were $1,808,744. By December of 1964 they were $2,489,371 and four months later, in April of this year, they were up to $2,845,834.

IN THE BANK'S early days, Archie recalls, Charlevoix counted on tourists, of course, but the large fishing fleet and many small farmers helped stabilize the economy.

BANK TELLER Gertrude Curtis operates one of the new electronic machines that has sped up bank operations. This machine will endorse and photograph 500 checks a minute.

SPLENDID BANKING HOME. The Charlevoix State Savings Bank of Charlevoix is now doing business in its handsome new banking home. Western Michigan boasts of a large number of beautiful banking houses, and that of the Charlevoix State Savings ranks with the best of them. It is the most artistic building in Charlevoix and is a distinct addition to the business district of that progressive town. The new building is a substantial appearance, reflecting the institution's devotion to the use of the bank. It is provided with every modern convenience for the transaction of business and the comfort of its patrons has been especially catered to. Provision has been made for future growth, a feature that is very necessary in view of the rapid strides the bank is making.

Stone, cement, brick and marble have been used with telling effect. An extremely beautiful front entrance is flanked by massive columns of Bedford stone. Passing through a vestibule, which gives one an inkling of what is to come, one enters the main banking room, which is approximately 22x45 feet in dimension.

Farming was quite important he recalls. Though the farms were small they were prosperous and the farmers' had good credit. Today farming and commercial fishing are very minor factors in Charlevoix's economy. Tourism still plays a major role.

However, as much as the old timers might miss the farms and fish traps, Archie points out there is no doubt Charlevoix's economy is healthier than ever. Small industry has made it so.

IT WAS IN 1935 that Archie took over the bank's top position. "I was rather hesitant to take that responsibility," he remembers. In 1961, following the death of longtime president Harry A. Craig, Archie became president.

In 1945, after returning from Army duty, Robert Livingston, Archie's son, joined the bank. He is now cashier. Assistant cashier is Dorothy Dixon. Other members of the staff are tellers Gertrude Curtis, Elaine Martin and Doris Hayes.

DIRECTORS ARE Edward K. Shanahan, vice president, Archie, Robert, Edward J. Edwards, and Donald Coulter.

In the last few months the bank has installed approximately $8,000 worth of new electronic equipment to speed up services and make them more efficient.

Archie points with pride to several of Charlevoix's businesses, explaining they got their start with loans from the bank with the friendly, warm red sidewalk.

There has been risk involved in some of these loans, Archie admits. But Archie was willing to take it due to his confidence in Charlevoix and its people.

CHARLEVOIX, AND the State Savings Bank, Archie is confident, can look forward to a prosperous future.

The sturdy oak desk looks like it is good for another 60 years.

DOROTHY DIXON, assistant cashier, and Cashier Robert Livingston wait on a customer.

Gets New Coordinator Big Rock Info Center

Charles F. Englund of Flint, has been named coordinator of Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant public information center, succeeding P. Dennis Custer, of Petoskey.

Englund, who has been with the company's Flint division, is gradually assuming his new duties under Custer's guidance. About July 1, Custer will go to Flint in the company's marketing department as a power sales assistant.

BOB D. HILTY, Northwest division manager for Consumers Power, said the public information center, which attracts an average of 70,000 visitors a year, is now on its seven-day-a-week summer schedule, with additional staff assigned to help accommodate the public at the nuclear plant site, just north of Charlevoix.

Custer has been coordinator at Big Rock Point since March 1964, when he succeeded Alun Bevan, now of Alma, with whom he had worked for several months. He has been with Consumers Power since his graduation from college in 1961. Englund is a native of Vineyard, Alabama, and is a graduate of Western Michigan University. He joined Consumers Power in Jackson as a general safety assistant in 1955, and in 1956 went to the Flint division, first as a personnel assistant and later as training coordinator on the division staff.

Artistic Freedom Brings New Burden

The freedom of the artist in our society has increased and this has complicated his responsibility, says Robert Igehart, chairman of The University of Michigan department of art.

"During the Renaissance, artists complained about the whims of patronage but by the end of the last century they had no patrons to complain about," he says.

"THE KINGS, popes, and great families were in reduced circumstances and the clear tradition—political, social and religious—were weakened," he says. "In western nations an almost universal literacy joined with the camera to remove the need for literary illustration."

But the artist didn't disap-peer. "One of the rather annoying and embarrassing facts about artists is that they will continue to produce art whether anyone wants it or not," Igehart points out.

"Without patrons, artists had to set their own problems and find their own personal symbolisms. They were free to achieve quality. They were also free to be hungry and dispossessed in whatever picturesque ways they chose."

"In the past, the artist's patrons set the terms for him. In our time he has succeeded in enlisting the support of individuals and institutions who will buy his work on his own terms. But although this support has become steady and generous, it does not fulfill the traditional place of official, religious or class patronage."

The artist will continue to set his own problems, determine his own traditions, and erect his own symbols, says Igehart. "As a result, his intellectual burden will become far heavier—at least in the case of the most serious and able."

Pork Chops Get Saucy with Soup Plus Seasonings

Like a sauce that makes it self? Then you'll like these pork chops which have a gravy-sauce as soon as they're finished cooking.

There's flavor a-plenty in this sauce, too, which uses half of a can of condensed cream of celery soup. Chilli and Worcestershire sauces are added for zip before pouring over browned pork rib or loin chops.

Serving pork chops regularly is a good way to get high quality protein and thiamine into the diet, claims Reba Stagg, noted meat authority. Pork is the richest natural source of this important vitamin which contributes to healthy nerves and good digestion.

Saucy Pork Chops
6 pork rib or loin chops cut 3/4-inch thick
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 can (10 1/2 ounces or approximately 3/4 cup) condensed cream of celery soup
1 cup chilli sauce
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 small onion, sliced
Brown chops in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Combine soup, chilli sauce and Worcestershire sauce. Pour over chops. Top chops with onion slices. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes to 1 hour or until done. 6 servings.

Ferris Grad
A resident of Bay Shore, Richard J. Johnson, was among the 983 Ferris State College students who received degrees or certificates at the June 13 commencement.

Johnson's field of specialization was heavy equipment and diesel repair. Jimmy Keie, 13, was a mighty proud young chap Monday afternoon. He came into the Courler office beaming with a 9 1/2 inch rock bass he had just plucked from Round Lake white fishing off the Charlevoix Lumber Co. dock.

Jack Radar Jr. In CG School

Coast Guard Officer Candidate Jack E. Radar Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Radar of 108 E. Dixon Ave., Charlevoix, is scheduled to graduate July 2 from the four-week Port Security and Law Enforcement School at the Coast Guard Reserve Training Center in Yorktown, Va.

He is learning how to protect ships and port facilities from sabotage and accidental damage in wartime. The course includes classes in safety inspection, riot control, harbor patrol, nuclear defense, fire fighting and law enforcement.

Michigan holds the record for milk produced by a single cow. In a 365-day period during 1951-52, a seven-year-old Holstein, "Green Meadow Lilly Pabs" of Green Meadow Farms at Elsie in Clinton county, produced more than 21 tons of milk.

HOLSTEIN HERD GETS SURNAME

P.H. Dany, Charlevoix, will have the exclusive use of the prefix "Maplewood-D" in naming all Registered Holstein dairy animals bred in his herd. Use of this prefix name has been granted by Holstein-Friesian Association of America; it also becomes a part of official breed records at the national headquarters in Brattleboro, Vermont.

ROY MEYERS--Prefers Rowboat

Ironton Postmaster Maps Strategy for Presidential Race

IRONTON -- If Roy Meyers ever runs for president he will rest his campaign on a promise to liberate all persons between 20 and 31 years of age from work.

Meyers figures this is the age at which people should not have to work. At this age they could enjoy temporary retirement most, he reasons. And he's sure such a campaign promise would win the election for him.

OF COURSE, Roy Meyers doesn't plan to run for president.

Nope. His big project these days is to retire himself. Roy's 62 years old and has been Ironton's postmaster for 31 years--since June 1934. There was a depression going full tilt in the big city (Detroit) where Roy had worked as a bus driver in 1933. He was at what he considers to be the right age for retirement, 30 years old.

Unfortunately, the president wasn't promising to pay living expenses for 21-to-31 year olds. So Roy had to find a job. There were none in the big city so he came north.

Ironton looked just about right to him. He decided to try planting some roots in the small community at the neck of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix.

A year later he opened his own gas station--grocery store-tourist cabin business. It was located across from the present Ironton School.

Joe Mosher was 80 some years old and he figured it was time to step down as Ironton's postmaster. Roy took the job and set up shop in his grocery store.

BY 1942 THE State had come along and changed the road to the present M-66 route. Roy packed up his gas pumps, canned goods and postal boxes and moved to the present Ironton post office site, directly across from the road down to the Ironton Ferry.

About 14 years ago Roy decided to slow down a bit so he retired his gas pumps and grocery counter.

In addition to running the post office for its 75 winter patrons and up to 400 summer patrons, Roy has kept busy at odd jobs for summer residents.

Now he's decided being busy for going on 60 years is long enough. The Post Office Dept. will have to find someone else to run its office in Ironton after July 30.

IN FACT AS he looks at the calendar and says, "That's the end of this month!" he sorta reminds you of a GI counting the days until his hitch is over.

The Post Office Dept. has asked for bids from persons interested in operating a post office there. Chances are, Roy says, the new post office will be located in an existing Ironton business and will be a sub-station of Charlevoix Postmaster Dan Genett's domain.

Don't get the wrong impression. Roy isn't really about having to work for a living.

He sits back in an easy chair and looks across the South Arm and between gentle swells on a pipe remarks, "I tell everybody I've got a million-dollar view at half the price."

"IT WAS A pretty good community then (1933) and still is," he says.

Many, if not most, of the people who were in Ironton in 1933 have moved or died. As the community's postmaster, Roy knows everyone and can just about tell you the names of their relatives and where they live. . . . even though he may have never seen them.

Ironton is reputed to have once been the largest town in Charlevoix County. It boasted an industrial complex made up of an iron smelting works and several charcoal kilns. Retail trade was so good there were five hardware stores and several saloons.

But this was all before Roy's time.

TODAY EVERYBODY has more money than they did when Roy moved to Ironton in the midst of the depression. There's no question about it, he admits, things are better.

But then he adds, three decades ago families moved to Ironton for the whole summer. Now they're so busy they only stay in their cottages two or three weeks.

So, if you look at it that way, maybe people aren't so much better off.

Fishing in the South Arm has also changed during Roy's time. The biggest trout ever caught was a 12 pound Mackinaw.

"WE USED TO be able to go trolling for two or three hours and be sure of getting a couple of nice trout; now you can troll for two or three weeks and be sure of not getting any," he remarks.

He agrees, however, that the smallmouth bass fishing is probably better than ever before.

Roy gave up deer hunting about 16 years ago. That year he bagged a buck and a doe in one shot over near Vanderbilt. "I decided that was a good record to quit on," he says.

One thing that hasn't changed in Roy's years as postmaster is the postal boxes used in Ironton. They were made in Chicago more than 100 years ago, he reports. If the new postmaster, whoever he is, wants them Roy is willing to sell them to him to keep this legacy in Ironton.

Roy Meyers

ROY AND HIS wife Minnie will keep busy around their Ironton home during the summer months and go to Florida for three or four months in the winter, he says.

Nothing real expensive, you understand. Roy doesn't favor fancy living.

"I'd rather have a rowboat than a yacht," Roy says. "If you have a rowboat you can always enjoy admiring the yachts. But if you have a yacht the only thing you can look at is the rowboats. . . there's not much fun in that."

Consumers Attacks REA Loan

Approval by the Rural Electrification Administration of loans totaling more than $12,000,000 to two Michigan electric cooperatives was challenged by B. G. Campbell, vice president of Consumers Power Company.

In a letter to Orville L. Freeman, secretary of agriculture, Mr. Campbell called the loan approvals "both shocking and surprising."

CONSUMERS Power Company has been supplying part of the power requirements of the two cooperatives--Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, of Boyne City, and Wolverine Electric Cooperative, of Big Rapids--which now plan to expand their generating and transmission facilities with funds borrowed from REA.

Mr. Campbell said Consumers Power has been negotiating for more than a year

Indicate Record Vacation Season

After nearly a month of sputtering the summer season boomed into high gear with a bang over the Fourth of July weekend. A safe bang.

Though there appeared to be some dissent from retail businesses, not specifically serving tourists, the general impression gained is that the weekend brought more vacationers to Charlevoix than ever.

MRS. JOE McPhillips, whose husband manages the Municipal Airport, said it was the "busiest weekend I can remember."

James Gallagher, manager of the Beaver Island Boat Co., said the company "never had a better four days."

Mrs. Robert Humphries, Chamber of Commerce secretary, said at least two summer shops reported their business was up over all previous weekends.

No vacancy signs were evident at most motels.

BIG ROCK nuclear plant information center coordinator Charles England said he believes a new attendance record was established.

On the negative side, Bob Lieberman, of Lieberman's department store and president of the Chamber of Commerce, lodged no complaints about the weekend business, but said it wasn't what he had expected.

Lieberman said he believes more people went through town than ever before, but questioned if as many stopped as businessmen would have liked to.

Police Chief Harbormaster Joseph Smith said high winds kept the public docking facilities from setting new records.

BOTH SMITH and Sheriff Glenn Rose reported there were no serious automobile or boating accidents. "We were lucky," Rose said in looking over reports from other northern counties.

"Everything on the Island was bursting," Gallagher said.

The ferry boat Beaver Islander, Gallagher reports, carried between 500 and 600 people during the long weekend.

A new record for number of vehicles carried was also set, he added. On one load there were 14 vehicles on the boat. At one time, Gallagher said, he had a backlog of 21 vehicles waiting for space on the boat.

AT BIG ROCK England said the information center registered 1,753 visitors on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The biggest day was Monday, 751 persons. Saturday 474 persons visited the information center and 528 more on Sunday.

Estimates are that more than 50 airplanes landed and took off from the Municipal Airport. Of these, 15 pilots registered.

Mrs. McPhillips said the log book doesn't give any where near an accurate record of the number of planes. "We don't catch a third of them," she said.

The Charlevoix City Band opens its weekly series of Summer "Concerts in the Park" tonight (Wednesday), 8:30 p.m.

Concerts will be presented weekly during July and August from the park stage in East Park, with all concerts beginning at 8:30 p.m.

THERE IS NO admission charge. The concerts are sponsored by the City of Charlevoix, although all members of the band are donating their services to make the concerts possible.

C. A. Odmark, director of the band, reports this year's group will be on a par with the bands of former years, numbering about 45 pieces, and including musicians from Charlevoix and surrounding communities.

In addition to the adult nucleus of the band and the high school bandmen who have been invited to fill in the sections for the winter rehearsals, the band has welcomed people from East Jordan and Petoskey, as well as returning students from several Michigan colleges and universities, including Northern Michigan University at Marquette, Ferris State College at Big Rapids, Central Michigan University at Mount Pleasant, and the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

The personnel of the band is not definitely set, but as soon as the roster is complete, announcement will be made.

The first concert, ushering in the summer season, will be patriotic in flavor, following as it does the July 4th holiday. Included will be such numbers as "Americans We" by Fillmore, "On the Mall" by Goldman and the "Stars and Stripes Forever" by Sousa, as well as the "The American Folk Rhapsody" by Grundman, and a selection of music by George M. Cohan.

Two Golf Tournaments In Offing

Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course manager Keith Carey is asking golfers to make reservations now for this weekend's first major tournament of the season.

A mixed two-ball foursome will be held Saturday, July 10, starting at 4:30 p.m. Persons entering should call the clubhouse immediately, L7-2171. You must have a partner to enter.

The annual city match-play tournament starts July 17. Entries for this tournament are now available.

Two flights have been added to the city tournament: One for boys 16-18 and the other for boys under 15.

PLAYTIME

It's PLAYTIME in the great northland. And there's more PLAYTIME fun in Charlevoix than anywhere else in this vast vacationland.

To report the fun of summer in the Charlevoix County area the Courier next week will publish a second newspaper called PICTORIAL PLAYTIME.

This means regular Courier subscribers will get two papers every week for the rest of the summer, the summer edition on Monday and the regular Courier on Wednesday.

PICTORIAL PLAYTIME will tell vacationers where to go and what's doing in the Charlevoix area. Thousands of copies will be distributed by motels, restaurants, service stations and other businesses.

IRONTON RESIDENTS HAVE received their mail for 100 years from the post boxes Roy fills. The boxes date back to now nearly forgotten days when Ironton was reputed to be the largest community in Charlevoix County (with the possible exclusion of Beaver Island). If the new postmaster wants them Roy has agreed to pass this legacy on to future generations of Irontonites.

WITH SHEP

When the detectives gather all the facts they may find that the much idolized Michigan whitetail deer is, after all, a lousy culprit and bully.

Sort of shatters the image, doesn't it? But it looks like that's the way the story shapes up.

JACK COOK, Conservation Dept. wildlife biologist, and a crew of Beaver Islanders are checking out this grisly story on Garden Island.

Jack leaked out this so far sketchy information gained from research (detective) work on the uninhabited island directly north of Beaver Island.

Working under a federal grant, Jack and other biologists from the Conservation Dept.'s Houghton Lake Research Station, have got a line on what they believe to be several important breaks in the story of Michigan wildlife.

A fulltime crew of workmen and biologists is stationed on the island, with quarters in a woods cabin on Garden Island Harbor. All of the men, except the biologists, are Beaver Island residents. Pealme Township Supervisor John Connaghan is foreman of the work crew.

BUT WHAT about this incriminating case Jack says he is building against deer?

Well, it seems Garden Island has an abnormally healthy grouse, snowshoe hare (rabbit) and fox population. Why should there be so many birds and rabbits? The cover and food isn't any different than many mainland areas.

But there is one major difference between Garden Island and mainland areas with the same kind of vegetation and weather--the island has a relatively small deer population.

So, this tends to suggest deer may be a limiting factor in grouse and rabbit populations.

CONSIDERING the ideal cover, food and weather of Garden Island, High Island and Beaver Island, the deer herd is relatively small on all three compared to mainland areas with the same conditions.

Yet on all three islands the rabbit and grouse population is high. In fact Beaver Island bird and rabbit hunters are probably the most successful in Michigan.

This is not to say the deer hunting on Beaver Island isn't good. It also ranks as just about the finest in the Midwest. But this is true largely because the department can control the herd on the island so that there are always plenty for hunters but not so many they overfeed.

Jack doesn't have enough facts yet to file formal charges against deer. But he has strong evidence that he's on the right track.

AND, OF course, if he eventually can prove deer are direct competitors with grouse and rabbits, there's no intention of proposing the deer should be eliminated.

All Jack and his cohorts on the island are trying to do is get the facts. They're just looking for critters to prosecute.

The island research project, however, has already proven beyond a question of a doubt in Jack's mind, that a longer rabbit season could be allowed without harming the hare population. Rabbits are so thick on all three major islands Jack fears a large scale die-off may be in the offing.

There's nothing he and other biologists would like to see more than increased hunting pressure.

BECAUSE THE islands offer a captive wildlife population in its natural habitat they are a perfect place for such research. Jack says biologists haven't even begun to find all of the answers that can be discovered on the islands.

For instance: Exactly what

CHARLEVOIX OPTOMETRIST Dr. R. W. Anderson accepts a retrieved Beaver Island ruffed grouse from Tom McDonnell's Irish Setter Clancy during last year's bird season on the island. Many Charlevoix hunters go to the island annually during bird season. The island hunting is reported by the Michigan Dept. of Conservation to be as good as any in the Midwest.

TWO HUNTERS SWING shotguns into action as a pocket of grouse explodes on Beaver Island.

is the cycle of rises and dips in grouse populations? What kind of cover is best for grouse and rabbits? How does hunting pressure effect game? What influences a good nesting season and a poor one for grouse? Once and for all, how do fox and coyotes effect the small game population?

There have never been absolute answers to these questions.

If the Conservation Dept. can find the funds to continue its research--and is given the needed flexibility in setting hunting regulations--it will clear up these mysteries.

This column--and I'm sure most sportsmen--would like to see the department have this chance.

SAILING

...that is exactly what all of us dream of. But this is God's world and we certainly must learn the laws of the winds of God if our journey is to be smooth. We must chart our course with caution.

We must know how to man the sails. We must read carefully the "guide book for mariners," called The Sermon on the Mount. One must know how to tack and, most important of all, ask the "Great Pilot" what course He recommends.

Let your church attendance and support record, the contribution you make to the cause of good, and your love for the brethren serve as your compass. The smooth sailing of your ship will be determined by the judgment you use in your preparation.

You can't make it alone, Mister. Better take God with you.

You In The Church

The Church In You

Camp Charlevoix

Corrall Chatter

The Second week of camp started off with Paul Gach, our photographer from Grosse Pointe taking activity pictures. He visited all the camp activities and took shots of the boys at instruction. During the evening meal, the Mugwump was hidden, and this was the start of Mugwump week. This is traditional here at CAMP CHARLEVOIX. It is a piece of wood made in the shape of a bird, or duck, or milk bottle, or something similar. This year was made by C.I.T. Doug Laling, who was the losing Captain last year. It is hidden in the woods, and the team finding it has the job of running it through the entire camp without having it taken away, thereby getting a point for their team. The Mugwump was found by a Grey who notified his side, and the week was off to a great start.

On Tuesday, two cabins from the Junior Section took off on a day trip to the Charlevoix Beach. Roger Byrd and Rusty Smith took Cabin 4, the boys being Mark (Hildebrandt), Van Martin, David Williamson, Dobbin Dudley, Bob Moore, and Paul Czamanske. Cabin 3, with Ervin Krug and Steve Wardrop, also went along. These boys being Tim Washburn, Richard Kahn, David Vineyard, David Logie, John Kelsey, and Dan Scherer. Two of the Senior Cabins, also took trips this day. Larry McMillen and his boys took a canoe trip down the Jordan River. These boys were: Steve Armstrong, David Oberhelman, Goug Elliott, Mark Vineyard, Jim Martindale, and Richard Brelsford. Jim Riebsomer, counsellor for the cabin of our oldest campers, took off on horseback. These boys were: Jan Hamilton, Steve Ellis, David Livingston, Maurice Clark, Scott Porter, and Randy Tufts.

There was much Mugwump activity with the Greys making a successful showing and gaining a point.

On Wednesday, Cabin 16, with John Richardson as the counsellor, took a canoe trip down the Jordan River. These boys were: Chris Huntoon, David Henderson, Seth Taylor, David Fox, and William Strain. This was another warm, sunny, bright day for camping, not too cool nor too warm. In the evening the entire camp saw the movie "The Errand Boy" with Jerry Lewis and there was much laughter coming from the "Bigwam".

Thursday was a "red letter" day at camp as this was the day of the first Mackinac Island trip of the year. Each year, the first fifty boys enrolled get this trip to historic Mackinac Island. They spend the day on the island seeing the many historical and interesting sights that this well-known island offers. Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, and Jim Riebsomer, took the following boys: Carl Bowman, Tom Smith, Tighe Magnuson, Mike Cooper, Rick Gillett, Gary Blumberg, Chip Ironside, Dick Edison, Stuart Waterson, Greg Sayles, Scott Porter, David Porter, Dan and Ron Scherer, Bryan Sayles, Chris and Geb Bushnell, Jimmy Chalat, George Lackey, George Cardella, Skip Sales, Hugh Broder, and David Washburn. Cabin 12, with Chuck Sullivan as the counsellor, took a riding overnight to Bay Shore. The boys were: Ken Mabbatt, Keith Smille, Colin Hamilton, "Stormy" Holdeman, Steven Donovan, and Scott Strawbridge.

Three trips left camp on Friday. Cabin 13, with John Rotz as the counsellor, took a riding trip. The boys being: David Washburn, Kim Kuehn, Brian Ingersoll, Michael Korchmar, Stephen Orr, Carl Llewellyn, and Gary Hill. Jon Dean took a truck overnight to Young's State Park. They had a sailing trip scheduled, but the lake was far too rough so a truck trip was substituted. These boys were: Stephan Upham, Jeff Gill, J. B. Smith, Dick Edison, Mike Zahn, Gary Blumberg, and Gary Fitchey. Cabin 15, with Paul Daker as the counsellor, took a canoe trip down the Jordan River, these boys were: Jimmy Chalat, John Thomas, David Porter, Bard Dieleman, Bill Streator, Phil Sheridan and Craig Owen. The "MUGWUMP" Competition ended at sundown, with the Greys picking up three more points during the week by successfully showing it.

Saturday we were happily surprised by having several parents visit us, and their sons were mighty pleased to see their parents. We were also pleased that enrollments have started for the 1966 season, with six boys being enrolled already. As has been mentioned, the first fifty enrolled get the Mackinac Island trip next year, thus the rush to get enrolled this summer for the 1966 season. In the evening we had a "skit night" in the Bigwam, and it was an evening of laughter and fun. Cabin 21, with its take-off on "Little Red Riding Hood" was hilarious. Cabin 4, with Cowboy Roger Beck and Rusty Smith in charge had a clever skit called "Self-Judging". Cabin 20, with Bob Perry in charge put on a skit taken after "Mary Had a Little Lamb" and it was very clever. Jim Kuehn was Mary and Jack Borden was the lamb.

On Sunday morning, we had several visitors at the chapel service. The speaker was Bill Townsend, Director of Activities, who spoke on "Your Personality". It was thought provoking and he gave many hints and suggestions to help us develop the kind of a personality that makes one a "likeable person". In the afternoon, a waterfront afternoon was held with Green and Grey Competition. After the swim races, canoe races, etc. the Greens gained their first point and the Greys picked up two more points, making the score at this stage of the game GREYS-11; GREENS-1. It looks like a tough, hard pull for the Greens. In the evening, Vespers were held in all sections. Everyone is looking forward to tomorrow with the traditional July 4th. Track Meet in the afternoon, followed by the huge Beef Bar-B-Que out on the shore of the lake, and when it is dark there will be the traditional fireworks which everyone in the area enjoys.

We would once more like to remind parents that they should not send candy, gum, etc. etc. PLEASE COOPERATE WITH US. If one does it, all should be able to do it, and it gets out of control. SO PLEASE DO NOT SEND ANYTHING EDEIBLE. This means YOU. And please warn grandparents, aunts, uncles, etc. etc. More next week...

Circlin the Bases

with DEANO

The second week of playsaw league leaders and favorites established in several softball leagues. In the Fast ball league, American Mold and Lake Construction appear to be the two strongest teams with Mold's narrow 3-2 win over the Construction gang giving them a running start in their race for the city Championship.

Both teams were undefeated when they clashed and it took eight tense innings before Mold slipped across the winning run. Chuck Coleman sent Lake Construction out in front 1-0 with a single in the third. Mold, however, came back with a pair on singles by Ken Wojan, Dave Smith, and Jim Alger. It stood that way until the seventh when Ted Potter tied the score with a home run blast over the left field fence. Mold picked up the winning marker in their eighth when Alger again singled went to third on Harvey Cole's one-bagger, and then scored on an error. Nate Boss pitched a strong three hitter for the winners while Potter allowed five.

The USAF picked up an important win, beating the Merchants 6-3. Base knocks by Tapley, Martin, and Wright combined with some shaky Merchant fielding gave the winners five fourth-inning runs and the victory. The losers had a base hit in every inning but couldn't come up with the big hit they needed. Jack Ingalls hit three Merchant hits in a losing cause. Sonny Wright picked up the win.

Merchants broke into the win column with a 5-3 win over youthful Olesons. Three fourth-inning runs provided the difference. Ed Holm, Doug Winnell, and Fritz Pulpaff each knocked in a run for Olesons, while Novotny, Helms, Sturman, and Battle shared hitting honors for the winners.

Lake Construction rang up the most runs to date in the young season, scoring 21 times against Olesons, Grunch, Potter, Davenport, and Boss led in the hitting department while Ed Holm's two hits were the only bright spot for the losers.

JUNIOR LEAGUE The Junior league race has developed into somewhat of a two team race also. Freedmans and Jerry's Gulf appeared to be the strongest teams.

The two clashed during the week and Freedmans came away with a 10-5 win. Ted Weldman blistered the ball with four straight hits to lead the winners while losing pitcher Terry Blissett picked up three safeties to lead Jerry's. Bruce Livingston allowed only five hits.

A & W showed promise with a 11-5 win over Barnard. They scored seven markers in the sixth for the win. Jerry Stewart and Chuck Pease led the winners with two hits apiece. Larry Hutchinson had three for Barnard.

PEANUT LEAGUE In the Peanut League, which is divided into two divisions this year, the Tigers appear to be the team to beat in the Red division while the Cards lead in the White division. Both have 2-0 records.

The Pirates got off to a fine start beating the Astros 16-4. Bendle, Pease, and Swanson led some luster hitting for the winners. Gord Skeel had the only hit off Pirate Carl Swanson.

The Tigers made four first-inning runs stand up against the Lions in their 5-3 win. Cousins Tim and Bill Carey had two hits apiece while catcher Merritt led the Lions with two.

The Cubs scored four in the sixth to slip past the Braves 6-2. The Cub's Simpson and Brave's Warner took hitting honors, each collecting two hits.

The sharp fielding Cards took the Dodgers 8-3 behind Larry Potter's pitching. Stan Lord's two triples led the losers while Carl Novak and Tom Bergman had two each for the Cardinals.

BLOOPER LEAGUE Novak's appear to be head and shoulders above the rest in the Bloopers league. They got a big helping hand from Boyne who upset Consumers in a late inning uprising. Novak's had no trouble from Ken's Dodge Service winning 14-0 to post a shut out, one of the few in the history of the league.

Bill Carey continued his fine hitting with a triple and two home runs. Wood's triple was the only extra base hit for the losers.

Boyme City scored three times in their final at bats to edge Consumers 13-12 in a wild affair. Burris was the hero with an alert bit of base running to score the winning run on a short fly into left.

Consumer Peyton and Dziedzic took slugging honors in the game however, with 3 each.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE Paul - Reed took the early lead in the Women's league with an impressive win over Edwards. The Defending Champions scored five times in the first two innings then held off Edwards late in the bid. Betty Seese and Bev Sladbeck hit two hits for the winners while Pat Schack and C. Wood each had two for Edwards.

The Dairy Queens had little trouble with new-comer Millitary Wives winning 14-0 with Linda Supernaw hurling a no-hit contest.

WITH ROY

The chicken that was barbecued by Harry Kelley at the Ellsworth Day celebration was so tasty that the visitors devoured 1000 half chickens. The luscious odor coming from the barbecue pits had the people waiting for the food before the scheduled hour. With their mouths watering and a hearty appetite they consumed the chicken faster than it could be cooked. The cooks were able to barbecue 250 halves an hour. With the crowd pressing for food, it made all the help busier than bees.

The bike parade was enjoyed by the audience as they perched down Main Street. John Keeyer and Willard ManderArk were ahead of the bicycles playing recorded music. John Kloosier led the parade, (without a bicycle) the 24 children that entered showed great effort in decorating their bikes. The Dragon driven by Scotty Carlisle won first prize. He was up bright and early Saturday morning working on the project. Janette Smalley could hardly wait for the day, she had her convertible looking so pretty that she won second place. If Larry Taylor's torque fire cracker had gone off he would have looked like a space craft, his imitation fire cracker won him third place. John Kloosier presented the prizes to the three smiling kids.

Bike races produced five winners. There was a tie for third place. Terry Elzinga was disqualified when he went inside the flag. First place-Dave Vanderlinden. Second place-Joel Donaldson, and Third place-Danny Strange and Denny Way.

Bare Construction beat their teammate Bob Kloosier 1 to 0. Ed Potter and Grant Hastings looked like a couple of drowned rats after the water fight, to conclude Ellsworth Day.

JULY 4TH Everyone is celebrating. Why? How many people think of this day as Independence Day? Villages, towns and cities are having celebrations. All of the advertisements that have heard for July 4th, not one mentioned to have on their program the Patriotic significance of the day. They all are having food and plenty of it.

Thank God for our Independence and our Freedom.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Editorial Page

WEDNESDAY, JULY 7, 1965, PAGE 11

There is a Solution

THEY'RE NOTHING more than pigs!" one of the county's most respected law enforcement officers said last week of people who spewed more than a thousand empty beer containers in the North Point beach area.

The Courier has been saying the same thing for more than a year. We're glad to hear our lawman friend agree with us.

WE WERE EVEN more gratified several weeks ago when Ralph Doan led a group of volunteers along the beaches to relieve them of their disgrace. It seemed that our constant prodding was finally paying dividends. And it was.

However, even then there was a discouraging note. Who turned out to help Doan scour the shoreline? Not the adults and older teenagers who made the mess. Nor the persons who derive much of their income from the fact that Charlevoix has beautiful beaches.

No sir, these people were sitting back on their laurels letting youngsters shoulder their responsibility for them.

But at the time we decided to let this pass without comment. After all, the beaches were clean. Why raise an issue over who didn't do the job?

NOW WE'RE MAD again, so we're going to raise several points we would rather didn't have to be brought up again.

Doan and the young folks proved that our beaches can be cleaned by volunteers. To say the very least, they did their job. So let's keep the beaches clean. Easily said, aye? Some of the best brains in the country have worked on this one and still admit failure.

The Sheriff's Dept. and John Connolly have given their all by arresting litter law violators and sentencing them to clean up their leavings. The trouble is they get only a very small number of the violators.

SO LET'S SEE if we can't do a little more along this line.

Once again, this is easy to write, but how are we going to do it? We suggest the Board of Supervisors might appropriate additional funds to hire a parttime squad of deputies to patrol the beaches.

When persons are found acting in an unruly manner, or littering, they should be arrested. We fully expect our justices of the peace would follow through with the precedent Connolly set this spring in ordering offenders to clean up after themselves.

Does the County Board of Supervisors want to argue about where it is going to get this money? If so, it might start by cutting back on the 33% pay boost it recently gave itself. Or it might find money in what it ambiguously termed the "county general" fund. It could even consider asking voters for added millage; after all, this is what school districts must do when they cannot meet their responsibilities with available funds.

And there is even another angle which should be further explored: Do away with throw-away beverage containers. At least one of our booze-selling friends tells us putting a 10-cent deposit on all carryout containers would not hurt his business. Frankly, however, we're not as concerned about a dip in the booze trade as we are about the filth along our beaches.

In fact, we keep wondering who we don't hear from our State legislators -- Sen. Thomas Schweigert and Rep. Clayton Morrison -- on this subject.

Were Their Efforts in Vain?

Charlevoix of Yesteryear

DRYING FISHING NETS.

Chamber has Problem

DURING FREQUENT visits to the Chamber of Commerce office we have continually found Mrs. Robert (Lita) Humphries and Leslie Lyons handling requests from outsiders that the Chamber make reservations for them at a local motel or tourist cabins.

Somewhat to our dismay we find the best the Chamber can do is send a brochure listing all motels and cabins to the person placing the request for reservations. This is done because the Chamber, quite understandably, fears that by placing such a reservation it will anger their motel and cabin owners.

WHILE WE CERTAINLY sympathize with the Chamber's fears we feel such a situation costs Charlevoix business as well as inconveniences our visitors.

There is a very simple and obvious solution.

All Chamber members who provide lodging should get together and thrash out any doubts and distrust they feel about each other. Upon doing this they can set up a system for handling all requests for reservations themselves.

This would relieve the Chamber of an impossible responsibility, yet it would continue to fulfill its role as a clearing house for such matters.

THE CHAMBER would refer the requests to the persons appointed to handle them by the motel owners. These individuals would then place the reservation under the system agreed upon by the motels.

The Chamber would then write the persons placing the request, telling them where their reservation was made.

Simple and fair!

Class reunions . . . there are a couple on the docket . . . one the tenth and the other the twenty-fifth . . . what fun those people will have as they greet old friends and renew acquaintances with people they haven't seen since the day they graduated . . . My class has never had a reunion but I've been invited to several . . . It was such fun . . . I don't think you realize what fun you had as a kid until you get together and start reminiscing . . . then, all of a sudden, it hits you . . . "those days weren't half-bad" . . . and mostly because you've never had such carefree times since then . . .

SWIMMING classes are about to begin . . . and I hope you will enroll your youngster . . . There's nothing more fun than swimming and boating, whether it's in a canoe or aboard a luxurious yacht . . . but you'd be surprised at the number of people who miss the fun of it all because they're afraid of the water . . . You think I'm kidding? Just check among your friends and see how many can't swim . . . and, as a result, are afraid of the water . . . Don't misunderstand me . . . I have a healthy respect for the water . . . but I learned that when I learned to swim . . . but that's why I've always been able to enjoy it . . . So don't rob your youngsters of a lot of fun because they're not able to swim . . . Our lifeguards do a wonderful job . . . And when you live on the water, as we do here, you should be able to swim . . .

AS THIS IS being written Tom Loeb is not aware of the fact that a deer was grazing in his yard this morning . . . It was in the not too small hour of the morning that the Buck Seymour's happened to sight the buck as it nibbled its morning meal . . . then ambled across the street through the Goldman yard to the lake for a drink of water before traveling north along Lake Michigan . . . It's hard to believe that deer will come around a "lived-in" area as much as they do . . . As I've often said before, they must have their own calendars and know they're protected . . .

THE SUMMER brings such treats to everyone . . . one that I enjoyed recently was a big dish of wild strawberries, if you can imagine such a Yummy delicacy . . . One seldom sees them these days . . . or, should I say, one seldom finds anyone who knows where you can find them . . . Mrs. Tony Wojan Sr. brought me this treat . . .

And a few days later along came Miss Frances Durand with those luscious big berries that have made their berry farm famous through the years . . . Just another reason why I love this season of the year . . .

Then there was the "secret pal" who deposited the jar of rhubarb . . . and the lovely arrangement of peonies with my neighbor, Max Novak, for delivery . . . How lucky can one get?

REMEMBER THE Terr family? Dr. Terr and Co. left a few years ago for Las Vegas, New Mexico, where he's doing wonderfully well and where his youngsters are doing right well for themselves too . . .

SPEAKING OF remembering, how many of you remember Oscar P. North, the former superintendent of schools here who now lives in Newaygo? . . . I had a happy surprise the other night when he and Mrs. N. came by . . . We had the best gabfest and it was great fun bringing him up to date on those people he remembers . . . and, believe me, many of you left your mark on him! . . . He sends his best to you all . . .

MRS. CARL Kohler passes you on the street without a glimmer of recognition, please understand . . . She's still on Cloud 9 after that wonderful, wonderful trip to Europe and just hasn't come back to earth yet . . . I had a chat with her the other day and it only took a minute to realize that there was one gal who wasn't being one darned bit sophisticated about the whole thing . . . Some people just aren't impressed by all the wonderful new experiences . . . but she was and will tell you about it at the drop of a hat . . . which all makes you happy that she could have the trip . . . She's promised to let me see their slides and I'm looking forward to them . . . especially those taken under the midnight sun . . .

I'VE BEEN watching with great interest one of my little neighbors . . . I'm not quite sure where he lives but I find him very amusing . . . he's a little black squirrel, not too big, who is so curious about everything that he all but walks up to the big Saint Bernard that's moved in down the street . . .

Big Lake Will Not Fail Him

In a decade, or so, John Cross Sr. predicts there will be as many, or more, commercial fish tugs operating out of Charlevoix as ever before.

Impossible? It does seem like Cross is at least a little optimistic.

BUT THIS column certainly isn't in any position to question his judgement. And I doubt you are. It seems somewhat questionable that there are more than two or three people in the state who are.

Cross has been lifting nets in northern Lake Michigan for 55 years. That's right, more than half a century.

Not only that, he might also be considered the most successful commercial fisherman in northern Lake Michigan. Though only one of his two modern fish tugs is working this month, Cross has managed to keep his shop on Round Lake open and a regular crew of three or four men, plus his son, Jackie Jr., working.

While he's been able to keep things going--and take a winter trip to Florida--all but a half dozen of the more than 100 commercial fishermen who once operated out of northern Lake Michigan ports have quit the business.

SO HERE'S A man who knows his business. If he says the lake trout will be back stronger than ever in ten years we'd better pay attention.

Cross bases his opinion on several factors. The most important being that conservation agencies seem to have the sea lamprey under control and lake trout are being restocked in the big lake.

Recently the Conservation Dept. and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service planted 100,000 fingerling (three to six inch) trout in the massive shoal spawning grounds from the Straits to Fox Island. These fish were planted from the Charlevoix National Fish hatchery and reared at the new Jordan Valley National Fish hatchery.

More than 1.2 million such trout will be put in Lake Michigan this year. Each year millions more will be planted in known spawning areas.

MAX HUNT, Conservation Dept. regional fisheries chief, says the young trout will be ready to spawn in about six years.

So if all goes well, starting in six years, millions of lake trout will again be reproducing in the lake each year. This, Cross believes, will start the endless natural cycle that once made the lake one of the world's great lake trout fisheries.

The shoal area from the Straits to Fox Islands was one of the finest--if not the very best--lake trout grounds in the lake, Hunt and Cross point out. It may well be that this will be the first section of Lake Michigan to again have a healthy population of Mackinac trout.

Johnny Gallagher, a Beaver Island Boat Co. crewman who hails from a pioneer Beaver Island commercial fishing family, agrees. Gallagher can remember when his dad set a record of bringing in 666 quarts of lake trout spawn to the Charlevoix hatchery in one week.

THOUGH HE isn't quite as optimistic as Cross, Gallagher feels confident the restocking program will work. He isn't sold on the idea this will lead to a rebirth of the commercial fishing industry.

With more and more people demanding outdoor recreation, Gallagher sort of favors limiting commercial fishing to persons now in the business and leaving the rest of the trout for sport fishermen.

Karl Kuebler, who went to the Island in 1942 as a game law enforcement officer, also recalls the days of commercial fishing's glory.

In 1942, he says, there were 14 successful fish tugs operating out of St. James. In 1946 the trout were gone . . . and the fishermen were doomed. Today only Charlie Martin sets nets out of St. James, and he does it parttime.

AS CROSS remembers it, there were 17-19 tugs working out of Charlevoix during the peak years. He has so much confidence in the scientists that he says there may be more than that lifting nets out of Charlevoix in a few years.

But there is a catch in Cross's cheery outlook. The present program, he figures, is doomed unless the Conservation Dept. does something to reduce the alewife (shad) population. The alewife, he says, will eat lake trout spawn so fast the trout will never make a comeback.

This same warning has been issued by other commercial fishermen and some of the State's top fisheries biologists.

BUT HE'S CONFIDENT the State will solve the alewife problem by introducing salt water striped bass to prey on alewives. In fact, he says the JOHN CROSS works on his nets and talks of the return of the fishing fleet.

THERE ARE STILL a few nets to repair at the Cross Fishery plant on Round Lake. Maybe there will be more.

State has already planted some stripped bass to see how they work in reducing the alewife. "They're not telling anybody about it, but I've got an inside line and I know they've been planted," he said.

Until the alewife are reduced he figures trout will have to be reared in hatcheries and released as fingerlings.

Cross also goes along with the State's recent move to outlaw commercial netting of lake trout until they can make their comeback.

He figures the State should draw a line from Traverse City to Sturgeon Bay and across the Straits and shut this area off to net fishermen for a half-dozen or more years, while keeping up a heavy stocking program.

"IF THEY DID this," he says, "we would have more fish than ever before. It's a great natural hatchery."

Right now Cross's crew is getting small, but regular, catches of whitefish. These he sells to northern Michigan restaurants and Charlevoix housewives.

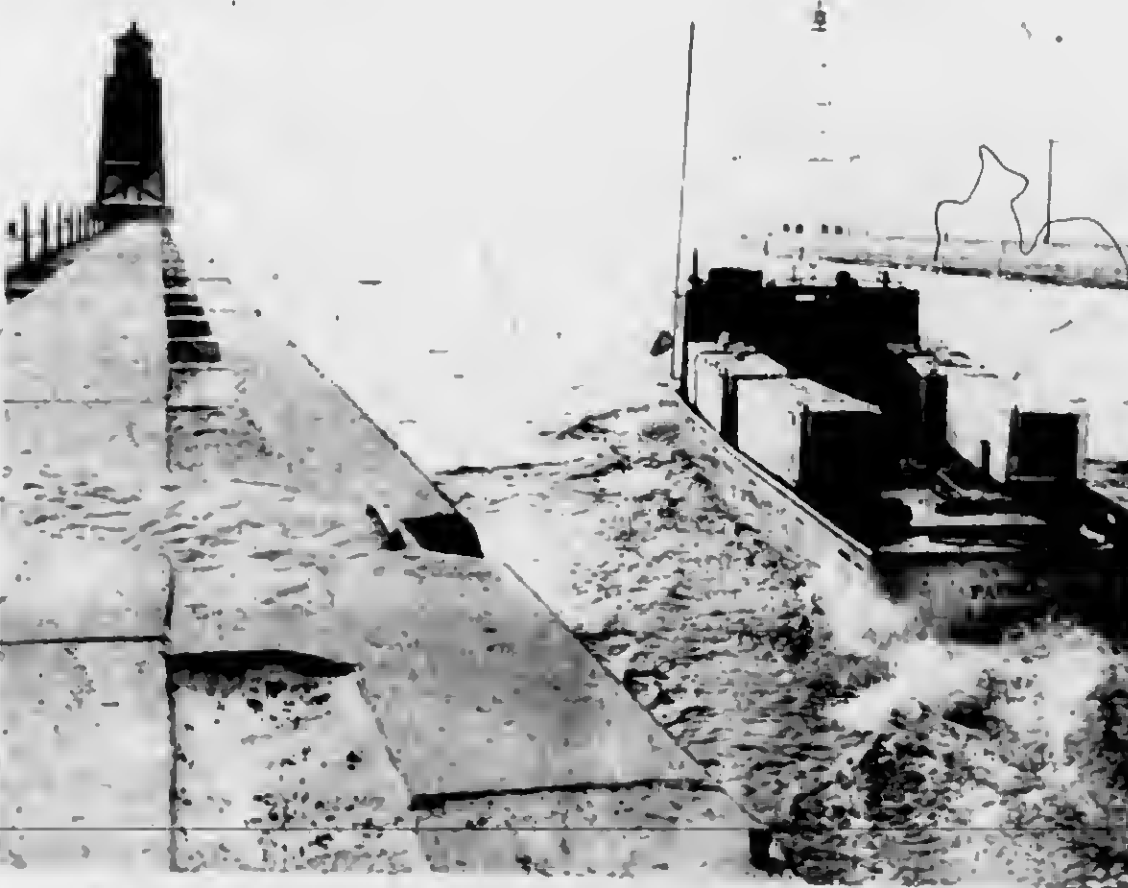

He also sells fresh fish dinners at the Nautical, the Cross family's lakeside summer restaurant on Round Lake off Belvedere Ave.

To keep up his volume and hold onto his customers, Cross is also a distributor to area restaurants of salt water sea foods. But he predicts that when the lake trout come back the demand for salt water fish will dwindle.

CROSS ABRUPTLY dismisses charges that net fishermen are responsible for the decline of lake trout. "All the fishermen in the lakes never put a dent in the fish," he declares.

John Cross may be disappointed in his dream. This column can find no one else who believes the fish tug fleet will return.

But even if he is, with more than a half century of Lake Michigan's raw weather under his decks and in his eyes he has a sea of dreams. If he'll let us share it we'll welcome the opportunity.

THE FIRST PARAGRAPH in John Cross's dream turns out of the Pine River channel toward the Beavers, with the initial planting of young lake trout.

15 population centers, it's important that we maintain good communication to every part of the district," Clevenger said.

"IN THE PAST, we have missed out on several opportunities because local officials and interested citizens did not learn about Federal programs soon enough. Or they didn't know how to participate in them until after appropriations were exhausted -- as happened in the accelerated public works program."

"I consider it one of my responsibilities to see that this does not happen in the future."

"If Upper Michigan is going to reap its share of the nation's economic prosperity, its people must be kept informed of what is going on in Washington.

"Our people are served by many small, but progressive, newspapers and radio and television stations. We don't have one or two large papers and stations with large staffs."

"OUR NEWSPAPER editors and news directors of radio and television stations, as well as local officials and interested citizens, will be furnished with information relevant to the people of the 11th District. Of course," Clevenger said, "the choice will always be theirs to decide what they will use, report or print."

Michigan has more than 150 waterfalls. The Tahquamenon Falls, near Newberry in the Upper Peninsula, is America's second largest east of the Rockies.

Preston Troop. Dignitaries were His Worship Mayor Harry Halberstadt; Paul DeFresne, president of South Waterloos District; Harry McCartney, district scout executive; Lora Nickason, commissioner of South Waterloos District; Don Mullan, 3rd Preston Troop scoutmaster; Rev. C. E. Ladds, rector of St. John's and Max Saltzman.

Mr. Saltzman, as member of parliament, presented a letter from the Prime Minister as follows:

"On Behalf of the Government of Canada and personally, I am pleased to extend cordial greetings to the American and Canadian Boy Scout Troops participating in the International Scouting Exchange at Preston on June 26. I am particularly delighted to welcome Scouts from Charlevoix, Michigan. I am confident that you will be warmly received by the people of Preston and that your visit will be educational, enjoyable and regarding in every respect."

"Such exchange visits among those who adhere to the Scout Law demonstrate to the families of both our countries the friendship and unity of spirit shared by peoples of Canada and the United States. With best wishes to all for a memorable visit -- L. B. Pearson."

Sunday was a "free day" spent with families hosting the Scouts. Monday a trip to Niagara Falls was enjoyed with a picnic lunch prepared by the Ladies Auxiliary. Tuesday morning the Americans attended the last day of school with their hosts. The afternoon saw both Troops going to Peace Haven for a two-day stay in the field. Late Thursday afternoon the troops were returned to Preston for a "free night" before the trek back to Charlevoix Friday morning.

The 3rd Preston Troop will exchange on July 23 to participate in the Venetian Parade; march on mass Sunday to Church and on to Camp Grellack for a week. After Camp's closing Saturday, the Troop returns to Charlevoix for the weekend as guests of their former hosts. Much activity is planned for both weekends in Charlevoix.

Enrollment in Michigan colleges and universities, public and private, totals 233,525. This number represents 30.5 percent of the college-age population in the state.

with the two cooperatives in an effort to provide for their short-range and long-range power requirements.

"Consumers Power Company," he said, "has had wholesale rates available for many years for municipalities and co-ops that are at least 20 percent lower than those charged by these two G & T cooperatives."

A G & T (generating and transmission) cooperative one which supplies power to other electric cooperatives.

REFERRING TO the fact that rural electric cooperatives borrow money from the Federal Government at 2% interest although the Government pays about 4% for the money it borrows, Mr. Campbell said:

"It seems perfectly clear that the best interests of the American people are not being served when their tax dollars are being dissipated with 2% loans which will quite likely result in raised power costs for the cooperative members served by these two G & Ts."

He expressed the hope that Mr. Freeman would find it possible to discuss the matter with Norman M. Clapp, REA administrator, and offered to go to Washington for a conference.

The Charlevoix Coast Guard Station

Always On Guard

The bonds between Charlevoix and the U.S. Coast Guard run back to the community's earliest days as a major Great Lakes harbor. Today two major Coast Guard units are stationed in Charlevoix--the Cutter Sundew and Coast Guard Group Charlevoix.

The Group has its headquarters at the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station on the Railroad Bridge channel, directly east of the Chicago Club. The new station building is one of the finest on the Great Lakes. Commanded by Lt. Cdr. Charles Millard, the Charlevoix Coast Guard Group is responsible for all light houses and sub-stations from Alpena to Charlevoix and Beaver Island. This includes 14 stations and 83 men. Visitors are welcome at the station anytime during the day. Formal visiting hours are from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The Sundew, with approximately 50 men and officers, is assigned to ice breaking, buoy tending and rescue missions. Admiral Willard J. Smith, commander of all Coast Guard operations on the Great Lakes, is a Charlevoix High School graduate.

CAMPERS DELIGHT in the cool breezes, clean water and good fishing of Young State Park near Boyne City. The community boasts excellent fishing, boating, and services for summer visitors.

Boyne Area
Boyne City, at the eastern end of Lake Charlevoix, is the largest city of Charlevoix county and focal point of another important vacation area and shopping center for resort colonies along the shores of Lake Charlevoix and Walloon Lake. Boyne City attracts visitors throughout the year, due to the variety of facilities and vacation activities that are available. In the spring fishermen throng to Boyne City to dip smelt from the streams in the area during the spawning run. The city also is a popular destination with mushroom hunters and holds a Mushroom Contest in May. Throughout the summer Lake Charlevoix, Young State Park and the exceptional choice of fine resort and boating accommodations lure vacation guests, followed in the fall by the army of small game, waterfowl, bird and deer hunters who "headquarter" here. Center of a vast winter sports region, Boyne City entertains vacation guests throughout the winter. Ice fishing at Smeltania, a community of ice fishing shanties off the city's main street on Lake Charlevoix, and two winter sports centers, Avalanche in Boyne City and Boyne Mountain Lodge at Boyne Falls only six miles to the east, provide the incentive for the influx of winter visitors. Boyne City has seven city parks, trailer park, four marinas for docking of pleasure boats, tennis and shuffleboard courts and playground equipment maintained for use of summer visitors. Boat visitors, arriving via Lake Charlevoix, will find a new steel bulkhead dock with modern accommodations for craft up to 60 feet. Just north of the city on Lake Charlevoix is Young State Park, complete with a spacious bathing beach, picnic facilities and camping sites throughout the 563-acre tract. West of the city on a highway that follows the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix, is Ye Olde Nyne Hollies, a golf course. A helpful chamber of commerce at Boyne City assists visitors in obtaining accommodations or furnishing information about the area. North of Boyne City six miles via highway M-75 is Walloon Lake, one of West Michigan's popular resort developments, complete with a wide variety of resorts, both American and European plan; resort hotels, rental cottages and luxurious summer homes, many of them for rent.

THE NEW JORDAN River Notional Fish Hatchery near Albo, is a pleasant, scenic afternoon drive from Charlevoix. Take M-32 to US-131, turn right on US-131 and look for a directional sign in about four miles. The hatchery's location reminds one of the Smokey Mountains. The hatchery is the newest and largest on the Great Lakes. It will produce about 6,000,000 lake trout a year for restocking the big lakes.

Here's Where & How to Fish

If there is a better cure than fishing for that tantalizingly tense feeling that the mob is stalking you with its big city noises and impatience it must be fishing in the Charlevoix area.

Oh sure, there are places in North America with better fishing. But darn few. Some of the country's most in-cur-able anglers rate Lake Charlevoix and the Beaver Island area among the finest small-mouth bass fishing grounds in the U.S.

YET THERE IS MORE than the promise that fish are available for the catching to recommend Charlevoix as a choice fishing area. You mustn't overlook the unsurpassed drama of our clean water, cool air, big hardwood and birch trees and quiet mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But where to go and how to do it?

If you're after smallmouth bass or perch try Lake Charlevoix. The South Arm is generally good.

Your best choice of lures for Lake Charlevoix bass will be Jig-A-Do streamers in brown, white and yellow colors. Others in this column can be used for small (quarter-ounce) dardevils in red-and-white and pearl colors, Jig-A-Do crawlers, number-two size spinners, Super Dupers, Flatfish and Heddon's Cobra. (Worms are also reputed to catch fish.) You can buy any, or all, of these lures at Staley's Hardware and other local stores.

FOR SPECIFIC TIPS on where the current Lake Charlevoix hotspots are ask Clare Staley at his hardware, Irv Drost at Irv's Cocktail Lounge, Bernie Ward at Ward's Boat Livery, or BIG BASS SUCH as those on this stringer come from Lake Charlevoix.

Mearle Scott in Ironton. You can fish Lake Charlevoix from a boat or with waders. There are many areas of the South Arm that can be waded. Sometimes they produce nice bass during mid-day, but evening or morning is usually best. If you're fishing from a boat try casting or trolling right off the edge of bullrushes or boulder-strewn areas.

Throw your lure into likely looking areas. When it hits the water let it sink and remain still for a few seconds; you will often get a strike. If there is no strike retrieve it a few feet and then let it sink and rest again before moving it.

If you want to do some exploring try the nearby shoreline of Lake Michigan. Once again, you can wade or use a boat. The same lures and techniques as used on Lake Charlevoix will stand you in good stead.

IF SMALLER lakes are your forte look at a map and pick one of the many directly south of town in Charlevoix County or Antrim County. Though few of them have public access sites, you can usually talk a property owner into letting you trespass... He may even have boats to rent.

You will probably be amazed to find you have to share these lightly fished lakes with only one or two other boats; and sometimes you'll be all alone.

Here's a list of ten smaller lakes worth trying.

--Lake 26 (Lake Marlon), for pike, bass and panfish.

--Nowland Lake, for pike, bass and panfish.

--Six Mile Lake, for pike, bass and musky.

--Susan Lake, for small pike.

--Harwood Lake, for bass and panfish.

--Walloon Lake, for trout, pike, bass, panfish.

--West Twin Lake for bass and pike.

--St. Clair Lake (in Ellsworth), for bass, panfish and even an occasional trout.

--Ellsworth Lake, for bass, pike, and maybe a musky.

--Toad Lake (south of Ellsworth) for pike, bass and panfish.

ALL OF THESE lakes have the fish in them that are mentioned... that's guaranteed by this writer. Catching them is up to you. Try using the same lures recommended for Lake Charlevoix.

Arbogast's new weedless Jitterbugs, Hula Poppers and Hawaiian Wigglers are also productive numbers.

You can find your way to these lakes by asking for maps of Charlevoix and Antrim County, which are available at most motels, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charlevoix Courier.

If you taste runs more to stream fishing for trout, try the Jordan River south of East Jordan, or the Maple River near Pellston. The Bear River between Walloon Lake and Petoskey also has trout, but is hard to fish. The same holds true with the Boyne River. There are also any number of small, bushy streams with good populations of trout (and usually mosquitoes).

Musical Adventure

The soothing combination of concert music under cool skies beside a yacht-filled harbor is offered every Wednesday evening at 8:30 p.m. in Charlevoix's East Side Park on Round Lake.

The City Band, a group of young and adult volunteer musicians led by Clarence Odmark, present the music. There are seats --either on benches or the soft turf (bring your own blanket)--for everyone. Bring the children, our happy summer people are always glad to see them.

Michigan was the first state in the nation to guarantee each child the right to free education through high school. Geologists estimate an untapped oil reserve of 71 trillion tons lies beneath Michigan. Michigan school enrollment from Kindergarten through high school, totals 2,265,000. Michigan's shoreline, second only to Alaska's, totals more than 3,000 miles including offshore islands.

In Michigan, after a day's fishing beer's the one...
for good taste, good fun

Wherever you fish for sport--on the ocean, by the booming surf, or on some quiet country pond, it's great at the end of the day to head for a rewarding glass of beer. While you're talking over the ones that got away, or pan-frying the ones that didn't, you enjoy the hearty taste and cool refreshment only a glass of beer can give you so well. Yes, whatever your sport--bowling or strolling, golfing or gardening--a frosty glass of beer makes a naturally great accompaniment

Greensky Church Part of State's Indian History

GREENSKY HILL MISSION

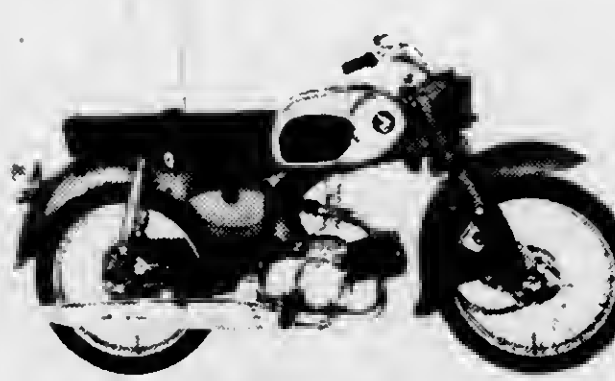

Here in the 1840's the Chippewa Indian missionary, Peter Greensky, established a Protestant mission in an area where legend says Indian chiefs once held their councils. New trees have been planted in an arrangement similar to that of the trees that made up the original council circle. Mission services first were held in a rude building of boughs and bark. In the 1850's the Indians built the present church. It is a fine example of the old log style construction with hand-hewn timbers and notched corners. Windows, doors and much of the lumber were brought by canoe from Traverse City to Lake Lake (now Lake Charlevoix) and then carried two miles to this site. Methodist services for the Indian congregation have been held here regularly to the present.

SERVING SUMMER VISITORS FOR 15 YEARS

THERE'S FUN, culture and beauty at Charlevoix's annual Waterfront Arts Fair. The Fair attracts some of the Midwest's top artists, who display and sell their work. The Fair this year is Aug. 14. Details are available from the Chamber of Commerce.

The Ghost That Haunts Jordan River Valley

East Jordan, at the tip of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, is the gateway to the scenic Jordan River Valley.

The historic Jordan River empties into Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan. Travelers can follow its course south through rolling hills and wooded countryside.

THE JORDAN earned its first fame during logging days when lumber camps operated along its banks and the pine and hardwood was rafted down it to sawmills on Lake Charlevoix.

Later sportsmen came from around the world to catch its grayling. It was one of the State's last major strongholds of this strikingly beautiful fish that has become a ghost on the conscience of Michigan conservationists.

Today canoeists and fishermen float the Jordan in canoes and Ausable log boats. The fishermen find satisfaction in creels full of brown and brook trout.

At headwaters of the river is a new Federal Fish Hatchery which will restock the Great Lakes with lake trout. The hatchery will be dedicated in May.

East Jordan provides many free recreational facilities for visitors, including a new city airport with turf runways, excellent docks for cruisers and small craft, Sportsman's Park with picnic facilities and where camera fans will find many kinds of wildlife, including swans for which the city is famous, small boat launching ramps, an historical display in Memorial Park featuring an old steam railroad engine, Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration, Portside Art Fair the first weekend of August, fine bathing beach and city sponsored recreational programs, including softball.

Visiting trailblazers and campers will find acres of city-owned facilities available at modest fees at the Tourist Park on Lake Charlevoix. The park has complete facilities and many recreational features, including tennis and shuffleboard courts and swimming beach.

THE CHARLEVOIX National Fish Hatchery was pressed into service in the early 1900's to keep a constant population of lake trout in Lake Michigan. When the sea lamprey wiped out the lake trout the Charlevoix hatchery stood alone in the battle to restock the lake. With completion of the Jordan River National Fish Hatchery this year, the Charlevoix hatchery has found itself playing a lesser role. The hatchery is located at the Lake Michigan end of the Pine River channel.

Petoskey Stones

Here's Real Fun in the Sun

The most abundant source of Michigan's new State Stone--the PETOSKEY STONE--is along Charlevoix's beaches.

These unique "colony corals" are found nowhere else in the world. When polished they make beautiful pieces for jewelry or other display purposes.

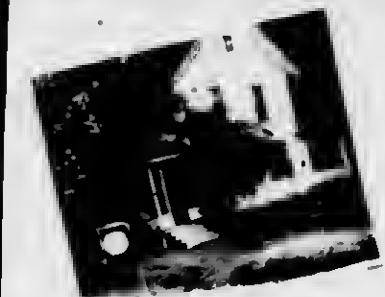

The pictures, top, show what the raw stones look like on the beach. The two small stones, lower left and center, show what an unpolished beach pebble looks like; these are especially easy to recognize if you walk the beach right after a rain. The stone on lower right shows a polished specimen.

Some of the finest months of the year for enjoying the beaches and searching for Petoskey Stones are May and June and September and October. There is no finer way to relax and commune with nature than strolling the beaches.

Modern Art--Its Origin and Meaning

by Gertrude Kasle

People who look at abstract painting (a painting that does not represent an object we can identify) are apt to mutter, "I just don't understand modern art," or, "A child could do better," or, even exclaim "A cat with paint on its tail couldn't do worse!"

Most of us are used to traditional paintings done by old masters--paintings of people, landscapes or still life. These pictures make us feel comfortable because we recognize what we're looking at and we know whether we should feel sad or gay.

NOW MODERN art doesn't always give us this feeling of assurance that we've come to expect from the artist. It may even make us uneasy. As uneasy as when we pick up a Charlevoix's annual Waterfront Art Fair (Aug. 14) has focused local interest on modern art. This attention has subsequently raised many questions. Gertrude Kasle answers these questions in this article prepared for the Courier. She operates a gallery in Detroit, specializing in contemporary American paintings.

newspaper and read the morning headlines, BAN ATOMIC TESTS, BATTLE CASUALTIES RISE IN VIETNAM, and SOUTHERN RIOTS CONTINUE.

Much of what is happening around us we don't want to accept more we'd rather not know about. Yet, in order to have insight into our own time, we must read, weigh, measure and evaluate carefully. We must open our eyes and see!

Looking and seeing is not easy. To feel comfortable with the art of today, we must look at many paintings and sculpture. This means visiting galleries and museums wherever we travel, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco, Detroit, Buffalo or our own home town.

Here, in galleries and museums, we'll find work of this generation, artists who perceive in a fresh, unique and brilliant way. They may seem unaware of the world as we know it, but they are the tools through which our particular culture finds expression.

THE WHOLE development of civilization may be understood through art, from the first cave drawings done 20,000 years ago (found in caves in Lescaux, France) which depict a hunter's feeling about hunger up to today's artist's feelings about space.

The need to communicate, to express oneself, to find new ways of looking at our world and ourselves, is the creative force within the artist. Still later, when the medieval artist painted the holy family, he painted them in the costumes of the people he saw daily and the scenery of the city in which he lived.

The artist's did not consciously set out to depict their immediate surroundings, but rather to reflect the tempo of the times--the way people ate and slept, worked and loved.

THE FAMILIAR, acceptable painting by Whistler of his mother called "Arrangement in Grey and Black," originally caused a storm of protests. John Ruskin, famous critic of that period, was thrown into a rage when he first saw it. He accused Whistler of "flinging a pot of paint in the people's face." He lacked color and defied the "pretty" work of the academy. Whistler sued the critic and lost the case.

In explaining this work, Whistler said, "Music is the poetry of sound, painting the poetry of sight and the subject matter has nothing to do with the harmony of sound or color."

More recently, and since the invention of the camera, the artist has been released. He no longer was needed to merely record places and faces. He was free to affirm his right of individual freedom, his belief in facing reality of nature and the unconscious as revealed by Freud.

Gauguin and Van Gogh broke away from the "tyranny of the object" through interpretation, instinct and emotion.

THESE ARTISTS reflected two powerful forces. One was the growth of the industrial revolution, the other was the springboard for expressionism. It might even be said that the scientist, Einstein and the father of modern psychiatry, Freud have done more to alter art than the artists have themselves!

We're now willing to accept the innovators of yesterday, Cezanne, Matisse, Picasso, Marcel Duchamp, the impressionists and the futurists. But what of the painting being done today? Do we repeat the old cliché "Any child could do better." Or, do we look at modern paintings and try to ponder their meaning?

An eminent critic has written about these feelings of doubt that we all have. After viewing an exhibition by a new young painter, he wrote, "My own reaction was I dislike the show and thought it a bore. But I depressed me and I wasn't sure why. Then I began to recognize in myself all the symptoms of a Philistine's reaction to modern art. I was angry at the artist because he had invited me to a meal and given me something indigestible. I was irritated at some of my friends for pretending to like it. . . but I had an uneasy suspicion that they really did like it, so I was angry at myself for being so dull, and at the whole situation for making me uncomfortable." He finally concluded that "The value which I will put on this painting tests my individuality. Here I can discover whether I am man enough to sustain an encounter with an original experience."

DEKOONING'S powerful paintings of women can be confusing. But, are they anymore confusing than the many roles women are asked to play in our society? Then there's the whole art of assemblage. Here the artist takes all kinds of materials from nuts and bolts to fine horses' tails, assembles them, and presents this facet of our culture to the world. Is the artist rubbing our noses in our materialism? Is he rebelling against a society that worships the dollar and what it can buy? Or, is he showing us that beauty can be found in the ordinary key, tin can, junk? It is for us to decide.

The measure of art belongs to history but the understanding and appreciation of what is happening today belongs to each of us. "Wonder without understanding is more important than understanding without wonder."

Let us look at a painting then in wonder. Perhaps the understanding will follow.

FATAL TO FISH The loss of forest cover causes cool water to run warm and fill with sediment. Since this ruins fishing, the responsible angler is careful to prevent forest fire.

FAST PLANTERS Tree planting machines used by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests can plant 10,000 trees a day.

Pine River Bridge is Always Busy

The always-interesting million-dollar Pine River Bridge (US-31 Bridge) in downtown Charlevoix opens wide to let the South American, a Great Lakes cruise ship, enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

The bridge is operated year around by the Michigan State Highway Dept. Passing through it during the summer months are the plushiest pleasure yachts on the Great Lakes, as well as humble outboards and massive Great Lakes freighters.

If the bridge tender isn't busy stop in and talk to him; they're pleasant fellows. But if there's a ship on the river don't intrude...operating this giant machine is a tricky business.

There's almost always something to see at the bridge. If there are no boats simply study the ever-changing current of the Pine River. Ripley once stated that the Pine River is the shortest in the world and the only one that runs in two directions.

The bridge provides the only route around Lake Charlevoix between Lake Michigan and Boyne City. Charlevoix's main street was named Bridge St. because of the bridge.

Beaver Island--There's Nothing Like It

CHARLEVOIX COURIER PLAYTIME Monday, July 12, 1965, Page 9

One of the world's most unique vacation retreats is Beaver Island, 32 miles out into Lake Michigan off the Charlevoix harbor.

Here are historical sights dating back more than a century, water sports of all kinds, fine accommodations and mile upon mile of scenic beauty for relaxation or recreation.

Known as "America's Emerald Isle," Beaver Island, 14 miles long and six miles wide, is the largest and most extensively developed island in a group of 13.

The new motor ship Beaver Islander, and airplanes operated from the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs airports, carry visitors to St. James, only community on the island. During the summer the ferry makes two round trips daily and planes leave at the convenience of passengers.

Many visitors take their cars to the island; others leave them on the mainland. Taxi service and car rentals are available on the island. The island also has an airport, scene of one of the nation's largest Dawn Patrol meetings the first Sunday in October, with two runways, the longest 3,500 feet and many guests make the 15-minute air hop from the mainland in private planes. Still others come by privately-owned boats and use the island's improved dock and marina facilities in a fine natural harbor.

Settled first in the early 1840's by a colony of Mormons under leadership of James Jesse Strang, who was enthroned as the only king ever to rule within the United States, Beaver Island was taken over 100 years ago by a hardy band of Irish fishermen after fall of the Mormon empire with the assassination of Strang.

Traditional celebrations at St. James annually include the homecoming in August -- a full day and evening of gala events that provide entertainment for visitors -- and St. Patrick's day, when a full program of revelry in true Irish custom attracts a great throng of visitors.

All activities and interests on the island are focused at St. James. A hotel, one of West Michigan's fine resort lodges; several cottage colony resorts; rental cottages, an excellent state camp site, tourist courts, motels and unique stores provide guest accommodations for any size vacation budget.

On the island are seven inland lakes, three of them providing good fishing for game and panfish. The run of perch at St. James bay each spring and fall is rated among the finest in the Great Lakes. Exceptionally good small-mouth bass and pike fishing in the bays of nearby Garden Island also attract fishermen by motor launch from St. James harbor.

The island's Lake Genesareth has a public fishing site and boat launching area. The 54 square miles of land on the island is virtually one forest, providing game cover that assures excellent fall hunting for grouse, rabbits, squirrels, ducks, geese and deer. The deer herd has been increasing steadily in recent years and the island is as productive as other sections of Michigan for deer hunters. Fox and coyote hunts are also popular.

Three of the nearby islands -- High, Garden and Hog -- have recently been acquired by the state conservation department for game population research on grouse and deer. Turkeys were recently introduced on the island group.

St. James has a new modern medical center directed by a resident doctor. A resident Franciscan priest holds daily masses at the Catholic church and services are conducted during the summer in an Episcopal mission church.

The island has 75 miles of improved highways, enabling motorists to drive over good roads to all parts of the island. On St. James bay is a spacious municipal beach and playground equipment for children. At a half dozen other points on the island and at the resorts there are other bathing beaches.

Other activities include horseback riding, miniature golf, hiking, tennis, and shuffleboard.

Among the places of interest are the two lighthouses and the United States Coast Guard station. Most interesting of the lights is Beaver Head at the south tip of the island, erected in 1853 and still in service, the third oldest on the Great Lakes.

Historic landmarks are numerous. There are the old print shop and approximately 20 other buildings of the Mormon era. A museum, with hundreds of items from earlier days, has just been opened in King Strang's original home. The tomb of Dr. Fedore Protar, a Russian count exiled by the czar for freeing his serfs, is the symbol of another era on the island, when Protar doctored the residents free.

In late summer and fall when hay fever sufferers seek relief, Beaver Island, which has virtually no pollen in the air, is an ideal haven.
